Union Assails Lack Of Teacher At Sunnyside; Hits At Housing

Claims Conditions "Rank Disgrace"

Lack of a school teacher at Sunnyside school was protested today in a wire from the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.) to Educational Minister Ray Williston.

Union delegates and representatives from Sunnyside, North Pacific, Cassiar and Port Edward canneries also requested the fishing companies to improve the housing conditions at the canneries.

Union general-secretary A. L. Gordon and business agent Homer Stevens, both of Vancouver, who toured the cannery sites this week with local representatives of the fishermen and shoreworkers, said there were close to 40 children of school age at Sunnyside who were being denied schooling due to the lack of a teacher.

"None of their parents were notified, ahead of time, of the deficiency and were unable to make any other arrangements," the union official said.

Two years ago the UFAWU launched a protest to the District 52 school board and city council over the lack of proper playground facilities at Sunnyside. The union asked for the clearing of a playground for the children and construction of a larger school with an indoor hall for recreation in rainy weather.

"We regret to say the union's requests were ignored and the same ramshackle, one-room school is still there," Mr. Stevens said. "It doesn't look as if it has received a coat of paint since 1954. Our union is convinced this lack of attention is a sign of discrimination against the Native people and must be corrected immediately."

Yesterday union delegates and representatives requested the major fishing companies to improve housing conditions at North Pacific, Sunnyside, Cassiar and Port Edward.

Mr. Stevens said that from his and Mr. Gordon's observations during the past week the "report of Medical Health Officer Dr. W. B. Laing given last fall was white-washed by the provincial health department."

"Housing for the Native employees at these canneries is still a rank disgrace. Little or nothing has been done to improve sanitary facilities or to rectify the terrible conditions which existed in past years," Mr. Stevens said.

Mr. Gordon said the housing provided for Native cannery workers "requires drastic improvement to provide even a minimum of sanitation and comfort. A large percentage of the existing cannery shacks should be condemned entirely and replaced with new buildings."

"Most of the houses don't even have running water or sinks," he asserted. "Rat holes in the doors, walls and floors provide thoroughfare for some of the largest vermin in the country. Walls are covered with mould, doorsteps are rotting away and most of the houses have not been painted for six or more years."

He said that the places are still potential fire traps, with half a dozen outside taps serviced by half inch or three-quarter inch water lines providing the only water supply.

"Many houses are not lighted with electricity, and their occupants must depend on coal oil lamps," Mr. Gordon said, adding "the potential fire danger is appalling and it is only good fortune that there has not been some real disasters."

"We will be carrying our demands for improved housing and sanitary facilities to the company managers and to the provincial government."

He said the union wanted an end "to the segregation and discrimination against the Native people in the fishing industry.

"It is high time the government stopped evading its responsibilities in this matter and we intend to make this clear to Labor Minister Lyle Wicks," Mr. Gordon said.

State Set To Declare Martial Law

Crowds Cheer Racial Speeches

STURGIS, Ky. (AP)—State officials were ready to declare martial law in this western Kentucky mining and farming community today as national guardsmen and state police prepared for a showdown with an expected crowd of 1,000 intent on keeping nine Negro youths from attending Sturgis High School.

Adjutant-General J. J. B. Williams returned from a conference with Gov. A. B. Chandler in the state capital in Frankfurt. He had papers needing only his signature to put this community of approximately 5,000 persons under martial law.

The national guard commander said the papers were drawn up by the governor as a precautionary measure since reports had been received at least 1,000 persons, including coal miners from nearby Pleasure Ridge, were expected to gather at the previously all-white school.

ONLY IF NECESSARY

Gen. Williams said he would declare martial law, under which the community, including its courts, would be under military rule, only if it is necessary.

Don Sturgill, Kentucky's deputy safety commissioner, said the governor had given Gen. Williams authority to call in all the national guardsmen necessary to preserve order and keep them in Sturgis.

Heavily armed national guardsmen patrolled the streets of this Kentucky town during the night while a generally orderly crowd estimated at 1,000 cheered fiery racial speeches in public parks.

GUNS AND BAYONETS

Earlier, guardsmen armed with riot guns and bayonets had formed a solid wall to protect nine Negro students as they left the previously all-white Sturgis school after their first day of classes.

Some 350 students are enrolled at the school. About 175 left their classes Thursday. The Negro students later vowed they had "enrolled to stay."

An angry crowd of 500 shouted threats to "get you Niggers if it takes all year," while the guards men pushed a path to three cars in which the students left.

WHITES "TAKE OVER"

Millard Grubs, chairman of the board of the Kentucky White Citizens Council, was one of the segregationists flown to Sturgis from Louisville to address a rally in a public park. He condemned the United States Supreme Court and suggested that "the white people take over."

