

POWERS UNITED TO ELIMINATE DICTATOR HUERTA

GREECE AND TURKEY SIGN PEACE TREATY---FURTHER DETAILS OF GREAT LAKE STORM

WAR WITH MEXICO PRACTICALLY DECLARED BY THE UNITED STATES

All the Great Powers of Europe Strongly in Support of the American Policy for the Elimination of the Usurping Dictator Huerta

(Special to The Daily News.)
Tokio, Nov. 14.—The Japanese foreign minister yesterday conferred with the premier on the Mexican situation. The despatch of the cruiser Isumoto to Mexico waters has attracted much attention and is regarded as signifying the participation of Japan in the political problems of the west.

Mexico City, Nov. 14.—President Huerta has ignored the United States ultimatum by refusing to accede to the demands made within the time limit stated in the document that it would be acceptable.

Washington, Nov. 14.—No reply having been received from Huerta, and the time limit for a reply having expired, the United States is now taking action for the elimination of Huerta and the powers were yesterday notified to this effect. In the exchange of cablegrams between Washington and Ambassador Page in London it is learned that an agreement has been entered into with Great Britain that the solution of the Mexican problem be left entirely in the hands of the United States, and that no moral or financial support shall be granted to the Huerta regime by Great Britain.

This is all set forth in the London press despatches, which state that the course adopted by President Wilson has created a most favorable impression. Throughout official Washington it is felt this morning that with Great Britain, France and Germany and other nations now standing together in acquiescence to the plan of the United States, the successful elimination of Huerta is secured.

London, Nov. 14.—The British government is being kept informed of every move by the United States in regard to Mexico by the British Ambassador at Washington and by the United States Ambassador in London, and the turn the situation has taken is giving general satisfaction.

Washington, Nov. 14.—The united support of the great powers abroad for the American policy toward Mexico is shown in a variety of quiet, diplomatic activities that give President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan confidence that the elimination of General Huerta as president of Mexico will soon be an accomplished fact. The financial blocking instituted by the United States has effectively tied the purse strings of Europe to Mexico so long as Huerta remains in control.

Mexico City, Nov. 14.—Reports that Huerta has fled from the capital city were renewed yesterday afternoon, owing to the inability of those interested in his actions to find any trace of him. Huerta has always been mysterious in his movements and difficult to locate when wanted, and this rumor may be the result of the action taken by the United States. Rumors that he was planning to take a German steamer to Europe have been current for some days, but it is believed in official quarters that he is in secret conference with the Constitutionalists with the hope that united Mexico may make a stand against the United States.

GREATEST POLITICAL BLUNDER IN HISTORY

Release of Agitator Larkin Fails to Appease British Labor—Strike Threatened

London, Nov. 14.—The release from prison of James Larkin, the labor agitator who did so much to inflame the minds of the Dublin strikers, does not seem to have served to modify the bitter feeling of the labor world of the British Isles, and a general strike of trade unionists throughout the United Kingdom is again threatened. The union men appear determined to fight the labor dispute in Dublin to a finish. The decision of the government to release Larkin, announced at an early hour this morning, will not undo the results of the most gigantic political blunder of modern times. Everyone agrees that Larkin's arrest and sentence was a mistake. The government realized that they were losing votes by Larkin's imprisonment, and that a revolt has occurred in the ranks of labor supporters of the government.

It is estimated that the total loss due to the storm is in excess of five million dollars.

Harbor Beach, Mich., Nov. 14. Among the tragic relics of the marine disaster washed ashore during Sunday's storm on Lake Huron, was the wreckage and a body believed to be from the tug Searchlight, lost off this port five years ago. The sinking of the craft at the time was a great mystery.

Port Huron, Nov. 14.—Conservative estimates of the loss of life due to the storm on the lakes is placed at a total of one hundred and fifty at least. The bodies of the sailors of five or perhaps six vessels were picked up on the shores yesterday. The greatest among yesterday's tragedies was the confirmation of the loss of the steamer John A. McGean, a 432 foot freighter. Twenty-eight bodies of her crew have been washed ashore.

Ottawa, Nov. 14.—Wireless telegraphy played practically no part in the wrecks on the lakes during the storm Sunday. With the exception of the steamer Huronic none of the boats that were in trouble were equipped with wireless apparatus.

ATLANTIC LINERS ARE HELD BACK BY STORMS

Each Bringing in Reports of Terrific Gales and Mountainous Seas

(Special to The Daily News.)

Boston, Nov. 14.—Three belated trans-Atlantic liners, the Cambrian from London, the Hanover from Bremer-Haven and the Parisian from Glasgow, arrived last night, each bringing reports of having encountered terrific gales and mountainous seas. The Cambria reported the worst passage in years. On the Hanover the storm life lines were rigged to prevent the sailors from being carried overboard, and passengers were not admitted on decks for days. The Parisian encountered head seas and westerly gales all the way across.

LOCAL CHEQUE ARTIST IS WANTED IN UNITED STATES

CONSTABLE BAILEY'S FINGER PRINT CLASSIFICATION LEADS TO DISCOVERY OF THIS INFORMATION FILED IN POLICE OFFICE.

Constable Bailey, of the city police force, who has made a special study of finger prints among criminals as a means of identification, this morning completed his classification of the finger prints of James W. Oakes, sentenced to six years yesterday morning on several charges of forgeries committed here. The classification is tabulated

1 R 0 0
As soon as he had reached this result he started looking through the various classifications filed in the office. He had not searched far before he found the classification corresponding exactly with that of Oakes and it was found that the classification was for none other than the same man.

