City's bandmaster, collector Peter Lien dies in 51st year

Pope's death seen during night

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Pope Pius XII drew near to death today following a second stroke.

At 11:20 a.m. the condition of the 82-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church was described as "desperate."

An Italian police official said a member of the papal household had sent word to the Italian government that "the Pope is going fast."

ROME (Reuters) — Vatican Radio said tonight that the four physicians in attendance on Pope Pius XII "foresee the final collapse during the night."

But soon after the Vatican press office issued an official denial from the papal summer residence of a report by the Italian news agency Italia that the Pope had died.

At 11:40 it was reliably reported that the Pope had been given extreme unction—the last rite for the dying or those in danger of death—for the second time. It had been given for the first time as he lay in a coma Monday following his first stroke.

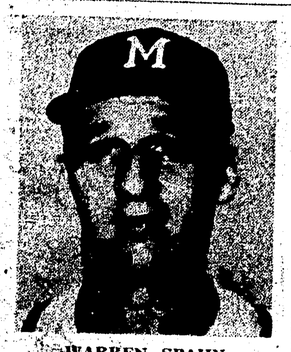
The second attack was of the same type as that which felled the pontiff Monday, a cerebral circulatory attack that produced a coma and partial paralysis.

It came on him at 7:30 a.m. just 47 hours after the first stroke.

A medical bulletin issued some two hours later said:

"The Holy Father, after having spent a quiet night without hiccups, today at 0730 (11:30 a.m. MST) showed a new disturbance of the cerebral circulation, similar to that reported last Monday.

"Immediately, a new treatment required by the grave situation has been adopted. At 0930 (1:30 a.m. MST) the syndrome shows a slight improvement. Prognosis has been reserved."



WARREN SPAHN
...crucial game loser

Yankees even series

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Gil McDougald's home run over the left field fence in the top of the tenth inning touched off a New York rally that gave the Yankees a 4-3 victory over the Milwaukee Braves today in the sixth game of the World Series.

This pulled the Yankees even with the Braves at 3-3, making tomorrow's contest the decisive one.

Earlier the Braves led in games 3-1.

Warren Spahn, the crafty 37-year old left-hander of the Braves, lost his chance to win his third game of this series in the fateful 10th.

After McDougald homered and Elston Howard and Yogi Berra singled, Spahn was relieved by Don McMahon, who was greeted with a single by Moose Skowron, scoring Howard.

The Braves and Yankees were locked 2-2 after nine innings.

The Yankees scored in the first on Hank Bauer's home run and in the sixth on singles by Mickey Mantle and Howard and Berra's sacrifice fly.

The Braves scored in the first on singles by Red Schoendienst and Hank Aaron, aided by Johnny Logan's sacrifice, and in the second on singles by Wes Covington, Andy Pafko and Spahn.

Ryne Duren, who came to the mound for the Yankees in the sixth, was superb in relief, striking out eight.

But in the 10th, Duren was reached for a walk by Johnny Logan and a single by Hank Aaron that produced a run.

When Joe Adcock singled to send Aaron to third Bob Turley took the mound. Turley got pinch-hitter Frank Torre to pop to McDougald to end the game.

Greek terrorists deny part in woman's death

NICOSEA, Cyprus (AP) — The EOKA terrorist organization today denied it was responsible for killing a British woman in Famagusta last Friday.

An EOKA leaflet circulated in Nicosea charged that Mrs. Kathleen Cutliffe was murdered by the anti-EOKA organization Cromwell and the Turkish underground.

PETER A. LIEN
...as Navy Band Leader

Stroke brings end to life of service

A life of quiet, steady service for the city and the community came to an end early this morning when Peter Andrew Lien, city collector and leader of the Prince Rupert Civic band died at the age of 50.

Victim of a heart attack while at work at the City Hall Monday, Mr. Lien was reported in "fairly good" condition yesterday afternoon. However, he suffered a relapse and died at 4:30 this morning.