Supporting Grubbs was W. W. Waller, who told the crowd: "I don't like it when they put a bayonet in my ribs when I'm home with my family."

Waller told the crowd: "The guard was ordered here by certain politicians who wanted to look good in the eyes of New York. We were put at gunpoint and tanks permitted to roll through our streets because of somebody's political ambitions."

Grubbs shouted from the floodlighted speakers' stand that the council would "fight for state's rights and uphold the constitutional government and fight integration."

At Knoxville, Tenn., the man blamed by many Clinton citizens for stirring the population to a frenzy on the race issue was granted bail Thursday while appealing a one-year sentence for contempt of court. Bail for John Kasper of Washington was fixed at $10,000, but was not posted immediately.

Rescued Pair Repentant After Rainier Incident

MOUNT RAINIER NATIONAL PARK, Wash. (AP)— Rev. Earle Johnson, 26, whose parish is reached by boat along British Columbia's rugged shore, is forsaking the way of the mountain climber.

And so is Don Richardson, 21-year-old Victoria, B.C., Bible school student.

They made the vow—plus a $25 payment to the United States government—after spending a night 13,000 feet up on the treacherous slopes of Mount Rainier in freezing weather.

Their unannounced climb of the 14,410-foot peak began Wednesday morning. Park rangers became aware of it late that night when intermittent flashes of light were seen coming from the 13,000 foot level where the pair huddled thinly clad and prayerful on a narrow ledge.

SHOUTING CONTACT

The Rangers flashed back a signal and early Thursday organized four search parties which started up the steep slope. One party reached the 12,000-foot level in the early afternoon, reporting back that they had made "shouting contact."

Then rescue crews stopped there because of nightfall and a lack of supplies. The minister and his companion started downhill, however, and passed the rescue party unobserved, only to meet another at the 6,800-foot level.

The group, led by Wally Minor, a Tacoma mountaineer, brought them before stern-faced park officials who quickly placed them under arrest for violating park regulations prohibiting unauthorized climbs.

"AWFULLY SORRY"

"We're awfully sorry about all the trouble we caused," said Richardson meekly and contritely.

"Indeed," echoed Pastor Johnson. "This was not an intentional violation of any rule. It won't look very good for the church we represent, if it looks like it was a willful violation."

U.S. commissioner Earl Clifford assessed the $25 fine in the hope that it "might deter others."

"You got in over your heads and I can't accept ignorance of regulations as an excuse," he said.

The minister, associated with the Shantyman's Christian Association in British Columbia, responded fervently:

"From now on I'll stick to boats."

Group Urges Salt Lakes Be Re-Classified

Immediate action to have the Salt Lakes provincial park reclassified from a Class C park to a Class A park was urged in a resolution from the Salt Lakes Provincial parks board this week.

The resolution, over the signature of Hugo Kraupner, chairman, has been sent to Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, Chief Forester C. D. Orchard and District Forester Percy Young.

The resolution further urges the provincial government parks and recreation branch to make immediate plans to develop Salt Lakes in the same manner in which other Class A parks have been developed in British Columbia.

A regular ferry makes the Salt Lakes area quite accessible the resolution stated and the park is being used by increasing numbers of city residents and visitors.

$50 Fines For Speeding

Heavier fines for exceeding the speed limit in the city were meted out in police court this week by Magistrate W. D. Vance.

Fined $50 and costs or in default of payment sentenced to serve one month in jail was Douglas Robert Mitchell, who pleaded guilty to speeding on Eleventh Avenue Labor Day. Mitchell was first checked at 25 miles an hour passing through McClymont Park zone.

Fined a similar amount Wednesday was Ewald Frederick Verbold, 640 Fulton Street, who was checked on Seventh Avenue East.

Russian Fisheries Minister Shows Wide Knowledge of Whole Industry

By STAN McCABE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Top men of the Russian fishing industry get down to serious discussions with Canadian experts today after a rousing welcome Thursday that included their first ride in Canada with a siren-screaming police escort.

A. A. Ishkov, Soviet fisheries minister, who bosses all things finny in the USSR's state-owned industry and three other members of the Soviet top brass in the field were to confer with Canadian fisheries department officers, the International Pacific Fisheries Commission, the director of the North Pacific Fisheries commission, and visit a fisheries technological station. The Russian party, which visited eastern Canadian fishing areas before coming here Wednesday was given the full treatment in the first full day they spent in Vancouver Thursday.

LIKE MALENKOV

All smiles, Mr. Ishkov, a somewhat slimmer version of former Russian premier Malenkov, took the welcome with plenty of smiles and enthusiasm although he displayed interest in the way the big B. C. salmon fishery operates.

