Island Of Rhodes Is Attacked

British Squadron Does Much Damage in Lively Bombing; Big Fires Set

Italians Caught by Surprise — Fires Started and Extensive Damage Done

LONDON, Aug. 15 (CP)—A British naval squadron bombarded the town of Rhodes on the Italian Island of the same name for twelve minutes early Thursday setting great fires and causing extensive damage, Reuters reported today. The island lies in the extreme eastern Mediterranean close to Turkey. A dispatch from the Reuters correspondent with the squadron said the shelling was accurate and perfectly timed, catching the Italians by surprise. As the squadron steamed away a big fire and numerous smaller ones sent up columns of black smoke from the waterfront.

BATTLE OF SOLOMONS

Americans Establishing Themselves on Beachheads—Japanese Admission

WASHINGTON, August 15: — United States Marine have consolidated positions taken from the Japanese on three beachheads on the Solomon Islands and supplies are being brought up steadily, the United States Department of the Navy reveals, announcing that the situation is well in hand.

Tokyo has at last acknowledged at least one American landing on the Solomons although claiming that the Battle of the Solomon Islands has now ended in a Japanese victory.

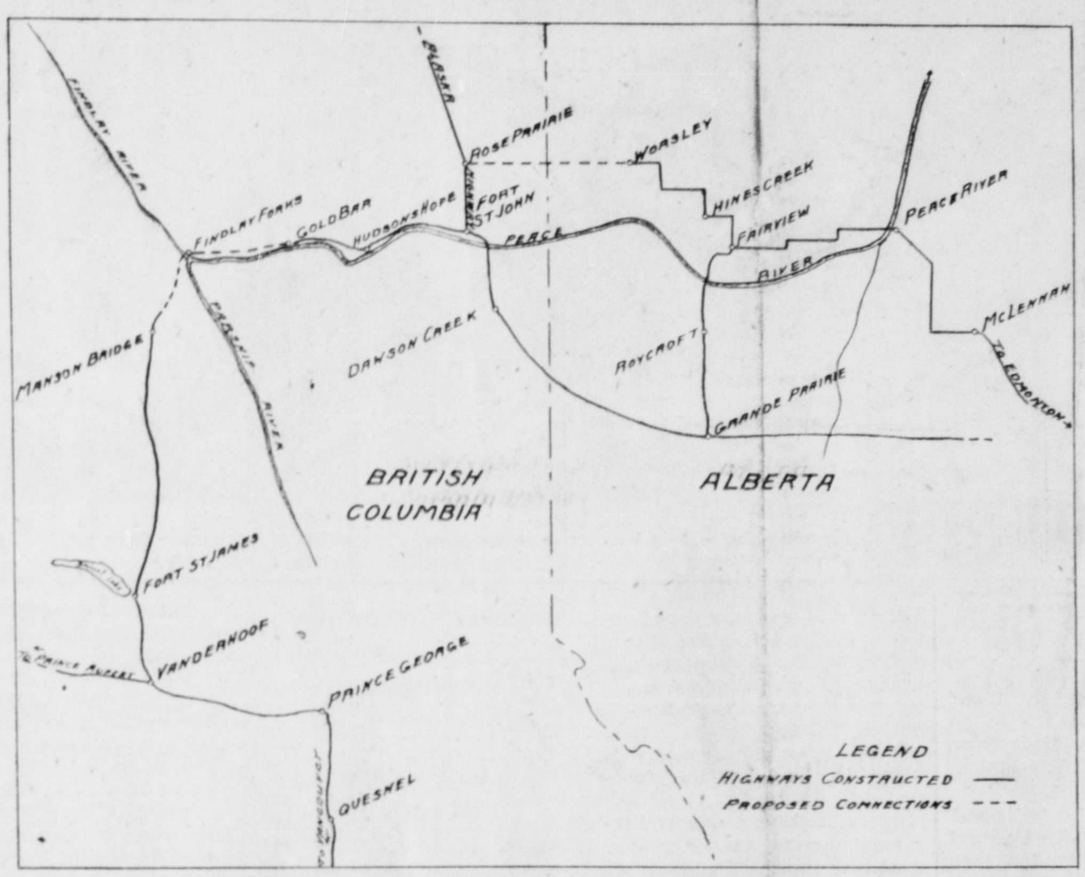
American aircraft have hammered a Japanese convoy off New Britain and at east two Japanese zero planes have been shot down.

