Steelworkers Vote Today

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Members of the United Steelworkers in the U.S. and Canada voted today to decide whether to re-elect President David J. McDonald or a steelworker leading a movement to reduce dues paid by the 1,200,000 USW card holders.

Donald C. Rarick, a 37-year-old, $6,500-a-year worker at the nearby Irvin Works of U.S. Steel Corporation, opposed McDonald.

This is the first time in the 20-year history of the USW that anyone has challenged the leadership.

Howard R. Hague of Pittsburgh has no opposition for his job as vice-president. However, secretary-treasurer I. W. Abel of Pittsburgh is opposed by William Klug of Wilwaukee, a member of Rarick's "dues protest committee."

Company Gives Town Centre People Help With Building

IROQUOIS FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The spanking new $500,000 recreation centre built by Abitibi Power and Paper Company employees who donated their time is to be opened Feb. 16.

The workers, who put 130,000 spare-time hours on the building, also designed it. The arena has an ice sheet measuring 85 by 197 feet, only three feet shorter than Maple Leaf Gardens at Toronto, for scheduled games in the Northern Ontario senior, junior and juvenile hockey leagues.

Iroquois Falls and the adjoining communities of Ansonville and Montrock boast of the centre, run by the Abitibi Community Club, as "the largest volunteer project in Canada." The three places have a combined population of 5,000.

Construction workers during the two years it took to complete the project included Mayor Percy W. Burton of Iroquois Falls and Reeve Clayton Black of Calvert township.

The centre is built of reinforced concrete with an interior design that eliminates roof-supporting columns, so that all 4,000 seats have an unobstructed view of the ice. Besides the main rink, it has five standard curling rinks. It is planned to provide year-round recreation, with dances and other entertainments in summer.

CREDIT SQUEEZE

LONDON (AP) — Britain produced 232,000 fewer motor vehicles in 1956 than in 1955, officials report. The industry blames the credit squeeze and, more recently, gasoline rationing, for the drop.

EAGER SALESMAN

LONDON (AP) — John Cooper left London's bleak winter climate for the warmth of tropical Africa. His business is selling electric fireplaces.
