Sockeye Fishing Heavy As First Boats Land Outstanding Catch

Averages Hit 300 In Naas River Area

First of the season's sockeye salmon were landed yesterday at some of the Skeena and Naas River camps and today fish canning began in Prince Rupert as what may be the biggest sockeye harvest in years is being netted.

All fishing companies report Monday's fishing as "very outstanding" with averages running from 150 to 300 in areas on the Naas River, and up to 100 on the Skeena.

One fisherman's wife in the city today who talked to her husband on the radio, said he had netted 400 sockeye on the Naas yesterday.

Today's average on the Naas ran between 75 and 80, companies reported, and on the Skeena between 50 and 60.

Although it is too early in the season to predict how heavy the fishing is likely to be, some company officials say "it looks like a record year."

"But the confusion at the beginning stopped many fishing boats from reaching the Naas in time to start fishing Monday. Our reports say there were only about 100 boats on the river Monday."

All told, there are close to 1000 gill net vessels which will ply the mouths of the Skeena and the Naas from now until the season ends—or a strike is called.

Heaviest fishing is expected around July 24, the peak of the season.

But a strike has been called for July 19—unless a settlement is made on other than sockeye fish prices before then.

Fishermen are asking the same prices as last year, and in one case a slight boost on cohoe, chum and pink salmon.

Operators have proposed to cut these prices by three to five cents because of diminished markets which has created a large carryover from last year's pack of these types of salmon.

NO MORE PENCILS, NO MORE BOOKS—1000 ON VACATION

More than 1000 elementary school children began their summer vacation today as the 1951-52 season came to a close.

High school students, many at present writing government examinations, will be finished tomorrow.

First Steel to Defence Plants

By The Canadian Press

PITTSBURGH. — First shipments of defence-vital steel since the start 23 days ago of a country-wide steel strike moved out of steel mills in Pittsburgh and Indiana Harbor, In., Tuesday in a company-union joint effort to aid the military program.

A batch of finished steel destined for the United States Navy was trucked out of the Pittsburgh works of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. to end a log jam.

Nineteen tons of steel was shipped from Inland Steel's Indiana Harbor plant to Columbus, O., for use in jet engine production.

In Cleveland, a union official said steel stored in Republic Steel plants might be moved out by the end of the week. In Pittsburgh, the giant U.S. Steel Corporation said it has been conferring with union officials on how to move finished steel required to fill defence orders.

As the strike of 650,000 United Steelworkers dragged on, unemployment in allied industries mounted to around 125,000 and steelworkers clogged district relief offices in Pittsburgh.

Attlee Charges US Risking War

LONDON (CP)—Clement Attlee today accused the United States of imperilling Korean truce talks and risking war with Red China.

He said Britain should have had the opportunity to say whether it was "wise" to bomb North Korean power plants.

Attlee, Labor leader and former prime minister, opened the debate in Commons on bombing. He said Britain had been "kept in the dark" on plans for the raid, and he said:

"I think it will exacerbate (irritate) feelings and lessen the chances of an armistice, and may lead us dangerously nearer to a general conflagration in the East."

House Adopts Foot, Mouth Disease Report

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons agriculture committee Tuesday adopted a report, described as "whitewash" by CCF and Progressive Conservative members, commending federal veterinarians for their handling of the foot-and-mouth disease in South Saskatchewan.

The report was approved on division—without formal vote—after Liberal members defeated a Progressive Conservative motion charging "laxity and gross negligence" in the Agriculture Department's health of animals division.

The amendment also said that Agriculture Minister Gardiner did not "assure the competent performance of duty by those responsible to him," thus bringing about a serious loss in export and domestic markets to the Canadian farmer.

The motion was defeated 21 to 14 with CCF supporting Progressive Conservatives. Three Social Credit members present did not vote.

Huge Sum Aids Defence Production

OTTAWA (CP)—The government plans to spend $110,000,000 this year to help industries handle defence contracts.

Production Minister Howe said Tuesday in Commons the money will be used to provide capital assistance to both privately and publicly-owned industries in defence production.

Some of the money also will be used to encourage industries in the United Kingdom and Europe to establish in Canada plants needed in Canada's defence program.

Two Die in Gas-Filled Well

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Two brothers died here Monday in a 40-foot gas-filled well. Alexander Kuchak, 22, was overcome while working in a well and his 18-year-old brother, George, died in a vain rescue effort. Police recovered the bodies.

Saskatchewan River Flood Threat Drops

EDMONTON (CP)—Threat of widespread flooding of Edmonton homes along the banks of the rain-swollen North Saskatchewan River today appeared to be diminishing.

Rise of the river slowed considerably during today's early hours after rising yesterday at a rate of more than six inches an hour.

However, the crest still has not arrived and city engineers expected the river to reach 83 to 84 feet above the 1944 flood level when 17 families were made homeless.

New School Approved by Ratepayers

Special to The Daily News

TERRACE — This town is to have a new senior and junior high school, modern in every detail, in the near future.

This was assured Monday with the passing ow School Bylaw No. 1 by majority. The same bylaw was defeated by taxpayers earlier in the year.

While much attention has been given to the elementary school problems, the high school here has fared badly over the years. First established in the old teacherage about 25 years ago, it was moved to the old elementary school, two years ago when the new school, east of town and near the Civic Centre was opened.

With an ever expanding population, better education facilities have become necessary and these are now assured. Voting from each district is as follows:

Japanese Quake in Red Riots

TOKYO (CP)—Japanese police tonight broke up a mob of 2500 Korean and Japanese Communists hurling firebombs and clubs in crowded Shinjuku station in a brisk half-hour battle.

Rioting in the huge suburban station was followed by several hours of anti-American rioting in crowded Osaka area in southern Japan.

At least 34 police and 30 rioters were hurt and 102 demonstrators jailed in the Osaka area.

Brig.-Gen. Carter W. Clarke commanding the logistical unit in southern Japan, was struck in the face by sulphuric acid hurled into his car by a Communist-led mob. He suffered superficial burns and continued his office.

