François Lake News

Daily News Correspondent

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Steele and Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Olsen are staying at Tchesinkut Lake. They are travelling together in one car and will be going south for a while before returning to their homes in Prince Rupert.

Neil Kelly is now the driver of the Catholic School Bus which takes children to Burns Lake from Francois Lake and picks up others on the way into Burns Lake. It is too small so that he has to make two trips coming back a short way for those he could not take the first time. A larger new bus is expected to be in use shortly.

David Gatacre is home again after being in Vanderhoof hospital for three weeks with a broken ankle. Mr. and Mrs. Gatacre drove to Vanderhoof in their car to bring him home. He is getting about on crutches.

There will be no more Sunday ferries as the winter schedule starts on October 1. Now that we are back on standard time we cannot go out fishing in the evenings after we close the store.

Bill Johnson left suddenly after hearing of the death of his father in Alberta. He expects to be away for two months, possibly three.

Bill Anderson now has his Guides license so can help folk get moose and deer. He lives 10 miles down the lake where he owns a large ranch. There is no road so he has to travel by boat. Bill brands his horses and cattle with a Rocking Chair, and he also branded his boat the same way. This is the first boat we have ever seen with a brand. Now he has a brand new aluminum boat, so I asked him if he was going to put his brand on this one, but he shook his head and said he wouldn't.

It is surprising the variety of articles left in our post office to give to folk. We have jars of butermilk, cream, books and that sort of thing but today we have a weird looking affair called a speculum. It weighs six pounds, and looks like a horse's bridle but instead of an ordinary bit there are two curved pieces, and a screw. When a horse needs tooth care or a pill, this is put in his mouth and the mouth screwed open so that he cannot bite or close his mouth. We will borrow it later on to float old Pet's teeth so that the long back ones will not be too long to allow the front ones to close.

We were shocked on Friday to hear that Jim Brewer had died suddenly on Thursday afternoon. He had gone into the Burns Lake post office and collapsed in front of the wicket. Mr. Bill McKenna, the postmaster, heard him fall, and rushed upstairs to Dr. Trevor Thompson's office, so that the doctor was able to be there in a matter of minutes. Dr. Thompson had been attending Jim Brewer and was not surprised that he had been fatally stricken. Mrs Brewer was waiting for her husband in front of the drug store, but as he was so long in coming was worried and walked up to the post office, where she was met by one of the staff who had to tell her the sad news. The funeral was on Monday and it was a big funeral as he was an old timer here and well liked. He lived until recently on a ranch at Noralee, when he and Mrs. Brewer moved to Burns Lake to live.

Our cow strolled into the front garden yesterday and before I had time to chase her out she had deliberately picked off all my huge nasturtium plants of their leaves and blossoms. I was rather surprised at her taste, for nasturtium leaves have a decidedly strong flavor that I thought would have stung her tongue. The garden is still bright with glads, stocks and sweet peas.

Marshal resumes career after 15-year absence

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Consider the strange case of Alan Marshal.

Fifteen years ago, he was riding the crest of popularity. A handsome leading man in films like "Lydia and Tom", "Dick and Harry," he seemed to have everything he needed.

He played opposite Irene Dunne in the immensely popular "White Cliffs of Dover," followed it with a comedy, "Bride by Mistake," (Laraine Day). Then he disappeared from sight.

Fourteen years later, he is making another movie, "The House on Haunted Hill." What happened in between?

He gave some explanation during a lunch break as he was finishing the movie at Allied Artists.

"IN MENTAL TURMOIL"

"I underwent a kind of mental turmoil. There was a long period when I didn't appear to be able to make up my mind. Producers would send me scripts and I'd read them. But I couldn't tell them whether I would or would not do the pictures. Gradually they stopped sending me scripts."

He didn't elaborate but, after a number of years, felt he had cured himself of it.

"But then it was too late. The picture business had passed me by. The producers seemed to have forgotten me."

Unable to find work in films, he went east and got a few roles in TV dramas. He toured briefly in a play, then returned to Hollywood.

In recent months, his career has brightened. He made a good impression in a Perry Mason film, then did a G.E. Theatre and a couple of western TV segments. "The House on Haunted Hill" developed and there are other roles in the offing.

PICTURES NOT SAME

"I am pretty hopeful," Marshal commented, "though they don't seem to be making the kind of picture I used to do. Everything seems to be westerns and horror pictures and juvenile delinquency. I was always pretty much typed as an Englishman.

"Actually, though I was born in Australia, I have lived here since I was five and went to school in New York. But I started playing the classics at an early age and I held onto an English accent because I liked it."

High price paid for soccer star

LONDON (AP)—Arsenal Soccer Club Friday paid Wolverhampton Wanderers £20,000 for Jackie Henderson, who has played six times for Scotland.

Henderson, a fast outside left and utility forward, plays in Arsenal's First Division match today against West Bromwich Albion.

Record crowd

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (AP) — Yugoslavia tied Hungary 4-4 in an international soccer game before a record crowd of 40,000 at the Maksimir Stadium here Sunday.