Japanese dispatches acknowledged for the first time today that United States marines have landed "on one of the Solomon Islands," 900 miles northeast of Australia, and that Japanese troops were engaged in fierce fighting to ward off the seaborne invaders. The Navy announced that the Marines were "progressing satisfactorily" in consolidating beachheads on three islands in the Solomons.

There were indications, too, that Allied fliers had won vital superiority in the southwest Pacific skies. Dispatches from Sydney, Australia, said that the Americans "have or soon will have complete control over Tulagi Island," site of one of the best harbors in the South Seas war theatre.

A dispatch to Berlin from Tokyo claimed "a huge naval battle off the Solomon Islands which resulted in an overwhelming victory for the Japanese has been concluded" but offered no explanation of how the Americans established beachheads, even on one island, in face of claims to have routed Allied naval forces.

Peace River Road Outlet to Coast



The map shown here shows by dotted lines two gaps the filling in of which would connect the Peace River country to the west with the highway system which is now being completed to the coast at Prince Rupert. It is for the closing up of these two gaps that Page Rideout, long known as a champion of Prince Rupert as the Pacific Coast port for the Peace River, is now advocating, having recently been here and at Victoria. Between Gold Bar and Findlay Forks is a distance of forty miles which would connect at Findlay Forks with a material road for the Alaska Highway now being built from Manson Bridge. The Alberta government has already undertaken to build from Worsley to the British Columbia boundary. British Columbia is being asked to build from Ros Prairie to connect 38 miles to the Alberta boundary.

RATIONING CLOTHING

No Foundation For Rumors That This Is To Be Done

VANCOUVER, August 15:—Rumors that rationing of clothing is imminent have been reported from several centres but W. R. Dowrey, prices and supply representative for British Columbia, states there is absolutely no foundation for such stories.

An authoritative denial that any such clothing rationing is contemplated has been issued by M. W. Mackenzie, chief of the supply, distribution and rationing division of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

"Anyone circulating such mischievous rumors is hampering the country's war effort," declares Mr. Dowrey.

Mr. Dowrey points out that it is against the law to buy more than normal requirements of any commodity and it is also contrary to law for a retailer to sell to any person more than his normal requirements.

RUSSIANS ADVANCING

Successful Counter Attacks On North and Central Fronts While Nazis Move Toward Stalingrad

MOSCOW, August 15:—The Red Army has staged advances against the Germans in successful counter attacks on the northern and central fronts between Leningrad and Moscow and between Rezegh and Voronezh but the Nazis have driven further forward in the south, being fifty miles from Stalingrad and approaching the Grozny oil fields.

Towards Astrakan

German forces in Kotelnikovski region southwest of Stalingrad fanned out in a threatening new drive today toward Astrakan where the Volga meets the Caspian, front dispatches reported.

Other Nazis made fresh progress toward Stalingrad forcing a deep wedge in the Red Army defences south of Ketskaya in the Don Bend and pushing the Russians back even further to the northeast of Kotelnoviski which lies 95 miles from Stalingrad.

The new threat to the Volga which is Russia's main waterway was considered as dangerous, if not more so than the twin thrusts against Stalingrad.

WAR STOPS EGG WORK

However, Alberta Collector Already Has 7,300 From 875 Kinds of Birds

LAC LA NONNE, Alta., Aug. 15 (AP)—War restrictions have forced Archibald D. Henderson, 63-year-old oologist of the Belveders district, to curtail his annual egg collecting program.