Reds are observing the second anniversary of the Korean war with demonstrations scheduled in many big Japanese cities.

WAVING FLAGS, BOMBS

Communists marched on Tokyo station waving flags and brandishing fire bombs.

One thousand police, experts at riot tactics, had been waiting at the station for the Reds.

The Osaka mob carried banners proclaiming "Small Itami Base," "No War," and "Independence."

The National police reported railway yards in Kobe were rushed by 5,000 Koreans carrying fire bottles and bamboo spears.

Judgement Reserved in Loss Suit

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice Sidney Smith reserved judgment in Admiralty Court Tuesday on a claim of Prince Rupert Fishermen's Co-operative to recover $50,000 from Union Steamships Ltd. for the loss of its fishpacker MV Kanawaka.

Government Won't Charge Dr. Endicott

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Garson said today the government will not prosecute Dr. James Endicott for his germ warfare and other statements partly because conviction would only help Communist interests who are using him as a "dupe and tool."

The government, Garson told Commons, refused to offer martyrdom to Dr. Endicott and refuses to endanger the principles of freedom of speech by taking him into courts for his charges. Endicott is a leader in the pro-Communist Canadian Peace Congress.

Synopsis

Pressure continues to rise slowly along the British Columbia coast this morning. The nearest storm centre lies about 1000 miles to the west of the Queen Charlotte Islands and it appears to be moving toward southern Alaska.

However, in spite of this considerable cloud covers the interior sections of the province due to the presence of a large supply of moist air aloft. This moist air is moving of very slowly and so will permit only a very slow improvement. Cloudy skies with some shower and thunderstorm activity may be expected again today and Thursday.

Coastal areas lie at the edge of the moist air and so will continue with only patchy cloud conditions.

New Bid Sought For Settlement

VANCOUVER (CP)—A new formula to settle the strike of 32,000 woodworkers is sought by the B.C. Labor Relations Board. "We'll try to find a new formula for getting the man back to work," said D'Arcy Baldwin, board chairman, Tuesday in an interview.

President Stewart Alsbury of the IWA declined to comment on reports that the union planned to make an alternate proposal to the Labor Board.

"There is no statement as to what the next move will be," he said. "The strike committee will meet as soon as possible."

Dairymen "Plenty Milk Here—and It's Fresh"

Milk Shortage Denied by Rupert Dairyman

Complaints by a group of dairymen that there is a shortage of milk in Prince Rupert were denied this morning by Al Sheardown, manager of Northland Dairy Limited.

"There is no shortage and has not been one," said Mr. Sheardown in answer to statements that elimination of the Sunday boat service by Union Steamships Limited has seriously hit milk shipments to Prince Rupert.

"We have plenty of milk and are more than willing to supply stores or wholesalers," said the dairy manager. "The store can purchase milk from us but they don't because they figure they are buying from the opposition."

Backing his contention that there is enough milk here to satisfy the needs, Mr. Sheardown said his dairy brings in an estimated 12,500 quarts of milk a week from the Bulkley Valley and "of that total only about 5000 quarts are delivered to the homes."

"While we ship to various outside centres, we still have enough left to supply the local needs."

Maurice Teng, agent here for Jersey Farms Limited, suppliers of the bulk of milk shipped from Vancouver, in answer to Mr. Sheardown said: "Northland has offered to sell me milk to help me fulfill my orders, but I'm under a contract with Jersey Farms and cannot buy from Sheardown."

Teng said that because of the change in boat schedule and a reduction in cooler space on the vessels arriving Wednesdays and Fridays, he can obtain only 650 quarts a week, as against 850 before the Sunday boat was eliminated.

"I'm willing to sell you milk to help you," Sheardown told Teng, "but if you're under a contract there's nothing I can do . . ."

Out of the 12,500 quarts imported from the Bulkley Valley, Northland Dairy diverts over 7000 quarts into the wholesale trade.

"This talk of a milk shortage or that it is not fresh is all wrong," said the dairy manager.

"I bring in milk from the valley every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday and the supplementary supply gets in Wednesday and Friday from Vancouver."

Asked if he would like resumption of the Sunday boat service, Sheardown said: "Certainly I'd like to see it back but I can get along without the boat.

"The newspaper has been saying there's not enough milk and there's plenty of it. . ."

Mr. Sheardown's statements came on the heels of a protest meeting last night at which it was decided to investigate the possibility of importing milk and produce from Edmonton.

Grocery store owner G. P. Lyons, addressing the group of 10, said "grocers are faced with a very serious problem."

"Elimination of the Sunday boat service has caused so many headaches that we must do something quickly."

He said he was out of milk on Tuesday and "since Union cut that Sunday boat I'm having a terrible time trying to keep produce fresh."

"Union has been bringing milk and fresh produce to Prince Rupert for 30 years. The Sunday arrival has always meant that we could have fresh fruit and vegetables on our shelves Monday mornings."

PETITION

The group decided to contact various fishing companies here, the hospitals and government representatives asking them to bring pressure to bear on the Union Steamship Company to resume its Sunday schedule.

Mr. Teng agreed to contact dairies in Edmonton regarding shipment of milk and fresh produce.

Three other businessmen, Mr. Lyons, Len Brewerton of B.C. Fruit and Produce Company, and Jay Burns of Burns Better Buys, will visit grocers with a petition.

After the signatures have been obtained the petition will be presented to city council for their decision.

At the council meeting Monday night, aldermen agreed to make a ruling after the petition was presented to them.

Mr. Sheardown said this morning he would be among those who will sign "a petition to get the Sunday boat back, but that doesn't say I need it back to bring in milk."

More Service for Prince Rupert

THE FACT that Prince Rupert is suffering under a step-down of coastal ship service is giving much concern to merchants of this city. It should also be viewed with concern by the public for it is they, who in the end will suffer most.

