Groups Choosing Proven Vehicles For Festival

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Little Theatre is taking a proven vehicle this week in the hope of repeating on last year's victory in the British Columbia regional drama festival.

With director Joan Chapman guiding the production, the amateur theatre group will present Anastasia, which has won no little acclaim in a movie version.

The Vancouver group will be the last of four amateur theatre clubs to perform at the 17th annual B.C. festival, which opens here tonight.

Anastasia, Guy Bolton's Broadway version of the French stage play by Maurice Maurette, may prove to be the winner that Darkness at Noon — an adaptation of Arthur Koestler's chilling book on communism—was for the VLT last year, when they advanced with it to the Dominion finals at Sherbrooke, Que.

The Vagabond Players from nearby New Westminster will stage Arthur Miller's tragic Death of a Salesman tonight in the opening performance at the east-end York theatre.

Wednesday night will see the White Rock Players perform The House of Bernarda Alba by the Spanish playwright Frederico Garcia Lorca and Thursday night's performance of Blithe Spirit by Noel Coward will feature a new entrant to the regional festival — the Chilliwack Little Theatre.

"Cecil Bellamy of London is the adjudicator.

This year's regional finalists will converge on Edminton for the Dominion Drama Festival May 20 to 25.

BLOWING BUBBLES FOR SCIENCE — Resembling a giant glass dumbbell, this huge retort to be used in experiment work receives the finishing touch from Guy Squeo, assistant superintendent of the University of Chicago glass shop. Skilled in the art of glassblowing, Equeo is working at a glass lathe which spins the experimental apparatus, insuring a perfect sphere at each end. The university's scientists submit sketches to the glass shop of laboratory equipment needed for research, and the blow-pipe artists convert the ideas into glass.

Naden Personnel To Provide Guard

VICTORIA—The Royal Guard which will be paraded for the opening of the Legislature in Victoria on Thursday, February 7, will be made up of Royal Canadian Navy personnel from HMCS Naden.

Music for the ceremony will be provided by the band of HMCS Naden, under the direction of Bandmaster CPO C. H. Bateman of Victoria.

The Royal Guard consists of 100 men, selected from the various training establishments in Naden. The first officer-of-the-guard will be Lt. E. B. Stone, Edmonton, Alta., and second officer-of-the-guard, Sub. Lt. John Harwood, Aldershot, Ontario and Victoria.

NEWEST STATUES — Latest addition to the sculpture in the grounds of the British Columbia legislative building in Victoria are these two snowmen going up under the eager hands of two unidentified girls. Opportunity for the project was provided by a fresh nine-inch fall of snow.

Helps Veterans

LONDON (CP) — British actor Peter Ustinov and his Canadian wife Susanne Cloutier were guests at the Canadian Women's Maple Leaf ball here, proceeds of the dance going to the welfare fund for Canadian veterans living in the United Kingdom.

A Modern Robinson Crusoe At Lonesome Lake, B.C.

Young Ralph Edwards wrested a home from the British Columbia wilderness with little more than his bare hands. Grizzlies; 40-below cold; impenetrable forests; lonesome solitude . . . .

NEW FALCON—This Falcon GAR-1D (guided air rocket) is the latest in the family of air-to-air missiles developed and produced by Hughes Aircraft Company for the U.S. Air Force. The supersonic missile can be launched well below an enemy bomber and the tremendous thrust from its rocket motor will carry it to altitudes well in excess of the capability of an interceptor airplane. The missile will be publicly unveiled for the first time January as a feature of the parade for President Eisenhower's second inaugural.

Road Campaign

LONDON (CP) — Some 48 children were killed on British roads during October, the second month of an intensive national road safety campaign. This however was 17 fewer than the same month last year.

Dig or Pay

HALESOWEN, England (CP) — Tenants of municipally-owned houses in this Worcestershire town have been told to dig their gardens, or pay an extra 15 shillings a week rent.

SCIENCE IN YOUR LIFE

Cold War

Worry, it is said, can cause a person to develop a cold. And one of the cold's worst symptoms is a stuffy, runny, swollen nose. Dust, pollen, chemicals, dry, steam-heated air, allergies and other irritants can produce the same nasal misery.

This is what happens: Blood vessels in the nose swell, blood flow increases, and the nose lining becomes irritated. White blood cells rush to fight invading germs. Before long the nose is clogged with mucus.

The host of ailments symoblized by a runny nose costs Americans dearly—and in more ways than one. Translated into economic terms, the common cold and other respiratory troubles levy a toll of $5 million or 150 million working days a year.

One of the world's foremost authorities on acute respiratory diseases has predicted victory over the common cold in five years. Dr. John S. Dingle recently told the Common Cold Foundation that he believes an effective drug—not a vaccine—will be discovered. A new vaccine, however, has been found to check some cold viruses.

Meanwhile, cold and allergy symptoms can be made more tolerable for the sufferer. A single dose of a nose drop preparation called Tyzine, for instance, clears a stuffed nose and usually keeps it clear for about four hours.

If the cold or stuffy nose drags on or keeps coming back, or if it's accompanied by sinus pains, it is always wise to see the family doctor.
