Interior honeymoon follows wedding here

A brief honeymoon in the interior was spent by newly-weds Mr. and Mrs. St. Clair Arnold Langille, after their evening wedding in St. Andrew's cathedral, July 18.

The Very Rev. A. E. Hendy, Dean of Caledonia, officiated at the wedding ceremony for Marion Edith Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Evans, 12646 Beach Place and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Langille, Sr., Lunenburg, Nova Scotia.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white nylon lace and net ballerina-length gown. Her lace jacket had full length sleeves and her silk illusion chapel-length veil was secured by a tiara of small hearts covered with rhinestones. A three-strand pearl necklace and her mother's pearl engagement ring were her only jewelry. She carried a bouquet of two dozen red roses.

Bridesmaid Miss Ernestine Moorehouse wore a soft blue lace ballerina-length dress, three-quarter length gloves and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations.

Best man was the groom's second youngest brother Sterling Langille. Cecil Rodenhiser, cousin to the groom was usher.

For the reception, the home of the bride's parents was decorated with pink and white streamers. ated with pink and white gladiolo, sweet peas of pastel shades The newly-weds were congratulated under a rose-covered arch.

To receive the guests, Mrs. Evans wore a brown crepe dress with white accessories and a yellow rosebud corsage.

Harry Paulson proposed the toast to the bride.

Miss Alice Paulson, Miss Marlene Dumas and Miss Lorraine Dickens were serviteurs for the refreshments, highlight of which was a three-tier wedding cake, flanked by pink tapers.

For travelling the bride chose a blue tailored suit with white accessories and a yellow rosebud corsage. She wore a rhinestone brooch and earring set, gift of the groom.

The groom is employed by the Prince Rupert Fishermen's Co-Operative associtiation. The bride, a graduate of Booth Memorial High school, works in the office of Northern British Columbia Power Company Limited. At the end of the fishing season, the young couple plans to move to Lunenburg to take up residence.

Women of Moose News

The hospital committee of the Women of the Moose will raffle a bed spread to raise money for sponsoring a student nurse through three years of training.

Plans for the raffle, which will enable the committee to continue with their project, were made at the monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. John Kasper.

The student nurse sponsored currently is Miss Becky Morgan, daughter of Mrs. Cyril Morgan, of 317 Eighth Avenue West. Miss Morgan is in training at the Royal Jubilee hospital in Victoria, and will finish her training next January.

The committee has made plans to honor Miss Morgan on her graduation.

The meeting was attended by seven members and guest senior regent Mrs. William Pilfold.

Mrs. Harold Jorgenson was prize winner of the evening. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Walter Eyre at 840 Summit Avenue on August 13.

Three members and three guests were present at the meeting of the social service committee of the WOTM at the home of chairman Mrs. Katherine Murphy.

Mrs. Murphy read "New Horizons" to members, and senior rgeent Mrs. William Pilfold outlined the duties of the committee.

Plans were made to hold a rummage sale October 18.

Prize of the evening was won by Mrs. Harvey McMeekin.

MR. AND MRS. TERENCE JOHN SHENTON

Gail Weise, Terence Shenton wed at Anglican Cathedral ceremony

St. Andrew's Anglican Cathedral was the scene of a wedding ceremony Friday night when marriage vows were pledged by Gail Jeanne Weise, daughter of John E. Weise, of Bethel, Alaska, and Mrs. M. C. Weise of this city, by Terence John Shenton, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Shenton, of Prince Rupert.

The Very Rev. A. E. Hendy, Dean of Caledonia, officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, chose to wear a waltz-length gown of Chantilly lace, its slim bodice having a Sabrina neckline, and three-quarter length sleeves. A rounded bandeau encrusted with seed pearls held the bride's chapel veil of sheer illusion net. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of pink rosebuds.

Attending the bride was her sister, Miss Nita Lynne Weise who wore a ballerina length gown of blue nylon chiffon over taffeta with matching accessories. er flowers were blue and white carnations.

Norman Shenton was best man for his brother.

Wedding music was played by organist Peter A. Lien.

After the wedding ceremony a reception for the immediate family members was held at the home of the bride's mother where Herbert Morgan, jr., proposed the bridal toast to his neice.

The bride's bouquet was sent to her grandmother in Whitehorse, Yukon Territory.

