Rising Crisis Appears In Germany

AMIENS RECALLED WHEN CANADIANS' TRIUMPH

Tomorrow is 26th Anniversary of British Victory in France When Maple Leaf Led the Great Attack

By H. H. GORDON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's soldiers in Sicily are battering at the doors of Axis Europe and thousands of other Dominion troops chafe in Britain awaiting the word to attack just a quarter-of-a-century after their fathers destroyed Germany's hopes for victory in the First Great War. Tomorrow is the 25th anniversary of the battle of Amiens, August 8, 1918, marked the beginning of the last hundred days" when the German armies collapsed before the combined strength of British, French and American forces.

It was at Amiens that Marshal Ferdinand Foch delivered the first of a series of hammer blows following the obliteration of the German bulge created at the Marne by the enemy's spring offensive. The victory brought from Emperor Wilhelm II the admission: "I see that we must strike a balance; we are at the end of our resources; the war must be ended."

To the Canadian Corps, commanded by Sir Arthur Currie, fell the honor of spearheading the attack east of Amiens. Advancing over a five-mile front, the Dominion's fighting men smashed through enemy defences a distance of eight miles the first day. In the week that followed they increased the penetration to 14 miles and captured 9,000 prisoners out of a total of 21,000 bagged by the Allied armies.

Ruse Fooled Germans

For nine months following the great battle at Passschendaele the Canadian Corps had undergone intensive training in the "quiet" Arras sector for Foch's big counter-stroke. Secret transportation of the corps south to Amiens was one of the most successful ruses carried out during the First Great War. The appearance of the Canadians in the forefront of the battle astonished the enemy who, because of a number of deceptions, believed them to be at Kemmel Hill on the Flanders Front.

Another surprise for the Germans was provided by a vast array of tanks behind which the Canadians advanced steadily across the hills and plateaus. They swept through the German front lines and beyond the support and reserve positions. The initial break-through on August 8 exceeded even the highest hopes of the British general staff.

Backed by Cavalry

Enemy opposition grew stronger on succeeding days, but the Canadians joined the 4th Division on August 9, continued to make headway, sometimes in cluose hand-to-hand fighting at German strong points. Cavalry squadrons backed up the attack.

Sir Arthur Currie wrote on August 13: "The first stage of the Battle of Amiens is over. One of the most successful operations conducted by the Allied armies is now a matter of history."

The battle, ended on August 15, released the strategic Paris-Amiens railway. The Canadian Corps in addition to prisoners captured about 170 guns, 1,000 machine guns, and more than 100 trench mortars. Vast engineering and other stores fell to the overseas soldiers and their own total casualties were fewer than the number of prisoners taken.

The operation has been referred to by military writers as the most brilliant victory gained by British arms in the 1914-18 conflict.

In a book written within a year after the armistice, Gen Erich Ludendorff, the German master tactician, referred to August 8, 1918 as the "black day of the German army."

ANKARA — Members of the crews of eight American bombers which engaged in the recent raid on Ploesti air field in Rumania, have been interned in Thrkey following forced landings.

STIFF TRAINING PREPARED CANADIANS FOR SICILIAN ASSAULT

Long route marches over hilly and rough terrain similar to that on the island of Sicily, marked pre-invasion drills of the Canadian forces which launched the assault on Sicily in co-operation with British and American troops. At top some of the Canadians are pictured moving uphill during one of the training schemes. The lower picture shows others climbing rock-strewn ledges, carrying portable wireless sets and heavy packs. (Canadian Army Photo)

Paid Holiday Made General

National Announcement of Paid Holiday Plan

OTTAWA, August 7 (CP)—The National War Labor Board announced yesterday that vacations with pay will become the rule, effective immediately, in all shipyards under its jurisdiction where such working conditions did not exist formerly.

Under the ruling as interpreted by the local dry dock, workers with an attendance of 300 days per year are allowed a week's holiday with pay.

Back Out Of Russia

Germans Are Reported to be Carrying Out Evacuation of Smolensk, Most Important Base

MOSCOW, August 7 (CP) — Reports from Russian guerillas behind the German lines say that the Nazis are carrying out a general evacuation of the Smolensk region and are also removing potential war materials. Smolensk is probably the most important German base in all Russia.