Transportation difficulties necessitated cancellation of the egg-hunt in the northern Alberta bush country and Mr. Henderson will confine this year's hunting to his own immediate district. He will look especially for the nests and eggs of such bird varieties as the lesser yellowleg, solitary sandpiper, Bonaparte's gull, Connecticut warbler and bufflehead duck.

Mr. Henderson has a collection of 7,300 eggs, representing 875 varieties of birds and more than 30 years' work. He ranks among the leading collectors of the kind on the continent and his collection is one of the most complete in Canada.

Some Extinct

"Among the rare and near-rare eggs in my collection," said Mr. Henderson, "are an egg of the extinct Guadeloupe petrel taken in 1886; a set of the passenger pigeon also extinct, taken in Minnesota in 1885; and one of the marbled murrelet.

"There are only two other eggs of this bird in existence, one of them being in the British Museum."

Each season the oologist loads a couple of pack ponies with blankets, provisions, cameras and other supplies and works the hinterland of northern Alberta. He has obtained most of his specimens in his immediate district but, through exchanges with other collectors, he has added a number of other American and Old World species to his collection.

Preparation of the eggs for filing is a process that calls for care. Eggs are blown with one hole in the side and, if properly prepared, are imperishable, barring accident. Mr. Henderson files his complete collection in seven cabinets.

Expert Has Contributed Much To Eradication of Great Enemy Of Canadian Wheat Grower

By JOAN STEEL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG, August 15: (AP)— Dr. Margaret Newton, recently appointed a Fellow of the Royal Canadian Scientific Society is unwilling to take personal credit for her pioneer fork in rust research. "It is impossible to give credit to a single person," she said when interviewed. "We work co-operatively in the rust labs."

Canada has saved millions of dollars, grain authorities say, through experiments Dr. Newton has performed in the Dominion Rust Research laboratories in Winnipeg. She has made the study of grain and its diseases her life work.

Graduating from McGill University in 1918 she took her M. A.

JAPANESE ARE LUCKY

Narrowly Avoided Suffering Naval Losses at Dutch Harbor

WASHINGTON, August 15:—The Japanese were lucky that they did not suffer naval losses in their attack on Dutch Harbor and they would have so suffered had there been at the time of the attack the co-ordination between the naval and air forces that now exists. So says Congressman Warren G. Magnuson who, following a trip to the Aleutian area, tells of one enemy aircraft carrier which might well have been trapped.

There is now close co-operation between the services in the Aleutian Islands say a naval officer who is back from there.

If another attack should be made on Dutch Harbor, the enemy would find a surprise awaiting them.

TORONTO, Aug. 15 (AP) — More than 200 gasoline stations in four large Canadian cities were closed yesterday and today for infractions of oil control regulations, it was announced this morning. The stations closed included 96 in Montreal, 59 in Toronto, 37 in Vancouver and 35 in Winnipeg.

The statement said they were padlocked by the police because they accepted loose gasoline ration coupons or coupons issued for cars other than those supplied with gasoline.

It was said they will be allowed to reopen at a later date.

TAXES ON PAYMENTS

Questions In Regard To Instalment Purchases Cleared Up

VANCOUVER, August 15:— The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has received from David Sim, the Commissioner of Excise, answers to questions dealing with the recent excise taxes on instalment purchases.

With reference to a taxable article delivered prior to the coming into force of the retail purchase tax, it is stated that neither the original sale nor any unpaid balance remaining as at the date of imposition of the tax would be subject to the impost.

On layaways, or where a down payment was made prior to the imposition of the tax, but delivery of the article has not taken place prior to the date of impost, the tax would apply on the total amount of the sale regardless of what payments may have been made before the tax was imposed.

The only exception would be where a contract had been drawn and legal transfer made to the purchaser prior to the effective date of the tax.

The tax applies at the time of delivery, and if delivery preceded the tax the total of the sale would be exempt. By placing the tax at the time of delivery, rather than at the time of sale, a much clearer policy can be determined, as there can be no question when delivery took place.

Shortage of Nurses . . .