Since Union Steamships has dropped its Sunday shipping service to Prince Rupert, grocers here can get fresh milk and vegetables only twice weekly. This means that the produce must either be sold quickly once it is on the shelves and it must be used quickly by the householder or it spoils. A good deal of spoilage and financial loss already has been reported.

It appears that Prince Rupert is being pushed into the background and that the reason for this is the development at Kitimat and Kemano.

A lot of equipment is needed there, besides food products and supplies. Two main shipping lines on the coast call in at the Alcan sites to keep up the flowing stream of supplies. But this is only the beginning. As Kitimat and Kemano grow, their needs will be greater.

Does this mean that we in Prince Rupert must get less and less service?

That is hardly a feasible deduction, for Prince Rupert has been the main excuse for any of the shipping lines to make the coastwise trips.

We still have a trading area here of more than 20,000 people who have to be fed and should not pay a penalty of out-of-range prices or of being brushed aside for living in a semi-isolated part of the province which they are developing beyond greatest expectations.

The answer, naturally, is more shipping on the west coast of B.C. It is a need and it must be answered. If one company cannot handle it, another may find it advantageous to open a competitive service. It is, however, not our place to say who shall provide this service, but the voice of the public will be heard.

If we need extra shipping into Prince Rupert, the public will demand it. Prince Rupert is too strong an area now to be cast aside without a lot of noise.

As I See It

Dr. Patton on Polio

VANCOUVER has had several cases of polio recently, which seem to spring from a swamp infected from nearby septic tanks.

The more I thought of this the more I wondered "How does this fit into the theory of Vancouver's long-time investigator of polio—Dr. W. D Patton?"

Readers may recall that for several years I have written about Dr. Patton's theory that fowl paralysis and human polio are one and the same disease, and that humans are infected by eating soft-cooked eggs from diseased hens.

I FOUND Dr. Patton anything but confounded by the apparent connection between a swamp infected from septic tanks and the new cases of polio.

"Far from weakening my theory, it helps to substantiate it. Kling proved that monkeys could be infected with polio from the colonic flushings of polio patients. In recent years there have been numerous reports of finding polimyelitis virus in human faeces. My point is, eggs got it there in the first place!"

Dr. Patton has retired from general practice now and devotes his full time to a study of polio. He has concluded what seems to me the most remarkable one-man medical sleuth job of modern times. It concerns the outbreak of polio among the Eskimos in the Hudson Bay area in the winter of 1948-49. This was unique, for many reasons. No polio had ever been recorded among Eskimos before (or has been since). There were actually two epidemics—one in the area between Churchill and Nunella, the other at Chesterfield Inlet. The second epidemic was so severe that if one of similar proportions occurred in a city of, say 300,000 people, 150,000 would be laid up, 15,000 would die within ten days, and 42,500 would be paralyzed!

FEDERAL government doctors sent north to investigate the tragedy attributed the epidemic to polio infection, probably carried by a missionary who travelled from Eskimo Point to Chesterfield at that time. They could not explain how the missionary, who was not ill, then or later, could infect so many people over so wide an area. But Dr. Patton discovered the following facts:

1. The Eskimos, for the first time in history, had obtained considerable quantities of U.S. garrison War Assets dried eggs. Dr. Patton has a signed statement that the Eskimos received powdered eggs before the outbreak of polio, and as you know, Eskimos do not cook their food thoroughly, or eat it raw.

2. One Eskimo, Tootoo, obtained powdered eggs at Churchill, and left behind him on his way north a whole string of polio-afflicted persons.

3. The missionary, when he arrived among the Eskimos, very likely had with him a supply of dried eggs.

4. Dr. Patton obtained from the north, and still has, dried eggs from the same supply released to the Eskimos just before the deadly polio epidemic. In three experiments on monkeys, he fed or injected the dried egg powder. Of the six experimental animals used, four showed symptoms of paralysis, and one of the four died.

DR. PATTON argues that he has shown enough, at his own expense, to warrant a full-scale research by some national institution. He believes the Eskimo epidemic and its aftermath the greatest vindication yet of the theory he first enunciated in 1931. His main point is the Eskimos never had polio till they got dried eggs.

"What about eating eggs?" I asked.

"Eat twice as many as you ever ate before," he said, "but be sure to cook them thoroughly!"

In the 20 years from 1929 to 1949, value of Canadian lumber production rose from $125,000,000 to $355,000,000.

Parliament Session Forecast For Fall

OTTAWA (CP) — Another session of Parliament, possibly the last before a general election, may be called late this year.

There is no indication that it will be a special session, but the regular 1953 session—seventh of the 21st Parliament—called early to permit cabinet ministers and parliamentarians to attend the Queen's coronation in London next June. Ordinarily the 1953 meeting would not start until January or February.

Strengthening belief of early resumption of business is a government decision not to proceed immediately with several pieces of legislation, including important amendments to the Criminal Code.

The current session is expected to finish this month, possibly Monday, June 30. To meet this target, Commons starts an eight-hour work-week Monday, sitting mornings, afternoons and evenings, including Saturday.

It is anticipated that when current business is completed, Parliament will be adjourned until late November or early December. It then would be prorogued and a new session started, last until May with a brief break for Christmas.

Some political pundits predict that after the Coronation—providing the political situation is favorable—Prime Minister St. Laurent will dissolve Parliament and call an election for the fall of 1953, possibly in October after the harvest has been gathered and before winter starts.

The life of the present Liberal government, elected in 1949, expires in the summer of 1954. However, governments normally do not wait until the last minute to go to the country.

However, some political observers feel that recent Liberal defeats in federal by-elections may rule out the possibility of an election next year. But political timing always has been a big factor in making the decision.

Mr. St. Laurent recently outlined to the Commons work yet to be considered at this sitting. He said that a number of bills, already in the parliamentary mill, will not be proceeded with.

However, he left members guessing as to what will be done at the end of this sitting. At one point he referred to a "recess" which would simply be an adjournment of the present sixth session of the 21st Parliament. Then he mentioned "prorogation," which would mean the end of the present sitting with no adjournment.

