Fierce Fighting Rages In Italy

Killing of British-Canadian Airmen No Prison Break; Check Shows It Was Wild Massacre

LONDON, May 23 (Canadian Press) — A Stockholm dispatch says that a detailed account of the killing of forty-seven Allied war prisoners by the Nazis in March showed the massacre did not take place in a clash between prisoners and guards but was carried out by guards who lost their heads. Prisoners were huddled haphazardly in barracks, workshops. Six Canadian airmen were killed.

Annette's Is Burglarized

Neat Safe Cracking Job Is Done In Ladies' Wear Store

In one of the neatest safe cracking jobs in recent police records, thieves climbed through a transom above the front door of Annette's Ladies' Wear store on Third Avenue, opened a safe at the rear of the store, and departed with $400 at the week-end.

After knocking the dial off the door of the small safe and drawing back the tumblers with a wire coat hanger, the thieves left by way of the back door, taking the door key with them. However, they paused long enough to make an attempt to rob the adjoining Watts and Nickerson store by cutting a hole through an intervening wall, a job which they were apparently interrupted.

The exact time of the robbery is not known but it was while the store was closed at the week-end.

Only cash was taken from the safe. A quantity of checks was untouched. Two diamond rings, originally thought stolen, were later found inside the safe.

The cleverness of the thieves was indicated by the fact that they left no fingerprints. It is believed that they wore gloves. As a further precaution they wrapped the safe in a lady's dress to deaden the sound while they knocked the dial off.

Finding Annette's store such a soft touch, the marauders apparently decided to see what Watts and Nickerson's men's store had to offer in the way of loot. A hole eighteen inches square was knocked in the first of two walls between the two stores housed in the same building, but the second wall was not touched. It is believed that they were frightened away by someone passing by on the street or in the lane at the rear.

A hammer was thought to be the instrument used to knock the dial off the safe door but it was not found. A wire coat hanger, left lying in front of the safe, was evidently used to turn the tumblers in the lock mechanism.

A partition across the store about half way back prevents anyone at the front of the store from seeing into the back part and windows set high in the walls at the back preclude anyone seeing inside from that part.

The robbery was discovered when the staff reported for work on Monday morning. Mrs. Annette Woods, store proprietor, is at present in Whitehorse. Her daughter, Mrs. A. Dickens, is managing the store during her absence.

HIT POLICE; SIX MONTHS

Wedding Aftermath at Massett Ends Up in Court Here

Charles Yeltatzie, aged 26, a native of Massett, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labor when he pleaded guilty before Judge W. E. Fisher in County Court yesterday to assaulting Constable Ernest Bradley of the British Columbia Police on May 12.

Yeltatzie was charged with assaulting the police constable while he was arresting another native for drunkenness at a dance following a wedding on the Massett reserve.

Testifying, Constable Bradley said that he had gone to the reserve unarmed at one o'clock in the morning in aswer to a call by a native reserve policeman for assistance in handling Phillip Parnell, a native, who was drunk. While he was arresting Parnell, Yeltatzie and several other natives jumped on him. He put handcuffs on Parnell after some difficulty and later arrested Yeltatzie. He was unable to identify the other natives involved. He was to seriously injured, he said, although he knew that Yeltatzie had struck him at least once.

W. O. Fulton, counsel for the accused, asked the court that Yeltatzie not be sent to prison where he would be forced to associate with criminals. Since it was the accused's first offence counsel requested that he be given a substantial fine or that arrangements be made whereby he could serve out his sentence in Prince Rupert.

Crown Counsel T. W. Brown said that he had heard that the Massett reserve was particularly troublesome and emphasized that the police must be able to assert their authority at all times.

"The police always have in the back of their minds the possibility of a reoccurrance of the George brothers affair, although in this situation there were no firearms present," he told the court.

(The George brothers affair was a case where a police constable was shot while arresting a native on a reserve near Merritt a number of years ago.)

Before passing sentence Judge Fisher said that he thought Constable Bradley "very wise" to go to the reserve unarmed.

"When natives have been drinking they are very irresponsible. There is no telling what use might have been made of a gun," he said.

