HUGE FIRE AT MILL CAUSES GREAT LOSS

JOINT COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS THAT CITY COUNCIL RATIFY EXCHANGE

Half Million Dollars Property Goes up in Smoke when Sawmill at Seal Cove is Partly Destroyed

Damage to the extent of about $500,000 was done on Saturday night when half of the plant of the Prince Rupert Spruce Mills Ltd. at Seal Cove was destroyed in the most disastrous fire that has ever visited this city. The loss is partially covered by insurance and J. A. Smith, president of the company, announced yesterday that he expected the plant would be rebuilt, although he could make no definite statement in this regard pending the making of insurance adjustments. In any case, it will be at least six months before the mill can be again put in operation. As a result of the fire, about 75 men have been thrown out of immediate employment.

The loss consisted of the destruction of the monorail system, finishing and drying sheds, dry kilns, planing mill including box factory in course of installation, office, a large quantity of lath and nearly five million feet of lumber—about half of which was high grade and the other half of lower grade. It was only due to the direction of the wind, which changed while the conflagration was in progress, and the work of the fire fighters that the entire sawmill plant proper was not wiped out as well.

Origin Uncertain

The origin of the fire is not definitely known but it is supposed to have been started by a switch engine that passed through the plant or from defective wiring. A locomotive went down to the mill shortly before seven o'clock and did some switching. It was shortly after this that the fire broke out in one of the finishing buildings near where the locomotive had been. These are considered the likely causes although it is not definitely known that they were.

In any case, the fire started shortly after seven and before it was noticed it had taken such a hold that it was almost impossible to check it. As the buildings and lumber piles rapidly became ignited, the seething flames increased in volume lighting up the sky and mountains and being visible for miles as, fanned by a brisk easterly wind, they consumed everything that lay in their path.

Fighting the Flames

The fire department was soon at the scene after the alarm had been rung in but only one truck reached Seal Cove. One was out of commission at the Fire Hall undergoing repairs, another was ditched while turning on to Sixth Avenue from McBride Street on its way to the fire and the small Reo truck was the only machine that actually reached the mill. Besides the city equipment, the hoses of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co. were brought to play on the flames, the steamer Prince Charles came up the harbor to the cold storage dock to give assistance and further equipment was brought up from the railway yards by a locomotive. Many hoses from different directions played on the voluminous flames but it soon became apparent that efforts were to be most advantageously devoted to saving surrounding buildings such as the portion of the sawmill on the leeward side.

About 8 o'clock a rather serious danger presented itself in the burning of electric light wires still carrying power. This necessitated turning out of the power throughout the city for half an hour or so while lines running to the vicinity of the mill were disconnected. The flames also put out of business all telephonic communication to

KU KLUX KLAN BEING OPPOSED

Efforts Made to Oust Them from Headquarters in Shaughnessy Heights

VANCOUVER, Nov. 16.— Efforts are being made to have the headquarters of the Ku Klux Klan, known officially as the "Imperial Palace," ousted from the residence on Matthews Ave., Shaughnessy Heights. The Klan in its activities in the United States has been actively hostile to Roman Catholics, Jews and negroes, while in the new organization here it declares itself "White and Protestant." The result is that the Catholics, Jews and others as well as many thousand who object to religious and other discriminations are opposing the Klan with all the influence they possess.

HALIBUT CLOSE SEASON STARTS

About 140,000 Pounds Arrived this Morning—Bigger Catches Expected Shortly

The close season for the fishing of halibut under treaty between Canada and the United States started yesterday and will continue in force until February 15. Catches may still be marketed but it will be necessary for the boats to certify that the fish offered was caught before midnight of November 15.

Many boats still being out, some heavy arrivals of halibut are expected within the next few days. This morning about 100,000 pounds was marketed at the Exchange but there were no large schooners in. Rough weather, it is understood, has been interfering with fishing lately and the catches may be broken.

Besides the fish marketed at the Exchange this morning, the New England Fish Co.'s trawler arrived this morning with 40,000 pounds of halibut to be discharged through the plant of the Atlin Fisheries.

The following boats marketed their catches here today:

American

Resolute 42,000 to Cold Storage, at 15.10 and 6.