An unpretentious, humble man, Mr. Lien led a life paralleled by many of his Norwegian countrymen who came to Canada and as Canadians have made a tremendous contribution to the community.

For 27 years Mr. Lien was organist at St. Andrew's cathedral and for 16 years was leader and bandmaster of several bands in the city.

Born July 22, 1908 in Fauske in Salten, Norway Mr. Lien became a bookbinder's apprentice when he was 15, served four years and later learned the complete trade of making books.

He was married September 7, 1929 to Elly Henrietta Hansen and the following day, Mr. and Mrs. Lien sailed for Canada. They came to Prince Rupert where Mrs. Lien had cousins, arriving here September 28, 1929.

For the first summer he was here, Mr. Lien worked on the fish docks and in January, 1931 he began work for the furniture and stationery concern of Alex McRae.

After working for McRaes until 1941, Mr. Lien went to work for Dibb Printing Company with whom he remained until 1945.

In that year he joined the staff of the City of Prince Rupert as a handyman and gradually worked up to general clerk, to senior clerk and in 1953 was named City Collector and Accountant.

A musician all his life, proficient as both organist and pianist, Mr. Lien first organized a mixed choral group of Norwegian singers called the Varden Singers who entertained in the city and took part in musical festivals from 1930 to 1950. In 1942 Mr. Lien was the leader of the Royal Canadian Artillery reserve army band, later led the Shrine band and from March, 1955 until February, 1958 when he retired, was a commissioned officer (Special Branch) in the HMCS Chatham Royal Canadian Navy Reserve as leader of the well-known Navy band. This year he became leader of the newly-formed Prince Rupert Civic band and only two weeks ago conducted for a brief band concert at a Kinsmen-sponsored Civic Centre bingo night.

Two years ago he was presented with a desk set and hymn book for his quarter century of work with the St. Andrew's cathedral choir.

Last year, Mr. Lien, already a member of Tsimpsean Lodge AF and AM, joined the Prince Rupert Rotary club.

Prior to his stroke, Mr. Lien had expressed the wish, that in the event of his death, he would prefer that no flowers be sent, but that money planned for such a purpose be donated to the cathedral for new choir gowns.

Mr. Lien is survived by his widow Elly Henrietta, at home at 424 Dunsmuir Street; a son Arne and a daughter Gerd, Mrs. Gerald Harvey; three grandchildren, Craig and Keith Lien and David Harvey.

Funeral service will be held at 2:30 Saturday afternoon from St. Andrew's cathedral with The Very Rev. A. E. Hendy, Dean of Caledonia officiating. Interment will be at Fairview cemetery.

Quemoy convoys minus escorts

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Indications mounted today that U.S. ships have stopped escorting convoys to Quemoy during the seven-day Communist cease-fire in the Formosa Strait.

An unescorted Chinese Nationalist landing ship put tons of ammunition and 450 troop replacements ashore on Quemoy today, the third day of the cease-fire. The captain said his ship "came alone" on the supply run from the Pescadores. His crew told AP correspondent Gene Kramer on Quemoy that they did not see any accompanying ships on the 85-mile voyage.

The Nationalists said large quantities of supplies are pouring into Quemoy. The Communists said they would hold up their artillery attack for a week provided American escorting of convoys ceased.

TORONTO (CP) — Gun-toting bandits tangled with police in a bullet - punctuated chase through downtown Toronto early today before two men were arrested and charged with armed robbery.

Alaskans back ferry plan

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—A fast, through ferry system serving south-eastern Alaska from Prince Rupert to Haines has been endorsed by delegates from nine communities.

The recommendation of the southeastern conference on roads and harbors, an organization of Panhandle municipal officials and chambers of commerce, was submitted Tuesday to the Alaska Highway and public works board.

The board is scheduled to start executive sessions Wednesday to consider next year's construction projects under the federal aid highway program.

The southeastern conference proposal was aimed at obtaining privately operated ferry service in the island-studded Panhandle as part of the region's primary road system.

