GIVE REASONS FOR SANKEY DECISION

GAUTHIER CONTRADICTS HIMSELF AT ROYAL COMMISSION

Chief of Appeal Court Satisfied With Murder Verdict in Trial Here

N SEE NO MISCARRIAGE OF JUSTICE THOUGH COLLEAGUE ATTACKS METHOD EMPLOYED IN OBTAINING EVIDENCE

VANCOUVER, April 29.—Reasons for the decision of Chief Justice J. A. Macdonald who, with Mr. Justice Galliher and Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald, dismissed the application of Joseph Sankey to the British Columbia Court of Appeal for a new trial from conviction and death sentence for the murder of Miss Loretta Chisholm at Port Essington last year were received here yesterday.

"I am unable to find in the case any good reason for interfering with the verdict," the Chief Justice stated. "I think it cannot be argued successfully that there was substantial wrong, amounting to a miscarriage of justice, in taking in the sworn testimony of Haldis Sandal." He decided that the girl's evidence was sufficiently corroborated by the evidence of Charles Reinholdt and her mother. The Chief Justice also found that Sankey's statement to Inspector William Spiller had been properly admitted and was "also of the opinion that the trial judge's charge to the jury was not unfair to the prisoner."

Mr. Justice Archer Martin, with whom Mr. Justice McPhillips agreed in dissenting, would have allowed the appeal on the ground that the statement by Sankey to Spiller was obtained by duress and the evidence obtained in such a manner was so highly improper that it should not have been admitted. "Beyond any question," he stated, "such an examination was improper in any case and the result was that this evidence seriously prejudiced accused in his defence."

CONVERSION TO OIL OF STEAMERS MEETS MUCH OPPOSITION

VICTORIA, April 29.— Proposed conversion of Dominion Government steamers on the Pacific Coast into oil burners is meeting with vigorous opposition from Vancouver Island coal mine operators. The increased consumption of fuel oil on the coast in recent years has been a severe blow to the coal industry, but despite this fact, production on Vancouver Island has shown a tendency towards more stable conditions this year, the output for January and February being considerably larger than during the corresponding period last year.

DEAD SEA MAY BE MADE CENTRE FOR CHEMICAL PRODUCT

JERUSALEM, April 29.—The Dead Sea, so salty that fish and seaweed connot live in it, has prospects of coming to aggressive life as a chemical production center.

Scientists who investigated for the Hebrew University here have completed a report for Dr. Chaim Weizmann, its president, showing this historic salt lake to be as fabulously rich in mineral salts as it is in biblical lore.

The chemists recommend that in connection with the harnessing of the Jordan river for power now under way, steps be taken to utilize the treasures of this inland sea. Ways and means to carry out the recommendation are under consideration.

Heirless Okanagan Farmer Leaves Fortune of Million Which Government May Get

VERNON, April 29.—Search for a will, following the death of A. B. Knox of Vernon last Friday at Kelowna where he had gone on a business trip, resulted in the finding by the police of cash bonds amounting to $200,000 in a safe in his home here. As far as is known, Knox died intestate without heirs. His reported fortune, which may revert to the government, with the inclusion of his bank deposits, will amount to $1,000,000. Until he was attacked with heart trouble on a lake steamer between here and Kelowna last week, it had been Knox' boast that, despite his age, he worked harder than any men employed on his large ranch at Gellatly, near Vernon. He came to Canda in 1871 and worked for three years on a farm in Ontario, then coming to the Okanagan valley where he has since lived.

STAKES HIS LAST CLAIM

PRINCETON PROSPECTOR, WHO THOUGHT IN MILLIONS, DIES OF BROKEN HEART

PRINCETON, April 29—(B. C.P.)—Emil F. Voight, "the man who thought in millions," is dead, and with him has vanished the dream of a vast fortune in the old man's mineral claims on Copper Mountain.