He made a good try at walking the lags off an entourage of officials and newspaper men as he toured the Imperial plant of British Columbia Packers Ltd., largest fish packing plant on the Pacific Coast. Ken Fraser, vice-president in charge of production who explained workings of the plant through an interpreter, said the visitor asked questions that showed he was well acquainted with the field. Mr. Ishkov looked at every phase of the plant's operations, peering into production line machines and over the shoulders of women putting salmon into cans.

But he took time out to pose with Canada's Fisheries Minister James Sinclair holding a large salmon and to chat in Russian with Mary Frenskie, a worker who came to Canada from Russia 30 years ago. In his talks with workers he showed particular interest in their standard of living asking what they earned, whether they owned their own cars and whether they owned their own boats.

FISHERMEN ASTOUNDED

Roy Wilson of Vancouver, an Indian fisherman was more than a little astounded when after telling Mr. Ishkov he owned his own boat he was asked if it had a motor. At first the fisherman thought the visitor was joshing him when he asked about the motor.

"Why sure," he finally said.

Mr. Ishkov rode in two fishing boats, one a large seiner just in from the fishing grounds, before he attended a fish luncheon with industry leaders.

Mr. Sinclair said in introducing him at the luncheon that Mr. Ishkov had held his post since 1940 and had "an extraordinarily wide knowledge of the industry."

SOME CRITICISM

The Canadian minister, who visited Russia last year, reported that Mr. Ishkov turned to him with a look that questioned the efficiency of the tuna canning operation when he saw oil being spilled while it was being put into cans. The Soviet minister also made it clear he didn't think much of a system of transmitting power by belts that were not working up to par.

Mr. Ishkov was loquaciously thankful for the hearty welcome he and his party received. He said several times that exchanges of visits would do much to help relations between the two countries.

A voyage up the Fraser River to New Westminster had a touch of comedy added when Deputy Minister Igor Semenov and the deputy for the Russian Republic, A. Verevkin, missed the boat and it had to return for them.

NOISY WELCOME

The Russians said they received the noisiest welcome of their Canadian visit at New Westminster.

With a motorcycle and police car escort blasting their way through rush hour traffic with sirens, the party went to the city hall.

There the minister met members of the council and Mr. Ishkov was presented with a silver cigaret box by acting mayor Stuart Gifford, who said his "jovial and friendly manner has won all our hearts."

The siren treatment continued for the full 12-mile drive back to the party's hotel.

AUTOS SMASHED

BOSTON (AP)—Five cars of a 27-car freight train jumped the tracks on a downtown Boston street early today and crushed four unoccupied parked autos. No one was injured in the mishap, involving a freight train moving the two-mile distance from North Station to South Station along Commercial Street and Atlantic Avenue.

CAA Probe Continuing On Plane Crash

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Canadian Pacific Airlines official confirmed Thursday that the DC6B which crashed at Cold Bay, Alaska, a week ago was carrying a small package of radioactive material.

Fifteen persons died in the crash.

J. H. Crump, CPA public relations officer, said the package contained radio isotopes being shipped to Japanese hospitals. The radioactive material was wrapped in lead and the whole package weighed no more than "five or six pounds."

Mr. Crump said the package was unharmed in the crash.

An investigator for the Civil Aeronautics Authority in Anchorage, Alaska, said Thursday all the facts of the crash are known now but the cause has not been determined. It would be a matter of sifting through the facts.

George Clark, in charge of the investigation for CAA's bureau of safety, is expected to return to Anchorage from Cold Bay with a complete report early today.

The Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington will decide if an inquest is to be held into the 15 deaths.

Plane To Drop Ride Tickets For Carnival

Free tickets to rides for the Prince Rupert Kinsmen club sponsored Gayland shows, currently playing a three-day stand here, will be dropped from a plane Saturday afternoon a spokesman of the service club said today.

He said that, weather permitting, an Aeronca plane piloted by Douglas Hague, would swoop down over Algoma Park at 2 p.m. tomorrow dropping showers of tickets entitling the youngsters to free rides at the carnival.

He said that the various rides would be halted during the ticket drop so that none of the children would be endangered.

The Weather

Mostly cloudy today and Saturday but with sunny periods both afternoons. Not much change in temperature. Winds easterly 15 in exposed areas, otherwise light. Low tonight and high Saturday at Port Hardy and Sandspit 53 and 60, Prince Rupert 50 and 64.

Power Commission Take Over May Fall Through JC's Told

A warning that the B.C. Power Commission take-over of the Northern B.C. Power Company assets may fall through was sounded by A. Bruce Brown, Liberal candidate for Prince Rupert in the September 10 provincial election.

Speaking to the Prince Rupert Junior Chamber of Commerce Mr. Brown said that the take-over depended on the Commission acquiring all shares in the power company. However, he said, many shares were held by individuals who had either neglected or refused to sell.

