The City's Health . . .

A rather complete report on health conditions in Prince Rupert which has been made by Dr. R. J. MacDonald, director of the local public health unit, to his department at Victoria indicates the widespread variety of functions which the unit and its staff have been carrying on here—a work which is of undoubted value to the community and fully worth all the cost involved in maintaining it. We all knew that Dr. MacDonald and his staff were carrying on a very useful work but a perusal of the report gives us a greater realization of the significance of it and its range.

The report also discloses some rather undesirable conditions existing here. Now that they have been officially established, it will be well that further efforts, for the benefit of us all, should be made to see that, by some means or other, they are rectified.

Incidentally, we would gather from Dr. MacDonald's report that chlorination of the city's fine supply of pure water is not considered one of the most immediately vital health needs here. The federal government might be as consistently interested and anxious about cleaning up certain other conditions which are even more menacing to the public health in these critical days when the good health of us all is so important to the nation.

The Liquor Line-up . . .

The liquor line-up across the street each morning does not appear to be getting much shorter. When we drop down to work these mornings at 7 o'clock we see the line even then forming up, maybe thirty or so early birds standing near the doorstep to be ready for the opening three hours later.

We have had citizens telling us of abuses going on in regard to the liquor lineup and suggesting that we write something about it. Some of the complainants have told us of practices that we hope may not be true.

We have already deplored waste of time and paid our respects to those who have nothing better to do with their time than stand for hours in the liquor line-up.

We hope that some of the allegations we have heard are not true and that voluntary wasting of one's own time is the worst feature of the line-up. It would be deplorable, for instance, if the liquor line-up should be directly or indirectly responsible for waste of effort or resources needed for the fighting and the winning of the war. It would seem too much like selling one's birthright for a bottle of whiskey.

No matter what chidings we may have received about writing of it, we still do not like that liquor line-up and believe that those who get in it value their time and their self-respect rather lightly.

Of course, this is still a free country and if we want to stand in the line-up at the expense of more useful pursuits it is our privilege to do so. At least the air is sweet and pure these pleasant spring days.

BOWLING BANQUET

Enjoyable Affair Held Saturday Night For Presentation of Mixed League Awards

Presentation of the prizes for the past season's activities featured a banquet and dance of the Mixed Bowling League in the Eagles' Hall Saturday night, the affair being enjoyed by about fifty couples.

Special catering arrangements were made for the dinner, Mrs. J. W. Jones and Mrs. Carl Strand being in charge. The tables were attractively set.

After full justice had been done to the meal, President L. M. Felsenthal called upon A. S. Nickerson to present the Watts & Nickerson Cup, emblematic of league championship to the Sav-Mor team, the trophy being received by Paul Stegavig. The Sav-Mor team also received a cash prize of $25 and $6 for having had the three high games.

Other prizes were as follows:

High single game, Peoples Store, received by Norman Campbell.

Men's high average score, C. W. Kellett, received by Mrs. Kellett.

High women's average, Miss Bessie Reaugh.

Men's high three games, Maurice Irving, received by W. F. Stone.

Ladies' high three games, Miss Grace Lee.

Men's high single game, Bob Lew.

Ladies' high single game, Mrs. Dorothy Wesch, received by W. F. Stone.

Consolation prize, Twerps, received by Alvin Daly.

A popularity cup and cash presentation were given to the league secretary, Miss Ina Robertson. An entertainment feature of the evening was a highly amusing character monologue by Lieut. Robert Herrick of the United States Army.

Before the dinner concluded, a vote of thanks to the president and the committee was proposed by Tommy Fraser.

Music for the dancing was furnished by Jean de Carlo's Orchestra, the party breaking up about midnight.

What It Brings

As we listen to the sirens wail,
It brings to us a certain tale.

It's about our Prince Rupert home,
We settled in no more to roam.

If we will to the last defend,
On the country's help we can depend.

Not an inch we will move,
If comes the time we shall prove.

All the happiness in our home,
Never a Nazi or Jap will own.

"No beer no bonds" is what we hear.
It isn't funny please don't jeer.

"Ne beer no bonds," have your way.
But what if Hitler came to stay?

Bonds, he would give, you'd have no say.
So "buy the bonds" that will keep him away!

