BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

How To Make "Two and a Half" Bid Explained by Blackwood Today

When your partner opens the bidding with one of a suit, what do you need to respond with a bid of two in a lower suit? In today's deal Mrs. Keen had ample trump support for her partner's hearts, but her hand was too strong for a single heart raise and not strong enough for a double raise. She had what is often referred to as a "two and a half heart bid."

You would run afoul of your opponents and the rule book if you attempted a fractional call of this sort but you can get your message across in legitimate fashion by following Mrs. Keen's tactics. She bid two of a lower ranking suit on the first round and raised her partner's hearts on the second. This sequence clearly showed four tricks in support of hearts but not as much as five tricks.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
4 ♥	All Pass

Mr. Abel opened the nine of spades, the ten was played from the board and Mr. Dale won with the queen. He cashed the ace and led a third spade which was taken with dummy's king.

Muttering under his breath at the unfavorable location of the queen of spades and the serious duplication of values in the club suit, Mr. Champion paused to think out his problem. He saw one possible solution. He cashed exactly two rounds of trumps, then cashed the ace and king of clubs.

With the black suits eliminated, he now played the ace and a small diamond. He was lucky. If Mr. Abel won the second diamond with the king he would drop his partner's queen, making dummy's jack good. He therefore played the ten. Dummy's jack was put up and Mr. Dale had to win with the queen.

Mr. Dale had nothing left but black cards and his return made no difference. He chose a club and Mr. Champion was able to ditch his last diamond while ruffing with dummy's last trump. He returned to his hand by ruffing a diamond with the nine of hearts, picked up Mr. Abel's trump and spread the hand for 10 tricks.

Britain Shuts Navy Dockyard At Hong Kong

LONDON (AP)—Britain announced today that she is closing down the Royal Naval dockyards in the Crown colony of Hong Kong.

Lord Mancroft, minister without portfolio, told the House of Lords that the shutdown will be completed by Nov. 30, 1959.

A white paper outlined the way Britain is changing her defence setup in the nuclear age by cutting down overseas commitments.

Mancroft said "future requirements of Her Majesty's ships in the Far East will no longer justify the maintenance of a full-scale dock yard in Hong Kong."

Britain, however, still will hold her vital naval base in Singapore. A number of vessels based in Hong Kong, which borders Communist China, will continue to protect British shipping and help mantain the security of the colony.

BIBLICAL CENTRE

JERUSALEM (AP) — U.S. theologian G. Douglas Young will open an American institute of Biblical studies in the Israeli sector of Jerusalem next year. It will be for theological lectures, graduates and students of all Protestant denominations.
