9 IN MEMORIAM

DUDOWARD: In loving memory of our dear husband and father, the late Vernon R. Dudoward, who passed away August 23, 1957.
He bade no one a last farewell,
He said goodbye to none.
The Heavenly Gates were opened wide
And a loving voice said "Come"
Dear God, please take a message
To Vernon up above,
Tell him how much we miss him
And give him all our love.
—Ever remembered by his loving wife, Stella, and four sons, Irving, Vernon Jr., Michael and Allan. (167)

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

If Miss Brash had been the dealer she would have had a nice, comfortable one-spade opening. As it was, she had to come in at the five level if she wanted to compete at all.

She thought she could beat five clubs, or if Mr. Dale chose to bid over her double, she could furnish a fine dummy for any of the other three suits.

Mr. Dale elected to try for five spades, but Miss Brash wasn't satisfied. She hates to be talked out of a slam. Holding excellent spade support, no clubs and (in her hand) no possible losers in any suit but hearts, she decided to gamble it out for a small slam.

East dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The king of clubs was opened and Mr. Dale ruffed with the eight of spades in dummy and started wondering how he was going to avoid the loss of two heart tricks.

If there was any solution to this problem, it appeared to lie in the nature of the five-club opening itself. It was probable that Mr. Abel was very short in the major suits and that he had made his pre-emptive opening for the purpose of preventing his opponents from finding a good spot in one of those suits. If he had started with exactly one heart and four diamonds, he could be fixed.

Playing for the distribution, Mr. Dale cashed dummy's ace and king of spades, noting the two club discards on his left. He then cashed the ace of hearts and was happy to see Mr. Abel follow suit with the king. Things were looking very favorable. Now he cashed dummy's ace and king of diamonds, led a third diamond and ruffed it. He ruffed his last club on the board and led a fourth round of diamonds.

Here Mrs. Keen showed out, discarding a heart. Mr. Dale did not make the mistake of ruffing again, but merely threw off one of his losing hearts.

Mr. Abel was in with the queen of diamonds for his side's first and last trick. He had nothing left but clubs and on the club return Mr. Dale ruffed in dummy and got rid of the last heart from his hand. His only remaining cards were trumps.

Brewery to expand holdings

The general management of Calgary Brewing & Malting Co. Ltd. announced today a plan of cautious development for the brewery concerns it has recently acquired in British Columbia.

In outlining the plans for the immediate future, James Kerr, General Manager of the parent company, emphasized that the shareholders should look forward to a program of sound market development and gradual expansion as the best security for their investment.

"We feel", Mr. Kerr stated, "that the shareholders will fully support the new organization's schedule of steady growth and firm entrenchment in the B.C. market, rather than in seeking a quick gain."

Adding a note of confident assurance he said: "There can be no doubt that the B.C. operation will be a very large success. We most see to it that its earnings are employed to guarantee the full development of its great potential."

Climaxing nearly 70 years of leadership in Western Canadian brewing, the familiar horsehoe-and-buffalo insignia loom behind recent announcements of a change of control of both Caribou Brewing and Princeton Brewing to this large Western Company.

In addition to its heavy cash commitment in the transaction, Calgary's entire brewing resources and key personnel have been at work for some weeks in both plants preparing for the changeover.

Import Neft leaves Lions

VANCOUVER (CP) — Import quarterback-halfback Pete Neft packed his bags and departed from the B.C. Lions Wednesday, leaving the Western Interprovincial Football team with just 17 imports on the roster.

The number will be back to 18 Friday when Ed Vereb, starry bacw who has just got out of the U.S. Army, reports. Vereb will start at left half Monday when Lions meet Calgary Stampeders here.

Paul Cameron and Don-Vicic, who missed Monday's slaughter of Lions in Calgary, will be back in action Monday, along with kicking ace Vic Chapman.

MUSICAL GEORGIA BELLES—Passing through New York, these members of the 30-girl Decatur, Ga., Civic Chorus smile prettily after having participated in the International Music Festival at Llangollen, Wales. They also sang at the Brussels World Fair on their month-long trip.

J. H. Moore named head of Labatt

The Board of Directors of John Labatt Limited announce the election of J. H. Moore to the presidency, succeeding the late W. H. R. Jarvis who died last July 15.

Mr. Moore was Executive Vice-President and Managing Director.

John P. Labatt, a fourth generation member of the family which founded the company, was elected Vice-President. He continues as General Manager of Labatt's Manitoba Division with head office in Winnipeg.

Mr. Moore joined John Labatt Limited in April 1953 as Director of Finance and Treasurer, and in January 1956 became Vice-President and General Manager.