The betting is, however, that only an adjournment will be taken so Parliament can be recalled at any time. Then, when it reassembles in the fall, the present session could be wound up and new one begun.

Steel Strike Slows Down Canadian Production

The United States steel strike, entering its fourth week, will cause production-line slowdown and stoppages in Canada "in a week or two," unless the strike ends before then, says Dr. H. H. Saunderson, materials co-ordinator of the defence production department.

"Some of the companies are beginning to feel the pinch now," he said in an interview yesterday.

However, production lines in most plants relying on imported steel and party-fabricated steel parts would not begin to slow down unless the strike continues another week.

Most companies had fairly good stockpiles of steel at the start of the strike, Dr. Saunderson said. But their stocks of U.S. partly-fabricated parts were not so large. This would be one of the factors causing initial shutdowns.

Lack of a single part in production-line manufacture could close down a whole line, and some plants may slow down their lines to keep going as long as possible on present stockpiles.

Canadian steel mills produce well over 3,000,000 ingot tons a year. Imports total about 1,000,000 ingot tons.

Canadian Mills Can't Meet Demand

Although steel imports are only about one-quarter of Canada's needs, they consist in part of steel types not made in this country—wide rolled plates, certain wide-flanged beams and other special types.

Canadian mills were unable to take up the extra demand after the strike.

"Canadian mills have been working top-speed right along," Dr. Saunderson said. "When we lost our U.S. supply there was no slack in Canadian mills to fall back on. They didn't have any slack in their program."

Steel is the backbone of all industrial development and a crisis in steel usually spreads to other fields. In Canada, automobile factories have usually been the first hit.

Canada's own steel industry has been gradually expanding. Forecasts have said it may be able to meet this country's needs for most types of steel within 18 months. There are a few types such as wide-rolled steel, however, for which the demand does not warrant expenditure on the heavy machinery to produce it.

Reflects and Reminisces

Once, all that railway land reserve between Fourth and Sixth Streets was like the rest of the townsite. It had been cleared. Today, timber is back—most of it, handsome young trees. Each would look well on a lawn.

All this was important ground as the Grand Trunk Pacific thundered its way toward Prince Rupert. A princely hotel was in the setting. It would stand somewhere in the reserve, or park, or what have you. The blueprint showed 10 floors.

A PIONEER FOUNTAIN

If not more, it gave a luxury setting, imparting a feeling of exclusiveness. Muse the contractor started blasting the location that later became a fountain. It's still there—that is, the site. For a time, however, there had been spouting, not unlike what was heard first.

It took a war, as usual, to work a change. After 1939, to Rupert rolled thousands of Yankee troops and no one whispered. But carpenters did. The reserve was covered with handy little homes, all to vanish in '45. Never had there been so much stir before, and never has there been since.

"What feed!" you can almost overhear anyone of bucolic instincts say, as he glances over the reserve, at this season. What feed, indeed. Many a year ago, the lush grass provided such pasturage near a railway yard. But it wasn't always safe. One morning a sleek bossy cropped too close to the verge of the precipice overlooking the rails, far below, and beef became substituted for milk.

GOLF IS GRAND!

No one has supported the lone suggestion that the area be developed as golfing grounds. But there was something about its rugged spaces so close to home and mother, that invited competition. A few who studied the notion were unfeigned and hopeful. But not enough.

EASILY RECOGNIZED

We almost neglected to mention totem poles. There's a noble old fellow near the Lookout, and others handy. By the way, why the suspension of lawn bowling, as well as other considerations? What's what and whose who, after a couple of generations? Old trees gone, new ones here. There isn't actually so much of a change. No fresh novelties or startling comparisons. In fact, pretty much the same.

Japanese Employees on Hunger Strike

TOKYO (Reuters)—Four Japanese employed by British Commonwealth forces today started a hunger strike outside the Commonwealth Labor Office at Kure, Southern Japan.

They said that unless their wage demands are met, 12,000 employees of the Commonwealth forces would take direct action by June 23. Canada uses Kure as headquarters for troops in Korea and Japan.

Their union is protesting against a possible permanent wage cut.

Japanese workers came under the direct employment of the Commonwealth Command at the end of the occupation. They were told they would lose all retirement allowances, family allowances and certain bonuses, Tomoto Kubo, union secretary said.

"This would mean losses averaging two to three thousand yen ($5.60 to $8.40) or about one-quarter of our average monthly incomes," he added.

A Commonwealth spokesman said today negotiations are in progress between the Commonwealth governments concerned and the Japanese government for an agreement covering the status of Commonwealth forces and the terms of employment of Japanese garrison workers.

Mutual Reports Favorable Financial Progress Year

JASPER.—The most favorable financial position in the company's history was reported here today by H. L. Guy, assistant general manager of the Mutual Life of Canada, at the western regional conference being held at Jasper Park Lodge.

An extremely conservative basis of calculation of actual liabilities established several years ago when interest rates were low, has provided a comfortable margin to offset increasing expenses, he said.

Mr. Guy reminded the representatives that their company was a service organization rather than a financial institution and that their policy must continue to be to grow with the economic development of Canada by promoting thrift and family security.

Their progress in the last 25 years was illustrated by the fact that in 1927, Mutual Life had 498 full time representatives, producing $51,000,000 in new business, and last year their records showed 654 full time representatives who produced $134,000,000.

The high individual producer for the year was Richard Sephton of Vancouver who closed 218 cases amounting to $1,547,380, it was announced at yesterday's session by George Dunbar, superintendent of agencies.

He said a new record was set in cases closed in the year by Len M. Shetler of Montreal with 268.

Of the 44 representatives who reached the half million dollar production mark last year, 19 did so for the first time, and three of these were in their first year with the company.

The agents will conclude their four day meeting on Thursday.

Amidst a setting of a beautiful profusion of g flowers, Anna, daughter of Commander and Beketov, 855 Borden Street, exchanged nuptial with Rev. Leonard A. Thorpe, son of Mr. and R. A. Thorpe of Duncan, B.C., on Saturday at p.m. in the Regular Baptist Church.

