

WASHINGTON DISGRUNTLED BY BRITISH ATTITUDE

STARVATION TREATMENT ENDS IN DEATH--LLOYD GEORGE STARTS ECONOMIC REVOLUTION

ENGLAND BREATHLESS OVER LLOYD-GEORGE LAND SCHEME

BEGINNING TO REALIZE IT IS BUT BEGINNING OF A GREAT ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL REVOLUTION EX-TENDING BEYOND LAND.

(Special to The Daily News.)
London, Oct. 24.—The speech of Lloyd-George at Swindon last night, in which he further elaborated his scheme for the nationalization of all lands, has left the country breathless with astonishment. People are beginning to realize that this is but the beginning of an economic and social revolution which must extend far beyond the land itself. Already town tenants are advancing claims to a continuity of tenure and of freedom from all landlord's restrictions. The revolution has started in before the measure to be laid before parliament is even framed.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer showed in his speech that he sees how any system of land purchase and small holdings would merely change the personnel, leaving the really destructive features of the land tenure system untouched, and therefore his remedies are so radical as to be absolutely startling. He boldly showed that land taxation is the only method of relief that does not reveal the certainty of failure, and his scheme is, in essence, not the nationalization of land but the nationalization of rent. This, he believes, can be applied gradually so as not to disturb very much existing conditions.

"STOP AND THINK"

It may perhaps be amusing for ex-Mayor Newton through the columns of his paper the "Empire" to call for an itemized statement from the present mayor of his expenses on his financial mission to London, though the ex-mayor himself did not see fit to itemize his own expenses when away on city business, but there are some larger matters of finance which the ex-mayor may well be called upon to explain.

Why for instance did the ex-mayor consent to the sale of one million dollars short term treasury notes by the Bank of Montreal.

Why did he not compel the bank to dispose of the city's long term debentures in order to pay back themselves the advances made to the city?

Stop and think of the position of affairs. With $1,000,000 in short term notes outstanding against the city, before the city can possibly hope to sell any of its long term debentures for NEW work, it must make provision to pay back the one million dollars of outstanding short term notes. This means that in order to provide money for new work the present council must also finance all work that has hitherto been done. No financier is going to buy long term debentures covering new work when there is one million dollars for old work to be paid back in 1915.

In other words the work which was done during the regime of ex-mayor Newton on money obtained by the 1910 council, will, through the sale of one million dollars short term notes now have to be financed by the present or future councils before we can possibly hope to sell any long term debentures to take care of new work.

Let the public stop and think of the spectacle of an ex-mayor engaged in petty mud slinging when there are so large problems to be solved and which problems have been greatly aggravated by the short-sightedness and ignorance of the ex-mayor himself.
