GAMBLING HOUSES CLOSED NOT BY LAW BUT MONEY SHORTAGE

PROPRIETORS OF LONDON CLUBS COMPLAIN THAT THERE IS LITTLE READY MONEY AND THAT "PIGEONS" ARE SCARCE

London, Sept. 15.—The gambling clubs of the West End of London are suffering from a decline, but not on account of the police. The complaint of the proprietors is that there is too little ready money. The tendency of their clients now is to come to the gambling table with a few pounds in their pockets and pay heavy losses by checks which are dishonored next morning. Another drawback is that many of the available "pigeons" have been plucked bare, and the other birds are becoming wary. The net result is that some of the smaller gambling houses are closed, as their expenses are very high. "The gambling spirit was at its height about the beginning of the year," said a police officer. "The number of gambling houses in the west end of London was incredibly large. Then it was a profitable undertaking. As much as $500 a week had been paid for a furnished flat in the heart of the West End. Champagne suppers were given to all the patrons, and champagne was supplied freely all the evening. In spite of the heavy expenses, a huge profit could be made out of the percentage of the stakes, even where sharp practice was not the rule. Now the complaint is that people have no more money to lose." It is no secret that several of the best known managers of gaming houses are looking to foreign clients to bring grist to the mill. Their "runners" are very much in evidence at the leading hotels.

COMPROMISE POSSIBLE ON IRISH HOME RULE

Conference of More Moderate Men Suggests Settlement by Consent as Final Solution.

London, Sept. 16.—Mr. Redmond says that the home rule bill will be law by next June. Sir Edward Carson says Ulster will never submit to it. But among moderate men of all parties the conviction is growing that neither is right, but that home rule is coming, not in the shape of the present bill, but in the form of a compromise. Recently a very important convention was held under the auspices of the All for Ireland League. This was attended by independent Unionists, like Lord Dunraven, and independent Nationalists, like William O'Brien and "Tim" Healy. Resolutions were passed urging the government to call a conference of all parties to consider the question of a settlement by consent. These resolutions were merely formally acknowledged by Messrs. Asquith and Birrell. But many unofficial Liberals are sanguine that the government will call the suggested conference. And it is even hinted, in some quarters, that the King himself may preside at it. The compromise which those behind the movement have in mind is believed to be a scheme in the nature of federal home rule.

Missed the Squirrel, But—

Nelson, B. C., Sept. 16.—Striking with a long steel rod at a squirrel which was on one of the poles of 20,000 volt electric current trunk lines, Peter McEachren missed the squirrel, hit the line with the pole and fell to the ground dead at Silver King mine, near Nelson. He leaves relatives at Websters Corners, P. E. I.

THE PRICE OF HOMAGE

ONCE when King Edward VII. paid a visit to Sheffield, all the fires in factories and plants were allowed to die out. Not a wheel in Sheffield turned for twenty-four hours. The primary object of this was to lift the pall of smoke that hovers over that wonderful steel-producing city, and to ensure, as far as man was able, a bright day and a blue sky for an auspicious occasion. It was Sheffield's expression of respect.

BUT the action was unique—it was unprecedented—it was unthought of that those hundreds of mighty furnaces, raging night and day, and those seething boilers, with quivering valves, should ever be allowed to cool. This extinguishing of fires cost Sheffield hundreds of thousands of dollars—the price of the effort to get back again to high-power efficiency.

SOME business men in Canada pay an unwitting homage, not to a king, but to a superstition—the superstition that hot weather justifies letting the fires of business energy go out. They stop Advertising in the Summer months. By paying homage to tradition, custom, superstition, they have allowed Summer to become their "dull" season. You know how dull it can be when you don't advertise. Do you know how brisk it can be made by Advertising? Do you realize how much momentum you now lose in the Summer that must be regained in the Fall?

DON'T LET YOUR ADVERTISING FIRES DIE OUT THIS SUMMER.

Advice regarding your advertising problems is available through any recognized Canadian advertising agency, or the Secretary of the Canadian Press Association, Room 503 Lansden Building, Toronto. Enquiry involves no obligation on your part—no write, if interested.