RUSSIANS ADVANCE

LONDON, August 7—Russian armies breaking into the Ukraine on a 40-mile front outflanked the big German base of Kharkov yesterday by capturing Zolochev, 25 miles to the northwest, in continuing the summer campaign that has cost the Germans 120,000 killed, and 12,000 prisoners.

Gains up to 37 miles were scored in the smash west of Belgorod which cut the Kharkov-Bryansk railway at Zolochev. The Russians drove onward through Orel farther north in the surge toward Bryansk.

Important Discussions Of Military Nature In Hitler's Headquarters

Reich Seems to be Worried Over Possibility of Mass Air Raids on Berlin, Serious Strikes and Peace Demonstrations

LONDON, Aug. 7 (CP) — The German Information Bureau said in broadcast today that a "number of important discussions of military and political nature have taken place in Adolf Hitler's headquarters in the past few days." Indications from German sources are of a rising crisis as reports reach London telling of fears over poossibility of massed air raids on Berlin, serious strikes and peace demonstrations.

German authorities were reported today as frantically trying "to control a mass stampede" from panic-stricken Berlin, where bomb-shocked Hamburg refugees have spread horror stories snapping the already frayed nerves of Berliners expecting imminent mass air attacks.

Spanish correspondents hinted that non-military developments of unusual import were under way in Berlin and Nazi propaganda minister Goebbels acknowledged "partial evacuation" of the capital because of fears of attacks on the Hamburg scale.

Strikes and other troubles also were reported brewing in Germany at the time of sagging morale caused by German reverses in the air and afield.

Reuters said that reports were circulating in German circles in Istanbul, Turkey, that the Germans were preparing to declare Berlin an open city.

Arthur Turner, M.L.A., Declares C.C.F. is Real Party of Socialism

The whole English-speaking world is swinging to the left owing to economic conditions, declared Arthur Turner, C.C.F. member for Vancouver East, before a public meeting last night in the Oddfellows' Hall. The result of the provincial election in Ontario this week was an indication of the trend. The C.C.F. would be the official opposition in Ontario's next Legislature as it already was in Saskatchewan and British Columbia. At the next provincial elections in Saskatchewan and British Columbia, the C.C.F. would go into power, Mr. Turner predicted. Winning of traditional old party seats in Salmon Arm and Revelstoke was significant. Speaking of the political situation in the Yukon whence he has just returned after a visit under the auspices of the Miners' Union of Dawson, Mr. Turner said he had received an enthusiastic reception everywhere, C.C.F. clubs had been organized at Dawson, Whitehorse and Mayo and he was of the opinion that his party would take the federal seat of the territory in the next election.

Mr. Turner spent considerable time endeavouring to show why it was not necessary to have a second political party of the workers in this country. He contended that the C.C.F., with its aim of holding the wealth in common and managing it co-operatively, was the real party of socialism and would never be satisfied until capitalism had been eradicated and a co-operative commonwealth established. Further, the speaker declared, C.C.F. socialistic policies were determined not by a small central group but democratically at conventions. Mr. Turner deplored the situation where trades unionism in Canada was divided into four or five groups wasting energy, time and money fighting each other. It would be disastrous indeed if the socialist groups should divide in the political sphere.

Where is Tim Buck?

Mr. Turner questioned just where Tim Buck and his so-called Communist party with its motto of "all out to win the war" stood. "It is just cheap and nasty politics to advocate a second socialistic party," Mr. Turner asserted. "I leave it to you whether the communist party could be considered a worthy representative of the workers."

The speaker charged the Dominion government with catering to big business in prosecutin the war effort. The best war effort was not indicated when a company with capitalization of $16,000,000 could make a profit of $18,000,000 in one year and distribute $8,000,000 to its shareholders.

Socialism was not a utopian dream, Mr. Turner asserted. The C.C.F. stood for socialization, public ownership and government control of industry and resources. The wealth of the country had been put there by God or nature and did not belong to the big companies but to the people. It should not be exploited to swell the coffers of a few people.

The C.C.F. stood for the education of the people. Had one ever heard of the old parties sponsoring study groups. There was no difference between Liberals and Conservatives, declared the speaker. "We have been instrumental in driving the two parties together and they will never again be apart, something for which we are mighty glad," Mr. Turner concluded.