Recommendation Made That City Accept Waterfront Lots and Allow Filling Cow Bay

"That this meeting recommend that the city council accept the exchange of waterfront lots F6 and F29, being approximately 200 feet or more from the provincial government, the city in turn relinquishing its claim on the inside of Cow Bay so that the same may be closed and that it be further recommended that the city arrange for the Dominion government to construct a breakwater, wharf or floats thereon for the benefit of the fishing fleet and other boats."

The foregoing was the text of a resolution that was passed on Saturday afternoon at a joint meeting of committees from the city council, Deep Sea Fishermen's Union, Halibut Boat Owners' Association, Board of Trade and other local interests called by the mayor to deal with the Cow Bay and fishermen's wharf question. The piece of waterfront in exchange for which the closing of Cow Bay is consented to lies immediately to the east of the Big Bay Lumber Co.'s wharf.

Those attending the joint meeting were Mayor Newton, chairman, and Ald. J. Arthur Smith, representing the city council; David Ritchie, G. W. Nickerson and Harry Daggett, who was secretary, representing the Halibut Boat Owners' Association; J. H. Meagher and Fred Lindquist representing the Deep Sea Fishermen's Union; John Dybhavn and Col. J. W. Nicholls, representing the fish buying companies, George G. Bushby, James Bacon, C. C. Ketchum, Harry Love, G. C. MacKay, district engineer for the provincial department of public works, and others.

The matter is to be considered again at this evening's meeting of the city council.

Government of Premier Bruce is Sustained in Federal Election Held Saturday

MELBOURNE, Nov. 16. — The Government of Premier Bruce in Australia has won 48 seats out of 75 in the House of Representatives after a hot fight in the general election which took place throughout the country on Saturday. The Labor Party, which was defeated badly secured 27 members.

The election was called by Premier Bruce to test public opinion on the question of communistic activities connected with the shipping strike. The shipping of the country has been tied up through the spread of the unauthorized strike from London and the Government was appealed to in an effort to prevent future recurrence. The Government would not take action without getting the opinion of the country thereon and the election was the result.

Educating Parents Work Of Children.

It is surprising what a lot of education parents need. As a rule they have no training for the chief business of life which is that of raising a family. It is the one thing more neglected than anything else. They are taught or they take the trouble to learn without teaching how to read, write and cypher, how to behave in ordinary intercourse of life, how to amuse themselves and how to earn a livelihood. All these things are desirable, but the climax of the whole is left out and that is the training for parenthood. The result is usually that the child has to be the teacher.

Children are always training their parents, even after the youngsters have grown up. The person who has not had child training is only half educated. How is it possible for a woman who has not had the arms of her own little one around her neck to be the same as her more fortunate sister. She is not and cannot be. All the argument in the world will not make her the same.

Mill Loss Was Great To City.

The loss of the Seal Cove mill is a great one to the city. While the main part of the mill is left, an important part of the remanufacturing plant is gone as well as the facilities for handling and the result will be that it cannot operate again for at least six months.

Prince Rupert was just beginning to feel the benefit from the mill and, while it was to have closed down for a short time, new work was going on there all the time with a view to making it a permanent and steady source of employment. Now half of it is gone and the owners will have a lot to do to get it again to a point where it may be operated profitably and successfully. It is satisfactory that the main part of the mill is left.

Cow Bay Question Is Again Discussed.

The Cow Bay question is again being discussed. Had it not been for the fire at Seal Cove it would have been the most discussed question here today. As it is, people are much interested in it and are canvassing the situation from all angles.

It seems to us to be a question that needs a great deal of careful consideration before action is taken. There are a good many people who do not see what the city wants with waterfront anyway and there are others who fear that the Yacht Club will be interfered with under the new arrangement. What is certain is that the fishermen should have accommodation provided for them. This work is not one for the city but for the marine department of the federal government and doubtless will receive attention from them. The railway will need Cow Bay, undoubtedly, and will have it eventually whether the city says so or not. If the Board of Railway Commissioners says they may fill it in and use it, the work will be done and the city will have no recourse.

How Changes Are Brought About.

It is curious how political changes are brought about. Often it is done by a process of whispering. Those opposed to a government tell everyone they meet quietly that the end of the government is in sight, that everybody is turning against them, that they are "a bunch of crooks" and that they are bringing the country to ruin. If this is persisted in, people in time come to think it is true and vote accordingly at the next election. That was done recently in connection with Dominion affairs and it is attempted again in connection with provincial politics. It is always done more or less by both parties. The main thing seems to be to win, no matter how dishonorable the tactics used in gaining the desired end.