On examining the circular on file, which was from the Washington state penitentiary at Walla Walla, it was found that Oakes had been sentenced to a term in that institution of from six months to twenty years for forgery in the first degree. He was released on conditional pardon on April 26th, 1913, but was declared a violator on August 25th, when the circular with the finger print classification and complete description was sent out. Attached to the circular are two photographs of Oakes, a full front view and a side view. Both photos were telling likenesses of the prisoner. The circular offers a reward of $50 for his apprehension.

A News representative was present when Oakes was brought out from his cell and shown the circular and the photographs. He looked at it in a rather surprised manner but had nothing to say.

MATE WASHED OVERBOARD

James Carruthers in With Halibut, Had a Rough Trip

The steam trawler James Carruthers of the cold storage fleet arrived in port last night with 120,000 pounds of halibut. The trawler was out for seventeen days and experienced a great deal of rough weather. In one of the heavy seas Mate McGee was washed overboard but saved himself by hanging to a rope. Telling his experience to a friend this morning the gentleman remarked that he supposed the next sea that came along washed the mate back aboard his ship. Mate McGee enjoyed the joke more than the narrow escape he had.

JIM BLUDSOE REDIVIVUS

Burning of the "Prairie Belle" to be Shown at Empress

Who has not read that historic epic of the race of the Mississippi steamboats in the olden time, of the nigger sitting on the safety valve of the "Prairie Belle," of the tearing down and throwing into the furnace of the pilot house and upper works in order to win the race, and of how the boat took fire and her famous captain, Jim Bludsoe, "held her nose against the bank until every galoot was ashore." All this is shown in the Empress films, everything, including the steamers, being life size. There are also a number of other excellent features, including Pathe's Weekly Review.

The Daily News has the largest circulation in the city and district. To be had at all the news-dealers.

BANK CLERK M'QUEEN TELLS STORY OF HAZELTON ROBBERY

BOTH HE AND FENTON ENTERED AT SAME TIME—SHOT WAS FIRED BEFORE THEY KNEW ANYTHING WAS WRONG

When the G. T. P. train from the interior pulled in at 5.15 last evening the platform was crowded with citizens assembled out of curiosity to have a look at the injured bank clerk, J. C. McQueen whose arrival was announced in yesterday's papers. Nearly everyone was surprised to see Mr. McQueen step off the train without assistance, the only thing to indicate that he had experienced such a narrow escape from losing his life being a bandage tied over his nose. He was accompanied by Dr. Stone of the Hazelton hospital. Both were met by Mr. Broderick, manager of the local branch of the Union Bank, and Mr. D. G. Stewart, chairman of the hospital board. The latter upon hearing that Mr. McQueen was to pass through the city en route to Vancouver for the purpose of having located by X-Rays the bullet which has not yet been removed, communicated with Mr. Broderick and very kindly offered the use of a ward in the hospital should such be deemed advisable for the comfort of the injured clerk. This, however, was quite unnecessary as Mr. McQueen was suffering no pain and was quite able to get around without assistance.

Interviewed by a representative of the "Daily News" at the Savoy Hotel last evening, Mr. McQueen related the story of the robbery which differs in several respects from the stories already published.

About 6.30 on Tuesday evening Mr. McQueen and Mr. Fenton, teller and book-keeper respectively, returned to their quarters in the bank building after having partaken of their supper. They entered the building at the rear, going into the living room first. The place was in semi-darkness and Mr. Fenton was ahead. Neither had any suspicion that there was anything wrong. Mr. McQueen as he walked in put out his left hand to protect himself from knocking against anything and almost as he did so a shot was fired, the bullet grazing his thumb and entering his nose at the left side. He immediately dropped to the floor where he remained in a state of semi-consciousness. After the shot was fired he realized very little of what was going on.

Mr. Fenton's story, as told by Mr. McQueen last night, is that the robbers immediately covered Fenton with revolvers and forced him to open the safe. Fenton did not have the key to open the treasury box so the robbers had to force it. When they had secured the cash they marched Fenton into a bedroom and made him lie down in bed and promise that he would make no alarm until one o'clock. After about 20 or 25 minutes, which probably seemed ages to Fenton, he arose and fired two or three shots which was the first intimation to the public that anything was wrong.

A peculiar coincidence in connection with the robbery is that Fenton did not have the combination of the safe until Saturday, when it was given to him with the consent of the manager as Mr. McQueen expected that he might be out of town when it would be required. Mr. McQueen had the key of the treasury box in his pocket but the robbers made no attempt to get it from him.

Aside from a few arrests made the night of the robbery no further arrests have been made. The police are keeping a sharp lookout all through the district and everything possible is being done to apprehend the robbers.

A stage driver who passed the bank about 6 o'clock on the evening of the robbery reported that he had noticed four or five men hanging around in front of the building.

Mr. McQueen left on the s.s. Prince George this morning for Vancouver, accompanied by Dr. Stone. The bullet, after passing through the nose, lodged somewhere in the right side of his face, which was somewhat swollen last night. It is hoped that the bullet can be successfully removed and that no complications will follow.

Dr. Stone, of the Hazelton hospital, who left for Vancouver this morning with Mr. McQueen, the injured bank clerk, does not intend taking ashdrift holiday expect to return for several weeks. He intends taking a well earned holiday.

A Pleasant Evening

Mrs. Walter Owen entertained at her residence on Fourth Avenue last evening. She had about twenty-five guests who with games, music and dancing and an excellent midnight supper spent a most enjoyable evening.