Mr. Brown said it was his understanding that an offer of $1 a share had been made and that only one person of 12,000 had relinquished shares at this price.

Mr. Brown lauded the work of the Commission as a whole, but said its future was dim unless provision is made for a substantial source of cheap energy.

The estimated $400,000,000 needed for the development of the proposed Mica Creek power project was beyond the means of the present government, Mr. Brown said.

On the question of "power versus fish" the Liberal candidate said that there was no necessity to dam rivers used by spawning fish before other rivers had been used as a source of power.

"With the fishing industry estimated at $80,000,000 annually, escapement must be assured," Mr. Brown said.

Couple Fined For Leaving Child Alone

A Prince Rupert couple were each fined $50 and costs or in default of payment sentenced to one month in jail yesterday in police court when they pleaded guilty to a charge of child neglect.

Fined were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barton, 1271 Water Street. The charge was laid after firemen were called to the Barton home last Saturday where a mattress was on fire. Two small children were alone at the time of the fire.

Despite the seriousness of the charge, Magistrate Vance said he was imposing a lenient penalty. Neither parent was able to provide an excuse for their absence.

Salvage Operations Start After U.S. Troller Sinks

Salvage operations to beach a United States troller which sank at its moorings after being in collision with another vessel yesterday were started this morning by Armour Salvage Co. Ltd.

Beaching operations were expected to be underway at high tide, 4 p.m. today, for the U.S. troller "Welcome," skippered by Capt. Alex Bryant, which sank at the Cow Bay floats yesterday morning after being hit by the halibutter "Delena II.

Diver Ray Montgomery went down into about 40 feet of water this morning to put slings around the troller which was found lying with its bow up hill on the steep bottom, J. H. Fields, the salvage company secretary-treasurer said.

Patching operations enough to float the vessel will be carried out by Armour Salvage.

Harbormaster W. H. Roughan said it had been reported the Delena II, which is skippered by Capt. Mathew Sjoblon, had been experiencing engine trouble prior to the accident. The Welcome was tied up at the floats at the time.

Choose Best For City, District

THE race is on!

All over British Columbia the voters know the men in their own particular riding from whom they must choose one or two men (or women) to send to the next legislature. In the Prince Rupert electoral district the 9,445 voters have to choose but one man from three: A. Bruce Brown, barrister and Liberal member in the last legislature; George Edwin Hills, mayor of this city and former CCF member in the legislature again running on a socialist ticket; and William Harvey Murray, hotel manager and Social Credit candidate.

It is difficult for an independent newspaper, as is The Daily News, to guide or advise the voter in this unnecessary election called by Premier Bennett. We can do no more than the voter himself or herself and assess what has gone before as it affects the people of British Columbia.

Since it is the government, in its customary uninformative manner that has called this election, we will dwell on the Social Credit candidate first. An able, likeable and well-known businessman, Mr. William Murray is untried in the legislative lists although he has sought election and has been active in his party's work. Unfortunately stricken with illness at the outset of the campaign he has had little opportunity to show his mettle to the electorate. At the same time it is a pity that he should wish to ally himself with the Bennett regime that has brazenly refused to defend the government's integrity no matter how loud the demands. That one of his former ministers remains under a cloud of suspicion means nothing to the premier. Only one slight word in defence of his colleague has he uttered since the charges were first made in the legislature. Not only that, but Mr. Bennett has refused to order his attorney-general, a Conservative turncoat like himself, to publish the findings of the RCMP which investigated the charges against R. E. Sommers. No, we can find no fault with Mr. Murray as a man, a friend or as a candidate. It is his politics with which we quarrel.

Turning to Mayor George Hills, CCF candidate in the September 19 vote we find a man who has considerable experience both in civic and provincial politics. A dyed-in-the-wool socialist, Mayor Hills, has for the most part done a commendable job of keeping his political leanings out of city matters. Mr. Hills, both before and after he became president of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, showed admirable aggressiveness in furthering the city's needs. He has presented important briefs on behalf of the city, the last of which was the one to Ventures Limited seeking the establishment of a smelter here in connection with the proposed giant metallurgical project on the Nass river. A good debater, Mayor Hills shows a tendency to be oversensitive if he feels his party has been slighted and is a mite trigger-tempered if placed on the defensive. However, he can be depended on to do his best for the voters either civicwise or provincially.

A stendier type is Mr. Bruce Brown whose experience in the courts and in public office has fitted him to be a leading figure in provincial politics. Liberal Leader Arthur Laing described Mr. Brown "as the most effective member of the opposition during the last session" and with that we agree. Mr. Brown has also worked hard both for the city and against the Social Credit "cover-up" system of politics which even today leaves so many questions unanswered for the voting public. Also a keen debater and a more than adequate orator, Mr. Brown's ability as both a prosecutor and defence counsel makes him a logical choice for re-election. With his finger on all key issues and his own desire to do right by both the Prince Rupert and British Columbia people, regardless of their politics, Mr. Brown as Mr. Brown, not as a Liberal, but for his own talents as a man, would best serve the interests of Prince Rupert in the British Columbia legislature.