The guests were received amidst a background of the flower embanked fire place.

The bridal table decorated by the bride's mother, was of startling beauty. Four tall tapers surrounded the three-tier mirror center wedding cake which rested on a lovely hand-made lace table cloth. The cake was surmounted by a tiny scale model of a 16th century galleon under full sail, made by the bride's father.

The toast to the bride was made by Mr. Levelton to which the groom responded and in turn presented the toast to the bridesmaid.

Mrs. J. R. Elfert poured and serviteurs were Mrs. Levelton, and the Misses Joan Gardiner, Margo Brown and Ethel Moorehouse.

The bride presented her attendant with a lovely string of pearls. The best man was presented with a wallet from the groom, and the ushers each received gifts. The bride's gift to the groom was an attractive leather club bag.

The newlyweds left for Vancouver aboard the Princess Louise where their wedding trip will commence. From there they will motor through the Okanagan. The bride's going away outfit was a charming egg-shell knitted suit, camel hair coat and green accessories. Her outfit blended nicely with the groom's gift of a three piece luggage set of egg-shell embounded in green.

On their return, the Rev. and Mrs. Thorpe will reside here where he will continue as pastor of the Regular Baptist Church. Mrs. Thorpe will continue to teach at King Edward School.

Victor Beynon, who has been hospitalized in Vancouver for several months, is due this week for a visit home.

Boy Pitcher Wins Cruise To Alaska

VANCOUVER.—Seattle's "Old Woodenface" baseball pitching champion, 13-year-old Phil Soicheid, was about the most excited boy in Vancouver last night.

His prize for winning an annual pitching contest was a 10-day cruise to Alaska on Canadian National steamship Prince George. And he was here to claim his prize.

The lanky Puget Sound high school boy took his mother, Mrs. B. Soicheid, on the cruise with him. He had won the two tickets by defeating more than 11,000 boys from 90 Seattle high schools and playgrounds in the "Old Woody" contest.

In the finals, pitching against four other top boy pitchers, Phil threw 25 strikeouts to win his crown.

The other finalists in the contest sponsored by the Seattle Times and the Seattle Parks Board each received new baseballs and gloves. A number of other prizes, including big league caps, had been distributed to winners in each school.

Before he sailed from here last night, Phil met some of Vancouver's young baseball players who came down to the ship to wish the champ bon voyage.

Phil and his mother were among the 260 passengers from all parts of the United States and Canada who are on the cruise. The passenger list also includes the newly elected president of Kiwanis International, Walter J. L. Ray, and Mrs. Ray of Detroit. They are accompanied by a number of Kiwanians taking the cruise before returning home following their recent convention in Seattle.

First Children Should Set Example

TORONTO (CP)—Raise the first two right, and there's really no problem to bringing up a large family.

So says John H. Fedora of Toronto, father of nine girls and four boys. He and his wife Jennie have just celebrated their silver wedding anniversary here.

"The older children lead the younger ones along, all down the line," he says, "and the whole family can work together."

Three of his children are employed in the foundry which Mr. Fedora took over from his brother in 1946. Helen, 16, does drill press work with her 18-year-old brother Bob. Benny, 22, helps his father with the books.

Originally from Wanda, Sask., Mr. Fedora believes there may be more opportunities for large families in the east.

Innkeeper's Wives Make Own Rules

HASTINGS, England (CP) — The experienced public-house keeper will never tell a woman on the telephone that her husband is in the bar. The tactful answer is "No, he's just gone out."

That was one of many tips heard at a meeting of the Publicans' Association attended by 500 wives, mothers and daughters of innkeepers. Mrs. I. L. Grand, the speaker, added that in such a case, "it's up to you to see that the husband leaves promptly."

She urged the gathering to listen to the same funny story or tale of woe no matter how many times they've heard it before. And they should try to patch up matrimonial differences.

Men should not always be allowed to settle disturbances between customers, she said. Sometimes women can stop the trouble faster.

Mrs. Grand added that the licensed trade made for happy home life. "If a woman makes a good publican she will almost certainly make a good wife."

Rev. J. R. Sankey, rector of the local church, said that the pub plays almost as important a job as the church in society. "Vicars and publicans should get together more often with the same aim—promoting friendliness."

Pupils Perform Before Parents

The piano pupils of Mrs. H. Jamieson entertained their mothers in a very enjoyable musical program, last Friday afternoon at the home of their teacher.

Each pupil showed marked individual progress and Mrs. Jamieson expressed her sincere pleasure in having full co-operation of both pupils and parents in her endeavor to further their musical appreciation.

The program consisted of the following:

Andrea Vietch: Welcome, Sweet Springtime; Neopolitan Song; Danny Radford: Good Morning, Merry Sunshine, Playmates; Lynda Ferguson: Hornpipe, Playing Hopscotch; Ann La Sette: The Dance, The Minuet; Gail Davidson: Mouse in the Coal Bin, The Ghost Stalks at Midnight; Janet Sherry: Sailing Boats, My Dog and I; Duet by George and Ann La Sette: Easter Parade; Colin Sherry: The Wise Young Owl; Barry Jamieson: Indian War Dance, The Ballet; George La Sette: The Sphinx, At the Soda Fountain; Dorothy Powell: A Tiny Lullaby, God Save the Queen.

After the program Mrs. Jamieson favored her pupils with a light classic, followed by an advanced classic for the adults.

A dainty tea was served by Mrs. Jamieson, assisted by Mrs. E. Turner.

Music Appreciation Group Meets for Final Session

A music appreciation group which began with a small nucleus of music lovers is giving an open invitation to anyone who wishes to relax in comfort and listen to their favorites.

Place is the Civic Centre Common lounge Friday evening at eight.