VOTING ON NAAS.

Editor Daily News:

Are we still on the map or are we forgotten? That is the question the voters of the Naas Valley are now asking themselves.

Though they were not honored with any personal visits from the candidates each one of them had made his or her choice and was entitled to a vote.

The weather which heralded the great day was typical of the lovely, changable climate of the valley. Snow six inches deep and more falling. Still the ardent voters made their way to what ought to have been the polling station, but, "O Death, where is Thy Sting," there was no ballot box. "Some one had blundered," and they were deprived of their vote.

Two days later an Indian leisurely walked into the general store with the lost ballot box.

Does it not seem strange to you dear reader, that proper arrangements could not have been made so that these people would have been able to vote and would not feel that they had been ignored.

Let us hope that such a condition will be remedied next time. Maybe more zealous officers could be appointed to carry out the task of safely landing the ballot box at Aiyansh.

PRO BONO PUBLICO.

(The returning officer informs us that every effort was made to get the ballot boxes to Aiyansh in time for voting but that without the use of an airplane it was impossible.—Editor.)

THE MAN IN THE MOON says:

IN the fall a young man's fancy
Lightly turns to thoughts o' ducks,
If he misses them he mutters
"Let them go, they're fishy.
Shucks!"

THE turkeys that have survived Thanksgiving are looking forward to being eaten at Christmas. Great to be a Turkey!

TIME was when a young man went to the dogs. Today he does not need to go anywhere. The cats come after him.

YOU'D imagine now that we're six or seven months from April 1, that young people would not want to play the fool all the time, but they do. And it is not always play.

THE most difficult habit to cultivate permanently is the savings bank habit. So many people fear becoming slaves to habit.

THE younger they are, the more advice they have to offer.

AT eight the Miss is apt to take
Advice without a pout
She often does as she is told
And seldom is put out.

At twelve she just begins to learn
To let you know her mind.
And that is when she feels, alas
That older folks are blind.

Sixteen's the age when every girl
No matter dark or fair,
Knows how to guide her parent with Enthusiasm rare.

And then at twenty she becomes
A little blase, and
She thinks the world is made for her
To lead with her slim hand.

At thirty she begins to fear
Life is not what it seems
She takes the best that she can get
And favors she esteems.

I'd tell of forty if I might
Without annoying mein
But some day if you visit me
I'll mention what I've seen.

So this is where I stop my tale
There's nothing more to say.
No lady ever older is
Than thirty and a day.

IF there were no neighbors nobody would ever go to the poor house.

ARMISTICE Day made me think, and I came to the conclusion that a brave man was he who would marry three times.

THE best proof I have that all girls are swindlers is the girl pictures on the covers of magazines. They're not half as nice inside.

IT is a pity basketball does not thrive here. What will the girls have to maul if they do not get a game once in a while?

THE editor says the greatest invention he knows is the waste paper basket. It settles so many difficulties.

A "JANE" on Monday night may be all right, but Sunday is the night I usually go out with one.

A howling wind came down the street
It made the girl's cheeks red
It whirled around their ankles and . . .
Oh, well, enough is said.

IT looks as if the city is in for another season of talk on the Cow Bay question. Local debaters will be pleased to know that the 1925 city council has taken the matter up and is doing its best to have it retained for another decade as the popular local topic of discussion.

WITH Mayor Newton's "tacit" announcement that he will be through this year, many "aspects" of the situation will be lost in the arena of municipal politics.

She Was Troubled With Chronic Constipation

Once your bowels become constipated you are in for a lot of trouble, as constipation is one of the most prolific sources of disease that the human race is addicted to, therefore a free motion of the bowels every day should be the aim of everyone who aspires to perfect health.

Mrs. O. W. Lawrence, Cloverdale East, N.B., writes:—"I was troubled with chronic constipation, and became so bad I was almost afraid to eat anything.

One day I saw your advertisement of

Milburn's LAXA-LIVER PILLS

so I got three vials, and after taking them I have never been troubled since with constipation."

JOURNALISTIC PASTIME.

(Toronto Star)

A favorite sport of despatch writers nowadays is to name men who might be chosen by Mr. Meighen if he were forming a ministry. And perhaps some day a fond mother may tell her offspring: "Johnny, your grandfather was a 'might be' member of an 'if' cabinet."