Social Credit Pledges

IT SEEMS to me that the Social Credit government of B.C. should be judged on the basis of its own promises.

What did Social Credit promise to get elected in 1952? Has Social Credit carried out those promises?

On this score thousands of homes in B.C. will be able to judge for themselves because there are still a great many of the original 1952 green and white Social Credit leaflets in existence. Maybe you still have one of those leaflets in your home, just as I have. If so, you will see that there were 11 promises in the platform on which Social Credit was elected in B.C.

Read these solemn Social Credit promises and then ask yourself: Has the Social Credit government carried out its own promises, and if not, are they worthy of my trust?

POINT 11 of the 1952 Social Credit program precisely promised to "eliminate multiple member constituencies."

We all know that Social Credit has not done so. As I write these lines I am looking at one of the original pamphlets issued by the Social Credit party in Vancouver-Point Grey. It carried the picture of three candidates, but overleaf clearly promised the voters that they never again would have to vote for more than one MLA in any riding, if Social Credit won.

It also promised that all future votes would be under "the single transferable ballot—the most democratic method of voting."

We all know that the Social Credit government repudiated its own solemn promise in this regard too.

BUT a more serious repudiation by the Social Credit government was of Point No. 6 in its 1952 platform. That read as follows:

"VI.—Health and Welfare A.1. Abolish compulsory hospital insurance, replacing it with a voluntary system."

We all know that the Social Credits not only failed completely to carry out their own clear-cut pledge to abolish compulsory hospital insurance but the very same people now boast that B.C.'s hospital insurance scheme is, to use Hon. Mr. Gaglardi's recent words, "the finest in the world."

BUT of all the several grave Social Credit broken promises, their backhanded and deceptive method of increasing the total public debt of B.C. has been the most dangerous.

The very first promise made by the Social Credit party in 1952 was:

"Institute to the greatest possible extent a 'Pay as We Go' policy in all Provincial expenditures" and "Embark on an accelerated program of debt reduction."

As former Premier Byron Johnson, Arthur Laing, and many other reliable authorities have clearly shown, the Social Credits have not only NOT decreased the provincial debt, but have pushed it to an all time high.

The official figures are:

B.C.'s direct and indirect debt.

March 31, 1952	$248,991,434
March 31, 1956	$379,028,830

Could it be the real reason why Premier Bennett rushed on this premature election was because he has just had to borrow still another $40 millions in New York?

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. MacLeod

The Prime Minister is reported reliably to have intimated to the two main royal commissions currently carrying on investigation projects that he would like them to have their reports completed as speedily as possible—preferably in a matter of a few weeks.

One commission is the Fowler Commission on radio and television broadcasting. The other is the Gordon Commission on general economic policy. Both have been in existence now for the better part of a year and have been conducting intensive coast to coast investigations.

The action of the PM in suggesting that the commissions expedite their findings as much as possible without sacrificing the thoroughness of their work is regarded in Parliament Hill circles as an indication of the government's desire to have the reports available for discussion at a Fall session of Parliament. It is also taken as evidence of the government's intention of implementing any recommendations which the commissions may make by legislation at the forthcoming session. The desire is evidently to have the material available at an early date so as to have plenty of time for preparing the legislation. If any major recommendations are made by either royal commission, the legislation could be as complicated as it will be important.

The major proposals from the Gordon Commission on economic policy are expected to lie in the field of tariffs. The depressed textile industry, the rubber footwear industry, and the electrical appliances industry—all suffering severely from the competition of imports subsidized either by low wage rates in foreign countries or by other marketing factors—all submitted arguments for various degrees of protection.

The Fowler Commission on radio and television broadcasting held a number of hearings on the desire of the private radio industry for the appointment of an independent regulatory body distinct from the CBC. The industry's contention was that the CBC shouldn't be in the dual role of competitor with the private industry and also dictator of the terms of competition.

All the private interests which are hopeful for some favorable results from the royal commission investigations are encouraged by the fact that the government is anxious for the submission of speedy reports. Their reasoning is that, with a general election in the offing, the government wouldn't want the royal commissions to hurry up their findings unless it intended to take some favorable action. The textile, rubber footwear, electrical appliance, and radio industries all figure that the government will want to appease and not antagonise them with voting day just around the corner.