JAPS FLEE MYITKINA

Allied Airmen Sink Them In River As They Attempt to Get Away

KANDY, May 23 (CP) — Allied airmen have sunk a boatload of Japanese fleeing the encircled North Burma stronghold of Myityina in which street fighting is now in progress, one third of the city already being in Allied hands. Chinese and United States forces have blocked the main body of the enemy at Kamaing to the West. Heavy rains are slowing up the campaign.

The monsoon, breaking over North Burma, transferred the battleground at Mystkyina into a sea of mud but the Allies prepared for a final assault as the Chinese stabbed to the north today and seized a strategical junction.

The bloodiest fighting of the Burma campaign was developing today inside the city where the Allies smashed at the enemy street by street.

Lord Louis Mountbatten, Allied commander-in-chief in the southwestern Asiatic area, said today that the threat to communications between India and Burma had now been definitely removed.

Vandalism continues in the downtown section of the city. Another example of it occurred last night when a whiskey bottle was hurled through a door window of the People's Store. Felsenthal, was called by the police at 3 a.m. Evidently, there was no attempt at making entry.

Canadians Pushing On; Break Line

THRASHING HUNS

NAPLES, May 23 (CP)—While the German radio admitted the loss of Pico, stronghold in the centre of the Hitler Line, and Cairo reported that advance forces of the Allies were only fourteen miles from the Anzio beachhead, headquarters announced today new gains against stiffened enemy resistance in southern Italy. The Nazis have bolstered their defences by rushing reinforcements to threatened points. The Allied gains are small in amount of ground covered but they include several important hill features and penetrations by the Canadians and British of Nazi defences in the Liri Valley.

At London Minister of Information Brendan Bracken said that the fighting in Italy is beyond all description and the Germans are receiving one of the greatest "thrashings" in history.

A German communique reported strong Allied attacks in the Anzio beachhead area closest to Allied troops advancing from the south.

Douglas Amaron, Canadian Press war correspondent, said that Canadian infantry advanced through strong defences to positions controlling the southern end of the Pontecorvo-Aquino road.

WITH THE EIGTH ARMY IN ITALY, May 23 (CP)—Canadians, whose activity was limited to active patrolling during the last two days, pushed forward yesterday toward Pontecorvo.

Canadian forces penetrated the Hitler Line northeast of Pontecorvo, Eighth Army headquarters announced Monday night as the Germans forced the Americans from Terranica and resisted a renewed thrust southwest of Pico in the centre of the front. The Canadian infantry pierced barbed wire entanglements on the southern edge of the Liri Valley. There was no disclosure of the identity of the Canadian troops.

Field Marshall Kesselring is moving all Nazi mobile reserves into battle, according to communiques reaching headquarters. Allied losses have been considerable, a spokesman said, but not too high in relation to the results achieved and the extremely high casualties inflicted upon the Germans.

Douglas Amaron, Canadian Press war correspondent, said that British and Allied forces probed ceaselessly at the Hitler Line as the Germans brought up reinforcements to strengthen defences against impending full scale assault. Several important hill positions were taken by the Allies on the west coast.

Women After War . . .

"Young women all over the country feel the educational system should be extended to include a course to fit them for marriage and homemaking," Miss Jean Hall, executive of the Program Department, National Council Y.W.C.A. says.

"The majority of girls consider marriage and motherhood a career," said Miss Hall, "requiring the same education and training as any other career. They have no desire to just drift into it when they tire of their jobs."

Most unmarried women Miss Hall talked to thought that after the war married women should return to their homes. As well as feeling that if married women continued to work they might threaten their security, single girls believed paid workers could not take the place of a mother in a child's life.

The British Empire . . .

Many people in many lands, including citizens of the Empire themselves, have been puzzled by the question: "What is the British Empire?" but those outside worry more about its status than do those inside, says the Royal Bank monthly letter. Empire people take it for granted that they belong to a strange complex agglomeration of states which has "just growed," and they shrug off casually the absence of contract or constitution.