SPORT CHAT

Sport events scheduled for this week are as follows:

Monday (tonight) —Cribbage League: Elks vs. P. R. Hotel; G.W.V.A. vs. C.N.R. Mechanical; L.O.L. vs. St. Andrews; S. of C. vs. Moose; Dry Dock vs. K. of C.; C.N.R. Operating vs Cold Storage. Boxing tournament. — Brick Skinner vs. Boots McNeill, and three preliminaries.

Tuesday.—Second Division Billiards: Prince Rupert Fish Co. vs. Great War Veterans. Whist League: Postponed game—Elks vs. Loyal Orange Lodge.

Thursday.—Men's Whist League: Moose vs. K. of C.; Sons of England vs. St. Andrew's; Great War Veterans vs. Knights of Pythias; Sons of Canada vs. Oddfellows. Second Division Billiards: Cold Storage vs. Grotto.

Friday.—Ladies' Whist: Daughters of England vs. Moooose Ladies; Orange Ladies' vs. Pythian Sisters.

The great financial spoils taken this year have led again to talk of the formation of a third major baseball league in the United States. It is thought that the leading International and American Association clubs might merge their interests and a six-club nucleus for the third major league is suggested with clubs from Baltimore, Buffalo, Toronto, Kansas City, Louisville and Milwaukee. It is said that there are many big financiers ready and even anxious to invest their money in such a new baseball venture. Twelve years ago there was a third major league—the Federal—but it failed on account of mismanagement although it worried the National and American Leagues a good deal before it was through.

Taking it on the whole, local nimrods are having a pretty successful season of it both from the standpoint of deer and game birds. The most successful parties, however, are those that go the farther afield and as a result trips of a week or so's duration to such points as Porche Island, Hartley Bay, Gardner Canal, etc. are more in vogue this year than ever before. The local deer season closes on November 30, and the season for ducks and geese on December 31. South of 52 degrees latitude (about Bella Bella) the seasons remain open until January 31 and February 15 respectively.

One of the most important matters to be discussed at a meeting of the major baseball league which is called for December 10 by Commissioner Landis will be the question of closing the league campaigns and staging the world series earlier than has been the custom in the past. Commissioner Landis is in favor of closing the season earlier, starting the world series possibly a week sooner, to avoid conflicting with the football season and the club owners if they agree may do so without cutting down their usual schedules of 154 games. President Ban Johnson of the American League also favors an earlier closing but the National League last year opposed such a move.

HOOT GIBSON COMES FOR TUESDAY ONLY

"Let 'er Buck" is the Name of the Play Which Was Made in Oregon.

Cowboys, cowgirls, Indians, old-time drivers of horse pulled stages and others possessing vital knowledge of Western habits, customs and sports, to a total number of close to 1,000 to say nothing of outlaw horses. Then, there are big horn steers and such that had a part in the making of Charles Wellington Furlong's novel, "Let 'er Buck," which is here for Tuesday only.

Hoot Gibson, the star long ago Hoot convinced motion picture patrons that he is the real stuff as a cowboy. He has shown time and again that he can ride 'em straight up as well as give a pleasing character protrayal. But in this case Hoot apparently cast discretion aside and rode right into the center of the carnival of the most desperate, hazardous, thrilling sports ever held—nothing less than the biggest Round-Up where the best cowboys in all the land were competing for honors.

"Let 'er Buck," was filmed at Pendleton, Oregon last year while the city's famous Annual Round-up was in progress. The story of the picture was adapted from Charles Wellington Furlong's novel. The story hinges on certain of the programmed events. Having such a colorful atmosphere, Edward Sedgwick, the director, took every advantage of the unusual occasion and the result is that the picture really furnishes two fine entertainments in one. There is the story which is good, and its players, and there is the atmosphere told by the cast of sterling screen supplied by the real thing in Western atmosphere at its most exciting period, thanks to director Ed Sedgwick.

Marian Nixon has the part of the daughter of the Texas cattleman for whom Hoot worked. She is the cause of his romantic troubles. Josie Sedgwick plays the part of the woman ranch owner.