SPORT CHAT

Gordon Woodhouse of Vancouver, who was well-known in Canada as an amateur boxer, has graduated into the pro ranks overseas. Not only that, but he has stepped up from the welterweight department into the middleweight class. In a letter home to his mother, Woodhouse revealed that he was transferred recently from the medical corps to a physical training instructor in the Ordnance Corps. And he has also received a promotion to corporal. Woodhouse still finds time to box despite his army duties. And in his first start as a pro he scored a victory over an English fighter, Johnny Byles.

Four Swift Current, Saskatchewan, hockey players—Murray Jorgenson, Alvin Quelle, Mike Kane and Alvin Kelly—have enlisted in the navy. All four played in the town's church league.

In Winnipeg, A. V. (Wynn) Cronje, 25, of East London, Cape Province, South Africa, former lightweight boxing champion of Cape Town University, has enlisted in the R.C.A.F. And the welterweight boxing champion of Thunder Bay, Alfred Nyberg, has enlisted in the army in Winnipeg. The 24-year-old boxer is a brother of George, now overseas with an Ontario unit, who was a top welterweight in Chicago a few years ago. Alf Nyberg hopes to be able to train and compete for the Canadian Army welter crown.

Ken Sutherland, one of Winnipeg Canoe Club's top-flight paddlers, has enlisted in the R.C.A.F. as a standard tradesman. He was on the Winnipeg crew that won the Dominion paddling championship in 1937.

Keith Forbes, formerly of Portage La Prairie, Man., juvenile hockey star, has enlisted in the navy as a shipwright. Forbes played with the Portage Southsides.

Denny Konchak, 27, Winnipeg rugby and football player, has traded one uniform for another. He has left the Winnipeg police force to enlist in the R.C.A.F. as an airframe mechanic. Konchak once played snap on the Deer Lodge junior football team and later played with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, former Dominion football champions. He was a goaltender for Winnipeg Falcon juniors a few years back.

Chess Game Simplified

One of World's Masters Describes It as Ideal Form of Recreation

"Anybody can learn how to play chess in half an hour," says Reuben Fine, who ranks in the topflight of the world's masters at 31. To prove it, the Washington civil servant turned out a 174-page book called Chess: The Easy Way (Musson) with moves, rules and notation compressed into a dozen pages.

Fine calls chess the ideal form of recreation because the player is so occupied he cannot think of his business, or of the war, or of his marital worries. For the person who wants to think of something else, he simplifies the game with 30 rules. Here they are:

For the opening: Open with king's or queen's pawn. If possible make a good threatening developing move. Develop knights before bishops. Pick a suitable square for a piece and develop it there once and for all. Make only one or two pawn moves in opening. Don't bring your queens out early. Castle as soon as possible, preferably on the king's side. Play to control the centre. Try to maintain at least one pawn in the centre. Do not sacrifice without clear and adequate reason.

For the middle game: Fit all moves into a definite plan. Exchange when ahead, especially queens. Avoid doubled, isolated and backward pawns. Exchange in cramped positions. Don't expose your king while queens are on the board. All combinations are based on double attack. Look for a combination if your opponent has one or more exposed pieces. To attack the king, open a file (or less often a diagonal) for your heavy pieces. The best defence is a counter-attack.

For the ending: To win without pawns you must be a rook or two pieces ahead. The king must be active. Passed pawns must be pushed. Pure pawn endings are the easiest to win. Exchange pieces, not pawns, if only one pawn ahead. Don't place pawns on same color as your bishop. A bishop is better than a knight except in blocked pawn positions. It is worth losing a pawn to get a rook on the seventh rank. Rooks belong behind passed pawns. Block passed pawns with the king.

Fine is dogmatic because he believes it essential to a proper understanding of the game. But anyone interested in chess will like his simplicity and be amused at his book's dedication: "For my wife—in the hope that she'll finally find out what I'm talking about."

BIG CHANGE IN TERRACE

Transformation of Interior Town Thousands of People There

TERRACE, April 19—Like Prince Rupert Terrace is undergoing a profound change in its wordly circumstances. New roads are being opened up in the Village, thus giving access to areas which were formerly relegated to the eager second growth of forest trees, and where the only thing that lived and moved was the ubiquitous blue-jay. Whole streets have appeared. Streets of buildings as solid and permanent as those of an established city. Many people move along these new streets. The roadways present a stream of traffic both of pedestrians and of motor vehicles. The population of the place has increased in a few months from around 350 to ten times that number. Outside the Village area great buildings are in course of erection. Other roads are being constructed until the whole district is changed out of all recognition.

