DEBTS AND INTERESTS DISCUSSED

Problem Will be Studied by Committe of House of Commons At This Session

OTTAWA, Feb. 7:—The banking and commerce committee of the House will study the problem of private debts and interest rates, it was agreed yesterday by Hon. Hugh Guthrie. He supported a motion by Alfred Speakman, U. F. A. member for Red Deer, which asked the support of the government to submit to a committee the problem of debts and interest rates now weighing so heavily on the people of Canada.

CLASH WITH POLICE WAS STRENUOUS

Telling of the clash at Anyox between the men and the police the Anyox Herald which arrived today says:

"The fight occurred when about 400 miners left their quarters at 6:30 a.m. to go to the Beach for picket duty. At the foot of the hill on the mine road they were barred by a small number of police. A fight ensued and although the police were greatly outnumbered and put up a strong resistance they could not stop the progress of the miners. The two injured policemen were surrounded and stricken to the ground. They are badly bruised and cut, but not seriously injured. One miner, it is said, will probably lose an eye. The others, it is thought, are not seriously hurt.

The miners all wore their underground safety helmets, which being composed of tough fibre, proved a great protection from blows.

They arrived at the Beach at 7 a.m. and everyone going on shift was stopped. The whole Anyox plant is now completely closed except a portion of the power house.

ANYOX, Feb. 7:—Four men were arrested here yesterday in connection with the clash between strikers and police which took place a few days ago. They are being taken south aboard the Malaspina.

Revolt Flamed Into a Riot Under Official Neglect

OTTAWA, Feb. 7:—According to the report of Superintendent D. M. Ormond of the penitentiaries branch tabled in the House, the embers of the revolt which flamed last October had been smouldering into a riot at Kingston Penitentiary for many years.

Criticism of Inspector Gilbert Smith, acting warden of the penitentiary at the time of the riots featured the reports. On investigation it would appear that for many years the wardens and staff "must have gradually permitted lethargy to overcome them."

Ice Interference With Activities at Anyox Where Granby Bay is Frozen and Operation of Planes Difficult

Plane Smashed As It Landed in Harbor and Men Rescued By Granby Boat—Engine of Junkers Plane Went Wrong and Refused to Work

A large part of Granby Bay is frozen up and it is very difficult to get in and out of there just now, according to Paul Armour who arrived here this morning with the Salvage Princess. There are six planes in the harbor and two steamers, the Mogul and the Griffco. Several of the planes were to have left this morning for Vancouver but they seemed to be frozen in.

Captain Armour said that he picked up the big Junkers plane at Kincolith where the men had been working all night trying to get the engine to work. He waited for them some time and eventually took them in tow and left them at Anyox.

Captain Armour reported that the plane operated by Jack McConachie at Anyox had been smashed. The struts had been torn off and the pontoons smashed. The men aboard climbed out on to the wings and were picked up by the Granby boat.

When Captain Armour left Anyox everything seemed quiet. Seven men had been sent out on the Catala and he understood some of the ringleaders were being brought to Prince Rupert.

New British Offer to Pay Lump Sum in Settlement of All Debts Is Likely to Result From Visit

LONDON, Feb. 7:—A new British offer to settle the United States war debt by payment of a lump sum may be the result of consultations between Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador to the United States, who returned home yesterday, and members of the cabinet. The sums mentioned ranged from one and a quarter billions of dollars to two billion dollars.

Sir Ronald on his arrival in London drove direct to Downing Street where he at once went into consultation with the cabinet. While he was there the French ambassador also called and while the call was supposed to be casual he was admitted to the consultation.

While it is understood that the United States will deal individually with debtor nations there will be conferences among the latter as to the suggestions to be made to the government at Washington as soon as the new administration takes office.

THE NEW JUDGE

Congratulations are due to Judge W. E. Fisher on his appointment to succeed Judge Young in the County Court. He is well known to everyone in the north country, seems to be well fitted for the position to which he has been appointed and doubtless will uphold the traditions of that high office with proper dignity and dispense justice with an even hand.

We are glad to know that a local man has received this appointment and especially one who has pioneered in the north.