During a question period which followed, there was some discussion of conditions in the north and Mr. Turner spoke of the Alaska Highway in connection with the construction work on which there was much discontent with Americans getting big wages while Canadians had difficulty in even getting jobs. The speaker felt that the work of construction of the road was both very expensive and inefficient. He questioned how the road would stand up.

Asked by a man in naval uniform as to the stand of the C.C.F. in giving the vote to Orientals, Mr. Turner said he felt that any person who was worthy of being granted citizenship should also be given the vote. He mentioned how Japanese evacuated from British Columbia had been able to vote in the Ontario provincial election while Chinese were permitted to vote in Manitoba.

G. W. Rudderham was in the chair lat last night's meeting which was followed by a dance for which music was furnished by George Duchak and His Prairie Ramblers, the committee in charge consisting of G. Toews and R. S. Traquair.

Candidates Background

Carnival Queen Aspirants Are Really Something to Vote For

An under-current of excitement is beginning to be felt as the campaign for Civic Carnival Queen puts on power. Groups supporting the candidates are each plugging hard for their eye-filling royal prospects and in order that the public may have an acquaintance with each the Daily News publishes a summary of the background of the five candidates.

Margaret Davidson, "Miss Mooseheart," candidate for Chapter 1051, Loyal Order of Moose, is 22 years old, has blonde hair, blue eyes, is five feet three and one half inches tall and weighs 123 pounds. She was born and educated in Vancouver and has been in Prince Rupert for one year.

Lillian Wallace, who is campaigning under the title "Miss Prince Rupert," is the candidate of the Retail Merchants' Association. She is 22 years old, has brown hair and blue eyes, is five feet four inches tall and weighs 115 pounds. She was born and raised in Edmonton, and came to Prince Rupert four months ago. Thelda McEwen, the Gyro Club candidate, known as "Miss Gyro, 1943," is 22 years old, has brown hair, hazel eyes, and weighs 130 pounds. She was born at Dauphin, Manitoba, and lived in Smithers for 16 years. She has been in Prince Rupert since last January and works for the Northern B.C. Power Company.

Rosemond May McElwain, "Miss Victory Welderette," is the candidate for the Prince Rupert Dry Dock and Shipyard. Allies Are Surging Forward In Sicily

MOPPING UP MUNDA

Troops Harry and Destroy Broken Jap Army

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, August 7 (CP)—American jungle fighters who captured Munda air base and crushed all organized resistance of the Japanese on New Georgia Island now have chased the fleeing remnants into nearby mangrove swamps where they are being annihilated, Allied headquarters reported today.

Allied planes shot down seven of thirty zeros over Buin-Faisi and destroyed a troop laden barge off Velalavella Island.

Fall of Munda gives the Allies a base for more concentrated attacks on Rabaul, the greatest Japanese stronghold in the South Pacific.

SHOWS NAZI LIES

LONDON, August 7 (CP) — At Prime Minister Churchill's suggestion a British film is being made contrasting shots showing the might of the British Nations with portions of the German film "Baptism of Fire" which the Nazis used to intimidate neutrals.

Tronia, Key Mountain Position, Is Occupied After Savage Battle

Another Italian Island is Occupied—Naples Pounded Again by Bombing Attacks

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 7 (CP)—Triona, key mountain position protecting the Germans' Mount Etna flank, has been captured by the Americans after one of the most savage battles of the Sicilian campaign. Troina's capture was announced a couple of days ago but the Americans had then secured only a toehold near the town, official reports indicated.

Allied armies were surging forward all along the front in Sicily and prisoners taken so far in the campaign totalled 125,000.

The Americans also occupied the island of Utica, 40 miles north of Palermo. Allied air and sea forces continued their powerful support of the Sicilian land drive.

Warships again pounded Taormina's east coast and Allied planes blasted Naples in a new raid.

UNPREPAREDNESS

PRETORIA, August 7 (CP)—Just how unprepared South Africa was for war was recently revealed in figures passed for publication. When the Union went to war it had two high-speed bombers, 26 obsolete general purpose craft, 40 training aircraft, two antiquated tanks and two armored cars.

The Road to Tokyo . . .

