Doukhobor Problem Is Federal Responsibility the Conservative Leader R. B. Bennett Declares

Province of B. C. Not Responsible For Them, He Says; Prisoners and Children Moved to Coast

TORONTO, Sept. 11:—The problem created in British Columbia by the Doukhobor uprising is at matter which should be considered by the Dominion government and not left to the western province, Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, said last night in an interview. The situation had not been brought on itself by the province, Mr. Bennett said, but these people had been brought out several years ago during the regime of another federal government.. "It is my opinion," Mr. Bennett declared, "that it is up to the federal government to correct things. The Dominion cannot avoid the duty which has devolved upon it."

NELSON, September 11—Eight children taken from members of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors and 104 adult members of the sect sentenced to six months' imprisonment at Okalla for indecent exposure in connection with a nude parade were put aboard a special train for the coast yesterday. The Doukhobors were secretly placed on the train, the coup coming as a complete surprise to other Doukhobors who were watching the jail for such a move.

The children were under the care of Neglected Children Officer Menzies and will be placed in school on arrival at the coast.

NEW ROUTES OF AIRWAYS

Six New Lines Are Being Projected In United States Network

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11: — Six new airways for the rapidly developing aviation transportation lines over the country are being surveyed by the Commerce Department. Experts are mapping routes, selecting landing fields and sites for aerolight beacons for night flying, and emergency landing fields near cities along the route.

The airways being surveyed extend from Washington to Cleveland, Ohio; Brownsville, Texas, to New Orleans, La.; Fort Worth, Texas, to Brownsville, Texas; Miami, Fla., to Atlanta, Ga.; Portland, Ore., to Pesco, Wash., and from Pesco, to Spokane, Wash.

Approximately 2,000 miles of airways under construction are nearing completion, one of which is international. These established routes will soon extend from New York City to Montreal, Canada; Cleveland to Albany, N.Y.; Kalamazoo, Mich., to Detroit; Bay City, Mich., to Atlanta, Ga.; Chicago to Milwaukee, and Green Bay; St. Louis, to Evansville, Ill.; Salt Lake City, Utah, to Pesco; San Francisco, to Seattle; St. Louis, to Columbus, Ohio, and from Los Angeles to Albuquerque, New Mexico.

The Commerce Department reports that already this year more than 8,000,000 miles have been flown by commercial aviators, compared with the total of about 9,900,000 for the whole of 1928, and about 5,500,000 in 1927.

On August 1, the Department reported, there were 8,569 licensed pilots in the United States, 70 of them being women. Of the women, seven held transport licenses, the highest granted by the Commerce Department, while 11 held limited commercial licenses. The latest information at the department shows 12,324 privately owned and commercial aeroplanes in use in the United States.

THIS YEAR'S CROP IS HALF OF LAST

OTTAWA, Sept. 11—The government crop report yesterday estimated the wheat crop for all Canada at 293,792,000 bushels as against last year's record crop of 566,726,000 bushels. The yield is the lowest since 1914 but the quality is high.

GRAIN ON WAY HERE

First Three Carloads Arrived Early This Week—Elevator Ready

Four more carloads of wheat are on the railway line west of Jasper Park, bound for here, it was learned this afternoon from the offices of the local elevator. When they will arrive is as yet uncertain, though it may be Friday. The first three carloads arrived here at the beginning of this week.

It was stated at the elevator that the house is all ready now to receive grain in quantity. It is a little early as yet to anticipate when the first wheat ship of the season may be here.

ROAD NOT SAFE YET

Hudson Bay Railway Not to Be Used Until Next Spring; Elevator at Churchill

OTTAWA, Sept. 11: — Hon. Charles A. Dunning, minister of railways, announced yesterday, after consulting officials of the Canadian National Railways, that the conclusion had been reached that it would be unwise to establish public passenger or freight service over the new railway to Fort Churchill this fall or to encourage excursion parties. By next spring, the road will be ready for the formal opening.

A 2,000,000 bushel grain elevator is to be built at Fort Churchill instead of the 1,000,000 bushel house originally recommended. The elevator and dock are to be ready for use by the fall of 1931.

Resolution on Peace Outlet Before Chamber of Commerce; Would Build Without Delay

(Special to The Daily News)

EDMONTON, Sept. 11:—After many conferences and much discussion, an Edmonton resolution on Peace River developments was adopted by the resolutions committee and will come before the Canadian Chamber of Commerce convention this afternoon. The resolution as it stands does not quite satisfy Prince Rupert delegates but seems to be the best compromise obtainable. The text is:

"Whereas, the Peace River country is the one great fertile area in Canada still largely undeveloped,

"And whereas, the delegates to this convention, after touring the Peace River country, while impressed with what has been accomplished in so short a time by the people of that country with the aid of the government of Alberta in the way of existing railways, highways, telephones, etc., have been still more deeply impressed with the magnitude of the country, its varied resources and the national importance of its more rapid development.

"And whereas, the major problem of the Peace River country is that of transportation involving a direct outlet to the Pacific Ocean and an extension of the system of branch lines.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved that in the opinion of this convention the Peace River country ought to be regarded as a great national asset and the development of its resources assisted and encouraged by the whole of Canada and that, in addition to an adequate system of branch lines keeping pace with settlement, a direct rail outlet to the Pacific Coast should be constructed without delay by whichever route or to whichever port will best serve the interests of the whole Peace River country."