In pre-war days the little social activities of the Village inhabitants were news. If some lady enterained her friends to tea, that was news. Today there are a great many more ladies and we cannot doubt many more little social gatherings, though tea be rationed. However that may be Terrace is a much more interesting place than it used to be and it is doubtful if the place could survive the war's ending, if that brought Terrace back to its former condition.

"It's a way they have in the army"

"Break off!" To men in training or "over there", that order means "Now for a Sweet Cap". So it is also with the Navy and the Air Force from the far Northwest to the Middle East. It is Sweet Caps' war job to help men relax after strain. And they do it so outstandingly well that they are the most popular cigarettes with Canadians over here, over there, everywhere!

SWEET CAPORAL CIGARETTES
"The purest form in which tobacco can be smoked"

"It warmed our hearts . . . thank you very much" writes Canadian Military Headquarters Overseas regarding a shipment of cigarettes and adds, "There is no more appreciated gift that could be sent by Canadian people at home to their men and women overseas than cigarettes."

U.S. BAND IS HEARD

Fine Program for Troops at Capitol Theatre Last Night

(By DOROTHY GARBUTT)

An hour and a half of spirited band music was the treat given to the Canadian Services by a United States Coast Guard band at the regular Sunday concert in the Capitol Theatre. Captain Heinz introduced the band which appeared by permission of the Officer Commanding of the Coast Guard and the Commanding Officer of the American troops in Prince Rupert. The band's director is a charming little lady, Mrs. Abegglen, who stays very much out of the public eye, but she it is who is responsible for the arrangement of the program, selections played and so forth. The leader of the band is Gunner's Mate Ralph Gurtin and the assistant leader is James W. Steele.

The program itself was long and varied, the band excelling itself in typical numbers such as Sousa's "El Capitan" and the old favorite, so dear to old time acrobats and circus acts, "The Entry of the Gladiators." A bizarre and martial-like arrangement of Oscar Strauss's "My Hero" was played in a catchy and novel swing tempo so different to the customary languorous interpretation of this number. As an indication of the influence of Harry James and his trumpet, a trumpet quartet was distinctly new and later the audience was hoaxed by some good natured ribbing into thinking the redoubtable Harry was to be on the program. However, by special permission, and at no great cost, "Dutch "Lungs" Reichert, trumpeter extraordinaire, and Duke "Adonis" Stewart, on the drums, gave a lively few minutes of pure and unadulterated jive to the extreme delight of the swingsters in the house. Another solo act that brought thunders of applause was Vince "Ginny" Sorelli and his accordion. Vince is right at home with his music box and both he and the box come to life in one smooth melodic moment. He enjoys playing, we enjoy hearing. He played three numbers altogther, "Italian Street Airs," "Ida" and "White Cliffs of Dover," Ralph says that up in —— (where they come from) they have to lock up Vince's accordion so's the women can get some peace. And I believe him.

We were all most appreciative of the courtesy displayed by this visiting band in playing our own national airs so beautifully. I don't remember having heard "The Maple Leaf Forever" played more movingly.

The entire program was as follows:

National Anthems
"American Legion" march
"Harmony Queen" overture by David Coope
Trumpet quartette
"My Hero" band arrangement
"Anchors Aweigh"
"El Capitan," Sousa
"Coronation" march
Accordian solo, Vince Sorelli
"The Maple Leaf Forever"
"Thunderer" march, Sousa
French National March
"American Patrol," F. W. Mason
"Mantieux" overture, Paul Yoeder
Jive session on trumpet and drums, Chuck Reichert and Duke Stewart
"Entry of the Gladiators"
"In a Persian Market," Ketelby
Coast Guard marching song, "Semper Paratus," (Always Ready)
"God Save The King."

? What is a VICTORY BOND?

A Victory Bond is a document containing proof that you have loaned money to your country to help win the war, and containing your country's promise to return your money to you in a specified number of years, and, in addition, to pay you interest every six months on your money until it is repaid.

? When will Victory Bonds be paid off?

The money you invest in a bond will be paid back to you by your country when the bond reaches its maturity date, in the same way as Victory Loan Bonds of the First World War were paid. The maturity date of each bond is clearly stated in the wording of the bond.

? Is a Victory Bond a safe investment?