No one denied Voight's perseverance and his cunning as a discoverer of valuable metals, but when the big copper companies came to him with their offers he always held out for just a little more than they were prepared to give him; he always talked "in millions" and the big deal never materialized. For many years it seemed as though Voight would die a pauper. He never acquired riches, in spite of his ambition to be a millionaire, but he managed finally to make an arrangement with the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company which kept him in fairly comfortable circumstances. But the fact that no one placed the same value on his claims that he did broke his heart.

He was seventy years old when he died. Swiss by birth, little is known of the prospector's history before he came to the Rossland mining camp in 1896. In 1899 he came to the Similkameen country, located some copper claims on Copper Mountain and then entered upon his long series of "mammoth deals" which never transpired.

At one time representatives of a big United States mining company came to Princeton and sent word up to Voight's camp that they would like to see him. He refused to leave his cabin and insisted the deal be discussed at the mine. Finally the interview was arranged and in reply to the question: "How much do you want for the property," Voight answered: "Three million dollars; three hundred thousand down; balance in two years."

"Very good Mr. Voight, the mining men replied, "we are not afraid of large figures if the property is worth it. How long will you give us to investigate and report?"

"Not a day, gentlemen; those are my terms; take them or leave them."

It was the one and only "big chance" he ever had and he lost it.

Charges in General Reiterated But Tory Informant's Story of Bargain Is Changed in Detail's

VICTORIA, April 29.—Charges made in the Legislature that the provincial government had made a bargain with John A. Gauthier to secure campaign funds through commissions on liquor orders were repeated by Gauthier under oath when Mr. Justice Morrison opened the enquiry into the Gauthier allegations yesterday. After taking most of the day of Thursday giving details of the alleged deal, Gauthier, under cross-examination by Hon. J. W. deB. Farris, K.C., government counsel, was still in the box when the hearing adjourned until today.

In the course of examination, Gauthier contradicted his affidavit which H. Dospard Twigg, Conservative member for Victoria, laid before the legislature. The sworn statement said that it was in the office of John Stewart, inspector of factories at Vancouver, that the arrangement was made in January, 1923, whereby he was to get immediate orders for $20,000 cases of liquor and additional orders later for 50,000 cases during the year as long as the government remained in power. On Thursday, Gauthier declared that the conference took place in the Vancouver Hotel.

Asked by the commissioner how he could make such a mistake implicating a public official, witness said it was an error and repeated that the meeting occurred in the hotel.

Pressed by Mr. Farris, Gauthier admitted that he could not say definitely whether Speaker Buckham was present at that meeting as well as Hon. Dr. W. H. Sutherland, minister of public works, although his affidavit contained that statement.

CALIFORNIA COLLEGE SEEKING WHALES TO STUDY THEIR GLANDS

BERKELEY, California, April 29.—In the belief that the pituitary gland of the whale holds the secret of the source and structure of all animal life, the University of California is sponsoring a whaling expedition off the coast of Mexico, to collect the necessary glands for experimentation.

The whaler Lansing, specially equipped, is operating off the San Clemente Islands, making about two kills a day. Unlike other whaling expeditions, this one is interested only in the pituitary glands of the greatcetageans, and the carcasses are set adrift as soon as the tiny organ at the base of the brain is extracted and put away in a barrel.

When the barrel is filled the expedition will have finished its share of the task and the glands will be turned over to Dr. Max S. Dunn, of the University staff. Dr. Dunn and his staff will attempt to separate the constituent elements of the glands and find the agency or force which causes tissues to live and grow to leviathan proportions.

DAILY EDITION. Friday, April 29, 1927

One of the first requisites to writing well is to know just enough but not too much. Nobody ever heard of a very learned person being a writer. He has not time to write or talk.

WEATHER CONDITIONS AND THEIR EFFECT.

It must be admitted that weather plays an important part in the lives of most people. When it is cold we feel we should like it to be warm and when it is too hot we crave for cold. Continuous wet weather is depressing and too much dry is even worse. So we are seldom quite satisfied with what we get.

