STEWART NEWS

STEWART — Fishing in the canal has been good during the past week and in two days Willis Hults landed three salmon, 15 pounds, 28 pounds and the last one was a whopper of 30 pounds.

STEWART—A farewell party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George Beattie was held on Tuesday, April 16 in the Legion clubrooms. There was a large turnout to pay tribute to these two people who, during their stay in this community, have been untiring in their efforts on behalf of the Stewart General Hospital, the Canadian Legion and the Stewart Board of Trade. Jack Crowhurst, chairman of the gathering, said Mr. and Mrs. Beattie's work in the community had been invaluable and that everyone was sorry to see them go. He presented Mr. Beattie with a small token of esteem from the entire community and Mrs. Betty Crowhurst presented Mrs. Beattie with an appropriate gift from the members of the Canadian Legion W.A. Other speakers were W. R. Tooth, President of Stewart Board of Trade, Roger Bell, President of the Stewart General Hospital Association, and W. Shields Orr, Secretary of the Stewart Branch No. 85, Canadian Legion of which Mr. Beattie is president. Entertainment which followed was in the very capable hands of Mr. John Bouzek.

Francois Lake News

By AGNES H. NEAVE
Daily News Correspondent

It would seem that Thursday was the last day that cars will be crossing on the lake ice. At noon Jake Dyck came across and got nearly to this shore when the right front wheel of his four-wheel International pick-up broke through the ice. The vehicle tipped nearly over on its side. He and the men with him jumped out and walked on the ice to shore. With the help of a truck and several men hauling on a rope they managed to pull it to shore, and Mr. Dyck was able to get to town.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fehr, the young couple who lost their little girl in the tragic fire across the lake, have left for the Prairies to stay with her folks. Both have been in the hospital as he was suffering from burns and she was badly shocked.

MOTOR MAIDS

Signal Habits

By Jeanne Smith,
Dodge Safety Consultant

A PET MALE GRIPE concerning women drivers was disproved recently.

So the next time some disgruntled male motorist complains that women never signal when they drive, confront him with the facts, ma'am!

Women signal more frequently then men, according to the Highway Traffic Safety Center of Michigan State University, East Lansing. The Center conducted a study of the signaling habits of more than 10,000 drivers in this heavily congested college town.

Miss Smith

Under the supervision of Dr. Abram M. Barch, professor of psychology for the University, the study was carried out at seven different types of intersections.

Observers at some of these sites found that female drivers signaled significantly more than men. At other intersections signaling habits of both sexes did not differ significantly. Women never signaled less.

A word of caution to the ladies, however. Don't rest on your laurels. There's still room for improvement.

Instead of signaling instinctively for a turn, both men and women, the study indicated, are influenced by the type of intersection, direction of turn and presence of other cars.

"At no intersection did as much as 90 percent of the drivers signal for a turn, and in some cases it was much lower," Dr. Barch pointed out. In fact, at one intersection, only a fourth of the drivers indicated their intent to turn.

Signaling was most frequent at intersections of high-speed highways, while special turning lanes and traffic lights at interchanges tended to decrease signaling, says Dr. Barch.

Left turn signals were made considerably more often than those for right turns, suggesting that cars approaching from the opposite direction may encourage signaling.

On the other hand, Dr. Barch contends, the presence of a car following within 100 feet or less did not seem to affect the frequency of signaling.

Welfare Case Reset May 10

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)— Delay in proceedings affecting release of correspondence between regional director V. H. Dallamore and the Department of Health and Welfare relating to the trial of former foster parents Margaret and Charles Conner has resulted in the adjournment of the case until May 10.

The adjournment was sought by crown prosecutor Frank S. Perry after Magistrate P. J. Moran ruled the correspondence admissible.

Mr. Perry said he wanted more time to give ample consideration to what he said would be establishing a "dangerous precedent" by release of private corfespondence.

The couple is charged under section three of the Protection of Children Act and it is charged that while guardians they "illtreated" three children all under the age of five years.
