

PRIESTLY MURDERER MAKES SECOND CONFESSION

ANOTHER BOMB FOR GENERAL OTIS—FIRST CHISANA GOLD ARRIVES—THAW SCORES AGAIN

PRIEST'S FURTHER CONFESSION OF HIS MOST HORRIBLE CRIME

SAYS HE WAS ATTRACTED BY HER BEAUTY AND BECAME INFATUATED WITH HER—GORY TASK OF CUTTING UP THE BODY.

(Special to The Daily News.)
New York, Sept. 17.—Slowly but surely the detectives are stripping from New York's river murder all its mysteries. The skill with which Miss Annmuller's body had been dismembered caused the belief at first that the work had been done by a surgeon. In the flat occupied for five days by Schmidt and the girl detectives found one hundred printed cards, which indicated that Schmidt had masqueraded as a surgeon, and was possessed of more than an ordinary layman's knowledge of surgery.

dropped the bundles into the Hudson River.
"I was attracted by her beauty," reads Schmidt's alleged confession. "I became infatuated with her. I loved her, I killed her. She was so beautiful, so good, I could not let her live without me. I had made up my mind that she and I should not live together. I was a priest and must remain with my church. I could not let her go away from me. So I opened the door of the flat. I awakened her. I told her I had come to fulfill my threat. Then I drew the knife across her throat."
When her heart had ceased beating, according to this alleged confession, Schmidt carried the body from the bed to the bathroom and placing it in the tub began immediately his gory task of cutting it up. With the keen knife and the saw he cut off the head, arms and legs. Still fearful of detection, he then cut the body in two.
Five bundles, wrapped in bed clothes and papers, were made of the six parts. Five times Schmidt left the apartment house with a bundle to cross the Hudson River to the Jersey shore. Five times he leaned over the stern of the ferry boat in midstream and gently gave the river his burden. Then he returned to his church.

ANOTHER BOMB MEANT FOR GENERAL OTIS

That He Was Not Blown to Pieces Due to Care of Japanese Servant.

(Special to The Daily News.)
Los Angeles, Sept. 17.—For the second time within two years a bomb yesterday placed in jeopardy the life of General Harrison Gray Otis, owner of the Times newspaper, the building of which was destroyed and many lives lost by dynamiting in 1910.
That the general was not blown to pieces was due to the watchfulness of his Japanese servant, who received the infernal machine from the postman and handed it over to the police.
The machine had been mailed in this city. When taken out to some vacant lots and investigated it was found to possess sufficient force to kill twenty men.

GREAT SUFFERING IN DUBLIN CAUSED BY GENERAL LOCKOUT

INDUSTRIAL CRISIS DEVELOPING UGLY FEATURES—NO WORK FOR MEN WHO WILL NOT ABJURE TRANSPORT WORKERS' UNION.

(Special to The Daily News.)
Liverpool, Eng., Sept. 17.—The freight handlers of this city yesterday came out in a sympathetic strike with the transport workers of Dublin and refuse to handle any Dublin traffic.

ago. He told Parnell he would break his heart. I will break Murphy's heart or go to the grave."
Hunger is becoming the ally of the capitalists, and it is feared that by the end of the week actual starvation will excite many, already desperately poor. Pennies rattled cheerfully into the tin collection box when the strikers marched along Sackville street yesterday, but ten times as many filled boxes would not feed half the starving men, women and children.

London, Sept. 15.—The industrial crisis in Dublin is developing ugly features. The lockout involves the following industries: The transport trade, flour milling, match making, biscuit making, the cattle trade, agricultural labor, fish supply, gardening, the coal trade, the building trade, the timber trade and box making. Before any man is allowed to work he must sign a pledge not to support Larkin's Transport Workers' Union. Larkin made a dramatic appearance at a meeting in Manchester on Sunday when he said:
"I care for no man. I believe I have a divine mission to make men and women discontented. Some say the workers should not be aroused until after home rule is an accomplished fact. My father gave his life for the right of the Irish people to govern themselves. But this is an economic, not a home rule, question. I am the son of a Fenian and I have never felt ashamed of any man who called himself a Fenian. The Fenians were the outcome of certain conditions in Ireland. But now we have a broader gospel, a wider gospel, a clearer gospel. Since I went to Ireland in 1907 I have raised the flag of discontent from Belfast to Cork, and I have brought a new hope and a new gospel to the working classes of Ireland."
"Murphy, the capitalist leader, is one of the men who drove Parnell to his grave twenty years prevented and the Crown saved from being drawn into a deplorable controversy. In Nationalist circles much of Carson's talk is regarded as mere bragadoccio.

There he will conduct an autumn campaign and with his council arrange for meetings throughout England.

When he left England he said he was going joyfully and cheerfully back to Ulster that he and his associates may call their council together and have a provisional government "ready to take over such parts of the government as will protect us from the machinations of the home rule parliament." His rallying centres, at which he is to speak, are Killee, Newry, Banbridge, Banbridge, Ballyclare, Loughanore, Antrim and Bankealstown. Each he intends to preach the gospel of Ulster's resistance, the solemn covenant. He refuses, at the present stage, to take the conference proposal seriously, saying the home rule bill must be dropped if bloodshed is to be
