GREAT BRITAIN MADE ANOTHER TRADE RECORD

Last Year's Trade Returns Show There Is Life in the Old Dog Yet

The British board of trade returns for December and for the whole year 1913 were issued at the end of the year. Contrary to expectation, the exports for December increased by nearly £2,-000,000, raising the exports of British goods for the year to the amazing total of £525,461,000.

The high figures are the more remarkable because they followed two years of enormous increase. This is how British exports have moved in the last

1911.....£454,119,000 1912..... 487,223,000 1913..... 525,461,000

Thus, in the past 12 months, exports have risen by over £38,-000, compared with 1912, and by over £71,000,000 compared with 1911. As 1912 was a record year there was no general expectation of another record in 1913.

Worth Looking For

Prof. Butler, of Princeton, is off for Syria to seek the buried wealth of Croesus, Croesus was the king of Lydia who subdued all the Asiatic Greek states and was overthown in a war against owner of slave named Aesop. who wrote fables. Those fables 8 a.m. Tuesdays, Nov. 25, Dec. are lost, and yet they are said to have been far more charming than the spurious "Aesop's Fables" which were concocted later and which we still read. It would be interesting to find the pelf of Croesus, very interesting, but Second Ave. how the world will open its eyes if Mr. Butler finds the lost fables of Aesop!

Brass Nozzie for Nose

Cincinnati, Jan. 29 .- It is being demonstrated by residents of Mount Healthy by Bill, who is Joe Stoeppel's horse, that a regular nose is quite a superfluous thing. When Bill's nose ceased to work well, so that it seemed that Bill would die of suffocation, Joe said it would be a shame o let such a nice horse go to the discard because he had not the use of his nose. Stoeppel consulted a horse doctor, who told his to cease grieving because he could give Bill a new nose by the way of his neck. The doctor made a hole in Bill's neck, opened his windpipe and put a tube in it. On cold days Bill's brass nose emits steam just like a regular horse's mose.

last to benefit, as money will be absorbed for some time to come by demands for capital for enterprises which afford ample security.

Fortunately British Columbia offers many such openings for investment, and there is therefore, no reason on the part of this province to look askance at a financial position which is irksome to the whole commercial world; but those who look for, or hope for, an early return of 'easy money' to assist operations of a speculative nature, require to be fatuously optimistic or—as the French put it—"Noblesse Oblige."

It is a very natural and right principle that those who by their position in life command the respect of others should deserve it and be worthy of maintaining their position. "Much is expected of those in high station."

But this principle is not confined to persons of noble birth -it has a hundred applications. It applies, for example, to those manufacturers of reputation and prestige who make goods of high quality and who advertise them constantly in the newspapers of the land.

By their advertising they have attained an eminence where the very best in quality and good service is expected of them. They have set a standard and their very business life depends on the constant maintenance of it.

So that when you buy advertised articles you rest assured that you are getting the best value that money can buy.

Well may you place your faith in advertised goods. Well may you give them preference over articles which you can only hope may prove satisfactory.

For the principle of "Noblesse Oblige" is your guarantee of excellence in Advertised Goods.

> If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this newspaper. If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be well for you to have the counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of these will be furnished, without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lumsden Building, Toronto.

PRINTING

Summer is over and the Fall trade has begun. To get your share you must have some sort of printed matter-a circular, folder, booklet or catalogue. Be sure to have that work done properly. You would not send out a shabby salesman to represent you; then don't make the mistake of sending out a poorly printed circular or booklet. We are QUALITY PRINTERS and can produce a piece of printed matter that you would be proud of and which will get results. Try us. Phone 98.