The newly-weds will reside in the city.

Bible school ending draws 175

About 175 parents and children crowded into First United Church hall last Friday evening to witness the closing program of the annual Vacation Bible School.

The hall was colorfully decorated with bright flags, ships' anchors', buoys and nautical craft in keeping with the "Bible Sea Adventures," theme of the school.

The program opened with a short devotional period led by Rev. Vernon E. McEachern, who acted as chairman for the evening. This was followed by a series of action songs by the whole school led by Mr. McEachern with Mrs. Lloyd Bowman at the piano. Each department then provided a short program in which they demonstrated some of the things learned during the two weeks.

The beginners department, consisting of 32 three to five year olds, was under the direction of Mrs. Lloyd Bowman with Sharon Montgomery at the piano.

The Primary department, consisting of 35 six-to-eight-year olds, was under the leadership of Mrs. Arthur Oswald, assisted by Mrs. R. W. McBride.

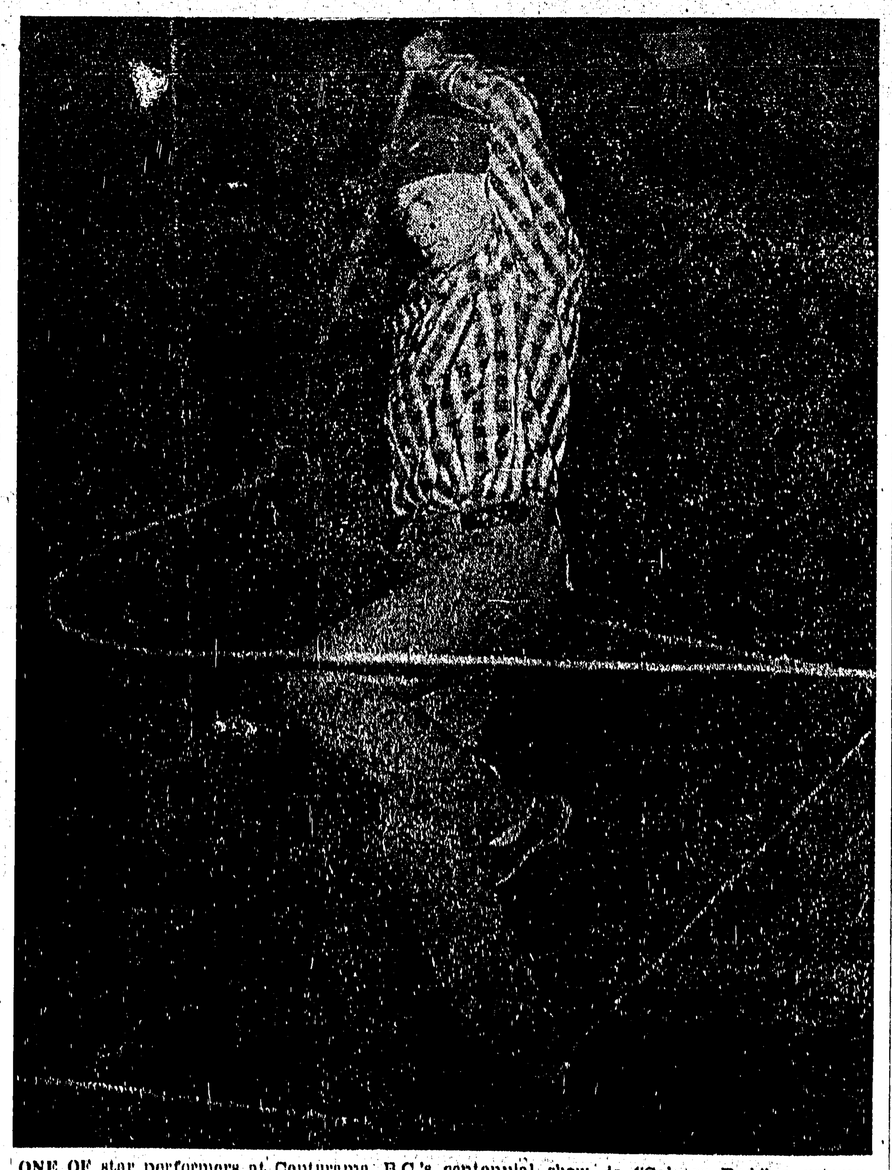
The Junior department, made up of 14 nine-to-11 year olds, was under the supervision of Mrs. William Dunn, while the Senior department included 10, 12-15-year olds, under Rev. McEachern.