This association of members has not pooled its possessions, it has no central management, no uniform system of money, no Empire bank, and no consolidated public debt. Its diversity of race, language, creed, custom, interest and outlook present at first glance a phenomenon verging upon the impossible. It has many kinds of riches: natural, developed and accumulated. Its hundreds of nations display every form, degree and age of human civilization and culture.

People who have designated the British Empire as a unique family system of freely associated states, equal in status though not in stature, have not been far wrong. It has many characteristics of a family. Nations, after all, are composed of groups of human beings, and the characteristics of nations are akin to those of human beings. They are often dissatisfied with one another, but if anyone outside ventures on criticism of the family he finds that the quarrels are purely domestic. Family relationship is not a chance group of individuals; a family cannot be made by contract or convention or constitution, nor can a family be unmade by mere agreement. It is true that members of a family grow up and become able to shape the destinies of their own lives; and that is just what has occurred to many members of the British Empire family. But the family ties are still there, and they are all the stronger, perhaps, for being seen less in mature life. This relation of the members of the Empire to one another is not a mere analogy but a living reality, and this part at least of the Empire story is easily understood. Settlers from England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland went to new lands, carrying with them certain common ideals, ideas, traditions and loyalties. These are the things which make up the character of a people.

How did the Empire reach a stage where there has been such a rallying of diverse and powerful nations behind a decision of the United Kingdom, which seemed to await invasion and destruction at a dictator's whim? It was not by any route followed by great empires of the past. The British Empire of today is the outcome of evolution, and has developed great capacity to absorb shocks. Such an Empire could not be created by logic or planning, but only by a living political organism, capable of adapting itself to circumstances and possessing the flexibility needed for survival.

High School Alumni and C.W.A.C.'s Win

High School Alumni, consisting of former High School students, had little difficulty overwhelming Bo-Me-Hi girls 37 to 18 in a Women's Area Softball League game at Gyro Park last night. It was Alumni's second victory of the season in as many games.

Another clash at the park produced quite a different story when the C.W.A.C.'s battled to a close triumph over Allies by a score of 10 to 9.

For their game with Air Force W.D.'s, the Wrens were unable to have more than seven players at the tilt so it wasn't a league game. However the W. D.'s loaned the Navy girls two players and then proceeded to fashion a 26 to 4 victory. This game, which was played on Acropolis Hill, attracted a large crowd.

Blitzed Plymouth Will Be Modern

PLYMOUTH, Eng., May 23 (?)—A modern, streamlined city has been planned to replace the much-blitzed Plymouth after the war. Engineers, architects and the city executives have planned a model city with spacious, traffic-less shopping centres, wide streets and modern homes.

The homes, which are houses, not flats, are arranged in community centres, each with playing fields, swimming pools, tennis courts, parks, health centres and attractive pubs.

In the midst of it all will arise the blitzed St. Charles Church, a memorial to the sufferings of the city during 1940.

Historic Plymouth, still rich with the memories of Drake and the Pilgrim Fathers, was hardly touched in the blitz and will be preserved as it was, within a wall.

Training of homing pigeons starts when they are about four weeks old.

International Ball Game Is Being Played

There is to be a special Victoria Day sports feature in Prince Rupert after all tomorrow. It will take the form of an international baseball game between Americans and Canadians at the Acropolis Hill grounds. Teams were in process of being organized today.

SPORTS

The Acropolis eleven will commence their activities in the Area Soccer League by playing the Royal Canadian Air Force tonight on Acropolis Hill. Air Force dropped their first game to Reserves.

On Wednesday night in the Service Softball League's section two, Navy meets Dry Dock, Signals collide with Soo Suds, Air Force plays Ordnance and Ack-Ack meet Harbor Squad.

Navy has scored one impressive victory and suffered one humiliating defeat this season so no one can tell how they will stack up against the powerful Dry Dock nine.

Soo Suds, who clash with Signals, have defeated both Navy and Dry Dock in their first two games and have so far showed themselves to be a hard team to beat.

On Friday in section one competition Coast Regiment is slated to play Forty-Fourth while Port Edward will tangle with the Ack-Ack.

