The motion was launched by T. Norton Youngs who said he didn't think the large dock and warehouses were fulfilling their full purpose.

Suggestion that some of the members should go down and look into the Ocean dock warehouses was made by J. S. Auld, who said that there was very little unused space left at all.

Mr. Auld said that it was serving as an extremely useful storage place for canned salmon and was used extensively by local firms who needed the storage space.

Mr. Youngs also reported that J. J. Behan, manager for the Canadian National Railways, western division, said that most of the difficulties regarding the leasing of a portion of the former drydock site for a sawmill was "almost ironed out" and "the deal was nearly settled".

Mr. Youngs was also appointed the chamber's representative to the Civic Centre association for another year.

The chamber also agreed to keep alert as to other means of amphibious transportation in the event that the remaining Canso of Canadian Pacific Airlines became useless.

Mr. Youngs said that he had spoken to Grant McConachie, CPA president who voiced the opinion that he didn't think the Canso "would hold out until 1959" when it was expected the Prince Rupert airport on Digby Island would be completed.

Referred to the port and marine committee was a motion of J. S. Burns who urged that the chamber take action to have Alberta coal shipped through Prince Rupert. Presently, he said it was being shipped to the Orient through Seattle and Portland.

He said Prince Rupert should consider providing facilities here since Prince Rupert was two days closer to the Orient. Vancouver was pondering building coal shipping facilities, he said. Another member said the Alberta coal was near the CPR mainline, which would wipe out any possibility of it being shipped here.

A. Bruce Brown said that Premier Bennett had boasted that the Pacific Great Eastern Railway would open up a large area of anthracite coal for shipment to Japan.

"We should do everything possible to use the facilities of Prince Rupert for shipping this coal."

The chamber also decided to write the Stewart Board of Trade offering its help should the northern-community need it.

A brief report on the Canadian Chamber of Commerce convention in Victoria was given by Mr. Youngs.

Beer Capital Confident of Series

MILWAUKEE (AP)— Milwaukee bade its beloved Braves "auf wiedersehn," fully confident they'll bring back a world series championship from New York.

Leading the series 3 to 2 after Lew Burdette's masterful 1-0 shutout of the Yankees Monday, the Braves and Yanks had moved to New York for a rest today before hooking up in the sixth game Wednesday. More than 2,000 Braves' fans cheered their takeoff.

The feeling in this beer capital of America was that "the Yankees is dead" without injured Mickey Mantle and with Monday's failure by Whitney Ford, who won the series opener, Oct. 2.

Milwaukee's Bob Buhl, who has an 18.00 earned run average from his ill-fated start against the Yankees in Saturday's third game, indirectly struck a hard blow against New York. It was on Buhl's wild pickoff toss to second that Mantle and Brave second sacker Red Schoendiest tangled, with the star Yankee centrefielder throwing a standup "block" which ruined his shoulder.

Bob (Hurricane) Hazzle, the rookie who turned the tide for the Braves in the regular season, is the series' forgotten man, Hazle has played in only two games and is hitless in six trips. Righthanded hitting Andy Pafko, 36, got the call in right field against lefty Ford Monday and did well. Andy combed Ford for two singles and turned in a great catch of Gil McDougald's first-inning liner.

Eddie Mathews, the big hero of Sunday's Milwaukee triumph with his two-run homer in the 10th, was a prime factor in Monday's 1-0 Braves' decision. Eddie's great start and fast finish in running out his bounder to Coleman was the game's "big hit." And Mathews contributed a defensive play in the fourth. After Joe Adcock booted Berra's roller and Enos Slaughter rapped a single, Burdette was in trouble. Harry Simpson then slapped a wicked bounder towards third. Mathews speared the ball on a difficult try and launched an inning-ending double play.