Under directorship of Jack Stirn and Miss Rosalee Thain, this will be the last of the season's such programs. Friday's agenda of music includes:

Rossini's overture to "The Thieving Magpie"; Smetana's "The Moldau", "The Mad Scene" from Lucia di Lammermoor, sung by Lili Pons; "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra" by Tchkovski; "The Waltz" from Egen Oneigin, by Tchaikouski; "Home To Our Mountains," a duet from Il Trovatore, by Verdi and "The Unfinished Symphony" by Schubert.

Recordings are supplied by a city music store and by the private collection of Charles Forbes. Reproduction, says Mr. Stirn, "is above criticism." There is no charge and everyone is welcome but those intending to attend are asked to notify Mr. Stirn at the Civic Centre, telephone 231, or Miss Thain at telephone 6.

IDLING BEES

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)— Local truck gardeners blamed the poor outlook for strawberries here this year on the bees. J. A. McDonald said "it's been raining so much the bees haven't pollinized," and he pointed out the bees won't work when it is raining.

VAST CAVERN

The Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico have the largest roofed "room" in the world, 4000 by 625 feet and 300 feet high.

Caribou Needed for Eskimos

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator Thomas Crerar, a former superintendent general of Indian Affairs, today suggested in the Senate the Northwest Territories Council be given power to do something about caribou—the vanishing food supply of northern Indians and Eskimo.

Senator Crerar, a Liberal from Manitoba, said the caribou are essential to the survival of Indians and Eskimo in the areas west of and surrounding Hudson Bay.

Reports indicated that caribou herds were being decimated by wolves and their numbers are rapidly decreasing.

If the Northwest Territories Council is doing nothing to protect them, power should be given the council to deal with the situation, Senator Crerar said.

He said that is the only suggestion he has to make in connection with the government's legislation re-organizing the functions of the Northwest Territories Council.

Senator F. W. Gershaw (L—Alberta), who explained the bill's provisions, said that since 1935 the herds of reindeer brought into the Territories from Alaska increased to about 9000 head from 2300.

This increase provided about 500 head a year to supplement the food supply of Eskimo and Indians near the Mackenzie River mouth.

Under the legislation, the Northwest Territories Council will draw $600,000 revenue from fur, game, business, gasoline tax, liquor and tax rentals to the federal government. Education, hospital and road costs will take about $580,000 of this. The federal government also will spend some $7,000,000 in the Territories.

Court Drops Charges Against CP

TORONTO (CP)—All five charges brought against the Canadian Press by the American Newspaper Guild (CIO-CCL) in a collective bargaining dispute have been wiped out in county court here.

The union withdrew four accusations it had lodged under the federal labor code in a two-year dispute with the national news agency.

Judge Samuel Factor turned down a union appeal from a lower court's dismissal of the fifth guild charge. He held CP had complied with a labor-code obligation to "make every reasonable effort" to conclude a contract with the A.N.G. The union's charge was that it had not.

The five charges—four of them alleging discrimination and interference against guild members with respect to CP's Ottawa parliamentary coverage — were dismissed by Magistrate Thomas Elmore last November. The guild filed notice of appeal in the five, but told the court it was dropping four. The judge dismissed those counts then.

From Judge Factor's decision on the fifth charge, there is no appeal. He gave his ruling on fact, shutting out a possible guild appeal on points of law, the only grounds on which the case could be carried further.

Judge Factor found the charge against CP hinged on two fundamental issues—wage differences between union and company, and CP's insistence that it retain discretion over the employment, promotion, demotion and discharge of employees. On both counts, he ruled, CP had made the required "reasonable effort" to conclude a contract with the A.N.G. covering the group of editorial employees for which it is the certified bargaining agent.

While he noted that no contract had been reached between the CP and the union, he observed that failure to reach an agreement is in itself not an offence.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

"Always" Is a Poor Policy on Signal Cards

The team of Meek and Brash gets into some weird contracts. Mr. Meek is determined to keep the bidding low. Miss Brash is just as determined to get as high as possible. This mutual distrust accounts for the fact that today's hand was played at no trump instead of spades.

Mr. Meek's hand was well over a minimum and a second round bid of two spades would have been encouraging. He purposely chose to bid one no trump, however, as the weakest-sounding bid he could make.

Of course, Miss Brash needs no encouragement. Undismayed by her singleton diamond, she leaped to three no trump.

Mr. Heinsite led the four of diamonds and Mr. Muzzy put up the queen which lost to the ace. Mr. Meek saw that he had to win more than one spade trick to make game so he led the queen of spades and let it ride.

Mr Muzzy won with the king and returned the eight of diamonds. Mr. Meek sadly played the nine and waited for the opposition to run the rest of the suit.

But Mr. Heinsite, after winning with the 10 of diamonds, and after thinking awhile, shifted to a club. Since the club suit broke, Mr. Meek racked up 11 tricks.

"Why didn't you run your diamonds, Heinsite?" asked Mr. Muzzy, getting in the first licks.

"Because your right lead after winning the king of spades was the TREY of diamonds, not the eight," roared Mr. Heinsite.

"Always return your fourth highest. I knew the eight could not be the fourth highest because I saw the ace and queen go on the first trick, Meek's nine on the third trick, and I had the king and 10 myself. In other words, I thought Meek still had the jack of diamonds guarded."

"Repeat that, please," said Mr. Muzzy, partly to kid Mr. Heinsite and partly because he really didn't understand it.

Mr. Heinsite glared. "Just remember," he repeated, "always, always return your fourth highest."

Russ Olympic Bid Part Of Planned Campaign

By DON DALLAS

LONDON (Reuters) — Russian participation in the Olympic Games in Finland next month bears all the earmarks of a carefully-planned campaign.

The Russians will be competing in the Olympics for the first time since 1912, when the Czar was still on the Russian throne.

In 1948 the Soviet Communist party issued a decree, urging men and women athletes to go all out to break national and world records in all branches of sport.

Toward the end of 1951 sports chief Nikolai Romanov summed up. He said that during that year Soviet sports stars had broken 34 world records and bettered 461 Soviet records.