Sport Chat

Death of Sir Frederick Wall, whose enthusiasm and executive ability toward football earned him a knighthood brought editorial tribute and reminiscences from newspapers throughout Britain. He died at his home in Sutton, Surrey, at 85 following a lengthy illness. Sir Frederick's name was stamped indelibly in the annals of sport from 1895 to 1934 when he served as secretary of the Football Association, British soccer's ruling body. Under his reign, the number of clubs affiliated with the F.A. rose from 1,000 to 4,000. In 1929 a testimonial fund was organized for him under the patronage of the Prince of Wales and he was knighted the following year. On his retirement Sir Frederick received a grant of $45,000 from the F.A. in recognition of his services.

A sports lover, Sir Frederick kept goal for the now-defunct London Rangers before entering the administrative side. The first English Cup final during his official capacity was at Crystal Palace in 1896 when 50,000 persons swarmed by train and horse-drawn vehicle from London to surburban Sydenham to catch occasional glimpses of Sheffield Wednesday and Wolverhampton. Ground banking wasn't done in those days and the stands held but 5,000. Sir Frederick arranged King George V's visit to a Cup Final, again at Crystal Palace, in 1914. His last final was at Wembley in 1934 with a crowd of 94,000. There was a great hubbub during Sir Frederick's first year of office when the original F.A. Cup was stolen—from a Birmingham shop window where it was being exhibited. Nowadays, the Cup is a heavily-insured item, mostly confined to safes.

Footballers were only just getting out of the long-trousers stage when Sir Frederick's reign began. They turned out looking much like cricketers in white "longs." Teams carried their own referees and usually the most important part of the game took place before the start—deciding which team's referee was to officiate. Sir Frederick cleaned up that situation by forming the Referees' Association. Handling of all matches then was placed on an impartial basis. Tall and upright and for many years affecting a brightly-polished topper, Sir Frederick always had time for any true seeker of football information and advice. Anyone with a problem was told to "go and see Wall." When Sir Frederick became secretary the assets of the F.A. were but a few thousand dollars. Today's balance sheet shows $540,000.

Sgt. Major Gordon Black, also of Toronto, said Capt. Smith keeps close check on this particular part of the regiment's activities and has become a proficient gunner.

Sqdn. Ldr. H. F. Smeaton, Montreal, Roman Catholic chaplain at R.C.A.F. headquarters in England, and Sqdn. Ldr. W. Sanderson, D.F.C., of Melville, Sask., were recent visitors to the Canadian corps area. The chaplain is on a tour of R.C.A.F. squadrons while Sanderson is studying rehabilitation and home posting problems.

Another chaplain in the news is Capt. W. E. L. Smith, Grafton, Ont., of the Ontario Armored Regiment. When volunteers were called for to take supplies to snow-bound British and Polish troops in the Italian mountains, the Ontario tank men went to the rescue.

Capt. Smith couldn't leave when the party started out, but as soon as his other duties were attended to, he set off on his own to join the men from his unit.

The Ontario troopers, by the way, are not the only Canadians who have taken part in rescue operations. Members of the Provost Corps went through a mountain blizzard with rations and medical supplies for a party of South Africans marooned in the mountains.

Capt. E. M. Hills, Moncton, N.B., headed the rescue party which included L. Cpls. T. J. Donnelly, Ottawa, and H. S. Thompson, Mallory Town, Ont., and Ptes. C. A. Simmer, Fort William, Ont., and D. R. U. Agnew, Prince Rupert, B.C.

They travelled 20 miles by jeep and lorry, then shouldered packs and set out, at night, through the snow, charting their course by flashing lamps on the outline of the road. They found the South Africans after a four mile tramp.

The Maple Leaf, daily paper of the Canadian troops in Italy, reports that two troopers from a reinforcement depot hitch-hiked from a hospital in the Naples area to the Anzio bridgehead for a busman's holiday. They were Art Demaree, Windsor, Ont., and Gary Keegan, Calgary.

They landed at Anzio from an American landing craft, joined up with a unit and even went out on patrols.

"We ran into plenty of artillery fire," said Demaree. "It's sure a hot front."

TIMBER SALE X2383

Two (2) years will be allowed for removal of timber.