PEACEFUL DEMONSTRATION

The conduct of the huge demonstration at Hyde Park, London, Sunday was an indication of the manner in which the British workingman does things. It was one of the largest events of its kind ever staged but there was no trouble. The London police had the arrangements well in hand and the demonstrators were not inclined to be lawbreakers.

TEACHERS PROTEST

The teachers of the province are protesting against the new scale of pay adopted by the provincial government. In making their grants to the municipalities they have adopted the following as the scale on which they will make them: Elementary teachers, $780 a year; principals of superior schools and junior high schools, $1100, and high school teachers, $1200.

Municipalities are told that they may pay more than the rate set by the government but that if they do so they will get no help from the government for that increase. This is wholesale slashing and is hard on the members of a very important profession.

Prince Rupert has started out well enough this year by having the date for the fall fair arranged. This is a fair that is likely to fall, yet nobody seems to be worrying about it.

That little neighborly buffeting at Anyox last week seems to have quieted things down. Or was it the airplanes humming overhead that had a soothing effect on the nerves?

Jake says what he likes in Prince Rupert today is the eternal snows on the mountains and the glorious quiet of the streets.

BOTH SIDES OF TROUBLE

Company Has Exhausted Cash Reserves and Must Borrow Money to Carry On Producing

Dissatisfaction

Fertile Field For Active Work of Tom Bradley in Sowing Seeds of Discontent

ANYOX, Feb. 7—"If neither side gives way during the present dispute and the big plant of the Granby Company remains closed for an indefinite period, much want and suffering will result," says the Herald, at the conclusion of an article on the strike here which commenced last week. "The Granby Company's statement that they cannot meet the demands of the strikers and continue operations must be taken seriously. It is well-known to everyone that the copper market has been in a demoralized state for the past eighteen months. They have practically their entire output for the past year and a-half stored, either in the United States or at Anyox, awaiting buyers. At the present time refined copper is selling in New York at 4.775 cents a pound. This, the company state is much lower than they can produce and if they wished to gamble in copper it would be cheaper for them to buy it in the open market than make it. Another phase is that the cash reserves of the company are exhausted and if future operations are carried on it can only be done with borrowed money, which means high interest rates. At the present time the company is paying around $100,000 a month in wages; the same amount for supplies, and employing over 1,000 men. The company are fully aware that conditions at Anyox are not as good as they should be, but due o present economic conditions state that they cannot improve them.

The Men's Side

On the other hand, chiefly among the lower paid employees, the feeling is rife that if conditions are not improved by increased wages and board and room reductions, that the plant might as well be closed. That there has been dissatisfaction for some time is well known, and when an expert labor organizer such as Tom Bradley visited the camp, he found a fertile field for further sowing the seed of discontent.

The closing of the plant for a lengthy period would be a calamity for the whole north, and it would be a serious blow to the general business of the whole province

Boy Fined For Peddling Liquor

Fifteen-Year Old Prisoner Grins When Magistrate Says "$100"

CORNER BROOK, Nfld., Feb. 7—Perhaps he never had heard of $100 or perhaps he thought it would be fun to spend 50 days in jail; anyway, a 15-year old boy, convicted of peddling liquor on the street, grinned when the magistrate passed the sentence.

He pleaded not guilty, but after conviction he told the magistrate he had done so to find out who informed against him. The informer's evidence was to the effect that he had met the accused by appointment three times during the last few months and purchased liquor from him.

Questioned by the magistrate, the boy did not know whether he sold liquor by day or by night.

"Do not lie, little boy," said the magistrate. But the boy remained silent.

"I have been a magistrate for 22 years but you are the first boy to come before me in connection with dealing in liquor," continued His Honor. "You have established a record. You m aythink of that in future of that is any consolation to you. It is not an enviable precedent to establish. I do notknow how you feel about it. I imagine by the grin on your face that you do not realize what is happening to you."

Asked is he had any defence to offer, the boy replied in the negative. It is understood his father is arranging to pay the fine.

KINGSTON, Ont., Feb. 7— Tim Buck, former leader of the Communist party in Canada and four others, helped to instigate the riots that took place at Portsmouth penitentiary last October, it was stated today in the evidence against Willard Millich, convict at the penitentiary, who was committed for trial on the charge of "being riotously and tumultously assembled together to the disturbance of the public peace."