SIR HENRY IS HOPEFUL

Silver Lining to Clouds in West Says C.N.R. President

MONTREAL, Sept. 11:—"There is a silver lining to the cloud insofar as the situation in Western Canada is concerned," stated Sir Henry W. Thornton, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, on returning to his office at system headquarters here yesterday after a tour which took him throughout the western provinces, and to the Pacific Coast.

"While it is true that the west is not harvesting such a voluminous crop as in average years, and it is also true that some farmers and some districts are hard hit, it must be remembered that there are districts and farmers in those districts who have harvested better crops than they anticipated a short time ago, and who are reaping the benefit of higher prices for the grain which they have produced in 1929."

"The west has gone ahead and is going ahead, building up on a basis of sound progress and one going from the east cannot fail to be impressed with the same development which is taking place on all sides. On the Pacific Coast in particular, the development of trade with the Orient is being closely followed, and there is also a keen realization of the fact that Canada is sharing and will share in the future development of that trade," Sir Henry said, concluding with the statement that he had inspected the properties of the system in each of the provinces visited and he had found things in general in good condition everywhere with the officers and employees keenly on the alert to provide the best service to C.N.R. patrons.

DEPENDS ON MACDONALD

Whether or Not Premier King Comes West This Fall

OTTAWA, Sept. 11.—The western trip of Premier King in the fall depends upon the plans of Premier Ramsay Macdonald.

Mr. King stated last night that, if the British premier visited Washington, he would come to Ottawa, and if Mr. Macdonald came, he said he wanted to be in Ottawa to receive him and discuss certain matters of interest to Canada and Great Britain.

Greater Imperial Trade Urged by President of Commerce Chamber

Would Have Government Meet Suggestion of Hon. J. H. Thomas and Buy More Goods in Great Britain

EDMONTON, Sept. 11:—Speaking on the subject of "Our Economic Partnership," William M. Birks, in his presidential address before the Canadian Chamber of Commerce convention here today, urged greater intra-Empire trade. Mr. Birks said that, in total trade, Canada ranked fifth among the nations, was third in favorable balance of trade and, if taken in that respect on per capita basis, was first in the world.

Empire free trade, Mr. Birks felt, was not yet practicable but, freer trade was, if at the same time the economic blockade to the south was faced.

Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas tells us with all courtesy that we buy from the United States four dollars worth of goods for every dollar's worth we buy from the Motherland. It is for us to talk politics but should we not ask our government to reduce this discrepency? Doubtless we cannot cut the four dollars to one dollar but shall we say: "reduce it to two dollars?"

One Big Company to Control Radio Throughout Dominion Recommended By Commission

OTTAWA, Sept. 11:—Radio broadcasting in Canada should be controlled and operated by a government owned company, is in effect the chief recommendation of the Royal Commission to investigate radio in the Dominion which presented its report to the minister of marine and fisheries today. The company as suggested would have somewhat similar relations to the government as have the Canadian National Railways, but would be distinct from that organization. It would have 12 members, three representing more particularly the Dominion government and one representing each of the provincial governments.

Recommendations provide that the task of supplying programs would fall upon the provincial representatives of the company. The present owners of broadcasting stations would be recompensed when their plants were taken over or dismantled.

Expenses necessary for the operation and maintainance of the new system should be met by license fees, rental of time on programs and employing indirect advertising.

Sub-stations from Dominion government high power stations would be erected across Canada. As a nucleus seven 50,000 watt stations should be provided to give good reception over the entire settled portions of the Dominion.

The report will first be submitted to technical officers of the department and later go before the cabinet. Important legislation would be required to put it into effect.

THE WHEAT SEASON

With the first wheat of the season from the Peace River valley reported on its way, the Alberta Wheat Pool's elevator will soon begin to function once more and it is to be hoped that better use of the plant is made this winter than last.

There has been an inclination among some to say that the operation of the e'evator means little to Prince Rupert and grain shipping not much to the port. Last winter when the elevator was used little, there were many unemployed here who said they were workless because the elevator was not running. There are few who would say that the difference between one hundred men working and one hundred men idle does not mean something to Prince Rupert.

While there is reason to hope that the pool will use this port for shipping grain more this season than last, Prince Rupert should do a'l in its power to ensure that as much wheat as possible is shipped this way and that the elevator is not allowed to stand idle when held by an organization that has it in its power to use it if it would.

Even if it does rain now, Prince Rupert people cannot say that they have not had at least a little taste of summer.

ALASKA TO CHILE

While Premier Tolmie is busying himself with the project of a road through British Columbia and the Yukon which would connect up the United States and Alaska, it is interesting to note that a west coast Pan-American highway—from British Columbia to Santiago, Chile—is the hope of the Automobile Club of Southern California. The route from Vancouver to San Diego is an accomplished fact, and correspondence has been entered into with the governments of the nations through which such a highway would pass in an effort to bring an agreement.

The auto club's plan provides for a mutual agreement between the powers along the route to the end that roadwork which is projected in the interim will be considered as possible links of the great thoroughfare. The west coast project would extend from San Diego to Nogales, Ariz., thence into Guaymas, Mazatlan, Guadalajara and Mexico City. Following through Guatemala, San Salvador, Managua, San Jose and Panama, it would swing to the Pacific Coast again through the principal cities to Valparaiso and Santiago.

There are severe engineering problems to be overcome, as the proposed route traverses tropical jungles, great mountains and stretches of moving sand, but these are not more difficult, the automobile club officials assert, than have been overcome in construction of California highways. Financing, asserts Ed Lyman, president of the club, can be accomplished in various ways—by subsidiaries, toll roads and governmental operation.