BOXERS WILL LIKE "THE SHOCK PUNCH" AT THE WESTHOLME

Play Comes Here at Mid-Week and Shows Romance and Love and Fighting

Randall Lee Savage, son of a wealthy family, is afraid he'll get "soft." He selects some ex-pugs and begins to train as if for a fight. They teach him a new wallop called the "shock punch" which puts anyone to sleep on the first application.

During this training, he is doing road work in Central Park. He meets Dorothy Clark, who is riding there. His trainers frown on his sudden interest in the girl and try to drag him away. A fight ensues and to their surprise, the shock punch is used on them to good effect. But Dorothy does not like scraps.

Father Chuckles

Randall's father chuckles when he is told of the affair in the park and arranges with the trainers to see the punch demonstrated at the annual ball of the ironworkers of the Clark Construction Company, of which Dorothy's father is president. They get young Savage into a row with a husky bully, and again he comes off victorious with the punch, but Dorothy has seen and she leaves in a huff. Savage follows her home and, after getting rid of Stanley Pierce, also a suitor, he wins her forgiveness, but promises not to fight again.

Dorothy won't go to tea or dinner with him because she is helping her father, who is worried to death about the new building, which he must complete by a definite time. Somebody seems to be working against him, but he can't find out who it is. Savage is so infatuated with Dorothy that he gets a job as an ironworker on the building. The boss, Bull Mularkey, tries to razz him and puts over several practical jokes on him which are funny, though they almost make Savage lose his life high upon the girders.

Rides on Girder

The star has a number of hair raising adventures on the top of the building, and one day, after he has been down to the ground to see Dorothy at lunch hour, he overhears his boss and Stanley Pierce plotting to let the last iron girder crash through from the top floor, thereby making it impossible to finish the work on time. When the day comes and the last girder is about to be raised, Savage decides to ride up on it, taking a chance that the others won't dare carry out their plan. But to be doubly sure, Bull Mularkey has cut the cable part way through. Pierce hears that Savage is on his way up and confesses—but it is too late to stop.

The girder reaches the top safely, however, and before Mularkey can send it crashing through, Sagage leaps on him before the beam has even reached the building. They have a whale of a fight on a narrow platform, fall off it to another platform on the floor below and fight again, sometimes almost rolling off into the street far below and fight again. At last Savage gets Mularkey in a position where he can deliver the shock punch, and it's all over.

Dorothy has climbed up to them while they are fighting, and all's well.

CHARLEY'S AUNT IS WEEK-END OFFERING

Famous Farce to be Shown in Picture at Westholme This Week End

"Jane" is not the only farce being shown here this week. Charley's Aunt is to be the big week end offering in pictures.

Plays may come and plays may go, but 'tis said in the theatre that "Charley's Aunt" will go on forever. No play has had a more interesting or extensive "career" than this famous old farce by Brandon Thomas. After thirty-three years in every corner of the globe, it is still going strong and now that it has been translated into the universal language of the screen it is said "the old lady" has taken a new lease of life and will be delighting our great, grandchildren as it delighted our grandparents.

Even in China

Years ago the play was taken up abroad and was even played in China with a Chinese "Charley's Aunt." It was played in Germany twenty-five years ago and is nearly as well known in German theatrical traditions as it is in England.

"Charley's Aunt" was the ex-Kaiser's favorite play. He himself once admitted it. During the war, many hot-headed Germans protested against that admission, but the Kaiser held that as Brandon Thomas, the English author, had died before the war broke out, his offence was purged.

The play was shown in Athens Greece, and owing to the fact that there was no Greek word "Aunt," the excellent lady was referred to by a double-barrelled appellation indicating that she was the sister of Charley's father.

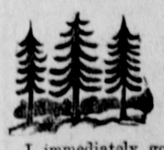
In Italy

When it was produced in Italy the famous little town of Oxford was shown with snow capped mountains in the rear. Norway determined to be very correct and sent a special representative over to study English customs. This fellow told the Norwegian producers that in England it was the proper thing to wear Eton jackets and straw hats.

Don't Neglect The Children's Coughs and Colds

Mrs. Wm. W. Card, Bancroft, Ont., writes:—"Last winter my three children had very bad colds, and they would cough all night long, which was very annoying to the rest of the family.

I could get nothing to help them until one night, a friend who was staying with me, advised me to give them



Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

I immediately got some, and after I had used four bottles of it my children became quite well again, thanks to Dr. Wood's."