A Victory Bond is the safest investment in Canada. The entire resources of the Dominion stand behind it. Canada has been issuing bonds for 75 years, and has never failed to pay every dollar of principal and interest when due.

? Can I borrow money on Victory Bonds?

Yes, it is very easy to obtain a loan at reasonable interest at any bank by using your Victory Bonds as security. In this case the interest on the bonds still belongs to you. It will pay a large part of the interest charges on your loan.

? How is interest paid on Victory Bonds?

Interest on all bonds is payable each half year. The dates on which interest is due are stated in the wording of the bond.

Bonds in bearer form and bonds which are registered as to principal, have interest coupons as shown on the right hand side of the bond in the illustration. One of these coupons falls due each half year, the date of maturity of each coupon being shown on its face. On each interest date, you cut off the proper coupon, and take it to your bank. Any branch in Canada of any chartered bank will cash Victory Bond interest coupons without any charge to you for this service.

No interest coupons are attached to bonds which are registered as to both principal and interest.

When the interest falls due on these bonds each half year, the Government of Canada mails you a cheque for the amount due. This cheque can be cashed at any branch in Canada of any chartered bank without any service charge.

? What is the difference between a Bearer Bond and a Registered Bond?

Bearer Bonds may be sold at any time by any person holding them, and the interest coupons attached to these bonds are payable to any person who presents them for payment. In short, bearer bonds are almost as liquid as dollar bills.

If you own registered bonds, your name and the numbers of your bonds are kept on record at Ottawa. Registered bonds are of two kinds—(a) those registered as to principal, (b) fully registered bonds, that is, bonds registered as to both principal and interest.

In the case of a bond registered as to principal, the bond can only be sold if you sign a transfer form. However the interest coupons on these bonds are payable to any person who presents them for payment.

In the case of a fully registered bond, the bond can only be sold if you sign a transfer form. Further, no interest coupons are attached to the bond. The Government pays the interest on these bonds by mailing you a cheque each half year.

Bearer bonds of any denomination may be registered as to principal, and in the case of bonds of $500 or larger amounts, bearer bonds can be exchanged for fully registered bonds. Similarly, registered bonds can be exchanged at any time for bearer bonds.

The main difference between bearer bonds and registered bonds is that registered bonds give you better protection in the event that bonds are lost, stolen or destroyed.

? Where should I put my bonds for safe-keeping?

As Victory Bonds in bearer form can easily be sold by anybody, you should keep them in a safety deposit box in a bank. If you have not a box of this kind, any bank will keep your bonds for you for a small annual charge.

Safe-keeping arrangements can also be made with many trust and loan companies.

If it is not convenient for you to place your bonds for safe-keeping with one of these institutions, be sure to keep them in a safe place at home, and be sure to keep a record of the serial numbers of the bonds in another place. These numbers will be valuable should the bonds be lost or destroyed at any time.

In any event if you keep your bonds at home or at your place of business, it is safer to have them in registered form.

? In what denominations are Victory Bonds available?

The longer term Victory Bonds, which are the kind most people buy, are available in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and larger amounts.

Short term bonds, which are bought for the most part by business firms and corporations, are available in denominations of $1,000 and larger amounts.

? Must I pay cash for Victory Bonds?

Not necessarily. Victory Bonds may be purchased for cash or on a regular instalment plan. Many employers make it easy for their employees to buy bonds through a salary deduction plan. Or you may arrange to pay the instalments through your bank.

? Can Victory Bonds be sold easily?

Yes, you can sell your bonds in a ready market at any time. All you have to do is take them to any investment dealer, bank, stock broker or trust company. You will be able to get your money while you wait.

Victory Bonds are the property of their individual owners who have the right to turn them into cash at any time they may desire. When a person buys a Victory Bond, that person is making it possible for this country to get the men and material needed for war use, and is helping to fight the home front battle against inflation. When people sell their bonds they are withdrawing this help. Emergency needs for cash are legitimate reasons for selling bonds provided the person has no other forms of savings which can be used, or provided the person cannot obtain a temporary loan, to be repaid out of future income, to meet the immediate need for cash. Sales to get dollars to buy things that are not essential have not legitimate reason.

We must not only increase our voluntary savings and lend them to our country through the purchase of Victory Bonds; we must also continue to hold these securities at least until after the war, unless we need money for real emergency use. "Let us compete with our neighbours, in saving, not spending."