Further particulars of the Chief Forester, Victoria, B.C., or District Forester, Prince Rupert, B.C.

ACTIVITIES OF Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A.

(By Dorothy Garbutt)

Do you remember Ivan Mallett who was our first Y.M.C.A. supervisor at H.M.C.S. Catham? He was drafted overseas last September and is now stationed near Glasgow. I had a very interesting letter from him and give it to you in toto. (It was written on May 10):

"Dear Mrs. Garbutt:

"I really ought to be hanging my head in shame—or just hanging "Period"—for not writing long ago but here are the usual excuses. (1), (2), (3), (4)—you can figure it out for yourself. How are you old dear? I ran into Phil Hodgkins today and he let me read a letter you wrote him on April 5. Remember? That smote me, so I am writing.

"Phil is fine and he's only one of many lads I've seen here whom I knew at Prince Rupert. Remember Big Kennedy? And Ivan Edwards, Padre? Westover? Lieut. Red McLeod, Lieut. Dick Groom? Jim Collier? Leading Seaman Hill? Well, I've seen them all. Oh yes, Paul Bishop, Bill Putherbough too. I am forever forgetting names but those are a few that I recall off-hand. I'm sure they all remember you at the hut. Several have asked to be remembered to you.

"I hear that you are fixing up the hut, that the gang is all away at a conference, that things are quiet and that Frank Ryan is still on the job. Will you say "Hello" to the staff for me at your next Monday morning meeting? I miss those meetings. You see I'm away up here on my own where I never see another supervisor except my senior officer once in awhile. He is Joe Barratt. He's up here now. Major Beaton and Captain MacDiarmid are coming tomorrow. You see we have a very fine new Y.M.C.A. club with auditorium, lounge and canteen complete, about to open. I'm proud to report that, in addition to my other work, I've been looking after this new venture too. I'm going to be really busy. Besides this station I have been servicing two other camps some distance away. I love the country. It is lovely now. I had a fine leave down in Wiltshire, saw Stonehenge and Salisbury Cathedral. I often go to Glasgow since I have my own car to get around in. Will you say "Hello" to Breen and Jean? Also Frank, Mervin (now in Newfoundland, Ivan), Pat, J. Lee Van Luven, Carl and the rest? I hope this finds you all well,

'Sincerely,
"Ivan."

Movie Glitter Leaves Gagman Unimpressed

WINNIPEG, May 23 (?)—Hollywood is just an ordinary city with no more than its share of beauty and talent, says Vic McLeod, gagman and script writer. Vic, who spent several weeks in Winnipeg recently, refuses to be dazzled by the glitter of moviedom.

"After you've seen half-a-dozen waitresses who look like a combination of Lana Turner and Betty Grable and soda jerks with greek profiles, the novelty wears off," he explained. "If there's such a thing as too much beauty, Hollywood has it."

Mihilovich Is Being Removed

May be Replaced as YugoSlav Minister of War by Marshal Tito

LONDON, May 23—As a move to "greater national unity," General Mihilovich has been removed as minister of war for Yugo-Slavia, King Peter announces. He may be retained as commander-in-chief of the YugoSlav army with Marshal Tito becoming minister of war. Whether such a switch would be possible in the confused YugoSlav political situation remains to be seen.

NAVY LEAGUE STANDS READY

Annual Meeting of Local Branch —150 Cadets — Officers Are Re-elected

The Prince Rupert branch of the Navy League of Canada is fully prepared to swing into vital action if the need arises on this coast, the annual meeting of the branch was told in the chairman's report last night.

The organization is arranged so that it can take a full part in handling an increased number of women using this port should such a circumstance arise, R. M. Winslow, local League chairman stated in his address to the membership in the Canadian Legion rooms.

Membership increased tremendously last year, due to the sale of treasure chest draw tickets, those purchasers automatically became members.

In his report on Sea Cadet activities, Commander Alex Mitchell said that the local corps is among the best in the province. He had arrived at this conclusion after attending a recent meeting of corps commanders in Vancouver. Sea Cadet membership increased by about 30 during the past year and now stands at 150.