A few days ago the editor met a retired middle-aged couple, who had been wandering for the past eighteen months looking for a place to live where the climate conditions were ideal. Needless to say they were as far off as ever from being satisfied. In some cities the intense heat bowled them over and in other there were cold winds or damp fogs or drought or too much rain. They spent a few weeks at each place they had heard about as being the ideal place, but investigation proved that it was not what they expected to find. They are still travelling on in what seems likely to prove an eternal search for better things.

A fishing boat was towed in yesterday with clutch trouble. That's what is wrong with a great many people. They have "clutch trouble."

RISING ABOVE INFLUENCES.

The strong man is one who refuses to allow the weather or any other minor influences to affect him in his life work. A little snow or rain or hail mean little more than a passing inconvenience. While they are unplesant they often are better than too much heat which saps the energy and paralyzes effort. The better plan seems to be to try to adapt conditions to the weather and make the best of what we have.

People do not come to Prince Rupert because the weather is attractive, while, doubtless, there are many better climates, there are also worse. To allow ourselves to be annoyed continually by such a minor thing as weather conditions is to admit weakness.

It is suggested that the Prince Rupert brand of bootleg liquor is at fault in the failure of Prince Rupert people to get a glimpse of a sea serpent in these waters. Please don't throw chestnuts.

ADMISSION FIRST STEP TO FAILURE.

To admit possible defeat is the first step to failure. We are all largely what we make ourselves and if we refuse even to think about defeat, victory is pretty sure to camp on our doorstep. Failure is for the weak, but most northern people are strong and can win if they will. The great thing is to think success and to absolutely refuse to allow failure to be considered. Then the desired end is assured.

It is not suggested that we can think fine weather all the time, if it is raining, but we can at any rate make the best of the conditions as they obtain and possibly turn them to our own advantage. There is always brightness ahead and a cheery disposition keeps this always in view and refuses to be made miserable by a shower of rain or a scurry of snow.

The chief end of man may be his head or it may not. There are other ends.

Most people can talk fluently but only the blessed few are endowed with the art of listening effectively.

LETT SPEAKS CLUB LUNCHEON

EMPHASIZES VALUE OF TOPLEY MINE RECENTLY DISCOVERED AND BONDED

R. C. W. Lett, superintendent of the natural resources branch of the industrial department of the Canadian National Railways, was the speaker yesterday afternoon at the luncheon of the Rotary Club. He mentioned the experiences of the early days when he had come through the present railway route before the line was built and told of the steady development that had taken place, not as rapid as they would have liked but yet it was progress.

Mr. Lett mentioned particularly the recent mineral discovery at Topley by Frank Taylor who had struck a body of rich ore by accident, had industriuosly developed it by tunnelling and later had bonded it for $200,000 with a good cash payment to a Spokane company which were planning to thoroughly drill it before completing the deal.

Yesterday Mr. Lett and his associate, H. W. M. Johnston, industrial agent, were taken out the new Kaien Island Road by a representative of the Board of Trade and were shown the land which is being opened up by the road and which it is hoped to get the railway to market in small plots suitable for suburban settlers.

"EAGLE OF THE SEA" IS PIRATE PICTURE

Florence Vidor and Recardo Cortez Starred in Week End Picture at Westholme Theatre

In "The Eagle of the Sea" starring Florence Vidor and Ricardo Cortez, at the Westholme Theatre tonight and tomorrow Captain Sazarac is watching a celebration attendant to the visit of General Andrew Jackson to New Orleans. Louise Lestron's carriage passes. Her horses become frightened and she is only saved by Sazarac's heroism. That night, at a masked ball, he finds Louise.

The hall is invaded by John Jarvis and twenty mock pirates. Amid the laughter of the crowd, he and his tipsy crew hold women for ransom. Louise has just told her rescuer that the name Jean Lafitte—notorious buccaneer whose crimes were pardoned because of his assistance to "Old Hickory" during the war and who then broke his amnesty by disappearing with a reward offered for his capture—fills her with horror.