If there are any other questions you would like answered about Victory Bonds, ask any investment dealer, banker or Victory Loan salesman. Or if you prefer, you may write to me at Ottawa and I will see that your questions are answered.

Miss Norah McCaffery is leaving tonight for a trip to Vancouver to spend the Easter holidays.

Miss Violet Wesley returned to her home at Skeena Crossing on last Wednesday's train after spending a month visiting with Mr. and Mrs. George Turner in Terrace.

Rev. T. W. Scott, rector of St. Mark's Anglican Church, Vancouver, father of Rev. E. W. Scott of St. Peter's Church, Seal Cove, will be a visitor in Prince Rupert early in May. While here he will conduct an evangelical campaign at St. Peter's.

George Frizzell, following his recent serious illness, has sufficiently recovered to be able to be about town again and meet his many old friends. Indeed, he is quite fit again and will soon be leaving for the Skeena River hot springs.

The home making committee, Prince Rupert Chapter No. 211, Women of the Moose, held its regular meeting last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. C. Lundstrom. The only business discussed was the way to spend the money which was made on the raffling of a table cloth donated to the lodge by Mrs. Charles Graham.

Ernie Warren, Fisheries Engineer And Dry Dock Rivetter, Passed Away Last Night

Ernest Warren, engineer in the fisheries patrol service, dry dock rivetter and formerly prominent in football and boxing activities here, passed away at 6 oclock last night in the Prince Rupert General Hospital. He had been ill for about a year and had been in hospital five weeks. He was very well known and news of his passing will be received with regret by many friends.

Chief engineer on the fisheries patrol cruiser Metra, Mr. Warren had been loaned to the dry dock as he was an expert workman.

Forty years of age and born in Victoria, Mr. Warren had been in Prince Rupert since 1920, having come here first at the time shipbuilding was going on at the local shipyard following the last war. Ever since he had made his home at Prince Rupert.

In addition to the widow and two stepchildren, deceased is survived by his father, Sydney Warren, and three brothers all in San Francisco.

WEEKLY WARTIME NUTRITION HINTS

Martha Logan, Swift's famed home economist, whose weekly wartime cooking column is a regular feature of this page. Look for these valuable hints each Monday

by Martha Logan

It's Fun to Eat

Particularly in wartime we should avoid letting our approach to nutrition become too grim

Our government's nutrition program, important though it is to the prosecution of the war, is not anything to become grim about. It is not an attempt to thrust unappetising food down our throats just because it's good for us. On the contrary, all that we housewives are asked to do is to see that our families eat every day certain basic protective foods—foods which we were accustomed to eating anyway, though not always in sufficient quantities or with sufficient regularity.

But the nutrition expert is the first to say that if the food is not appetizing and interesting, we won't benefit from it as much as we should. That is why it is such a challenge to us women of Canada in a time of shortage such as the present, to use our ingenuity to prepare nutritionally correct meals that are at the same time both interesting and appetizing.

You will find my book "Meat Complete" a real help in solving these wartime problems. If you haven't yet received a copy, do drop me a line—with 10¢ to cover mailing and handling costs—care of Swift Canadian Co. Limited, Dept. NE 14, Toronto.

Prince Rupert Boom Town of West, Seen By Newspaperman; New Conditions Here Described

By RAYMOND ARTHUR DAVIES
(In Toronto Star)

Feverish activity. Jammed hotels. Overcrowded restaurants. Overloaded public services. Overinhabited homes. Business booming. Bank deposits rising. Money to "burn" and nowhere to "burn" it. Jobs begging for takers. Boom-town, B.C., 1942. In a word—Prince Rupert.

Two years ago Prince Rupert was a quiet, forgotten community at the end of the C. N. steel in northern British Columbia. The population was between 5 and 6,000. The city lived off fishing industry and dreams of its founders who came from the east in the beginning of the century, conquering the frontier and extending Canada.

Far in the Pacific shook Prince Rupert. Possessing an excellent harbor, said to be one of the three best in the world, the city looked up in hope. The beginning of construction work in Alaska meant a great deal and suggested that Prince Rupert might become a transfer port for goods for the north. The Canadian National Railways terminal at Prince Rupert was the closest railway terminal to Alaska connected with United States railways. And the possibility of the construction of an Alcan railway linking Alaska with Prince George on the Prince Rupert-Jasper C.N.R. line excited the people. Should this project, then still in the mapping stage, be undertaken, Prince Rupert might indeed become a major ocean port.