By the time this Alaska-Chile road is built, we hope Prince Rupert's connection with it may have been provided.

TREMENDOUS UNDERTAKING

There would also be difficulties on the northern road which could probably be as readily overcome as those on the southern end. North America has been making such great strides with her road building these last few years, that this A'aska-Chile road may not be a child of vision give a highway that for length, variety and uniqueness for so many years.

The result of the northern and southern projects would would be unparalleled in the world.

The whole thing will attract universal attention.

RECIPROCITY PACT URGED

EXCHANGE IDEAS

Community of Business Not Local or National but World-Wide

EDMONTON, Alta., Sept. 12—A new reciprocity pact between Canada and the United States—a pact for the exchange of ideas and solutions of problems—was proposed by William Butterworth president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States who brought greetings from his own organization to the Canadian Chamber. Addressing the gathering of Canadian business men, Mr. Butterworth said he believed the community of business interests was not local or even national but rather reached across occupational and geographical boundaries and even across seas.

The increasing intimacy between the Dominion and the United States, the flux of population, products and social development which ignored the "invisible" boundary, without in any degree changing it in the political sense, became more and more, he said, an international phenomenon since the World War gave to the Dominion of Canada an opportunity to attain a new dignity and new importance.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier had said that the 20th century would belong to Canada. Although this phrophesy was being fulfiled in a measure there had in fact been no abatement in the forward march of the United States toward the achievement of their great aspirations.

"May I venture to say," continued Mr. Butterworth, "that the first quarter of the century has been not so much Caanda's nor yet that of the United States, as it has been that of North America—an epoch, if you please, in which North American progress and development have literally amazed the world.

Dominant Role

"Life in both our countries is becoming increasingly national. Canada and the United States have developed into distinctive, inter-dependent, national economic units. What affects one member of these economic units is now merely the concern of the particular group immediately affected, but is of very intimate interest to all. Our countries have come to the point in their economic development where the individual business man—Canadian or American—must think in terms of his relationship to the broad sweep of national and international conditions. No man today is big enough; no man is strong enough to go blindly forward without regard to what the rest of the business world is doing and planning.

"The need and value of a widely representative business viewpoint is constantly impressed upon us. We are getting a broader vision of business teamwork. We are more and more realizing that to meet the issues of economic North America we must not only work together within our respective group organizations—our associations of manufacturers, and bankers and distributors—but we must unite in a broader cooperation in which every group and every business deliberately relates its expansion and development to the growth, stabilization, and prosperity of our respective nations as a whole. In both our countries the earlier philosophy of self-sufficiency makes way for coordination and adaptation to a rapidly changing economic world.

Urges Team Work

"To grapple with these multiple and perplexing problems business and industry is engaged in group activity and joint study for the benefit of all. This team play finds its ultimate and logical expression in our respective National Chambers of Commerce, conceived in the thought that whatsoever is for the good of the country is good for the business of that country."

News of the Mines

AROUND PRINCE RUPERT

Province Writer Tells of Stewart Camp, Describing Marmot and Salmon River Operations

The outcome of the work being carried out by the Premier company on the three groups of claims, the Silverado, Porter Idaho and Prosperity, of which they secured control ear'ier this year, is being watched with a great degree of interest not only by people in the Portland Canal area, but by mining men genera'ly, writes Reece H Hague in the Vancouver Province.

These properties are all situated north of the Marmot River and lying east of Stewart.

Operations are being carried on continually on the Silverado and a lower crosscut is being driven, to encounter veins discovered at a higher elevation on their downward continuation. While ore has been encountered in shutes and the outlook appears promising the property has not yet definitely passed the prospect stage. A Diesel plant which has been installed on the Marmot River for the purpose of transmitting power to the Porter Idaho and Prosperity, situated east of the Silverado, will also supply power for the last mentioned property.

Discussing work on the Silverado, Porter-Idaho and Prosperity. Mr. Dale L. Pitt, general manager of the Premier, informed me that a regular programme of development was being carried out and that the tramway has been constructed from the Porter-Idaho to the Marmot River, would be in operation about the beginning of September.

Several thousand feet of work have been done on both the Porter-Idaho and the Prosperity, the veins on the latter property being a continuation of those on the Porter-Idaho.

Mr. Pitt said that ore which had been sacked on both properties would be shipped immediately the tramway was in operation and that when they got to hauling ore they would know whether they had mines or prospects.

"We have been diligently working on both properties," said Mr. Pitt, "and they will probably be small producers. The country does not lend itself to diamond drilling, and on which we have put in many miles of diamond drill holes."

Work is being carried out on several other properties adjacent to the Premier holdings in the Marmot River section, and in some instances very promising results are being attained.

Extremely high grade ore carrying native silver has been secured from the Melvin group, which is being developed by the Marmot Metals Mining Company Ltd., who have obtained control from the Melvin syndicate.

On both the north and south side of the Marmot River are a number of properties on which interesting discoveries have been made. On the majority of them work has been principally confined this year to prospecting, but a certain amount of development has been carried out in one or two instances.

One of the most attractive localities in the district is that known as the Salmon River section. The fact that it is in this section that the Premier mine is situated makes it particularly interesting.

The Big Missouri property, controlled by the Consolidated, has, of course, attracted a great deal of attention and been the subject of many false rumors, but is at present still in the prospect stage. Isolated good-grade values have been found over narrow widths in the extensive workings which have been carried out in the property, but no consistent zones of commercial ore had been developed up to the time I left the district.