The war of attrition against Japan goes on. The pincers inexorably draw closer from the North, the South, the East, the West. There is much distance yet to travel. It is further from Kiska to Munda than it is from Prince Rupert to St. Johns, Newfoundland.

But already the Japanese are restive. Their Naval spokesman, who so frequently announced the "annihilation" of the United States fleet, has been removed from his post. The Tokyo radio boasts that conquest of Java, Burma, Borneo has made Japan a "have" nation, but adds: "The difficulty at present is that these materials cannot be brought immediately to Japan because of a lack of transport."

The American Navy claims to have sunk 210 Japanese ships, to have probably sunk another 29 and to have damaged 58. Lack of transport, indeed.

Not the least encouraging aspect of this war of attrition is Japan's persistence in sending out small, relatively ineffective forces to supply its beleaguered garrisons. Apparently, their strange notions of "face" compel them to run their "Tokyo Express" missions of easily attacked light warships and transports to stations under siege, but their vivid realization of their utter dependence upon seapower prevents them from risking forces substantial enough either to deliver effective relief or successfully fight off attack.

In the meantime, the swish of torpedoes, the earth-shaking bombardments, the furious air assaults, the merciless land fighting mount in unrelenting fury on all the roads that lead to Tokyo.

The Lesson of Fascism . . .

The symbol of Fascism was the bundle of sticks, or "fasces," which, as the old fable tells us, were indestructible while they remained together though they could be broken one by one. The adoption of this symbol by Italian Fascists was as misleading as most of their assertions. The Fascists had only one stick in the bundle—Benito Mussolini. When he was discredited at last by his ill-conceived attempt at empire-building there was nothing left of the party.

But its history should stand as a warning to free men for all time. It is the history of violence, of the idolatry of utter materialism, and the shameless adoption of deceit as a policy, all undertaken with such unrestrained bombast as to prevent sane men from taking its manifestations seriously.

Il Duce was the age's biggest joke—until he became one of its biggest tragedies. Fascism was at first a circus. Then at one time it became in some men's eyes one of two choices, each an extreme. The higher ground of freedom was lost sight of by those who tried to choose between extremes.

Of course, there are Fascists in Italy still. They will watch every opportunity to reassert their control. And some conservative elements may once more see them as allies in a struggle against liberal concepts. Moreover, the materials of Fascism are latent in human thinking. Italy has no monopoly on them. But the emptiness of Fascist swagger, and the smashing of the myth of its invincibility by determined opposition should remain one of the great lessons of history.

Think about a golf tournament where you can qualify by just estimating your score. If the weather isn't suitable you can give the officials a rough idea of what you would have shot and that's that. It's the annual Tri-State Senior Tournament which Amarillo, Texas, has been holding for nine years now.

If a man is at least 50 years old—he has to be at the half-century mark to belong to the association—he's as good as qualified. For instance, in this year's tournament rain bogged the qualifying round. The golfers just went out and shot a little then came in and reported or estimated their scores and the various flights were constructed on those facts and figures.

Take H. E. Winter of Marshalltown, Iowa. He's 79 years old. He came so far for the tournament they told him not to go out in the bad weather to qualify. They just estimated he shot 85. There was no one who could prove that he couldn't have done it. They're just a bunch of quiet-loving guys who want to play golf with opponents of their own size. More than anything they don't want any young squirts beating them around the course.

LETTERBOX

ORANGE HEAD WRITES

Editor, Daily News:

A letter to you from Norman Green of Kincolith published in your issue of July 19 has just come to my notice.

Every man has the inherent right to select those whom he shall admit to his own home and to prescribe the mode of conduct of those so admitted.

Equally, every nation has the right to select those whom it will admit to the privileges of residence within its boundaries and of citizenship and to demand from those seeking admission such qualifications as it may deem desirable.

Thus, regardless of the theory of the brotherhood of man, we loyal Canadians have the right, and intend to preserve it, to select and choose those whom we are willing to admit to residence among us and to the sharing of those privileges for which our ancestors fought and for which our men in uniform are today offering their all and to limit admission to those only who have the same ideals, are capable of the same loyalty and are willing to adopt exclusively our Canadian mode of life and form of government.

Having established the standards which we set for those seeking admission to our country and of our citizenship we must then see that those only are admitted who can comply with such standard and join with us in the preservation of the same and, what is equally important, we must deport from our country all those who are unable or unwilling to comply with and maintain the same.