All League officers were re-elected to their posts until the end of the year by acclamation at last night's meeting. The officers are R. M. Winslow, chairman; C. H. Elkins, vice-president; William Cruickshank, secretary, and Alex McRae, treasurer.

The full executive and a large number of members were at the meeting.

Mrs. Blakey Is President

At the regular meeting of the Prince Rupert Labor-Progressive Club last night election of officers took place as follows:

President, Doris Blakey.
Vice-president, C. Vizer.
Secretary, A. Gillanders.
Treasurer, B. Mickleburgh.
Literature Director, J. R. Blakey.
Education Director, P. S. Taranger.
House Committee, J. Molitor.
Trade Union Commission, G. Nelson.

The meeting took place in the Labor-Progressive clubrooms under the chairmanship of Bruce Mickleburgh.

Sunday evening last a public lecture was given in the clubrooms on "Dialectical Materialism—the Philosophy of the Working Class."

ANCIENT WONDER

The first great lighthouse, almost 400 feet high, stood on the island of Pharos, off the coast of Egypt, and was known as one of the seven wonders of the ancient world.

Needless to say, every tea consumer in Canada will welcome the increase in the TEA ration and will lose no time in resuming some of the pleasant habits he was wont to enjoy in pre-ration days. What a treat it will be for the tired housewife to have her tea again in the mid-morning or afternoon when its delicious refreshment means so much to her.

You may depend on it, to the best of our ability, every grocer in Canada will be kept supplied with a fresh stock of delicious SALADA to meet these added needs.

HOW PENNANT CONTESTS GO

St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees Still Showing Way

NEW YORK, May 23 (CP)—While the National League teams are fairly well spread out with St. Louis Cardinals having a margin of three-and-a-half games for the leadership, it is a different story in the American League where one of the closest contests in years is in progress. Only five-and-a-half games separate the league-leading Yankees from the cellar dwelling Chicago White Sox. The longest gap between teams is the two-and-a-half games separating the Yanks from the second place St. Louis Browns.

Labor-Progs Whist Drive

Judging by the determined looks on some of the faces of the players at the whist drive which the Labor Progressive Party Club held in their new home on Saturday evening, they meant to carry off a prize if at all possible. However all could not be the winners but the fortunate players were: ladies' first, Miss Freda Brown; second, Mrs. M. Peterson; consolation, Miss Alfreda Ellison; men's first, J. Janis; men's second, J. W. Prusky; consolation, E. Anderson.

After a sociable hour over the coffee cups welcoming new friends and duly admiring the artistic arrangements and air of cleanliness permeating every corner of the club rooms, which some of the members have been so diligent over, everybody left contented, expecting to return next Saturday.

Arrangement For Isolation Is Continued

The arrangement between the city and the Prince Rupert General Hospital whereby the latter staffs and services the isolation hospital with the former maintaining and paying the cost of operation is being continued at the request of the city. When the matter came up at the meeting of the hospital board last week there was some discussion of the difficulty of obtaining nurses something for which, if it came to a crisis, would be a responsibility of the city through the medical health officer. New heating equipment for the isolation hospital has arrived.

NEW COMEDY IS BRIGHT

Olivia de Havilland and Robert Cummings in "Princess O'Rourke"

A bright, new comedy with novel theme, "Princess O'Rourke," starring Olivia de Havilland and Robert Cummings, is the feature picture for this Wednesday and Thursday at the Capitol Theatre.

Miss Havilland has the part of an exiled Princess who becomes bored and unhappy in a luxurious New York hotel suite. To get her out of the mood, her guardian uncle, Charles Coburn, sends her on a plane trip to California. Since plane travel terrifies her, she fills herself with sleeping pills and is in dead slumber when the plane is forced to return to New York because of bad weather. The pilot, Robert Cummings, tries desperately to awaken her and, when all efforts fail, he enlists the aid of his friend's wife to put her to bed. Then they fall in love but complications arise after the young man finds out that the girl is a Princess. With the assistance of the uncle and others, matters are straightened out and the happy culmination is the marriage by a Supreme Court justice.

Besides Charles Coburn, the supporting cast includes Jack Carson and Jane Wyman.