Consolidated engineers were examining the Silver Basin property, adjoining the Big Missouri, in August, and an examination was also being made of the Woodbine property.

Forty men were at work on the B. C. Silver property, adjoining the Premier on the north, when I visited the mine. D. H. Rae, superintendent of the mine, informed me that work was being confined at present almost entirely to the southern part of the property near the boundary of the Premier.

Interests connected with the Unicorn property, adjoining the Big Missouri, informed me that a tunnel was being driven in to nice looking ore, but I was unable to visit the property.

Two shifts are at work on the Northern Light property, which is interestingly situated on Cascade creek, being adjoined on the west by the Woodbine and the Premier extension and on the south and east by the Premier, B. C. Silver and Sebakwe.

Hand drilling is being carried out by a small group of men on the Bush Cobalt property, adjoining Sebakwe on the west. Ore on a number of these properties in the Salmon River area is identical with that on which the Premier has been operating for a number of years, but unfortunately in most cases the values secured as yet have not been high.

COURTS BLAMED FOR DIVORCES

Lawyers Also Encouraging Them Judge Charges

DENVER, COL., Sept. 11—Blame for the large number of divorces in Denver was laid to Denver courts and attorneys by District Judge George F. Dunklee.

"There are too many divorces—the courts and attorneys are helping them along," Judge Dunklee told a crowded courtroom.

The court's comment came during hearing of a petition of Elfreda Smith for temporary alimony from Norman B. Smith, train foreman for the Colorado & Southern railroad.

Smith, acting as his own counsel, complained he had been ordered out of his own home by the man who served him with notice of a separate maintenance suit.

"It's things like this that break up homes," the court continued. "There have been too many cases where a wife swears out an affidavit and the courts, without looking into the matter, issue orders that bring about conditions such as this.

"There has been abuse by attorneys and abuse by the courts. Some women imagine they can sue for divorce and obtain a home and a lot of money. Then comes the result—they wreck their own lives and the lives of their children.

"I have followed the history of these divorce cases. They all tu out the same. The husband pa for a little while and the childr remain with the mother. Then t husband leaves the state and a mony payments cease. This is t cause of the over-crowded orph asylums."

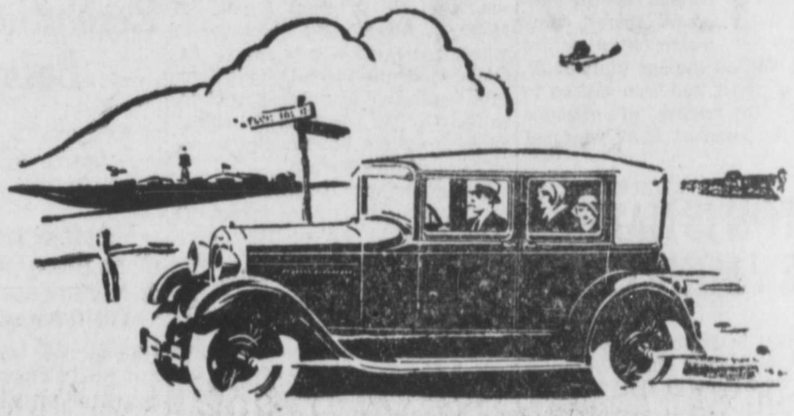
You'll like the Easy-Riding Comfort of the Ford Car



THE Ford car is one of the easiest-riding cars on the road because of its low centre of gravity, minimum unsprung weight, Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers and the unique construction of its transverse springs.

Furthermore, you are as comfortable in mind as in body when you drive the Ford car. You have confidence in the performance of the car because you know something of the quality that has been built into it.

Remeber these two points when you select your next car. These are combined to an uncommon degree in the Ford.

Come in and drive a Ford car yourself through thickest traffic, up steepest hills, over roughest roads. A thirty-minute demonstration will convince you that there is nothing quite like it anywhere in simplicity of design, quality, price and performance.

Wise Babies Select Intelligent Mothers
Mary Blake

I really marvel at the young mothers of today. Their wisdom is nothing short of astounding. No child of theirs is permitted, in spite of the most doting of grandparents, to play the role of new toy for the diversion of the family. The rights of the modern baby are firmly respected, his routine sternly maintained. His baths and feedings and sleep follow each other in the most orderly precision. No wonder he is a calm, healthy, good-natured baby, easy to care for, steady in gains.

I admit that there are exceptions, because not every baby gets a perfect start. When there are feeding problems to be solved, the mother's responsibilities are heavy. But baby specialists today have such a broad knowledge that it usually takes but a little while to discover the right food for any infant.

The best milk for your baby

On one thing you will find that all doctors agree. For the baby just starting out in life, breast-feeding is a great advantage over artificial feeding.

If your baby must be artificially fed, let your doctor be the one to advise you. With his wide experience with many babies, he can guide you to the right substitute for mother's milk.

He may advise you to use Carnation Milk in the feeding of your baby. If he does, you can feel well satisfied with his choice. He has selected it for very definite reasons. The first is that it is safe. Milk for the feeding of a tiny infant must be of the purest quality, produced under the most sanitary conditions. It must be whole milk, sufficiently rich in butter fats. Even if you can find such qualifications in bottled milk, the quality is almost sure to vary from day to day.

The quality is of controlled uniformity; the butter-fat content is never less than 7.8 per cent.

