Times Lauds PM's Speech

NEW YORK (AP) — The Times, commenting on Prime Minister Diefenbaker's speech to the United Nations Monday, said yesterday it "would be had to separate what is particularly Canadian" in his opinions "from what is broadly North American."

"In this prime minister more than in most others that Canada has had," The Times said, "our northern neighbor has found what we would call a midwestern type with whom we can deal without suspicion or hesitation."

"If any of us had any fears that the favorable impression created by such Canadian diplomats as former minister of external affairs minister Lester Pearson might be dissipated, Mr. Diefenbaker's all too brief visit here must have restored their confidence."

The prime minister's speech, the paper adds, contained many encouraging notes.

"On no important point was he quarrelling with the foreign policy of the United States and its other allies."