Soviet Complaint

LONDON (Reuters)—A Moscow radio commentator on its North American service said today that Soviet nuclear tests are organized to reduce damage to a minimum and "usually made at a great height, so that the radioactive fallout is greatly reduced." The commentator complained of "distortions" in the United States following the announcement of the latest Soviet nuclear bomb test.

CORE OF CAMPAIGN

Socreds Seek Mandate On $28 Home Rebate

VANCOUVER (CP)—When Premier W. A. C. Bennett called a British Columbia election for Sept. 19 he singled out one issue as the core of Social Credit's campaign for re-election.

It was the government's proposal to pay $28 to every home owner in the province against assessment taxes. The other three main parties subsequently issued platforms which avoided promising direct payments to taxpayers but spoke of enlarged grants to municipalities.

"The reason we want a new mandate," the premier said Aug. 13 in announcing the election "is because the CCF and Liberal leaders have opposed the tax rebate plan. If we passed it without a new mandate the opposition would say we didn't have one."

OPPOSITION PLANKS

Progressive Conservative leader Deane Finlayson denounced the proposal as "a reward and a recompense" to people for voting Social Credit. As a substitute he advocated payments to municipalities of at least $16 per capita.

Both the Opposition CCF and the Liberal parties also propose to assist municipalities through higher grants. The Liberals specify that the increase be used for school operation and construction.

Beyond the tax rebate plan, Premier Bennett says Social Credit will stand by its government record in campaigning for re-election.

The government party, he says, has reduced the provincial debt, built more and better highways than previous regimes and attracted hundreds of millions of investment dollars to B.C.

HIGHWAY BUILDING

Since assuming office in 1952 Social Credit has increased the amount of paved highway to 3,260 miles from 2,251, Mr. Bennett says. It has also extended the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway 40 miles southward from Esquimalt to Vancouver and turned the "white elephant" line into what he describes as the most modern railway on the continent.

A lower sales tax, cheap publicly-owned power facilities and government assistance for agriculture are among policies advocated by the CCF party. The Socialists also demand an end to "private monopolies" in the forest industry and a switch to public management. They urge that the government also take over the natural gas industry.

Both the Liberals and the Progressive Conservatives advocate appointment of an independent highway commission to fix priorities and set standards. The Liberals urge that the provincial sales tax be cut to four per cent from five. They seek the establishment of a permanent development board "to do for British Columbia what the Gordon commission is now doing for Canada."

Dust Cloud Seen On Planet Mars

NEW YORK (AP)—Astronomers around the world have busy months ahead of them correlating up-to-date information on Mars based on observations taken on its "closeup" visit to the earth.

The red-hued planet was a mere 35,120,000 miles away at 10 p.m. Thursday. Sometimes it's 325,000,000 miles off.

It was the closest Mars had been since 1924. It won't be as close again until 1971.

Seventeen observatories in 10 countries were geared to study Mars at the closest point on its current visit. First report on their observations came today from the Lamonthussey Observatory at Bloemfontein, South Africa.

There Dr. E. C. Slipher, an authority on Mars, watched the planet all through the night by means of a television screen, on which Mars appeared about the size of a golf ball, and reported seeing a vast cloud of yellow dust.

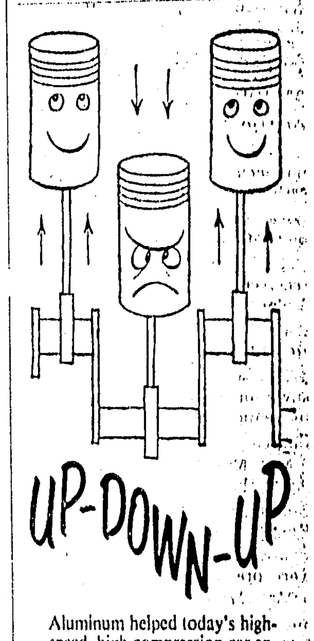
Soldier Wounded

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—A British soldier was wounded Wednesday night when an army truck struck a terrorist mine on this Mediterranean island.



Aluminum helped today's high-speed, high-compression car engine get that way. Aluminum pistons brought not only toughness but lightness to this up-and-down job. Less weight meant less inertia and so made possible higher engine revolutions. It brought heat conductivity, too—so your engine doesn't overheat when you drive fast and far.

It started in the twenties—and today every car produced in North America is equipped with aluminum pistons. And much of the aluminum comes from Canadian smelters. To match the needs of the automotive, aircraft, construction and many other industries for large quantities of aluminum, Alcan is again stepping up its already enormous smelting capacity.

Diary of Miss Prince Rupert Shows PNE Contestants Had Busy Schedule

The following is a day-by-day report by Prince Rupert's representative in Vancouver's Miss Pacific National Exhibition contest Jean Anderson, who was chosen Miss Prince Rupert at the Elks Lodge July 1 celebrations. Miss Anderson, an employee of the Daily News gives readers some idea of what a busy schedule the contestants had to keep and also lists their experiences during the contest.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 25

I was met at the plane by Mr. Steves. I had dinner with the two chaperones, Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Steves. I was the only one checked in. The other girls arrived on Sunday.

