HOW THE VOLTURNO WAS SENT TO THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA

REASON NONE OF THE WARSHIPS COULD DISCOVER THE DERELICT AND DESTROY IT IS AT LENGTH FULLY EXPLAINED.

Rotterdam, Oct. 30.—The story of the finding of the sinking, charred derelict Volturmo was told today on the arrival of the Dutch oil steamer Charlois, belonging to the American Petroleum Company, the Dutch branch of the Standard Oil Co. The Charlois sighted the Volturmo on October 17th. Captain Schmidt had not heard of the burning of the vessel and thought it possible that there might be survivors on the derelict. A boat was lowered under the command of the first officer, who stayed all night a short distance from the wreck.

At daybreak the Charlois' sailors boarded the derelict, which exhibited a desolate spectacle. Flocks of sea birds were hovering, shrieking, over the blackened hull. The decks were bent and twisted in all directions from the heat, while down in the hold the cargo was still smouldering. Flames still came from the fore-castle and stern. Apparently the only part of the ship not damaged by the flames was the engine room.

In the crews' mess room the men found four charred corpses completely unrecognizable. One of the dead was a man of stout build, one of the others apparently a boy.

Before departing, the first officer of the Charlois decided to sink the wreck as it was in a position dangerous to navigation.

He had tubes and sea-cocks opened so as to let in the sea and cause her to slowly sink.

The Charlois men left the wreck on October 18th at 10 a. m. and half an hour later the oil tanker parted company with the Volturmo. When last seen the derelict was still floating, but it was certain she would sink, the Charlois' crew state, in a short time.

Modern Beacon Fires

THE old beacon fires were the great advertising mediums of their age.

Though they could not advertise merchandise, they advertised the things of most vital interest to the people.

Placed on the summits of high hills, bearing a message to thousands of "readers," they were prototypes of those modern fires of Twentieth Century commerce—the "beacon" fires of Newspaper Advertising.

When the modern manufacturer lights the Beacon Fires of Newspaper Advertising he places his message before the people in a way that will impart knowledge, beget appreciation and win preference for his goods.

Who can fail to see any day the gleaming messages of "Magic Baking Powder," "Standard Ideal Ware," "Sunlight Soap," "Gillette Safety Razors," "Penman's Underwear," "Infants' Delight Soap," and many others?

To the Manufacturers of Canada

Each day sees more articles given publicity in the newspapers. Are your products and your brand still in the valley of obscurity, or are they blazoned forth by the beacon fires of advertising on the high hill of public favor?

If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be well for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of these will be furnished, without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lumsden Building, Toronto.

The Curve that Makes the Difference

Looks like just a casual, unimportant bend in the holder, eh?

In reality it is one of the most important things in razordom—the subject of basic Gillette Patents—and the cause of the wonderful adjustability which is an exclusive Gillette feature.

Gripping the blade close to its shaving edges, the curved outer plate bends it down close to the toothed guard, and holds it ABSOLUTELY RIGID. This prevents the vibration which makes other razors pull and cut unevenly, and is one of the chief reasons for the velvet smoothness of the Gillette shave.

Quite as important is the adjustability. Screw the outer plate up tight and it holds the razor edge right against the guard, giving a very light shave. As you loosen it you give the blade more and more "hold," so that it shaves closer and closer. Thus every man can get an adjustment which exactly suits his beard and skin—a thing he cannot do with any other razor in the world.

Why not get an adjustable Gillette and say good-bye to your shaving troubles? Your Hardware Dealer, Jeweler or Druggist can show you an assortment—Standard Sets at $5.00—Pocket Editions at $5.00 to $6.00—Combination Sets at $6.50 up.
