BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Always Plan Bidding in Advance For Convenience and Safety

The good bidder considers the matter of his first rebid even before he opens the bidding. He tries to "arrange" for a rebid that offers a maximum of convenience and a maximum of safety.

Sometimes this involves bidding a four card suit ahead of a five-carder, as Mr. Masters did in today's deal. Preparing for any response his partner might make, he wondered what he would do if he opened the bidding with a heart and heard a two club or two diamond response.

Now if he rebid two spades, Mr. Dale would have to go to the three level to show a simple preference for hearts and that might be a trick too high. If he rebid two hearts he would be completely submerging his good four card spade suit.

So he simply opened the bidding with a spade. Over the actual two club response he had a natural and convenient rebid of two hearts and Mr. Dale was able to choose between the major suits at the two level. Mr. Masters' three heart bid was a try for game and, of course, promised a five card heart suit. With a little left over from his previous bids, Mr. Dale was glad to bid four.

The opening lead of the eight of clubs was a fortunate one for Mr. Masters. He won in his hand with the king. With two sure diamond losers he saw that his only problem was to avoid two losers in the trump suit.

His method of handling the trumps guarded against a holding of four to the queen-ten in either opponent's hand. First he laid down the king. Next he led toward dummy's ace-nine. If Mr. Abel had failed to follow suit here, he would have won with dummy's ace and led back toward his jack. Thus he would have lost only to the queen.

When Mr. Abel played the four on the second heart lead, the nine was played from dummy and it held the trick. The ace took the third round of hearts and Mr. Masters then ran his spades. Mr. Abel could take his queen of hearts any time he chose, but it was the only trump trick he would get.

If Mr. Abel had gone up with the ten of hearts on the second round of trumps, Mr. Masters would have won with dummy's ace and returned the nine to drive out the queen. On regaining the lead, his jack would pick up the last outstanding heart and the result would have been the same.

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down—take things easy—watch your diet—get more rest. It's still good advice. But these days you can face fifty with many interesting and active years ahead,—active, that is, if you can avoid backache and the "tired-out" feeling, due to kidney and bladder disorders, that often develop around that age. For more than 60 years Dodd's Kidney Pills have been helping men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order,—helping them to feel better, to work better, and get more fun out of life. If you are approaching fifty, or past it, Dodd's Kidney Pills may help you, too. You can depend on Dodd's. 54

Amateur Champ To Answer Quiz On Standing

GOLF, Ill. (AP)— The national amateur golf champion, Harvie Ward, of San Francisco was summoned before the executive committee of the U.S. Golf Association today to answer questions regarding his amateur standing.

Ward is to be asked to amplify answers to questions he already has filed with the USGA concerning expenses to tournaments in Canada and Detroit in 1954.