War makes innumerable demands on the people of countries involved. Here, in Canada, with a relatively small population, we are faced with the serious problem of finding sufficient men and women for our armed forces, our war and industrial plants. Over and above these requirements there is one other—the shortage of nurses—that is causing considerable concern to those directly associated and it has reached such proportions that the Dominion Government has taken cognisance of the situation.

Today Canada is confronted with an alarming shortage of competent nurses and, with the women power problem as it is today, the shortage will become more acute as the months pass.

The Canadian Nurses' Association has suggested that the depleted ranks of nurses can only be filled if more and more young women of the age, and possessing the aptitude and disposition so essential for this honorable profession, enrol for training; that married nurses take refresher courses to fit them for return to their profession; that more and more competent instructors be found; that scholarships and bursaries be set up for the training of nurses for special and instructional work.

It is an axiom that the nation's health is its most prized possession and in the preservation of health the graduate nurse fills an important role. Furthermore the training which a nurse receives adequately enriches her whole life, fits her for responsibilities which are a part and parcel of daily life and endows her with knowledge that is always useful.

Within the last few years the preparation of nurses has advanced considerably. Gone are the days when a graduate nurse worked twelve-hour stretches. Today the eight-hour day is definitely recommended and she receives a salary that enables her to live in reasonable comfort.

As Canada, in concert with other United Nations, moves towards the end of the third war-year, therefore, this problem promises to be one of some magnitude and it remains to be seen whether the young women of Canada will realize its significance and effect on the life of the nation.

If, as Canadians, we do not solve this problem now, we shall undoubtedly have cause to regret our dilatoriness within the very near future.

What the Indian leaders term "the final struggle against the British" may soon be their first struggle against the Japanese.

WORRIES ON OUR BEHALF

Local Newspaperman Finds Prince Rupert Spotlighted in East

Prince Rupert, owing to its position on the British Columbia coast, is very much in the limelight these days as far as the people of Eastern Canada are concerned and everywhere there is much curiosity as to what conditions are really like here and how the people who live here feel about their position, says G. A. Hunter of the Daily News who returned home yesterday. There are many rumors as to what is going on at Prince Rupert and not a few of the easterners appear to think that living here implies a constant state of imminent danger. "In fact," says the local newspaperman, "the people of Ontario seem to be a good deal more concerned about our personal safety than we are ourselves."

Mr. Hunter was interviewed by the Toronto Globe and Mail and the following was what appeared:

'Although the coastal area of British Columbia would probably be the first section of Canada to experience enemy attacks, there is little nervousness among the people, G. A. Hunter, managing editor of the Prince Rupert Daily News stated last night. He is on his way home after attending the manpower conference in Ottawa, making the return trip by rail, although he flew from Prince Rupert to the capital. He was accompanied on his visit to Toronto by his sister, Mrs. J. R. McIlraith, of Cobourg.

"The West Coast realizes that it is probably the 'hot spot' of all Canada, as far as the immediate possibility of actual warfare is concerned, Mr. Hunter said, but the people along the coast know that their defences are rapidly becoming stronger. Even although the Japanese have reached points in the Aleutian Islands, some 1,800 miles to the west, there is little nervousness among the residents of coast cities and towns. That is not to say, however, that they are not prepared for any eventuality and nothing would surprise them.

"While no official announcements have been made as to the strengthening of the defences of the coast, the residents of the various municipalities know by personal observations that the defences have been greatly strengthened by each of the three services. Civilian Defence organization has been thoroughly arranged, and every municipality along the coast and for a considerable distance inland, has well-equipped and trained civilian organizations, ready for any emergency.

Population Doubled

Prince Rupert, one of the important ports along the Pacific Coast, has practically doubled in population since the outbreak of war, growing from a town of some 6,000 in 1939 to about 12,444 at present. Much of the population is engaged in war industry — shipping, ship building and in the airplane spruce trade—and because of these vital industries there have been a smaller percentage of men enlisted for the services. The population and the industries would be larger but for an acute housing problem, but Mr. Hunter stated that the federal authorities were taking steps to rectify this shortage.