In addition to its purity and uniformly high quality, Carnation Milk offers another advantage. It is so carefully sterilized, so free from germs and bacteria, and sealed so perfectly against contamination that no further pasteurization is necessary. You merely add pure water to replace that removed in evaporation and you have pure milk.

A very important advantage which Carnation offers in the feeding of infants is its easy digestibility, due to the "homogenization" which breaks up the fat globules into extremely minute particles, very readily assimilable even by a baby with a weak digestion.

Of course the feeding of babies is but one of Carnation Milk's important uses. It is wonderful for all cooking, better in results, economical, convenient and dependable. Send for free Carnation Cook Book. Address Carnation Milk Products Co., Limited, 134 Abbott Street, Vancouver, B.C.

Safe For Babies

PRODUCED IN CANADA

In the feeding of infants, Carnation Milk is a safe choice. It is whole milk of high quality—pure, sterilized, uniform—and available anywhere. Because it is "homogenized", it is particularly easy of digestion. Ask your doctor.

The Challenge

Moffett twisted his lips into an ugly sneer and looked in the other direction. Dale glanced out of the window and saw a man with a small black bag crossing the lawn. He went to the door and directed the physician to the room where Paul Ainsworth was. Then he went back and resumed his search of Dr. Moffett's bag. Most of the remaining articles were of little interest, but a murmur of admiration escaped him as he drew out a rope of pearls. He held them at arm's length and inspected them in the light of the candles.

"Gorgeous!" he said softly. And then his lips twisted into a comical smile. "They are the same ones, of course. It was very clearly arranged, Moffett. And it was one of the finest compliments I have ever received. You wouldn't have gone to such lengths unless you had been very much afraid of me."

"I was," Moffett grumbled, and there was a glint of genuine admiration in the hateful gaze he fixed on Dale.

"I think I understand Summers was searching the house. You placed the pearls in the aperture in the wainscoting, knowing he would find them there. Then, very deftly, you worked his mind around to the point where he was ready to accept the idea that they had been left there by the murderer and that the murderer would come back for them. So you and Summers went to work and baited the trap. You were in no danger of losing your pearls, for the house was being carefully watched. But tell me this, Moffett. The trap was set for me, of course, but how did you know I was going to walk into it?"

"You did," said Moffett with a shrug.

"But how did you know?" Dale insisted.

Moffett grinned insolently. "Remember the talk we had in the library of my house? You came there to inquire for Dr. Moffett." He chuckled contemptuously. "I knew then that you were the Picaroon, but I didn't let on that I knew."

"And how did you know?"

"I had known it for a month." There was a trace of malicious glee in the doctor's voice. "You visited my house one night—in your role of the Picaroon, of course. You didn't find anything of particular value, and so you went away, thinking that your visit had passed unnoticed. It hadn't though. That night you were followed to your residence. A simple process of putting two and two together made it evident that Martin Dale was the Picaroon."

"I see. A rather obvious deduction. But the obvious isn't always true. Well, go on and explain about the trap."

"As I said, I knew you were the Picaroon the day you came to my house inquiring for Dr. Moffett. I caught you stealing a glance now and then at the point where there appeared to be a defect in the wainscoting. Something in your eyes told me you would be back and investigate."

"Not bad," said Dale. "If the frame-up had worked you would not only have gotten rid of a bothersome meddler, but you would also have made doubly sure that no suspicion would attach to you in connection with Miss Conway's death. Just one more question. Moffett—or Ferryman, whichever you prefer. Did these pearls really belong to your wife?"

"They did," said Moffett shortly.

"And your wife and Miss Conway were the same person?"

With a shrug the doctor evinced his determination to answer no more questions.

Dale laughed. "That's one time the Picaroon took the bobby prize. He wouldn't keep the pearls because he discovered they were Ferryman's property. It never occurred to him—bless his simple soul—that Ferryman and Dr. Moffett might be one and the same." He laughed again, a little ruefully. "But it was a neat frame-up, Moffett—much cleverer than the second one. The second one didn't do you justice. Joan of Arc imitated your wife's voice fairly well——"

"Joan of Arc. I believe you call her Annie. Great little actress! You persuaded her to imitate your wife's voice and pour those horrible cries and groans into the dictaphone. It wasn't badly done, but you forgot the thunder."

"No, it's the truth. Annie told me I had a talk with her after I telephoned Summers. What's more, she is willing to tell the police all she knows."

"It's all your fault," he bleated. "Annie and I only did what you told us."

"You rat!" Moffett remarked.

Dale fixed his longing eyes on the pearls again. One by one he let them slip gently through his fingers.

"Where did you steal them, Moffett?" he asked softly.

"Steal them? Haven't I just told you they belonged to my wife?"

"Yes, but you stole them for her, didn't you? Or, if you didn't literally steal them, you got them by extortion. You're clever at that. If they were your legitimate property, you would leave them in a safe-deposit vault instead of lugging them along wherever you go. Where did you get them, Moffett?"

The doctor merely gave him a malevolent glance.

"There's one thing you can tell me without incriminating yourself," Dale suggested. "It's worrying me a lot. Has Ainsworth ever seen you face to face?"

Moffett continued to glare and said nothing.

"I owe that chap a humble apology," Dale murmured. "Can't get the hang of it even now, but I certainly got things twisted. You can generally trust a woman's instincts, Moffett. They're more reliable than our most brilliant deductions. Ah, ——"

Adele came into the room and stepped up to Dale.

"Aren't they lovely!" she exclaimed, gazing at the pearls he was fondling. Here eyes shone.