Canada has no place for people of dual nationality and should afford a home and opportunity only to those who deem it a privilege to be permitted to live here and to enjoy the benefits of Canadian residence and citizenship.

Loyal Canadians recognize as their flag only one flag — the Union Jack—recognize as the government controlling their lives and actions only one government—the Canadian government—only one form of government—our democratic Canadian form of government—bear allegiance to only one monarch — our own—and generally recognize and adopt only one mode and standard of life—our Canadian mode and standard of life —and cheerfully and willingly observe and obey the laws of one country only — and that country is Canada.

Good Canadian citizens or residents do not maintain allegiance to a foreign ruler, do not send their earnings out of Canada to a foreign country, do not return periodically to a foreign country for military training, do not, after being admitted to Canada as students for a temporary period only, evade our laws and engage in various lines of business activity in competition with genuine Canadian citizens, do not use English for business purposes only and at home use and teach their children for daily use a foreign language, do not earn their living in Canada and defy and ignore its laws and do not, when lawfully taken in charge by Dominion authorities and given more and better food than loyal Canadians can obtain, riot, rebel, smash government property and threaten with reprisal by a foreign government to which they pay allegiance Canadian officials lawfully carrying out the laws and regulations which have been passed by our government for the protection of Canada and its people.

Would these things be suffered for a moment in Japan? Are Canadians permitted to own land in Japan? Can or will Canadians adopt the Japanese mode of life? If so, why are we now engaged in a war with Japan? If not, why should such things be permitted in Canada?

Canadians in Japan and Jap-controlled areas have been tortured and starved to death and subjected to all kinds of personal abuse and indignities and I, for once, do not condone such conduct or consider it justified even by the rules of warfare nor do I desire to attempt appeasement or to surround myself and family with people belonging to a race or nation which considers this justifiable.

Events have clearly proved that the Japanese people are not assimilable to our British ideals and mode of life and that, despite Canadian birth, residence, education and citizenship, they still retain their barbarism, their Emperor-worship, their Shinto religion and their allegiance to Japan and its doctrines and beliefs. That is their privilege but it should be exercised in Japan—Not Canada.

People of Japanese extraction, whatever their virtues and abilities, are clearly and basically different from the Canadian people and can never be assimilated with us. Their blood is different, their mode of life is different and their form of religion and general and entire outlook on life are different.

Let us, therefore, retain Canada for peoples who have kindred blood, a similar mode of life, the same type of religion and ideals and who, forsaking all other and former ties, are able and willing to adopt our country, our form of government, our language, our flag and generally our mode of life as their own, to the exclusion of all others, without reservation or secret evasion of any kind, and who are willing at all times and under every circumstance to assume and unconditionally fulfil and perform all the duties and responsibilities which are attendant thereto or connected therewith.

Thus, and thus only, can we preserve our own national freedom, independence and entity, can we prove to ourselves and to the rest of the world that we have attained true nationhood, can we justify the sacrifices that have been made in the past and are being made today and we prove that the seed which was planted with such high hopes at the time of Confederation was well conceived, planted and nourished and can produce the flower and fruit of a great peaceable, prosperous Christian nation, upon which the rest of the world may look as a model, our Canada, the elder sister in the great British Commonwealth of Nations.

ACTIVITIES OF Y.M.C.A. AND Y.W.C.A.

By DOROTHY GARBUTT
The Hostess

Yesterday afternoon the hostess house Committee and the mothers of local girls who have enlisted in the R.C.A.F. Women's Division were the guests of Flight Officer Graham who is Officer Commanding the WD's R.C.A.F. at Group Headquarters. The mothers of the WD's were especially taken with the comfortable quarters and left feeling easy in their minds that the girls were well cared for. Tea was served to the ladies in the officer's Mess and during tea chat Flying Officer Graham told of the need of a sewing machine, pictures for the walls, odd china, electric hot plates and irons and vases for the girls quarters. Since then another electric iron and an aluminum double boiler have come in from Mrs. Bremner and the offer of a sewing machine from Mrs Denny Allen. Oh yes, and they do need a piano. These girls are situated so far from the Y and the road in is a long one so that they do not make as much use of our machine and piano as the C.W.A.C. girls who are only a block or two away.