"There has been a comparatively small decrease in our pre-war population through enlistments," Mr. Hunter said, "and with double the population now and practically little more accommodation than there was three years ago, you can see what we are up against. Our industries could use and want more men but at present we have no place for them and their families, but in Ottawa I was informed that Wartime Housing will make every effort to remedy this situation as quickly as possible.

Solution On Way

"He would not discuss the recent manpower conference in Ottawa at any length but advanced the opinion that the Government is now on the way to solving the problem and placing men and women where they will be of the most value, in the services, in industry, in farming or in other branches of the war effort.

"Although in Toronto for only a few hours he said he had noticed the small percentage of men of apparent military age who are not in uniform. Of course we know that Toronto has a great patriotic record in the last war as well as this one but I was surprised at the comparatively small percentage of men in civies who looked to be fit for the Navy, Army or Air Force, and I daresay many of them are engaged in vital war work."

Here is a little poem about Prince Rupert which Carl Clay dug up and recited one evening. There have been many requests for copies of it though I do maintain that it maligns a lovely little town which grows the fairest roses and honeysuckle it has ever been my lot to see. And when complaining of the rain, were any of you ever caught in a prairie blizzard? Give me the rain any day.

Prince Rupert

'Tis the land of liquid sunshine,
Where the rocks and muskeg meet,
Where all the dogs are amphibians
And the people have webbed feet.

You can talk about your Venice
With its canals and gondoliers,
But if you live in rainy Rupert,
You're never dry behind the ears.

The town is flocked with redheads,
And boy, it's very plain
To see they don't use henna,
They're just rusty from the rain.

The coffins in the graves there,
Are chained and weighted down.
So the corpses don't go floating
And haunting round the town.

The wind blows there at 40 per,
Like the cyclone loose from hell,
And buildings shake and rattle
Like no words could ever tell.

And if you like the smell of tar
Or dead fish on the docks,
Then "Welcome" to Prince Rupert,
For it's rain and fish and rocks.

—THE HOSTESS.

MIDLANDS LOSE OUT

Yanks Winners in Final League Baseball Game Yesterday

The Midlands were well on their way into the baseball play-offs but they didn't reckon on the Yanks. The Yanks proved to be the giant killers by administering to the Midlands a 9 to 6 defeat in the last league game of the year yesterday. So on Sunday, instead of the Dry Dock playing the Midlands for the second half championship, it will be the Edmontons vs. Dry Dock for the Kalen Hardware trophy and the baseball championship of Prince Rupert. This will be a 2 out of 3 series.

The giant killers, the Yanks, started the fireworks in the first inning, driving in 2 runs. But the Midlands came right back to take the lead with 3 runs. They added another in the second on a home run by Acorn. The Yanks came right back to tie the ball game up at 4 all. And then in the fourth inning the Yanks slapped MacKenzie for three runs. Barkwell took over and was taken for two more runs before retiring the side, giving the Yanks a 9-4 lead. MacKenzie took over again in the fifth and for the remaining three innings was never in trouble. But the Midlands could not overcome that 5 run lead, although they did cut it down to 9-6 and in the last inning had two men left on base. Milligan, the Midlands second baseman, had to retire in the third inning with a sprained ankle.

The line-ups:

Midlands—Barkwell, Hall, Milligan, MacKenzie, Brooks, Wagg, McManus, Acorn, Hay, Burley.

Yanks— Aubrey, Tex, Hank, Louis, Rosen, Fernandez, Albright, Tolbrot, Jenny.

BIRD GIFT TO MUSEUM

Group Tours of Local Establishment Being Announced

The family of the late George Tite have donated to the Museum of Northern British Columbia, at Prince Rupert an interesting case of mounted birds of several different and beautiful varieties. This will be a valuable addition to the local museum.