The only service in the area now is a territorial-sponsored ferry run between Haines and Teo Harbor, linking Juneau with the Haines cutoff of the Alaska highway.

The southeastern conference approved recommendations aimed at financing the operation of large ferry boats throughout the waterways of the region.

Communities were Ketchikan, Juneau, Wrangell, Petersburg, Sitka, Skagway, Haines, Kake and Port Chilkoot.

Orchard owner charged with woman's murder

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—A 53-year-old orchard owner who first reported finding the body of an immigrant fruit-picker has been charged with murder in her bludgeon-slaying.

The surprise arrest Tuesday of Olin LeeBrage came more than two months after the body of Anita Budde, 28, was found in a blood-spattered cabin at nearby Kaleden.

LeeBrage was arrested in his orchard, only a short distance from where Miss Budde's beaten body was found.

He was scheduled to appear today before Magistrate H. J. Jennings.

STARTED MANHUNT

The discovery of Miss Budde's body started an intense manhunt throughout British Columbia's Okanagan Valley.

Before it was ended, three policemen had died in a plane crash while looking for a suspect, another policeman was wounded and a man sought for questioning fell in a hail of police bullets in Washington State.

Miss Budde, an immigrant from Germany had gone to the Okanagan to pick fruit after working in Vancouver as a nurse's assistant.

Her body was found on a bed in the cabin Aug. 4. She had been beaten about the head with a heavy-blunt instrument.

The manhunt in the Okanagan received fresh impetus two days later when Corporal Ralph Brown of the RCMP manning one of a number of road-blocks in the area, was shot in the neck and arm as he questioned a suspect.

The wanted man at that time, and for weeks after, was a 42-year-old itinerant named Donald Stevens, alias John Morrison, reported to have gone to Miss Budde's cabin and charged in absentia with the attempted murder of Cpl. Brown.

Stevens was captured about two weeks after the slaying in Tonasket, Wash.

Police shot him as he fled. He now is in hospital at Tonasket awaiting extradition on the charge of attempted murder.

Mayors get promises, no money

OTTAWA (CP) — The mayors went away from the federal table with empty hands. They got a lot of promises but no concrete decisions.

Thus ended the first federal-municipal conference in Canada's history, a two-day affair in which the municipalities expressed concern over their growing capital needs and aired a lot of proposals to open up new channels of financial resources.

But the federal government, while agreeing sympatetically with municipal views, emphasized that it also faces the heavy borrowing to finance growing demands on its purse. There was a limit to what the federal government could do.

Martial law for Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—President Iskander Mirza ruled Pakistan under martial law today after abolishing the government to clear the way for writing a new constitution in the face of revolution rumors.

Mirza pledged Pakistan to honor all international commitments. The nation belongs to both the Bagdad Pact and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Mirza, a 50-year-old former major-general, took over Tuesday with strong criticism of politicians who have led Pakistan. The president outlawed political parties.

Trial continuing

Trial of Hugo P. Kraupner, of 326 McBride Street, on a charge of impaired driving continued in city police court this morning and this afternoon as crown witnesses testified before Magistrate E. T. Applewhaite.

Kraupner has been remanded on several occasions since he entered a plea of not guilty on July 23. He entered the plea through defence counsel A. Bruce Brown. Crown Prosecutor is W. N. Poole.

Also in city police court this morning the Terrace Omineca Herald Ltd. was fined $10 and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of failing to file a return under the Excise Tax Act.

BIG MOOSE, HAPPY MAN—A big grin on the face of Ascher Smith of Vancouver shows that he is proud of bagging one of the big ones. His moose, caught on a trip between McBride and Tete Jaune Cache, in northern B.C., measures a 53-inch spread of antlers. It is believed to be one of the biggest moose in the area. —CP Photo.

Reds assail U.S. bases in Canada

LONDON (Reuters)—The Soviet Army newspaper Red Star said today the installation of American rocket bases on Canadian territory would place Canada in a highly dangerous position, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Red Star said Canada intends to allow the United States to station nuclear weapons in Canada in connection with the "so-called command of North American Air Defence (Norad)."