About a year ago work began in Prince Rupert. People came in droves. Today more than 20,000 crowd the city and more will come. The main street reflects the newcomers — workers, soldiers, sailors, airmen, Americans.

"Everything is occupied now," I was told by the tall and youngish—he is in his late thirties—mayor of the city, W. M. Watts, a men's clothing dealer. "Frankly, I don't know where a lot of people live."

There is little residential building going on except for workers in the ship repair yards owned by the Canadian National Railways. And even this can barely keep pace with the most pressing needs.

To cope with the immediate problem the Wartime Housing Administration is building 500 wartime dwellings for workers and in addition one 900-man staff house, two 144-man bunkhouses, two commissaries and a recreation hall. But this is not enough.

Nevertheless, barracks and office structures are mushrooming almost overnight. The sound of hammers and saws can be heard around the clock. Not even the persistent rain and 50-mile-an-hour gales can stop this activity.

I talked with G. A. Glay, the jovial and overburdened superintendent of the C.N.R., whose freight business in this division has increased in two years by more than 500 percent.

"One Thursday evening," he told me, "my sister and I went out for a stroll. We stopped at a corner store to buy cigarettes. On Saturday of the same week we again walked up the same street and stopped to buy cigarettes. The store was not there. In its place a large prefabricated office structure was going up, half completed. The cigar store had been moved up the street."

Often people going to Vancouver on the Monday boat return a week hence to discover the physiognomy of one or more streets completely altered. Old structures have been torn down or more often moved, new structures being raised in their place.

The restaurants are not only filled but close at 8 o'clock for lack of help. There is always a line-up. Occasionally an inrush of customers and lateness of boats from Vancouver clean out bread and potatoe supplies, and there have been days when only one or the other could be obtained. In every restaurant signs inform customers that one person will not be served in a booth and in addition, that booths may only be used for ordering full-course meals. In justice to the restaurants it must be said that the cost of meals is not high and the standard about the same as elsewhere.

I attended a Rotary Club luncheon at the Commodore Cafe. There was the usual group of important business and professional men, R.C.M.P. officers and army officers. But the cafe was so crowded that no waitress could be spared for the Rotary Club. Nothing daunted, the Rotarians served their own lunch. The city's leading meat merchant juggled trayfuls of plates as expertly as any waiter, and one of the bank managers helped clear away.

Recreation is in the worst position. And yet the need for it is great. There is only one motion picture house, the Capitol. It is always crowded and of an evening, with the rain coming down in sheets, it is not unusual to see hundreds of people, mostly men, standing in line waiting to get in.

Headaches for Council

The hotels—the Prince Rupert hotel clerk does not remember the day when he has had less than twenty names on the waiting list. Reservations mean little, for with all the good-will at its command the hotel management cannot force its customers to leave to make room for new arrivals. Where can the old guests go?

I was fifth or sixth on the waiting list. But that meant little. There was simply no room. But glory to the importance and power of the press! When Mr. Glay, C.N.R. superintendent, heard of my plight, he placed his private car at my disposal. Were it not for that I would have had to bunk down in the hotel lobby, if there were room.

The city of 20,000 is being operated with the machinery created for a city of 6,000. The tax roll is only $135,000 and business licences bring under $20,000 a year. Yet the calls for services are increasing daily. More water is needed, more canalization, more policemen. The city council is worried.

The two daily newspapers published in Prince Rupert reflect the startling growth of the community. Both editors, G. A. Hunter of the Daily News and W. J. Raymond of the Evening Empire find the task of getting out a daily paper under Prince Rupert conditions is almost herculean. In each case the papers are prepared by one or two men. Mr. Hunter gets the news, writes it, writes the editorials, prepares ads, reads proof, sells papers to newsboys. "Do you know anyone who wants a job?" he asks. But then he reminds himself that even if he did get someone to assist there would be no room to put him up.

Mr. Raymond came to Prince Rupert in its early days. Well, history did not let him down. The boom has come, at long last. But it took a long time to arrive.

Newest C. B. C. Station

Prince Rupert boasts of the newest C.B.C. station, CFPR. The station was privately owned until a few months ago. Today CFPR is on the air and Prince Rupert residents as well as people in the wilderness for 100 miles around listen to it.