On account of war conditions the Museum of Northern British Columbia, which is located in the library building, Prince Rupert, is closed to the general public individually. In order, however, to meet the many requests from strangers, visitors and service men, group tours will be conducted through the museum and totems pole parks of the city. The groups must be restricted to a maximum of twenty for each tour. They will be conducted by the custodian, N. L. Jones, and Rev. W. H. Pierce who will, in his unique and interesting manner, describe the habits, customs, romantic history and legends of the native people of the Northern British Columbia coast. It has been suggested that Sunday afternoons may be devoted to these tours.

Group tour arrangements may be made with N. L. Jones.

RESEARCH ON RUST

there the following year, then studied at the University of Minnesota and received her doctorate of philosophy.

How It Spread

Since the construction in 1925 of the government rust laboratory in Winnipeg, when the problem of wheat rust in the Red River Valley became acute, Dr. Newton has been constantly employed in research on puccinia graminis tritici, or wheat stem rust.

The first problem to be solved when Dr. Newton was appointed to the rust laboratory was the cause of the spreading of rust in Manitoba. For proper development rust requires an intermediate plant to act as host—barberry, and barberry is not one of Manitoba's common weeds.

Dr. Newton explained this by exposing to the air slides covered with auger, a gelatine-like substance. Innumerable rust spores covered that the spores carried by were collected from the atmosphere in this way and it was discovered that the spores were carried by the wind from the south where barberry grows in abundance. Spores occurred in the atmosphere up to a height of 14,000 feet. This was learned by placing similar slides on the wings of airplanes. Counts were made of the number of spores present per square inch.

Her constant experiments and observations as a plant pathologist have contributed greatly to the discovery of 190 rust races—quite a development since 1918 when it was believed there were only one or two.

Invited To Russia

Dr. N. Vavilov, director of the Academy of Science in Leningrad, Russia, was so impressed that in 1933 he made a special trip to Winnipeg to investigate Dr. Newtons work. He asked if she would go to Russia to develop rust research in that country. Dr. Newton declined the request but consented to make a summer trip that year to Russia where she surveyed conditions and made suggestions for experiments.

Dr. Newton brushes this incident aside as unimportant, "because," she explains, "it did not contribute to work here in rust research." Apparently she preferred her place in the red brick building on the University of Manitoba campus to the more glamorous Russian laboratories, formerly part of the Czar's palace.

Discoveries in rust research continue and Dr. Margaret seems pleased to discuss the problems involved in her study. "I'll always be glad to explain my work to a persons who is really interested," she said.

FILM IS STIRRING

"Great Man's Lady," With Stanwyck and McCrea, at Capitol Theatre

The sweep and power of a great country and the courage of the men and women who made its development possible, are unfolded on the screen in the stirring romance, "The Great Man's Lady," starring Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea, with Brian Donlevy, which comes to the Capitol at the first of next week.

The story starts and ends in current times, but in the interim it goes back as long ago as 1848 when most of America was a trackless waste. Barbara Stanwyck then a young impetuous girl, elopes from her staid Philadelphia home with Joel McCrea whose dream it is to build a great city out west.

Together they brave the hardships and heartbreaks of years that yield nothing but failure. McCrea is finally convinced by Barbara that he must pull up stakes, go further west to prospect for gold, then return and pour the wealth into the realization of their dream. But McCrea loses the few dollars they have, plus all their livestock, to gambler Brian Donlevy, whose honesty is a come-on few suckers can resist.

Barbara succeeds in winning back their possessions from Donlevy who loses his heart to her as well. It is Barbara who discovers that McCrea has struck silver—silver which eventually makes him a millionaire. But by then, Barbara has been relegated to the back streets of his life, with Donlevy very much in the foreground of hers.

The story is intensely interesting.

DUE TO WAR CONDITIONS

Canada will now on, have to depend as never before on the output of her mines to fill the ever increasing demands for coal. Much of this will have to be from Alberta mines, but this will be difficult if not impossible if consumers wait, as in the past, for cold weather before taking delivery.

Do your part in helping to avoid a serious situation, by filling your bin NOW and keeping it FULL.