Romanov—and his associated sports and Communist party leaders—were satisfied, and the signal was given. Russia announced officially that she would compete in the Olympic Games.

An analysis of recent Russian sports performances indicates that the Soviets are likely to make their biggest impact with her team of weight-lifters, and with her Amazon women who hurl the javelin, put the shot and hurl the discus. She will also field strong volleyball and basketball teams—both national sports in Russia.

Nominally, sport is strictly amateur in Russia but under state control. The sports and physical culture committee gets tremendous state appropriations for new stadia and sports equipment generally.

Claims of breaking world sport records has long been a prominent feature of Russian propaganda. The Helsinki contests will test the accuracy of these claims.

Russia did not send Grigori Novak, its top weight-lifter, to the world weight-lifting championships in Paris in 1950 but a second-string Russian team was placed third, with U.S. and Egypt first and second respectively. Last year Russia did not compete in the world championship in Milan, also won by the U.S.

Of the Soviet women, the ones specially to watch are Nina Dumbadze, a discus-thrower; javelin-thrower Klavdia Mayuchaya and Tatiana Sevriukova, European women's champion in 1946 in shot putting. Miss Dumbodze is claimed to have hurled the discus almost 30 feet farther than the winner of this event in the London Olympic Games.

Baseball Statistitian

To most baseball fans, watching balls and strikes as they cross the plate is merely a method of following the game. But to Allen Roth, Brooklyn's flesh and blood electronic brain, it's a full time career.

Since the Dodgers hired him in 1947, he has taken the statistic into forward areas never before dreamed of. The story of his fascinating "Bum's Mastermind" is told in the current issue of PEOPLE TODAY.

Any time Manager Charlie Dressen picks a Brooklyn pitcher to face another club, he has access to Rothian records which show him down to the very pitch, what his pitcher has done against that club in every situation.

Roth is the debunker of many a statistic which, before his time, meant an automatic pay raise for the player. Take 100 runs batted in—an impressive figure in the old time study of a season's work. Roth's records show that the guy should have knocked in 200 runs. Roth keeps runs batted in averages—base by base.

And in his statistical shepherding, Roth reveals—and rewards—the .225 hitter who can murder a particular winning pitcher, the left-handed hitter who repeatedly contradicts the pessimistic tradition about lefty hitter vs. lefty pitcher. He shows that a Roy Campanella—most valuable player in the National League last year—shouldn't be sped against Ewell Blackwell of the Cincinnati Reds, but is, nonetheless, one of the league's most dangerous hitters in the clutch.

Roth's records establish that the mass of National Leaguers hit down in the low .200s with two strikes on them—but Campanella last year walloped 11 two-strike homers.

Brooklyn has played nearly 800 ball games since Roth joined the club. In that time, from first pitch to last, he hasn't had time to go to the men's room. He records every pitch on both sides in every game.

A native Canadian who was doing around with forward-area hockey statistics when Branch Rickey discovered him, Roth thinks baseball has been missing bets: "Managers," Roth says, "play the percentage — without knowning what the real percentage is."

Giants Sweep Cards in Twin Bill

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Giants swept a doubleheader lase night from Cincinnati Reds to gain a full game on Brooklyn Dodgers, the National League leaders who split a twin bill with St. Louis Cardinals.

Bobby Thomson and Hank Thompson were the big guns on attack as the Giants turned back the Reds 3-1 and 7-4 to reduce the gap separating them from the Dodgers to four games.

Hank cracked a home run and a single in the opener and Bobby hit his 14th home run and double in the nightcap to drive in three runs.

A four run outburst was climaxed by Del Rice's fourth homer of the season which gave Cards the 7-4 victory at Brooklyn.

Unbeaten Preacher Roe scattered six hits for his seventh straight win and the 6-0 Dodger triumph in the first game.

AMERICAN

High spot in the American League four-game night schedule was stopping of little Bobby Shantz's winning streak at 11 straight by Cleveland Indians.

They edged Philadelphia Athletics 2-1 to go into second place, three games back of leading New York Yankees with Allie Reynolds going the route for his 16th consecutive complete game and his ninth victory of season.

Yanks defeated the St. Louis Browns 8-3.

Virgil Trucks, sweltering in a near record 86-degree temperature, pitched last place Detroit Tigers to 7-1 victory at Detroit that tumbled Boston Red Sox out of second place.

Washington Senators clubbed five Chicago White Sox pitchers for a 6-2 victory and sent the Sox reeling from third place to fourth.

Fraser Hurls Shutout For Hotelmen's Win

BREAK LOSING STREAK

Holding Gordon & Anderson down to only two hits, Commercial's Fraser last night pitched his team to a 4-0 shutout, victory to break the club's losing streak.

The seven inning feature at Roosevelt Park was closely contested in a pitcher's duel between Fraser and G & A's Don Scherk, who gave up six hits.

Biggest hit of the game was a double by G & A's Doug Shier who accounted for the first of the two scattered hits given up by Fraser.

Commercials started the scoring with two in the first inning which tallied Bruce Simondson and Bill Gunn. Lewis scored in the second and Reynolds came home after he advanced on his single when Williamson got hit by the pitcher and Lewis singled.

Only other hit for the losers was by Gerry Ford in the seventh. He gained third base when Spring's strikeout retired the side.

'Stalin Wall' Being Built By Russians

By DON DOANE

BERLIN (AP) — A Hamburg newspaper says today the Russians are building a huge "Stalin Wall" of military and naval bases along the Baltic Sea coast of Eastern Germany.

"The wall," Welt Am Sonntag says, includes heavily-fortified defence bunkers, underground coastal batteries and air bases, and a thick network of anti-aircraft batteries.

The system stretches all the way from Luebeck, on the east-west German border, to Pillau, in East Prussia, now annexed to Russia, the newspaper says. It adds that the giant military project was disclosed in reports received by the West German government in Bonn.

Welt Am Sonntag reports also that the Soviet Navy in the Baltic Sea is being strongly reinforced. Russian air and sea manoeuvres are now being held there. Two Swedish planes flying in the area were shot down in the last nine days.