The final feature of the evening was a play by the Seniors, entitled "The Sign of Jonah," with Robert Green, Karen McBride, Larry Bowman, Reginald Green, Marian Eyford, Donna Long and Dale Montgomery taking leading roles.

The attendance at this year's school showed an 11 per cent increase over last year with an average of 95 pupils and 16 teachers present each day.

A total of $45.00 was raised for the missionary project which will be sent to the CARE Fund, Ottawa, to purchase about 1,000 pounds of food for hungry children in other lands.

A total of 23 people worked as volunteer teachers and helpers to run the school. In addition to those already mentioned were: Mrs. G. W. Fiddes, Mrs. John Decker, Mrs. Eugene Pierce, Mrs. A. S. Tindill, Mrs. O. R. Green, Lynn Fiddes, Ennis Macphee, Thelma Childs, Louise Skogmo, Leslie McLaren, Joan Croxford, Charlene Parent, Shirley Olson, Sharon Johnston Sandra Thomson, Joan Stegavig, and Ruth Garland. Mrs. O. R. Green was also secretary-treasurer.



ONE OF star performers at Centurama, B.C.'s centennial show, is "Calgary Red," a veteran of past Calgary Stampedes. Calgary Red, whose real name is Roy Seawood, among other things climbs a ladder over a water tank while spinning two lariats.

Motoring holiday

This is another in a series of stories by Mrs. Eugene Bartlett, 423 Emerson Place, giving an account of their trip by car to southern British Columbia, Washington and Oregon. By EMERALD BARTLETT

VANCOUVER (Vancouver) — In addition to Vancouver's First International Festival, with its many attractions, there is "My Fur Lady." As most people know, this was originally McGill University's version of their annual "Red and White Review." It was such a success that it has been playing ever since, latterly with substitutions in the once all-student cast. When I saw it, it had been playing at the International Cinema (on stage) for two weeks and looked likely to be here for a while yet if full houses and enthusiastic audiences are indications, we decided to go.

This was a warm summer evening and it was something new for me, to see, to see all the girls in sleeveless summer dresses, downtown late in the evening—the few who wore fur stoles looked warmly conscientious.

I don't feel able to give you a "criticism" of My Fur Lady" but I can tell you my reaction to it. Very witty, and informal enough to establish a bond with the audience.

In the lines, which have been under constant revision—to keep the political references timely—"Uncle Lou, Uncle Lou, tell me what to do—and Howe"—has given place to something more Conservative.

The star of the show—the "Eskimo Princess"—could have had more voice for her lines and songs but she left nothing to be desired in face and figure—and endearing personality.

The costumes were breezy, casual and eye-catching without the tedium of semi-nudity. But in my opinion the sets were the artistic triumph. I can't describe them, but they were like grace notes in music—light, stylized but warm-looking.

One of the backdrops, representing the new Canadian flag—with a cluttered facade, with something for everyone—brought down the house every time it was lowered.

So many of the songs were amusing—at least for Canadians—that it is hard to mention any one. Possibly the debutantes' song at the Protocol Ball combined wit and beauty as well as any. "I'm glad You Could Pay for Me, Dad." But the lass who said HER father had given her "Kitimat" got a modest laugh—perhaps because out here, in 1958, it doesn't seem quite as big a thing as it did.

Seven baptized

Seven children were received into the fellowship of the church by Baptism during the evening service in First United Church on Sunday.

Those baptized by Rev. Vernon E. McEachern included:

Sheena McLeod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Nicholson, 135 Second Avenue West; Diana Phyllis Lorna and Donna Jean Dorothy, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Faulkner jr., 640A Fulton Street, whose godparents were Mrs. Eugene Dutton and Donald Dutton of Prince Rupert; Thomas John, Gordon William, Georgina Junifer Drue, and George Carmie (four) children of Mr. and Mrs. George W. May, 209 Ninth Avenue East, whose godparents were Mrs. Verna Lowe and William Treston of Prince Rupert.

The occasion marked the first use of the Jessie G. Irvine Memorial Baptismal Font which was dedicated on June 22.