SPORT CHAT

Advancement in sport in Prince Rupert is very slow compared with other towns of equal size. It is not a question of talent that is holding them back for a great deal of talent has been shown here in the past few years. Then what is is that keeps Rupert back in the sticks? In talking with the younger crowd and even a few of the older sportsmen we can pick up a few of the reasons for the standstill.

The larger cities or even the smaller cities of the south find it easy to keep sports alive. Of course the main upkeep of sport is inter-town competition. In Prince Rupert that is the one great drawback. We are so far from any town and if inter-town sports were arranged the price of transportation is too high and would cost more than any sporting association could stand.

Then again there are no facilities for sport. No race track for the runners except a rocky ground on which one might easily break or his ankle. No gymnasium for winter training, no shower baths for perspiring athletes, in fact nothing that would give any of them the incentive to gain athletic prowess.

And the one thing that is necessary for the making of champions is real coaches who know what they are talking about. In Rupert we have plenty who can give advice but none who can really make champions. This is a true statement for we need only to watch the progress of young fellows who have had the opportunity to go south and the wonderful progress they are making under training.

The young people of Prince Rupert have to make their own way for the public at large do not find it possible to give the support that is necessary. There is the Spartan Athletic Club sponsored by young fellows, although just a young organization is struggling along and it is possible if the members had the right coaching a champion might be found.

The basketball teams of Rupert have not as yet had a chance to demonstrate their skill against leading province teams. Many local young hoop tossers have gone to Vancouver and have become highlights of southern teams. And if it were possible for a team from this city to go south it is probable that it would have a good chance in the provincial championship games.

COMMENT ON ANYOX STRIKE

Alice Arm Herald Reasons Out Cause of Trouble at Smelter Town Just Now

What is the cause of the present strike in Anyox? inquires the Alice Arm Herald. Some of our readers would unhesitatingly say: professional labor agitators who should be strung up as soon as caught. Others will say: the workers exercising their rights to better their conditions. Others again will say: the greed of the capitalists for more profits caused the strike. But taking a broad viewpoint, the cause of the strike in our opinion, is a product of the present trade depression that has engulfed the entire world. Let us explain. Copper with every other commodity that is produced is down to unheard of price levels. Low prices means low wages, if production is carried on. If it stops it means no wages. Low wages means a lowered standard of living. A lower standard of living breeds discontent. When a thousand men are living in a compact area as at Anyox this discontent is bound to increase. No one can stop it. The result is that sooner or later, with a very little fanning, the smoldering breaks into flame and an upheaval follows. Some might say, yes, but if the smoldering wasn't fanned by red labor agitators there would be no upheaval, at least not in Anyox. Correct, perhaps, but the labor trouble agitators are also a product of the present depression. It is during such times, when dissatisfaction is rife that they can successfully operate. Tom Bradley would never waste his time coming to Anyox if copper was even 10 cents a pound.

Calvin H. McLeod, representing the Standard Brands, went south this afternoon after a visit in the city on business.

A NEW MYSTERY CAKE . . . another $1000.00

First Prize $250 · Second Prize $100 · Third Prize $50 · 60 Prizes of $10 each

Find a name for Miss Ethel Chapman's MAGIC MYSTERY CAKE

MISS ETHEL CHAPMAN, well-known cookery authority of the Ontario Farmer, says: "My advice to all housewives is: Use Magic Baking Powder. Then there is no uncertainty about your baking." Canadian home makers will do well to follow Miss Chapman's advice. It is always practical.

Here's Miss Chapman's Recipe. Can you name it?

¼ cup butter
1 cup fine granulated sugar
¼ cup boiling water
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
Yolks of 2 eggs—white of 1 egg
½ cup milk
1⅔ cups pastry flour or 1 cup bread flour
2 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon vanilla

Sift together three times the flour, Magic Baking Powder and salt. Beat egg yolks and 1 white (saving 1 white for frosting). Put butter into mixing bowl, add sugar; pour boiling water on the shaved chocolate, stir quickly, and when melted add to butter mixture; add beaten eggs, then dry ingredients alternately with milk, add vanilla; beat all together. Pour into a greased cake tin and bake in moderate oven.