After dinner I went to see the "Miss Vancouver" contest, which Lea Binet won. I also met the PNE directors.

SUNDAY, AUGUST 26

My roommate, Marilynne Dawson of Victoria arrived and we had breakfast together.

There was a meeting of all the girls in the York Room at the Georgia hotel where, later in the evening, we rehearsed the procedure we were to follow on stage and had group pictures taken.

After dinner, which we had at the hotel with the PNE directors and guests, we made our first speech. We were presented with a set of lipstick and perfume. Cokes were served in the York room after rehearsal.

MONDAY, AUGUST 27

The desk called us at 7:15 and breakfast was eaten between 7:45 and 8:15. We packed all we needed, for on stage and left it in the dressing room at the PNE grounds.

We toured the horticultural grounds where we were given a peach and a jar of honey. Bees are a very ugly lot of insects. We then toured the Manufacturer's Building.

The bus took us to Ferguson's residence in West Vancouver for a swim party.

We had dinner at the Capilano Smorgasbord and it was very lovely. Before dinner we all "rocked" across the Capilano Suspension Bridge.

Back at the PNE grounds there was a flurry of preparations as we got ready to go on the outdoor stage. We appeared first in our shorts. We made our speech while we had our dresses on which was a bit of a comfort.

We drove around the Empire Stadium in convertibles during half-time. We sang the "Lions Song" when we were up in our box.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 28

We were allowed to go shopping if we wished but most of us slept in instead. Marilynne and I overdid it and went without breakfast. We made up for this at the "Tea Party."

We went to Stanley park, looked at the animals and then had lunch. After lunch we again arose and spoke. We toured the park in the bus before returning to the PNE grounds.

We had a "Tea Party" at the racetrack. It was "Men's Day." Several dishes were broken and the fire extinguisher let off. It was quite hilarious. We watched the races which was something I have always wanted to do so I really enjoyed them. We were also shown the mechanism that makes the scoreboard work. It's quite intricate.

We had dinner at the PNE restaurant and then repeated yesterday's performance on the outdoor stage.

Our visit to the Gayway was postponed. It was raining and I felt right at home.

In the director's rooms, which are very, very beautiful, we each received a lovely big Panda bear.

We went to "Dancing Waters." It's a very beautiful show of water being sprayed each and every way with colored lights overhead. The water really appears to be dancing.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 29

After breakfast we went to the PNE grounds and toured the Home Arts Building and some of the work is really beautiful. We toured the Livestock Building. One of the horses scared met out of a year's growth by snorting down my neck while my back was turned. We saw a fighting cock and I'd sure hate to tangle with one of those things.

We had lunch at the racetrack. Mrs. Hume, the mayor's wife, was present. Here again we put in our two bits worth by giving our names and the town we represented.

We attended a fashion show at the Outdoor Stage and before it started we appeared on stage unprepared.

We went to the Gayway, had a few rides and saw "The Four Aces." We had dinner at the PNE restaurant and then made our final appearance on the outdoor stage where Joan Greenwood of Langley was chosen "Miss PNE." We all received an orchid, a watch, stationery with all our names and the town we represented printed faintly on it and a pair of binoculars. (I can really watch the races now).

At the party in the Directors Rooms, we were given a picture of the group which we had autographed by everyone. We had a party after this in three of the girls' rooms. The Directors sent up cokes and food. This party was cut short by several complaints from some one next door but it really didn't matter much because everyone was pretty tired.

The girls were really a very nice group. They were all wonderful and I had a marvellous time in spite of the tiring schedule.

Championship Trip Vetoed

Old Age, Not Reds, Braves Overtaking Champion Bums

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Like the guy who ran after a girl until she caught him, there seems to be a question as to whether Milwaukee Braves and Cincinnati Reds rate the credit for overtaking Brooklyn Dodgers this year or the Dodgers have dropped back and allowed themselves to be caught.

The current Bums certainly are not the team that finished 13 games in front in 1955. They blame their troubles on lack of hitting, and hitting obviously has been one of their problems. They also blame generally erratic pitching.

In fact, they blame just about everything, and everything has been a contributory factor, but most of the woes can be traced to a common basis, to wit: The Dodgers suddenly have been taken old.

Not in every position, but in enough key posts to affect the play of the entire team.

MAY COME TRUE

So the Dodgers finally may make the experts look good. For years the critics have been predicting the club was too old to have another championship season.

They still may make it, calling on some hidden store of energy, but it would be a minor miracle.

