

HALDANE'S ADDRESS BEFORE BAR ASSOCIATION

VANCOUVER'S LABOR DAY PARADE A GREAT EVENT—BARRIEAU AND CROSS FIGHT A DRAW

SMITHERS THE NEXT TOWNSITE; LOTS TO BE AUCTIONED OFF

BANK THE FIRST FINANCIAL INSTITUTION TO ERECT PERMANENT QUARTERS THERE—FIRST SAWMILL RIPPING OUT BUILDING LUMBER.

Smithers, B. C., Aug. 30.—An imaginary spot on a road survey, next a dot on an engineer's blue print, then a tent of construction laborers and an incredibly short time a thriving western town throbbing with life—such is the history in the most railroad towns in Canadian West.

There are countless people in the broad land who take immense delight in watching a baby from his first red faced, crawling day until he makes a toddling step, held up by friendly hands, and it seems a few months until this same youngster is strolling about in his first trousers.

Just this way people of northern British Columbia are watching the division points of the Grand Trunk Pacific as their first definite location of all-fledged cities and they are no end of satisfaction in the processes of growth.

Smithers is cutting its first stride this week with the erection of the Union Bank of Canada's new main street, the first permanent building, and the population is filled with importance, in the same manner that members of the family stand in awe when the young child is able to stammer for the first time a few senseless, connected syllables.

For every city must have its beginning, just as everyone must begin life by sprawling on his back, helpless, weak, clamoring for attention and facing, without doubt and hesitation, a future he does not understand.

Proud cities of the Canadian plains have had just this history. Those to come after will follow in the same way. Yesterday a wilderness, today a frontier settlement, tomorrow a city with all the term connotes—this is their history.

Never before have cities built so fast, nor so permanently, for the great elements of growth are waiting only for the railway. When it comes they spring into being in an astonishingly short time.

The tent city at Smithers, commonly called "Squattersville," will soon have entirely disappeared as this first permanent building is followed by scores of others. A sawmill with a capacity of 15,000 feet a day is ripping out lumber as fast as its steam engine can whirl the saw through the length of the cedar, fir and spruce logs. Train loads of construction materials are on their way in from the coast. Contractors are figuring like mad on other structures, mechanics are working overtime to make new records in the quick completion of buildings, the railroad forces are arranging the station grounds and sites for shops and round-houses, while everyone is busy from morn till night building the new town. Streets are being levelled and sidewalks built. Where there are stumps they are being dug out and the fires of clearing operations cloud the sun.

The latest news report that the first ship of the new service will leave Vladivostok on September 1st. It was originally stated that the line would be inaugurated in July, according to information derived from reliable sources, considerable opposition against the sailing into this country of a large number of immigrants from Russia is being developed by members of the local Russian colony.

GREATEST LEGAL GATHERING CONTINENT HAS EVER KNOWN

LORD HIGH CHANCELLOR OF ENGLAND DELIVERS AN EPOCH MAKING ADDRESS BEFORE AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION AT MONTREAL.

(Special to The Daily News)
Montreal, Sept. 2.—This city and Canada yesterday gave a formal welcome to the most notable assemblage of legal lights ever gathered on the continent. Canada was signally honored by the American Bar Association, which, for the first time in its history, is holding its annual meeting on foreign soil. The gathering is unprecedented in another respect interesting to Canadians. For the first time the American Bar Association has present at its transactions the Lord Chancellor of England, Viscount Haldane, a jurist of great distinction, to contribute in person a paper to its proceedings.

The entry into the hall of Premier Borden, Viscount Haldane, ex-President Taft and the chief justice of the United States was the signal for an outburst of enthusiasm. Premier Borden, in formally welcoming to Canada the Lord High Chancellor and the members of the association, said: "We Canadians who are bound to the great Empire of which our country forms a part, rejoice that those ties between the two were never stronger than they are today. By like ties of kinship and the bonds of commercial intercourse, by the enjoyment of like institutions, by the possession of a common language and literature, by the inheritance of common liberties, duties and responsibilities of citizenship and the fact that we are confronted by common problems, as well as by the ties of comradeship and neighborliness, we are also united to the great United States, of which nation we have today so many distinguished representatives present in our city."

The chief justice of the United States introduced Lord Haldane, whose address was an epoch making one. In its legal erudition, its polished literary style, its ethical tone and its human touch—from all these points of view it produced a profound impression. The relationship of great nationalities was the keynote of the address, which, while it touched upon points of international law of the deepest interest—especially when it referred to the new international laws that events were formulating—was far more impressive in the needs for closer amity based upon a common humanity and its aspirations.

Former President Taft moved the resolution of thanks to Lord Haldane for his eloquent address, and expressed the high sense of honor felt by the American Bar Association.

The Hon. Charles J. Doherty, Canadian minister of justice, gave a reception to Lord Haldane in the evening, which was attended by former President Taft and leaders of both the American and Canadian bar.

CONSERVATIVE PICNIC WAS MARRED BY WET WEATHER

FOOTBALL MATCH WAS THE PRINCIPAL FEATURE OF DAY—BASEBALL GAME WAS CALLED OFF.

When the special train for Terrace pulled out yesterday morning for the Conservative picnic at Terrace there were some two hundred and fifty excursionists on board, a large number of whom took advantage of the cheap fare for a holiday outing and to witness the football and baseball games. Another special train from Hazelton to Terrace carried about one hundred and fifty, including those who took part in the athletic contests.

Unfortunately the weather was anything but favorable, rain falling heavily during a good portion of the day. In consequence, the baseball, one of the principal features of the day, had to be cancelled. The football match, which was played on a very wet and muddy field, resulted in a win for the Calties of Prince Rupert, the score being 1 to 0.

In the tug-of-war between Terrace and Prince Rupert the latter also came off victorious. A few speeches were delivered from the verandah of the hotel, but on account of the rain these were cut short. Among those who spoke were Hon. W. R. Ross, Minister of Lands, and H. S. Clements, M.P.

The return trip was made in excellent time, the excursion train reaching Prince Rupert shortly after ten o'clock last night. The run was made in slightly over three hours.

KILLED THREE DEER

Messrs. Carss and Wilson Broke All Records.

With the opening of the hunting season yesterday nearly every sportsman in the city took advantage of the holiday to indulge in his favorite recreation, the pursuit of the fleet footed deer. All day Saturday and Sunday parties could be seen with packs on their backs wending their way toward what they considered the most likely places to be ready for the first chance on Monday morning.

Probably the most successful of all the parties that went out was that composed of A. Carss senior and junior and H. P. Wilson, manager of the Royal Bank. They returned last evening with three fine deer, which they shot on the mountainside at the head of Tucks Inlet.

About 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon two men came in with a fine young buck, which they killed in the hills on the opposite side of the harbor from the city.

Doc Orme, Alex. Young and Ed.

Mann returned from Woodworth Lake district yesterday afternoon, but they showed no signs of weariness from packing deer through the underbrush. One of them had a grouse tucked away in his vest pocket.

Judging from the general results, deer seem to be less plentiful than last year. Possibly the results are due to sportsmen being out of practice.