FROSTING: Boil 1 cup sugar and ⅓ cup boiling water together without stirring until syrup threads when dropped from tip of spoon. Beat white of 1 egg stiff. Pour syrup gradually on beaten egg, beating constantly until of consistency to spread. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla (or ½ tablespoon lemon juice) and spread over cake. Sprinkle ½ cup broken walnut meats or almonds, blanched and split, on top.

If marshmallows are preferred in frosting, stir 3 into the hot syrup just before pouring into beaten egg white. Beat to a smooth fluff, allow it to "set" for a few minutes, then spread on cake. Nut meats are not used with the marshmallow icing.

Buckley Sends Cheery Message Congratulation

Frank L. Buckley has forwarded through Max Heilbroner the following letter to those with whom he has associated in time past and to all others who have shown him courtesies during his recent visits:

Dear Sirs and Friends:

Pardon me for delaying so long to express myself, but ever since your city elections I have been intending to write, congratulating you on the choice of your present mayor and council, and again on the wonderful co-operative spirit as manifested by their action in agreeing to act without compensation. And I trust that the good citizens, one and all, will support and co-operate with them and in this way show appreciation and realization of what they are sacrificing by taking over the burdens of the community at this time.

Certainly C. H. Orme and his council served you well and through a most difficult time, in fact the worst period since the city was organized.

I feel sure you are working towards success and that by your combined efforts you will be able to "stem the tide" and keep away from appointing a commissioner to handle your affairs which you are quite as able to handle and probably more competent than anyone who might be appointed.

My heart and much of my interests are in the north and I have much in common with you, having produced and contributed to some little extent, at different times, to the development and prosperity of your city; further I am still hopeful that I may continue to work with you and assist in the development of the natural resources of the country which in turn will assist the city of Prince Rupert in her progress.

Wishing those who have been elected to the highest offices of trust that can be given them as representatives of the city of Prince Rupert, their full measure of success and with kindest regards to all, I am,

Sincerely yours,

FRANK L. BUCKLEY.

Hatless Habit Is No Offence

But Bare Head Added to Policeman's Suspicion of Drunkenness

ST. JOHN, N.B., Feb. 7:—During warm weather the male of the species is apt to be seen outdoors without a hat. Some hardy wights even eschew headgear in the winter. The legality of this practice came up indirectly in court here.

It is not an offence against the law—yet—to go bareheaded on the streets, Magistrate Palmer told a defendant who appeared in the police court on a drunkenness charge. The defendant had stoutly maintained that he was questioned by police "only on the point of not wearing a hat."

"Were you drunk?" the magistrate asked.

"Not a drop, Your Honor. They only asked me about my hat. I never wear one."

Officers who made the arrest agreed they had mentioned the absence of a hat, but said the defendant was staggering and giving off a strong aroma of rum.

"I only had a bottle of medicine, and have it yet," the defendant protested, producing the medicine from a pocket. "I never wear a hat, Your Honor."

"There are some people who don't, I notice," replied the magistrate. "That is no offence—yet. I'm interested in whether or not you were drunk. The weight of evidence is against you. Eight dollars or 30 days in jail."

Tells About Russia Today

Dr. Durant Gives Interesting Lecture in Vancouver as Result of First-Hand Knowledge

VANCOUVER, Feb. 7—"If I could have come back from Russia and told the American people that it was a paradise I would have been the idol of every woman's club in the country, and should have had vast audiences everywhere. Hindus himself told me that there is hardly a city in American which would not welcome the story of Soviet success rather than the story of misery, despotism and sadness that exists there."

This was one of a number of statements at the commencement of Dr. Will Durant's address on "Russia As I Saw It," at the Vancouver Theatre, which aroused a small section of the audience to pronounced opposition, and heckling. That audience, over which R. J. Cromie presided, filled every seat in the house.

It was while the lecturer (whose wife is a Russian immigrant) was describing the tragedy of starvation, poverty and misery which he and his wife found when they visited the first considerable Russian city, Omsk, that the interruptions from the gallery became so vocal that Dr. Durant, during a momentary silence, said:

"I had presumed when I came here that Vancouver was a city which has inherited the British traditions of courtesy to a speaker.