Sazarac politely pushes Jarvis aside. The latter, drunkenly demanding to know who defies him, tear's the other man's mask aside, only to gasp in astonishment. This silken gallant is Jean Lafitte, his old leader! Jarvis is not along in recognizing Jean. General Jackson gives him until dawn to leave town.

According to common gossip, "The Seraphine" is but waiting a suitable leader before sailing to rescue Napoleon from St. Helena. Colonel Lestron, one of the promoters of this mad scheme, sees in Lafitte the right commander and invites him to his home. There, he explains his wishes to embroil England and America in warfare to Spain's advantage. If they succeed in rescuing the French Emperor, Lafitte will be given "The Seraphine." Jean declines. Lestron draws a gun as Louise enters. Lafitte exposes her uncle's plans and Lestron reveals Sazarac as the man she hates.

To prevent the news from spreading around, Louise is put on the outgoing "Felipe." Lafitte hears of this. That same evening a farewell party is being given aboard the "Seraphine" when Jarvis and his crew come over the side. The dancers think it another farce but soon find themselves in the harbor.

Lafitte's fleet ship overtakes the "Felipe" and Louie is brought on board. Jean's crew grumble on being told not to loot their prize. He orders them back to New Orleans whereupon Crackley, leader of the insurgents, imprisons Lafitte and his followers.

"The Seraphine" is captured by a Spanish man-o'-war on which Colonel Lestron has followed. Louise tells her uncle that Lafitte's men have killed him. With his last breath, the now dying Crackley crawls to Jarvis and gives him those keys which will release their captain. Suddenly—the old battle-cry rings out as the galleon bursts into flames.

Louise, realizing to whom her heart belongs, begs Lafitte to keep away from New Orleans. Jean readily agrees as "The Seraphine" turns its prow in search of happiness.

SPRING CROP CONDITIONS

SEASON MAY BE LATE BUT THERE'S NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT SAYS EDMONTON BULLETIN

Spring is coming later to Alberta, says the Edmonton Bulleting editorially. But there is no reason to conclude that the crop will get away under a handicap which it cannot overcome, or which will even threaten to cut down the yield and the proceeds.

An early spring does not guarantee a good crop, nor a late spring foreshadow something less than a good one. The heaviest yields have not been gathered in central and northern Alberta in years when the seed went into the ground in March. There have been splendid crops in years when the seeding was far later than is common.

The crop of 1927 will have one undoubted advantage. There is plenty of moisture in the soil. There have been few years in which the ground has been so thoroughly soaked after the frost went out in spring.

Late sowing means that the ground will be unusually warm when the seed is put in. The combination of warmth and ample moisture is the condition for quick germination. Seed grain is likely to make some records this year in quick sprouting and rapid early growth.

FARMERS IN GOOD SHAPE

A belated spring does not imply that the area sown will be samller than it would otherwise be. The farmers have had good yields and fair prices for several years in succession. They are thus in position to hire help and buy machinery with which to put through the spring operations in the minimum amount of time.

There is more machinery on the farms in this district than there ever was before. The farmers have been equipping themselves with labor-saving implements in recent years. And there is an abundant supply of labor available to enable them to put in the crop with a rush once the ground is in condition.

A late fall is more important than an early spring in making and maturing a crop. Given summer and fall weather normally favorable, there is nothing in the spring conditions to damp the expectations of a bountiful yield and a large crop acreage.

JUNIOR FOOTBALL READY TO START

At the recent annual meeting of the Junior Football League a very satisfactory statement was presented. The winner of the league last season was Borden School with Booth runners-up. A cash balance was reported after all expenses including medals for the winning team and the banquet to all teams, had been paid.

The officers for the ensuing year are as last year:

Chairman, J. S. Wilson.

Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Mills.

Delegate to Football Association, W. W. C. O'Neill.

The school representatives at the league are :

Hight School, T. H. Peddie, M.A.