"How is the patient?" Dale asked.

"He is sleeping now. The doctor says it isn't at all serious, but that we mustn't disturb him for a while."

"Do you think he will ever forgive me?"

"Forgive you for what? For disliking him?"

"No, it wasn't dislike. I simply got the wrong slant on him at the start. I believe you were right when you said I would like him, when I got to know him better. What I can't forgive myself is getting the crazy notion into my head that he was Doctor Moffett."

"You actually thought that?"

"I did," was Dale's shamefaced confession. "That's what prejudiced me against him at the start. And he seeing I was prejudiced against him, treated me as I deserved. I don't understand it all yet, but I understand just enough to realize that I've been a fool."

"You have been a wonderful friend!" she exclaimed softly. Her big, shining eyes were full upon him. Her lips quivered a little with the depth of her feelings. "How can I ever repay you?"

"I've been repaid," said Dale. "You have paid me this moment—with that look. If you wish to pay me a little extra, break Ainsworth of his unpleasant habit of shadowing people on the streets. It's embarrassing sometimes."

"Did he shadow you?"

"Ask him," said Dale lightly, and in the same instant he slipped the rope of pearls around her neck. "That's where they belong."

"How exquisite!" she exclaimed.

"You certainly are!"

"The pearls," said Dale, looking at her with soft, wistful eyes, "aren't half so exquisite off you as on you."

Her warm, smiling eyes went from the pearls to his face. With a little sigh of ecstasy she removed the ornament from her throat.

"Where did you find them?"

"In Moffett's bag. He says they belonged to his wife. He will never have any use for them. They are not in fashion where he is going." He looked at the pearls out of eyes full of admiration and a trace of desire.

"Mr. Picaroon," she whispered, searching his face, "you are not tempted?"

"No." He dropped the pearls with a sigh. "This is one of the nights when the Picaroon is immune of the window. "Ah, here comes against temptation." He glanced out Summers!"

A stocky figure was coming across the lawn toward the house. Dale went to the door and held it open. Summers bustled in with a sour and determined air.

"What's this? A joke?" he grumbled. He bowed stiffly before Adele

"Is it?" asked Summers doubtfully. "That was a neat get-away you made tonight, Dale—one of the neatest I ever saw. But I'm not through with you yet. You have a lot to explain. If you've called me out here on a wild-goose chase—"

"Calm yourself, Summers." Dale waved his hand airly toward the window. "I think you have met Mr. Ferryman, alias Dr. Moffett, the perpetrator of the Bank Street murder."

"What?" asked Summers in a dull, hollow voice. He stared at Ferryman, noticed his bound hands and feet, fixed Axelson with a passing glance, and then he stared at Dale. "Say that again."

Sport Chat

There is little chance of the Chicago Cubs or the Philadelphia Athletics blowing between now and October 8, World Series date, so fans may feel quite safe in commencing to pick their favorites now. If these are not the finallists it is not because they have not as long leads as pennant winners usually have four weeks before the close. The World Series is going to be fought on different ground altogether this year and that is interesting. It is a long time since the Cubs have brought a pennant to Chicago and longer since the Mackmen did. Both teams have enthusiastic supporters but, if we are any judge of the general tenor of opinion, the Athletics are the bigger favorites. Anyhow, it should be interesting and will give the fans something to speculate about during the coming month.

Purses of Johnny Risko and "K. O." Christner, whose scheduled twelve-round bout was stopped in the ninth round last week when Referee Pasty Haley declared "K O." Christner the winner on a foul, are held up by the Cleveland boxing commission. The commission announced that its action was due to fouling tactics of both fighters and that they would not be paid pending a commission meeting. Risko said he had planned to retire after the fight, but now feels good for five or six years more. He asserted that he would "fight Christner again next week," if permitted. Christner had about $7,100 and Risko $7,800 due for the fight.

Thistles Capture Mobley Cup By Defeating Regiment Four to One in Hard Fought Match

Beating the Regiment by a score of four to one, Thistles last night cinched the Mobley Cup, emblematic of city league football championship. As the ownership of the trophy has thus been settled for the year and the evenings are getting short, it is hardly likely that a few postponed games outstanding in the league series will now be played.

Last night's match was a hard fought affair with the Regiment putting up better play than the score might indicate. This does not say, however, that the Thistles were not value for a comfortable win.

The first half ended with the score standing three to nil for the Thistles. Though they pressed valiantly, the soldiers were unable to tally. Jack Campbell, Dave Jack and Charlie Baptie were the scorers for the Thistles in this period.

In the second half, Percy Tinker made the only score for the Regiment while Bill Mitchell added another for the Scots.

The players were:

Regiment—Brand; Burdette and Tasker; Edgecumbe, Haddon and Kelsey; Pierce, Russell, Wilson, Tinker and Norrington.

Thistles—Smith; Haig and Erskine; G. Mitchell, T. Haddon and Woods; Macdonald, W. Mitchell, Baptie, Jack and Campbell.