Remember the Coast Auxiliary dance on Monday at the Empress. Junior hostesses are invited. Proceeds are in aid of their overseas cigarette fund

Junior hostesses and chaperones will meet at the Y.

Sunday evening there will be a concert for the troops at the Capitol Theatre. Tickets are given out by the units.

A few weeks ago several of the boys on one of the minesweepers gave a concert and sang a song composed by Glenn Harlow, one of the performers. They call it:

OUR SHIP'S LAMENT
Lyric by Glenn Harlow
Tune—"Touch of Texas"

Got a touch of Rupert in my walk,
Got too much of Rupert in my talk,
Oh—this place will be my ruin
'Cause there's never nothing' doin',
Take me back to 'Squimalt.
For I've seen every part of,
The mud that I'm deep in the heart of

Though we know our pleas are all in vain,
To get a draft to 'Squimalt once again,
We will never be contented
Till we see the boom defence of Good old 'Squimalt, B.C.

Now there's lots of places we have been,
And there's still some ports we haven't seen,
But I'll bet a lot of rum, this could never be outdone
For this is no sailor's dream.

Now we may sound downhearted
But brother, we aint even started.
But perhaps we'd better say no more,
And we hope that you folks won't get sore,
For our song has been in fun
And with luck we'll see the sun,
Shine on Rupert once more.

And with that noble poem I'll sign off for a few weeks, because I'm going to get a touch of Manitoba in my walk, back home on the prairies. The Y boys are going to do a couple of columns a week for me while I'm away. That's the good old co-op spirit.

Adios, amigos, I'll send you a postcard.

Biggest Week of Halibut Landings For Years—Salmon Pack is Still Running Low

Prince Rupert had its heaviest single week of halibut landings for years between July 33 and August 6 inclusive with no less than 1,471,000 pounds being brought in of which 1,344,000 pounds was from many large American vessels, coming here to avoid the long extra haul to Seattle for no extra remuneration, while Canadian vessels brought in 127,000 pounds. This brought the aggregate for the season at Prince Rupert up to 11,478,300 pounds made up of 7,587,000 pounds from American bottoms and 4,291,300 pounds from Canadian. Prices throughout the week for American fish were at the ceiling of 17.5c and 18. Canadian prices ran from 17c and 18c to 18.5c and 17c and 18c.

The canned salmon pack for the Naas and Skeena Rivers up to the end of July this year was 86,748 cases as compared with 122,701 cases and 121,056 cases in the last cycle year of 1939. The sockeye pack for the Naas and Skeena River area for this year was 38,243 cases in comparison with 37,340 cases last year and 77,374 cases in 1939.

A substantial run of pinks is developing in the Bella Coola and Bella Bella areas down the coast and seine boats there have been limited to five thousand fish per day, it is announced at the Dominion Fisheries office here. Fair pink runs have also developed in the Skeena and Naas Rivers where the sockeye fishing is beginning to fall off. Latest boats averages for the Skeena and Naas River are 20 sockeye and 200 pinks with high boats of 47 and 300.

EXPERIENCE WITH NAZIS

The result of Nazi occupation of a peaceful European village forms the timely theme of "This Land is Mine," Charles Laughton - Maureen O'Hara picture coming to the Capitol Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

Picturing what happens when German troops take over a quiet little railway town in an effort to convert it into a part of the German war machine, the film reaches heights of drama.

Laughton is cast as a shy and timid school teacher with a terrific inferiority complex, completely dominated by a shrewish and possessive mother. His pupils laugh at him and his pathetic efforts to teach them, but underneath it all the man has a very real love for his country.

When, in spite of the endeavours of the Nazi commandant to conciliate the villagers and avoid trouble, the hidden resentment of the younger patriots explodes into violence, a strict martial law is enforced and reprisals begin. The teacher finds himself arrested on a charge of murdering a fellow citizen who has been aiding the Nazis. Realizing at last what freedom really means to a subjugated people, he turns his trial into a stirring appeal for unending resistance against the invaders, and becomes both a martyr and a hero.

Walter Slezak plays the role of the Nazi officer, George Sanders that of the collaborationist villager, and Una O'Connor that of Laughton's mother, with many noted film players in important supporting parts.