This preparation has been on the market for the past 37 years; you don't experiment when you buy it; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Burned All Night

The fire raged uncontrolled through the mill yards until after 10 o'clock when it became possible to effectively check its course. The fire continued through the night, however, and was even still smouldering yesterday afternoon.

The mill gasoline shed across the road from the yards was also consumed and it was in this that an explosion occurred about 8.30. Adjoining the gasoline shed was the Isaacson wood shed and yard which was also destroyed.

The mill office building caught fire from the lumber piles adjacent to it and was also destroyed. It was possible, however, to remove the mill records from the office although all the heavy furniture was lost.

All the loading platforms, trucks and a large quantity of supplies were destroyed in the storage sheds where the big steel beams now lie buckled on the ground where they fell as building after building collapsed in the flames.

Brand New Plant

In the planing mill was destroyed a brand new planing machine that had been just installed and which had been operated for only one hour on Saturday afternoon. A brand new blowpipe system and extra large motors in the planing mill were also destroyed. New machinery in the box factory which was to have been placed in operation shortly was also a complete loss. In fact practically all the new equipment that has been installed during the past few months fell prey to the conflagration.

Practically all the lumber lying in the mill yards drying and seasoning for shipment was destroyed. It amounted to almost five million feet representing several months cutting.

For a time the residences of the staff of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co. were threatened but they were saved through a fortunate veering of the wind. The most remarkable escape was that of the Seal Cove store and sub-postoffice conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Hannan. As the fire in the mill raged and the office ignited, the store was given up and the goods were removed therefrom. The building escaped, however, although Mrs. Hannan reported yesterday afternoon that considerable goods had been ruined and lost in the confusion.

Expects to Rebuild

"I do not know definitely yet what we will do about rebuilding," stated Mr. Smith yesterday afternoon in the course of an interview with a Daily News representative. "I expect the plant will be rebuilt but that will depend to a large extent on what kind of an insurace adjustmet is made. It would take at least six months to rebuild," Mr. Smith said.

Mr. Smith stated that loss to the plant would aggregate about $350,000 and to lumber, $150,000, making a total of $500,000. The lumber was fairly well insured but the plant not as well as it might have been.

Mr. Smith, of course, was rather upset as a result of the fire. It was particularly disappointing to him on account of the fact that extensive improvements were in course of being made and the plant was just beginning to show good results.

75 Men Out

The sawmill plant was not in operation but planing and shipping was going on as well as the new work. Seventy-five men who were engaged in loading, dry kilning, planing, shipping and new work are thrown out of work as a result of the fire.

Mr. Smith, in the course of his conversation, acknowledged the good work done in fighting the fire and said that great credit was due the city firemen, members of the staff and citizens whose efforts resulted in the flames not extending to much greater area than they did.

Department's Work

Fire Chief D. H. McDonald stated this morning that the equipment of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co. had given great assistance in the work of coping with the blaze. The company pumps were put into operaion and pumped salt water at the rate of 800 gallons a minute materially augmenting the force from the city lines. The C.N.R. steamer Prince Charles, Capt. Neil McLean, also assisted in pumping and remained at the Cold Storage wharf until about 3 o'clock in the morning.

Nine streams of water were brought to play on the flames and 4,000 feet of city hose was used. The work of fighting the fire started shortly after 7 o'clock Saturday evening and the fire department and others were working on the flames until noon Sunday. It was the largest fire that the local department was ever called upon to deal with and, owing to the awkward location and the headway the flames had gained, thte firemen were put to not a little danger. Happily there were no injuries sustained though, to reach position with the hoses, the firemen were called up to jump into the booming ground cove and wade. It is reported that one of the fireman even had to swim for it.

Thanks of Chief

The chief expressed appreciation for the splendid assistance given by all those who had given their aid to reinforce the efforts of the fire department. The city light department rendered aid by cutting off the power and generally assisting and the water and public works departments, under Foreman J. McRae, were also on the job. In addition to this many citizens remained all night to assist in the work of fire fighting.

At midnight J. A. Smith, president of the Prince Rupert Spruce Mills, Ltd., had coffee and sandwiches sent to the firemen from the boarding house and the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co. furnished the firemen with breakfast.

Damage to the amount of $800 was done to the wood yard owned by A. Isaacson, Seal Cove, and situated across the road from the Spruce Mills office, at the mill fire on Saturday night. The loss is not covered by insurance.