	W.	L	Pts
Thistles	4	0	8
Empress	2	2	4
Regiment	0	4	0

JASPER GOLF NEARS FINAL

Gardiner White Led Field in Qualifying Round Yesterday

JASPER PARK LODGE, Sept. 11:—Out of a field of 62 contestants, 16 players qualified yesterday for the Jasper Park Lodge Totem Pole Trophy finals, and the first eliminating round will be fought out today. Gardiner White, runner-up in the Canadian Amateur championships to Eddie Held, led the field in the qualifying round with a score of 79. Although the day and the course were ideal for perfect golf, White experienced difficulties at times and, despite a fairly steady brand of golf, he took 40 going out and 39 coming back. The "breaks" were against him, however, and with a little luck he would easily have clipped another six off his score. The features of his game were the long distances secured off the tee and the accuracy with which he played his second shots. V. Newhall of Calgary was runner-up with a card of 81. At the halfway mark Newhall led field with a 38, but coming in he wasn't so steady and required a 43. Of the 16 remaining in the running, Calgary had the biggest representation, there being no less than five players from the Southern Alberta city. New York and Winnipeg each have a pair of contenders, Vancouver has three, while Edmonton, Montreal, Victoria and Toronto have one apiece.

MORE HOMERS BY BABE RUTH

Poled Out Circuit Clout With Bases Loaded—Tigers and Yanks Divide Honors

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Babe Ruth hit his forty-fourth homer of the season in the ninth inning of the second game of a double header against Detroit yesterday with the bases full and tied the score nine all. The Yanks put over another run to win. New York lost the opener although Ruth hit his forty-third homer in the fourth inning with the bases empty.

After the Athletics had beaten Cleveland in the first game, the second was postponed after three and a half innings with Philadelphia leading two to one.

St. Louis Browns took a double header from Boston. There was rain at Washington where Chicago was to have played.

In the National League, New York Giants lost their last game of the season in Cincinnati and Pittsburgh nosed out Brooklyn.

Yesterday's scores:

LEAGUE RADIO STATION PLAN

Would Be Used For Communication Between Geneva and Countries Threatened By War

GENEVA, Sept. 11:—The League of Nations Assembly meeting this month will consider the scheme for a league wireless station submitted recently by the committee of Communications and Transit. This station is intended primarily to ensure independent communication for the league in an emergency.

The committee's report pointed out that the station would allow for permanent communication being maintained between the seat of the league and countries threatened by a conflict. It would ensure direct communications between the Secretariat or the delegations at Geneva and the government of most of the State Members of the league or any special missions which the council might send to study the situation on the spot in times of emergency. It would, in general, make it possible to avoid utilising the service of third countries, and would ensure for the league the same measure of independence with regard to its telegraphic communications as is ensured to the governments of the various countries by their national wireless stations.

As, in times of emergency, the laws of most countries provide for national communications to come under the military or naval authorities, the existence of such a station would be the only means of rendering communications connected with the work of the league independent of these authorities. It would also ensure more rapid communications in times of emergency, as at such times it is inevitable that national communications should be devoted primarily to meeting the requirements of national defence in the various countries.

In normal times, the station would be responsible for the service of telegrams between the Secretary General and the delegations and as many non-European governments as possible. It would be of the same type as the large stations recently constructed that is, would consist of a short-wave wireless post with with two transmitters equipped for providing the most efficient telegraph service yet evolved with the various stations of the world, European and non-European. It would also be able to effect long-distance radiotelegraphic communications. Most of the stations in the world are now equipped for communication with a station of this kind.

THRILL GIVEN YOUNG ACTRESS

LONDON, ENG., Sept. 11 — Miss Muriel Martin-Harvey, daughter of Sir John Martin-Harvey and Lady Martin-Harvey (Miss de Silva), is also an actress and while playing in the "creepy" play, "Blackmail," at the Chelsea Palace here recently was given a creepy experience at home one night by a burglar.

Awake, she saw the door of her bedroom, which is at the end of a passage, open slowly, and, rubbing her eyes, she sat up. She thought, or tried to think that it was her father. The figure entered stealthily. "Yes, daddy, what is it?" said Miss Martin-Harvey though a bit doubtfully.

When the door was slowly closed and the key, which is on the outside, was turned. Sir John and Lady Martin-Harvey were then awakened by a piercing scream, and when they reached her door they found their daughter had gone into another bedroom which leads from her own. Still not quite realizing what had happened, she cried, "why am I locked in?" It was not till the door was unlocked that she grasped what had happened.

A glance downstairs revealed many traces of burglars. Drawers had been rifled, even letters in the hall searched for cheques. All Miss Martin-Harvey's jewellery which was in a trunk in the study, was taken, and Sir John lost an autographed silver salver given to him in 1914 by the members of the caste of "The Only Way." He hopes it will be returned, as its value is chiefly sentimental.

Sir John made the following appeal to the burglars in conection with the silver salver: "I should be obliged if they would send it back, because it is of no value to any but myself except as old silver and the gurglars would not get much for it even at that. I hope they will be gentlemen enough to send it back to me, because I attach great sentimenal value to it, owing to the cherished associations with which it is connected."

DIOCESE HAS ITS JUBILEE

Special Anglican Services to Be Held With Distinguished Visitors

The Diocese of Caledonia, of which Prince Rupert is the See, is holding its jubilee this year. Although the Church of England started work on the north coast of B.C. in 1857, it was not until 1879 that it was set apart as a diocese and a bishop appointed.

The first bishop was Dr. Ridley and the second was the late Archbishop DuVernet, who was succeeded just a year ago by Bishop Rix.

To mark the jubilee very special services are being held in the near future. Advantage is being taken of the presence in the diocese of the Anglican National Commission consisting of three of the most distinguished men in this Canadian church—The Rt. Rev. Derwin Trevor Owen D.D., The Bishop of Niagara; The Rev. Canon Gould M.D., D.C.L., of Toronto, and Dr. Gisborne of Ottawa. Special services and conferences are being held in various parts of the diocese.

