FISHERIES RESEARCH BOARD OF CANADA
Biological Station
Nanaimo, B.C.

VESSEL REQUIRED FOR CHARTER

The Fisheries Research Board of Canada will charter a vessel with crew for hunting and collecting fur seals during the spring of 1957.

The vessel will be required to operate in waters off the coasts of British Columbia, Washington or Alaska.

The charter will be for about 75 days, commencing on April 1 or soon after.

In addition to a captain and crew, accommodation must be available for two men from the Fisheries Research Board. The crew will be required to assist at times in handling specimens.

The vessel must be capable of remaining at sea for periods of up to a week and should be equipped with reliable echo sounder, radio-telephone and adequate instruments for navigation on the high seas.

The charter payments to the owner are to cover rental of the vessel, payment of personnel and all operating maintenance costs, except fuel and lubricating oil which will be supplied by the Board.

Vessel owners who may be interested apply to:

The Director,
Fisheries Research Board,
Biological Station,
Nanaimo, B.C.

SPRING LOCKS — Spring in the air puts a spring in your hair, according to Charles of the Ritz of New York, who created this light - hearted coiffure for his American clientele. Known as the "Big Dipper" and designed to balance broad-brimmed spring hats, the impishly banged hairstyle fluffs midway on the neck, ending in an upturned half-roll.

At The CURLING CLUB

By BOB RUDDERHAM

A few comments on the Bell versus Lemire game, a real sizzler with the Bell rink skipped by young Kenny McLean winning 6-5. On the fourth end, Jerry looked as though he had a cold three-ender unless Kenny could make a spectacular draw. As Kenny went down to shoot, the following conversation took place behind the glass.

"Well, the draw is the logical shot, but I'm just as glad that it is Ken who has to make it and not me."

"I don't think it will bend that much."

"Oh, yes, if he gets the right weight and hits the brush, he can make the shot."

As Kenny settled himself in the hack, he motioned Pete Bell to narrow down on the ice.

"Too much! too much!"

"He'll raise that guard, sure. Why does he take such a chance?"

"He might be playing to rub off the guard."

Kenny then let the rock go.

"Well she's away now and he looks heavy."

"No, no, he's got perfect weight."

"Light, light."

"By heck, she's coming."

"Naw, naw, he'll never draw the shot."

Finaly the rock crept past the guard out front and seemed to be coming perfect.

"Sweep! Sweep"

"No, no, don't sweep, he's heavy!"

The rock nestled perfectly in for shot and kept Jerry from picking it off so Kenny picked up one point, a perfect shot to tie the game at 3-3 at the end of four ends.

Three ends later, Kenny was laying shot again when Jerry was determining what ice to take for his last rock of the end.

"He should play an ordinary draw."

"He should go to that rock with draw weight."

"He should make sure he gets it."

"Can't get it with that ice."

"He's got to be perfect to make the shot. If he played the draw he would have a better chance."

"There! the rock's away! He's light! He's light!"

"He's missed by a foot. Didn't take his own ice."

"He was perfect on the brush but a little too heavy."

"Damn good shot."

"He made it! He made it!"

The game itself was a good one from start to finish. I think that Lemire played the best game of all but the McLean-skipped squad were working better as a team. When Jerry missed the last rock, it was by a paper thin margin and it is ironical that a shot like this has to come when he played so well earlier throughout the game. But that's curling.

Seeing as I lost my first game in the Rupert Motors competition, we will make this a round robin.
