DAILY EDITION

Tuesday, February 3, 1914

The passing of Rev. William Hogan is not the passing of an ordinary man; neither is it the passing of an ordinary clergyman. "Father" Hogan in his sphere stands alone. Indeed it appeared as if the great big genius of this mighty country had taken possession of him and he became its superman.

It is a difficult thing to write an appreciation of a man such as William Hogan. He had such a diversity of phases to his personality that it is almost impossible to determine which should be given the preference. At one moment he was almost Doctor Johnson over again, with his massive form, his thrilling personality and his telling wit. At another time he might have been John Knox hurling out the thunderbolts of judgment against the ungodly and daring to face the Queen of Scots or any other queen in defence of what he believed. And then again he was the big, hospitable and genial Celt with his winning qualities that made him a hero wherever he went.

Had William Hogan entered the commercial and political life of this country he no doubt would have placed his name high up among the annals of our great men. He chose instead the humbler path of the thorns and the cross. In that sphere, however, he has accomplished much. He has given a new interpretation of Christianity to many who could never understand it in any other form. No man who has ever heard "Father" Hogan preach will ever again believe that Christianity is the religion of weak men.

Northern British Columbia is much poorer because William Hogan has departed. His mighty grip and his hearty cheer will be missed by thousands of admirers. His memory will be forever green, and if an opportunity were given many would rejoice in the privilege of uniting in the erection of a monument to so great a man.

C. E. Tisdall, M. P. P., a political conferee of Wm. Manson, says:

"I am glad to see the provincial authorities taking action to preserve this industry for the white race. Our natural products should be in the hands of our own people and this policy will be welcomed by all well wishers of the province."

Sounds fine, does it not? That ought to catch white men's votes. That is what it is said for. Wm. Manson, M. P. P., says things just like it. There is only one thing wrong with it. It is not true.

Three white men, Norwegian fishermen held pre-emptions in Bella Colla valley. They had been in British Columbia long enough to get naturalization papers. In fact their applications were under way. These men applied for fishing licences and were refused by Hon. W. J. Bowser because they were not British subjects. The facts were laid before Mr. Powser. He knew these men were born fishermen; that they were bona fide residents of British Columbia; that they showed good intention of becoming Canadian citizens; that Japanese fishermen would get the licences of they were turned down. He turned them down. These men reside in the constituency of William Manson, but William Manson made no plea for them nor any kick when the Japanese got the licences.

Take another instance right at Wm. Manson's home. The Prince Rupert Cannery secured 25 or 30 independent Skeena licences and gave them to local Indian fishermen because there were no white men applicants. These Indians are not white men, but they are residents of British Columbia and spend all their earnings right at home. The Dominion fisheries department sanctioned these licences and Hon. W. J. Bowser cancelled them. He even threatened to close up the cannery if they were not given up. Most of these licences went to Japs. Where was Wm. Manson?

That is the only way Hon. W. J. Bowser, C. E. Tisdall and Wm. Manson are making the fisheries a white man's industry.

The best white fisherman in the world, if he does not happen to be a British subject, could not come here and get a fishing licence even though he has every intention of becoming a British subject. It is not reasonable to think that any government can populate this coast with white fishermen from foreign lands if they are not allowed to fish until they reside here long enough to become naturalized. British Columbia has a good climate, but it is no banana belt, and white men won't come here to live off pine trees and musk until the government sees fit to allow them to ply their trade.

NECHACO ICE JAM FLOODS PRINCE GEORGE

Big Jam Threatened Warehouse and Gave Several Families a Scare

Fort George, B. C., Feb. 2.—An ice jam at the mouth of the Nechaco River has flooded the eastern portion of Fort George and threatened to destroy the Foley warehouse. Several families had a close call, and were forced to wade to higher land. The temperature was 20 degrees below zero. The jam broke carrying away a portion of the Grand Trunk Pacific temporary bridge. The steel had been laid across the bridge into Prince George the previous day.

Swanson Bay Co. Taxes

The communication from the Swanson Bay Pulp and Paper Co. re their back taxes was reported on by the city solicitor to the city council last evening. The solicitor said that a reduction in the charge for taxes on wharf lots in Block F had been made in 1912, but they had not received credit for it. He recommended this amount be cut off. Their back taxes amount to $3,551.44, and the reduction previously made would amount to about $500. The report was adopted.

It's the spur of the moment that makes time fly.