The meeting which will be of interest to Prince Rupert church people and others, will be first of all a dinner at the Commodore Cafe on Friday, Sept. 20, when the above mentioned visitors and others will be the speakers. On Sunday, Sept. 22, there will be special services at St. Andrew's Cathedral, St. Peter's (Seal Cove), the Japanese Mission and also at Metlakatla, the mother church of the diocese.

PRINCE RUPERT LATE

Late in leaving Vancouver and further delayed by fog while coming up the coast, C.N.R. steamer Prince Rupert, Capt. D. Donald, did not arrive in port until three o'clock this afternoon from Vancouver, Powell River and Ocean Falls. The train for the east was held until she arrived. Now on fall schedule, the Prince Rupert is scheduled to leave at 4 o'clock this afternoon for Anyox and Stewart, returning here at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening and sailing south at 10 p.m.

OLD CRUISERS WILL BE SOLD

Thirteen Obsolete United States Warships to be Auctioned

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 11 — Thirteen obsolete navy cruisers, all of which are about a quarter of a century old, are soon to be placed on the auction block. Secretary Adams has approved the recommendations of the naval board of inspection and survey that six of the cruisers which have been out of commission some time be offered for sale for junk or any other purpose.

Earlier in the year, the Navy Department authorized the sale of the old cruisers Salem, Albany and New Orleans. They were ships which at one time during the early part of the twentieth century were the pride of the American fleet. Of the thirteen to be sold, the York, now idle in the Philadelphia navy yard, is the youngest. It was commissioned in 1908 as the Chester, while Theodore Roosevelt was president. The others to be sold are the Birmingham and St. Louis, also at the Philadelphia yard; the Chattanooga and the Des Moines, at the Portsmouth, New Hampshire navy yard, and the Charleston, at the Puget Sound, Washington, navy yard.

The navy also has out of commission the old cruisers Charlotte, Frederick, Huntington, Huron, Missoula, and Pueblo, as well as the Olympia, which is considered a relic because she was Admiral Dewey's flagship in the Spanish-American war, and is expected to be preserved because of her historical interest. The Cleveland, now at Mobile, Alabama, is also obsolete and is to be de-commissioned.

GYRO CLUB SPEAKER

Dr. W. G. Alexander, visiting phrenologist, was the speaker at the luncheon of the Prince Rupert Gyro Club in the Commodore Cafe today, Joe Greer, president, in the chair. The club also took up certain business matters.

Joe Brown will leave on tomorrow morning's train for Montreal where on September 20 he will embark aboard the steamer Athenia for Glasgow enroute to his old home at Musselboro, near Edinburgh, Scotland, where he will pay a visit.

LATEST PLAY OF G. B. SHAW

"The Apple Cart" Well Received in England Deals With Odd Subject

LONDON, Sept. 11.—With one exception, all London newspapers speak enthusiastically of George Bernard Shaw's "The Apple Cart," produced for the first time in English at the Malvern Festival of Shavian plays organized by Sir Harry Jackson. Actually, the first performance of the play was given recently in Warsaw, Poland, so keen followers of the drama already knew something about it.

The play, in brief, is an argument on the state of things 30 years from now, when the omnipotence of Socialism is unchecked save for the formal veto of the King. There is an hour's discussion between the King and his ministers—an hour of Shaw's wit and satire in its most pungent form. Later the American ambassador arrives with the news his country has torn up the Declaration of Independence, and will rejoin the British Commonwealth if the King takes the title of emperor.

King Dismays Cabinet

And finally the King announces his intention to become a commoner and stand for parliament; forming a party and possibly a government. His Majesty is so popular that the prospect dismays the cabinet. The prime minister announces, "everything will go on as before." And on this note the play finishes, which seems to be sufficient commentary in itself upon Shaw's opinion of Socialism in its ultimate concousion.

The moral of the play seems to be that big business wields the real power in the country, no matter who controls the political machine. One critic, while generously acknowledging the play's cleverness, shrewdly doubts if it will have such a success as Saint Joan, for it is a political and social treatise entirely and has no human interest element.

Was Never Reviewed

One point that seems to have escaped the critics is the chance in regard to staging anything even remotely connected with the English court. When Gilbert and Sullivan were producing their immortal series of operas, they wrote one caller "Utopia Limited," in which there were allusions and even burlesque depictions of court ceremonies and general etiquette.

The music of this Gilbert and Sullivan opera was generally voted as agreeable as any Sullivan ever composed. Yet the opera had but a short run and has never been revived. King Edward, then Prince of Wales, went to see it once only, and no other member of the royal family paid it a second visit. Certain scenes in it were said to have given grave offense in high quarters.

In view of all this, the treatment of royalty and the court in Shaw's latest play is doubly interesting.

Church of England Still Uses Latin

Was Used Recently in Convocation of Canterbury at St. Paul's Cathedral

LONDON, Sept. 11—It may surprise some good Anglicans to learn that at least one of the Occasional Forms of Service of the Church of England is still conducted in Latin.

This was used the other day at the opening of the Convocation of Convocation of Canterbury. The service was held at St. Paul's Cathedral and followed the order which is always used at the opening of Convocation immediately following a general election.

The processional psalms, the Litany, Anthem and Benediction were all sung or said in Latin, and the Dean of St. Paul's delivered his sermon in the same tongue. The holding of this service goes back to the earliest days of parliamentary history.