CFPR is housed in a one-storey frame building, without even running water. But its youthful staff—Clarence Insulander, chief engineer; Sydney Anderson, announcer-operator, and Mrs. Jean Waite, secretary—carry on challengingly.

Dick Halhed, who was sent from Vancouver to help set up the station, described Syd Anderson's work in these words: "During this period (first hour's broadcast) the news announcer has completed his 7:45 broadcast and is busily engaged as follows: (1) emptying the ashes from the heater in the front office, (2) lighting a fire in said heater, (3) dashing hopefully to the shed at the rear to fill the coal bucket, (4) returning with, and more often without, the coal, and (5) sweeping out the office."

Any time during the day Indians and others appear asking that messages be broadcast to relatives and friends at Kincolith, Metlakatla, Kitkatla, or other equally strange-sounding places. These messages reflect the time and place. "Your hay is waiting for you. Come and get it." "Groceries and cylinder head being shipped next boat." Come to Kitkatla and bring will." These are only samples.

This is Prince Rupert. This is a part of Canada's still challenging frontier. This is a place where people fight for a present and a future. They laugh at themselves and their troubles. Their sense of humor helps cope with troubles.

MUCH FRUIT IS SHIPPED

Ten Thousandth Car is Sent From Okanagan Valley

PENTICTON, April 19—With the first pink blossoms of a new crop bursting under the blue skies of a typical Okanagan Valley springtime, the Grower-owned British Columbia Tree Fruits Limited has just created an all-time record by shipping its ten thousandth car of fresh fruits and vegetables from the 1942 crop via Canadian National Lines.

The railways drew lots to see which would have the honor of handling the 10,000th car, the Canadian National winning, accordingly C.N.R. refrigerator car No. 209182, of the new underslung heater type, is now rolling towards Regina, its destination, and the winesap variety apples therein are consigned to Macdonalds Consolidated in the Saskatchewan capital. Representatives of this firm also held a draw to see if the car would go to Saskatoon, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Regina, Calgary or Vancouver.

"This gigantic movement obviously establishes this selling organization as one of British Columbia's largest business concerns" said A. K. Lloyd, grower, president. "Fruit growers, who own and control it, get the greatest satisfaction from the fact they are able to make such a contribution to the well-being of Canadian people during a period of wartime foods shortage," continued Mr. Lloyd, adding that credit for such an accomplishment belongs not so much to the selling organization but to the co-ordinated efforts of the entire industry, including packing house operators, growers, railway companies, school children and thousands of others in the Okanagan Valley, many of whom closed their places of business during the picking season to help rescue the crop.

There are still a few hundred cars of apples to ship to the 10,000 already delivered to the markets. Apples made up about 7,000 cars, representing over 5,000,000 boxes, the remainder was of pears, peaches, plums,prunes, cherries, apricots, crabapples, cantaloupes, melons and vegetables.

Last year the crop estimate for apples alone reached the six million box mark, but due to several factors, chief of which was labor shortage, the crop did not materialize.

Asked as to whether ten thousand cars would be shipped in the coming year, Mr. Lloyd said this again depends on how much labor is made available. Many factors are involved but labor is the key note. Severe winter frosts may have taken toll on some varieties of soft fruits, especially apricots and peaches, but the extent of the damage is not yet determined. Other commodities will be in good volume, but only if sufficient help is forthcoming.

AIR FORCE IS WINNER

Defeated Navy 3 to 1 in Soccer Opener Saturday

Sergeant Frank Pearce and his Royal Canadian Air Force soccer eleven opened up the City Service Loop Saturday afternoon by scoring a win over Navy 3-1.

Playing on a wet, greasy field on Acropolis Hill, the Air Force squad carried the play throughout the game.

Forcing the game from the time Referee Sid Woodside set the teams in action, the Air Force team, their forwards clicking on all five, came close on several occasions. After ten minutes of play, Hugh Greer smashed the first goal for the winners.

The Navy team failed to get organized. Individually throughout the entire game each player was featured but playing unison wasn't there. Navy did come close on several breakaways. Chuck Irving wheeled the ball out to Arsenault on the Navy left wing and closed the play to Hilder at centre forward who tied the game up for Navy 1 to 1. Air Force resumed their drive on the Navy goal but for the remainder of the first half, Captain Bill Murray of the Navy team and Gord Munro of the fullback line broke up all dangerous plays.