By agreeing to the NORAD set-up, Red Star continued, the Canadian government "is about to take a step which will, as a result, increase her dependence on the Pentagon"—the U.S. military establishment.

"Official persons," the paper continued, "try to represent NORAD as a purely defensive organization, although it is no secret for anybody that it has been set up with obviously aggressive aims directed against the Soviet Union."

It added: "Facts show that there are in Canada political and military figures who are led by Washington and who provide active help to the U.S.A. in the matter of the aggresive North Atlantic bloc."

FLOW OF IMMIGRANTS SLATED TO BE CUT BY 50 PER CENT

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal restrictions will reduce the flow of immigrants to Canada this year to less than half of arrivals in 1957, a government source says.

Arrivals now are expected to total about 125,000, the smallest since 1955 when 109,946 immigrants came to this country. Immigration in 1957 totalled 282,164, the highest number since 1913 when 400,870 arrived.

A flow of 125,000 this year would be well below the annual average of 153,300 in the 10-year period from 1948 to 1957.

The immigration restrictions were imposed in July, 1957, because of anticipated large unemployment last winter. They have not been relaxed and have had the effect of reducing arrivals in the first six months of 1958 to 67,744 from 182,416 in the corresponding period in 1957.

The restrictions are slated to remain in effect until at least the end of the coming winter.

B.C. ROUNDUP

Limiting of reports at hearings likely

VICTORIA (CP)—Cautious approval to a proposal to limit news coverage of preliminary court hearings was given Tuesday by British Columbia Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

He commented on a report Justice Minister Fulton is considering a request that news reports should not include any reference to admissions, statements or confessions at a preliminary hearing.

"On the whole I think it would be useful, having in mind the selection of a jury at a later time," Mr. Bonner said. "In many instances a prospective juror is exposed to material in the press which is later not admitted to a higher court."

VANCOUVER (CP)—Federal mediator Eric G. Taylor of Toronto has been called back into final contract talks in the dispute between B.C. longshoremen and shippers.

A union spokesman said Mr. Taylor arrived Tuesday to "help put the finishing touches" on the settlement which ended a 32-day dock strike Sept. 23.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pickets marched outside the gates of two large cemeteries in suburban Burnaby Tuesday shortly after a strike was called by 36 grave diggers and other cemetery workers.

One hearse was allowed through the picket-line for a burial service, but the mourners left their cars outside. The grave was dug before the strike was called.

The workers at Forest Lawn Memorial Park and Ocean View Park called the strike in a wages dispute.

Gilbert A. Arnold, a director of Forest Lawn, said that he himself would man the grave-digging machine if the strike continues.

VANCOUVER (CP)—For the first time, Premier Bennett will be a luncheon speaker at the annual convention of the B.C. Government Employees' Association here Oct. 10.

Mr. Bennett and two of his cabinet ministers, Mines Minister Kiernan and Public Works Minister Chant, have accepted invitations to the luncheon.

At the two-day convention wages for government employees will be high on the agenda and another resolution will deal with collective bargaining rights for government employees.

TRAIL (CP)—Two brothers and a cousin were arraigned late Tuesday before city magistrate Parker Williams and charged with murdering 35-year-old Clarence Douglas Garrett of Castelgar.

Accused were John Popoff, 27, his brother Larry Popoff, 23, and cousin Harry Popoff, 19.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A new emergency landing strip for light aircraft near the summit of the Hope-Princeton Highway has been completed by 22 volunteer private pilots.

The strip, 2,400 feet long and 150 feet wide, was hewn out of brush timber by the work party during the weekend. It is along the route of the principal flyway for light planes to and from the interior of the province.

Correction on light flash

The rotating beacon at Lucy Island, (Light No. 2374,) which was given as having a three second period between the flashes in the local notice to shipping October 3, should have been five seconds, Department of Transport, District Marine Agent N. A. Bekelov reported today.