East German Communists used the 11th anniversary of Hitler's invasion of Russia to step up their propaganda campaign for all-out rearmament of East Germany against the West.

"A June 22, 1951, must never be repeated," said the East German Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl in an article on the front page of every Communist Sunday newspaper.

Meanwhile, West German border police today reported that a detachment of East German People's Police, led by two Russian soldiers, kidnapped 40 West German workers near Helmstedt.

First Wealth For Joey Maxim

NEW YORK — For a fighter who has spent the better part of 10 years scrambling around for small money and getting his lumps from heavyweights, tonight's scrap at Yankee Stadium must shape up as a dream come true for Joey Maxim.

Win or lose against Sugar Ray Robinson, anything which might happen to the pleasant, unassuming Italian-American is something a whole lot better than he ever knew before.

When he drops around to the International Boxing Club tomorrow to pick up his cheque, Joey will become a comparatively wealthy young man, and there will be a lot more where that comes from. He never will have to fight heavyweights again to get it, either, unless he outgrows the 175-pound class.

If he whips Robinson, as we figure he will with his hefty weight advantage, Joey will no doubt be only too happy to give the Sugar Boy another bang at him. That is, if Sugar wants it. And if Robby should win Joey's title there is bound to be a return, for $20,000 or Robby's earnings tonight have been placed in escrow to guarantee it.

Joey, who used to battle Jersey Joe Walcott and Ezzard Charles and other hard nuts of the unlimited class for what his manager, old Doc Kearns, describes as "walking around money," will be able to call his shots from here on.

If he beats Robinson decisively, promoter Jack Solomons of London will want him to take a whack at Randy Turpin, Britain's new cruiser-weight king.

And Then To Greater Things

From that one on, Maxim likely would find that the public was clamoring for him to defend his crown against Jake Lamotta.

For a boxer who appeared doomed such a brief time ago to pony-size purses and widespread indifference because he lacked a knockout punch, this is doing all right. Much of the credit for Joey's emergence must go to Kearns.

Under his original manager, Maxim fought with indifferent success before the war, and admits he was pretty discouraged when he returned from the service. Even after the old Doc took him over, his rise was slow and hard. The pair of them went through some hungry periods before Kearns finally manoeuvred the big one—a shot at Freddie Mills, British holder of the lightheavy title.

When Joey won that one by a knockout, he was finally on the way. There was a setback from Charles, but it is doubtful that it bothered Kearns much. Even at that time Doc had his mind set on a match with Robinson. A fine hand at scenting the important money, he talked the bout tirelessly, and tonight his efforts reach fruition.

French-Canadians Suffer From Lack of Training

QUEBEC (CP) — The third French-language congress was told today how the 622,000 French speaking Canadians west of Quebec are making out and the general opinion was that they suffered more from lack of French-language education than their cousins of New England.

The reason for these differences appeared to be the concentration of the estimated 1,000,000 Franco-Americans in industrial centres while the western Canada "habitant" was widely dispersed in the prairie provinces.

The 4,000 delegates to the week long congress which opened yesterday also heard of French culture and language in Quebec province, the source and mainstay of French thought in North America.

J. E. Desormeaux, Ottawa educationist, said Ontario's 425,000 French-speaking Canadians received strong support in preserving their culture from six French newspapers, radio stations at Timmins and Sudbury, three colleges and several secondary schools and French-speaking legislators and members of the judiciary.

The French population in the prairie provinces was estimated at: Manitoba, 52,000; Saskatchewan, 52,000, and Alberta, 48,000.

P. E. Lafleche of Winnipeg said Manitoba laws prevented the teaching of French in the first six grades of elementary schools, though one hour of French was "tolerated" in schools with a French majority of students.

In Saskatchewan, said Antonio de Margerie of Vonda, Sask., there are a few separate schools on a religious basis only. The law allowed French lessons 30 minutes a day and religious education an hour a day in all public schools.

In Alberta, the first two years of elementary education may be entirely in French, said Dr. L. P. Mousseau of Edmonton. From the third grade to the ninth, 30 minutes of French was allowed. There was one hour of religious teaching.

French was taught one hour a day in British Columbia, where 45,000 French-speaking Canadians lived, mostly in Vancouver, New Westminster, the Fraser Valley and Vancouver Island.

Donat Savoie of Vancouver said he fears a decline in French culture in British Columbia.

Traffic Waits For Road Cut Blasting

Special to The Daily News

PEROW—Both rail and highway traffic were at a standstill Monday, when the long-awaited day arrived for blasting out the rock - cut, a narrow, rocky stretch on the highway, just above the railroad, a half mile west of Perow. Local interest ran high as women left their washings, men left off their various tasks, and even the teacher and class came out of school to take a stand at a nearby vantage point to watch the explosions. Dozens of cars are parked at each end of the closed-off mile, while travellers picnicked, fished, and waited with patience for the road to be cleared.

HAPPY TEACHER

Lakelse Summer Camp Readied by Kinsmen

The Kinsmen Club summer camp at Lakelse Lake is ready for occupancy.

Club members have been getting cabins in shape for the past two weeks and last Sunday completed the third permanent building, built an addition to the cook house, and painted one of their boats with the Kinsmen colors.

Three carloads of Kinsmen and their friends left the city early Sunday and spent all day working at the site.

Club members were: Harry Sheardown, who takes over as president this fall; Stan Seville, president; Jimmy Mellor, Vince Dodds, Davy Jelsted, Eric Janes and Eddie Garner.

Three other citizens interested in the Kinsmen work also helped at the camp. They were Johnny Fitzgerald, Walter (Spud) Ballanger and Jim Mounsey.

Mrs. Mellor and Mrs. Dodds accompanied the group and while the men worked on the camp, the two ladies prepared meals.

The club now has three permanent cabins, each with sleeping accommodation for eight children, and three others with canvas tops.

Any group wishing to take children to the camp should contact Mr. Sheardown or Mr. Seville.