Second half found Air Force again forcing the play. Fowler and Killips, on the Air Force wings, followed every play to the Navy defence. They were continually fed by their half line of Cole, Sutherland and Mole. The rest of the forward line comprised Greer, who was exceptionally outstanding, and Underwood and Fisher who supplied the bulk of the winning offensive punch the Air Force eleven kept driving.

Navy, their team shuffled about trying to get organized, came close on several occasions. Hilder and Irving, with Hanson at inside, showed signs of some fine teamwork on breakaway but bottled themselves up as they drew near the Air Force territory. The Air Force fullbacks, Novak and Smith, kept their goal-minder, Watson, safe from any close shots by playing the fast-breaking Navy forwards well out, and often offside. Fisher wound up the scoring for the Air Force, after driving hard at Collyer in the Navy goal and putting the game safely tucked away for the bird-men, 3-1.

Referee was Sid Woodside and the teams were as follows:

Air Force — Watson; Novak, Smith; Cole, Sutherland, Mole; Fowler, Greer, Underwood, Fisher and Killips. Spares: Lindsay, Little, McKerrocher.

Navy— Collyer; Munro, Murray; Bishop, Cummings, Allard; Hanson, Sommerville, Hilder, Arsenault, Irving. Spares: Cameron, Edwards, Sunburg.

Last Will Of Adolph Hitler

I, Adolph Hitler, being of unsound mind and misery, and considering the possibility of a fatal accident known as assassination, declare this to be my last (you hope, you hope) will and testament.

To Russia, I leave the Russian winter where by brave Aryan soldiers froze to death just when we expected to land deep in the heart of Moscow.

To France, I leave all the beautiful mademoiselles in occupied Paris. I was never the one for girls. Whoops!

To England, I leave the original manuscript of Mein Kampf, which their R.A.F. spoiled. I had written a different finish but their fliers got me in the end.

To Norway, I leave my advice for any potential Quislings—to wit, "There's no social security for the wages of sin."

To Italy, I leave Japan, the land of the Rising Scum, and vice versa. It's a question who'll be getting the worst of it.

To Poland, I leave a 16x10 gold-framed photograph of myself to hang in their public schools to scare the h—— out of any kid who might think along Nazi lines.

To America, I leave Walter Winchell who always said, "To hell with Hitler." I know he'll be very busy on my funeral day so he'd better not come—business before pleasure.

To Mussolini, I leave my Chaplin mustache, which he is to make into a toupe for his ivory dome.

To Goebels and Goering, I leave 30 million marks (two dollars) to buy a gift for my mother and father who are getting married the day I die.

To Franklin D. Roosevelt, I leave my apology for interrupting his fishing, but he got even.

To Count Ciano, son-in-law of Mussolini, I leave the Victoria Cross for bringing down in one day, 41 bombers and 72 fighters — all Italian.

To Winston Churchill, I leave a box of matches. I never yet saw his cigars lit. Besides, who'll need matches where I'm going?

To General MacArthur, I leave money for my tombstone with this epitaph:

Eeney meeney miny mo
Here lies Hitler by the toe
Underneath he seems to say!
"My master was the U.S.A.!"

And to the entire world, I just leave, and will they thank God!

—ADOLPH.

Meat Rationing

It has been announced that meat rationing will go into effect in May. Watch your newspapers for details. One reason for rationing meat is that 40% of Canada's meat production is going overseas.

Contagious Diseases

The Department of Pensions and National Health has expressed the opinion that there is no greater infection hazard in handling ration books from a quarantined household than would occur when handling bread tickets, money, milk tickets, etc. from the same household. In cases of virulent smallpox special precautions should be taken and arrangements made with a Branch of the Ration Administration.

Lost Ration Books

If you lose a Ration Book apply to the nearest Branch of the Ration Administration, or Local Ration Board, and make a sworn statement. A Ration Card will be issued for a 30 day period while investigation is conducted. Persons finding Ration Books or Cards must send them to a Branch of the Ration Administration, or a Local Ration Board, as it is against the law to have in your possession a ration book or card not belonging to a person in your household.

Sugar for Home Canning

For Institutions—Quota users who have made a practice of home canning may obtain Canning Sugar Applications by applying to any Branch of the Ration Administration.

For Homemakers—Those who have mailed Applications for Canning Sugar will receive their Canning Sugar Coupons by mail before June 1st.