Borden, W. W. C. O'Neill.

Booth, D. H. Hartness, and the captains of teams. High School, E. Smith; Borden School, Albert Styles; Booth School, Tom Kelsey. Jack Campbell is coach for Borden Street and referee.

Subject to the ground being in fit condition for the boys to play, the season will commence on Saturday, May 7, when the Borden and Booth teams will renew hostilities. High and Borden meet the following Saturday and Booth and High the next.

All teams will turn out new players and already keen interest is being shown by the boys and their supporters. It is to be hoped that the older players and supporters of the game and of sport in general will give the league their practical support and turn out to encourage the boys.

SPORT CHAT

Bugler, a nine year old gelding, who has been a great favorite among horse racing fans, died recently in Tijuana. He was a great distance runner and last summer won four races in five days.

Having passed his twenty-fifth birthday, Bobby Jones, famous golfer, believes he is old enough now to exchange "Bobby" for just plain "Bob." He confessed a desire to be called "Bob" to a Chicago golfer, in the south. "Bobby" he said "is too kiddish."

Excited spectators at sports, events weigh a great deal more than persons who are nonchalant and sit still. In the building of grandstands, such as the one just completed at Epsom, England, for the recent opening of the spring racing meet, this fact had to be taken into consideration by the architects. The Epsom stand and similar structures are designed to bear not only the approximate weight of the spectators they will comfortably accommodate, but also the weight of their excitement, which at times more than doubles. It has been calculated by British architects that if a grandstand is designed to hold a crowd expected to weigh normally 300 tons, a foundation and supports must be provided which will stand the weight of at least 1,000 tons. They explain this by the fact that when people are excited they weigh considerably more than when sitting still. A crouching person adds 60 to 65 per cent to his weight in straightening himself up, and to rise from a sitting position adds nearly 80 per cent to his weight. By raising with a sudden jerk, as spectators art apt to do at exciting moments, it has been estimated that it is possible to add momentarily more than 150 per cent to one's weight.

and thought I would give it a trial. After taking three bottles I was completely rid of my cough, and have never had a cold since."

"Dr. Wood's" has been on the market for the past 38 years, and its timely use may save you from suffering from some serious bronchial or lung trouble.

EDMONTON COLLEGE BOYS REBELLION AT WEARING OF COLLARS

EDMONTON, April 29. — A revolt against having to wear collars and hunt elusive collar buttons under beds, etc., has recently stirred the peace of the University here. It all started when an undergrad got peeved because his one and only collar button eluded him, and he had to attend classes without a collar.

The idea of freeing themselves from the odious bondage of collars, occurred to several of the students who determined to set a new fashion. They did so, and drew a fine from the university authorities. Then followed a petition asking for at least a hundred signatures, the collarless group having decided to seek safety in numbers. There is every indication that the movement will spread.

Neglected Eyes

NEGLECT is doubtless the cause of most of the ills that afflict humanity. This is so self evident that it seems hardly necessary to tell you. If your eyes are giving trouble, have them attended to—and at once.

OF ALL absurdities in the kingdom of foolishness, surely the loss of eyesight through neglect is the most inexcusable.

DON'T lose health and efficiency through neglect. Come and see!

GOVERNMENT TO FIGHT SUICIDES

TURKEY TAKING STEPS TO PREVENT RISING TIDE OF SELF KILLING

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 29. — The government has set out to fight Turkey's rising suicide rate. It has designated a professor of Stamboul University to prepare a course of public lectures aimed at preventing suicides.

Statistics compiled by the professor show that the average number of suicides has risen with the past ten years from thirty yearly to 180. Most of them are girls, although in other countries the number of male suicides almost doubles that of women.

The press also has started a campaign to build up the morale of the nation. Newspapers publish cartoons ridiculing suicide. One of them shows a woman discussing fashions in self-destruction, disapproving of the winter styles, such as poisoning, hanging and shooting, and declaring her intention of waiting for summer in order to employ the "more ladylike" method of drowning.