"I have promised you twenty minutes at the finish, when you can ask me any questions, and when any Communist among you can occupy the platform if he likes. Le me assure any Communists in the audience that no man can sympathize more than I do with them, because I have suffered the disillusionment of having been to Russia."

This answer was greeted with a voice from the gallery: "Go on with your miseries." "All right," commented Dr. Durant, as he resumed his seat. "If that is your attitude of mind it will be useless for me to attempt to do what I have been brought here to do—give you my impressions of Russia as I found it."

A Challenge

But this was the final interruption, and the audience gave the speaker a huge round of applause as he stood up again. From then on he was given a very good hearing. As he resumed he said: "I feel that our system is leading us into as great a tragedy as that of Russia. God knows if they could show us a way out we would accept it."

Dr. Durant did not paint the whole of the great Russian experiment in sombre colors. Some things that the Soviet had done, he said, in the midst of all the terrorism and tragedy that prevailed there were of permanent value.

Some Benefits

It was the first great attempt in the socialization of agriculture. It might be described above all else as an industrial revolution. "It has brought a certain unity and peace to the many warring nation within the great Russian zone. It has brought education to a people traditionally untutored and industrial discipline to a people naturally lazy."

It was producing a new generation which might be unlike anything the world had ever seen. He was strongly in favor of the recognition of the present Soviet government by his own country despite the fact that that government was the most vicious and tyrannical government on earth today, because such recognition would enable the American people to break down some of the barriers that isolated them intellectually. Among other points which Dr. Durant made were the following:

Deportations

"There have been more deportations to Siberia in any month under the present regime than there have been in the history of Russia since the time of Ivan the Terrible."

"Stalin, a man of admitted courage and astounding will power, has destroyed all the elements of capitalism which Lenin had reintroduced with such beneficial results during the closing period of his regime and he has done this in face of the disaster and starvation which has accompanied the change, and in the face of repeated appeals from committees who have waited upon him from all over the country."

At Gun Point

"Wherever I went in Russia the military had complete control. All the grain is taken from the peasantry at the point of the gun. Conscription such as is unknown in any other country is in force in Russia, and there is compulsory military training in all the schools.

"One of the greatest tragedies in Russia is that there are no alternatives." Until within the last two months no Russian could leave Russia, and the new regulation which enabled him to get out by the payment of the equivalent of $250 could not really make any difference, because such a sum represented a fabulous amount to the average Russian."

American College of Physicians Meets in Canada to Discuss New Discoveries and Beliefs

MONTREAL, Feb. 7:—The year's accomplishments in the field of medical science is being reviewed at the annual clinical session of the American College of Physicians assembled on Canadian soil for the first time and opening yesterday.

A thread of physiology both normal and pathological runs through most of the papers, indicative of the increasing importance physiological studies are taking in medical work. The physiological activity of the cell is presented from both a theoretical and practical standpoint while the difference in chemical constitution favorable to various diseases and the manner in which diseases may be influenced by altering body chemistry will be discussed thoroughly.

The John Phillips Memorial Prize Oration was given last night by Dr. William B. Castle of Boston for his series of studies showing the relationship of gastric digestion to the pathogenesis of anemia, the demonstration of the role of extrinsic factors in hematopoiesis, and finally in the demonstration that the extrinsic factor in pernicious anemia can be obtained from yeast as well as meat, suggesting that it is closely related to Vitamin B.

The prize will be presented to Dr. Castle at the Convocation of the College tomorrow night. At the Convocation Sir Andrew Macphail, professor of the history of medicine at McGill University, will deliver an address on "The Source of Modern Medicine."

FINE PLAY AT CAPITOL

"Jack's the Boy" Well Received by Large Audience Last Night—Is On Again Tonight

There was a large crowd out to see the picture "Jack's the Boy" at the Capitol Theatre last evening and everybody seemed pleased. It was so different from the ordinary run of comedies. It was a burlesque cleverly executed not altogether unlike the burlesques of P. G. Wodehouse, the famous humorist.

The Charlie Chase comedy was cleverly funny, so different from the ordinary run of short comedies. It seemed almost a pity to have two comedies so good on the same program.

The same program is on tonight.