MURDER TRIAL IN NEW YORK

MRS. RUTH SNYDER AND HER PARAMOUR ARE ARRAINGED THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, April 28—(A.P.)—Another "perfect crime" that failed, the slaying of Albert Snyder, art editor of "Motor Boating," while he slept in his Queen's Village home on the morning of March 20, brought to trial this week his wife, Mrs. Ruth Snyder and her confessed paramour, Henry Judd Gray, on first degree murder charges.

Mrs. Snyder has been the center of attention since her arrest the day following the murder. She assumed the role of the misunderstood wife, married to a man many years her senior, who had tastes totally different to her own. Discord, she said, forced her to look elsewhere for happiness.

Gray, a corset salesman, with a wife and ten-year-old daughter, was a man of society in his home in East Orange, N.J. So sterling was his character believed to be that members of his family and friends refused to believe his guilt until they heard it from his own lips.

On the eve of the murder Snyder and his wife attended a card party at the home of friends. "Tommy," as Mrs. Snyder was known to her intimates, saw that her husband drank plenty of liquor, "to make him feel good" as she later confessed to the police.

When they got home Mrs. Snyder put him to bed. He was partly deaf and she took care that his "good ear" lay on the pillow.

Some hours later the couple's nine-year-old daughter Lorraine, found her father dead. He had been beaten, chloroformed and his body bound to the bed with picture wire. In an adjoining room, Mrs. Snyder also had been bound. The house was in great disorder from top to bottom.

Mrs. Snyder told the police a man of giant stature had forced his way into the home and had killed her husband and had beaten her.

Detectives were suspicious from the start. In their attempt to accomplish the perfect crime the slayers had been too thorough. They had ransacked the kitchen.

"There is something wrong here," said the officers. "Regular murderers don't work that way. They don't bother the kitchen."

STORY CONTRADICTED

There was no evidence of the head injury which Mrs. Snyder claimed the murderer had inflicted. Soon the jewels which she said had been stolen were found under a mattress. Other things were found to contradict her story.

After hours of questioning Mrs. Snyder confessed. She admitted an intimacy with Gray and said that he had hidden in the house until they returned from the party. After she had put Snyder to bed she and Gray committed the crime together.

Gray was detained by the police in Syracuse. At first, he stoutly denied any connection with the murder. He had what seemed to be an airtight alibi. Clerks in the hotel where he was stopping remembered that he had called from his room at about the time he would have been in Queens Village if he had committed the murder. His bed was rumpled as if he had slept there the night of the crime.

Police brought Gray to New York for further questioning. After hours of steady denial he suddenly confessed his part in the slaying. He told how he had struck Snyder over the head with a window sashweight while Mrs. Snyder looked on.

Although he had confessed, police were not satisfied until they explained his alibi. Haddon Gray, a Syracuse friend with whose two children Gray shot marbles on the night following the murder, was brought to New York. He had substantiated Gray's story of his Syracuse movements. Taken before the Queen's County Grand Jury he admitted that he had aided Gray prepare his alibi in the belief that he was helping him keep from his wife knowledge of an engagement with a woman friend. He admitted that it was he who had impersonated Gray in calling from his hotel room and had otherwise aided the hoax.

Both Gray and Mrs. Snyder repudiated their confession when brought into court, claiming they were made under duress. The love that had joined them in the killing seemed to have cooled in the several days they had been in prison for they did not speak to each other in court. They blamed each other for their plight.

COLLECT INSURANCE

One theory advanced for the motive was that Mrs. Snyder expected to collect her husband's $52,000 insurance policy, and then flee with Gray.

Another possible motive advanced by the police was that Snyder had learned of their intimacy and that they had killed him on this account.

A bottle of liquor contining bichloride of mercury was found in Gray's possession on the train trip from Syracuse. It was later revealed that he had attempted to take a drink of it on the trip, telling officers that it was cough medicine.