The Braves and Redlegs are kids compared to the venerable Bums. The average age of the Brooklyn regulars is 31.7 years. Milwaukee and Cincinnati each averages 26.6, or more than five years less than the world champions.

Here is the way the three contenders stack up from the age standpoint:

Brooklyn: c—Campanella 34; 1b—Hodges 32; 2b—Gilliam 27; 3b—Robinson 37; ss—Reese 37; lf—Amoros 24; cf—Snider 29; rf—Furillo 34.

Milwaukee: c—Crandall 25; 1b—Adcock 28; 2b—O'Connell 27; 3b—Mathews 24; ss—Logan 29; lf—Thomson 30; cf—Bruton 26; cf—Aaron 22.

Cincinnati: c—Bailey 25; 1b—Kluszewski 32; 2b—Temple 27; 3b—Grammas 28; ss—McMillan 26; lf—Robinson 21; cf—Bell 27; rf—Post 27.

Five of the Dodgers are in their 30s. The Braves and Redlegs each have only one in the 30 bracket.

Now it is admitted that some ball players in their mid-30s are better than some in their 20s ever will be.

But on the whole a team of players in their 20s will outlast a team of older players over a season and be playing better ball at the finish.

This month should verify that theory, or else prove it false. At any rate, this is the Dodgers last chance with the team as it now stands.

Vernon Turns Down World Title Chance

PENTICTON, B.C., (CP)— Vernon Canadians, the reigning Allan Cup champions, will not go to the world hockey tournament in Russia next winter.

Coach George Agar announced here Thursday after a vote among the players that the club is no longer interested in the trip and individual team members don't want to join an all-star squad.

Agar said he put the proposition up to the players after a report from Toronto on Wednesday that Conn Smythe, president of the Maple Leafs, had said Canada's proposed entry will be a "fourth-rate team." Smythe suggested sending a National Hockey League team if the tournament is to be considered a world championship.

NL Low Teams Call Shot In Flag Race

By The Associated Press

This may be the screwiest National League pennant race yet.

With four weeks to go, it's a three way scrap among Milwaukee, Cincinnati and Brooklyn, but the teams to beat are St. Louis, Chicago, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. The gimmick lies in what's left of the schedule plus an odd similarity of records to date and the weather in Philadelphia and Milwaukee.

You can toss in Brooklyn weather, too. Rain postponed the Dodgers' game with the New York Giants Thursday night to leave the Brooks two games behind Milwaukee. Each have 21 games left to play. Redlegs, only 1½ games back of the Braves, have 20 games remaining.

Milwaukee and Cincinnati each have two games left with Brooklyn, all four at Ebbets Field, while meeting each other once. That more or less leaves the winning of the pennant up to the games with the rest of the league and here's how the many sided gimmick works.

The Braves have two series and seven games left with last-place Chicago. The Redlegs, meanwhile play seven games in two series with fourth-place St. Louis. The Dodgers play seven against sixth-place Pittsburgh in two series.

Oddly enough, the Braves are 9-6 for the season against the Cubs, the Redlegs are 9-6 vs the Cardinals, and the Dodgers 9—6 vs the Bucs.

In the American League New York's magic number is 13 and a combination of Yankee victories and Cleveland losses totalling 13 clinches the flag.

Mickey Mantle, with 47 home runs is two behind Babe Ruth's record 60 pace of 1927 as the Yankees open at home against Washington tonight.

Only two games were scheduled Thursday, Washington scoring six in the fifth with Jose Valdivielso hitting a three-run homer, defeated Baltimore 7-5. Detroit Tigers defeated Kansas City Athletics 6-0 in a night game with Frank Lary spinning a four-hitter and Ray Boone, Red Wilson, Wayne Belardi and Charlie Maxwell hitting home runs.

Mounties Stage Hit Spree

By The Canadian Press

Last place Vancouver Mounties went on a hitting spree Thursday night and overcame league-leading Los Angeles Angels 13-7 in Pacific Coast League baseball at Vancouver.

Mounties got 20 hits off four Los Angeles pitchers. Starter Hillman lasted just one inning and was charged with the loss. Of his six defeats this year, three have come at the hands of Mounties. The two clubs play the third of their four-game series Friday night.

A wild ninth inning gave San Francisco a 4-3 win over Sacramento. Solons were ahead 3-2 going into the ninth with Gene Beardon on the mound in relief. Haywood Sullivan walked and Bob Pietro was safe when shortstop Joe Koppe fell down fielding a grounder. Eddie Sadowski bunted and the bases were full when Beardon fell down trying to pick up the ball. After pinch hitter Sal Taormina grounded into a force out at home, Larry Dipippo collected a broken-bat single, to drive in a run. Another force out and then Jerry Priddy knocked an easy one to the pitcher, but first baseman Nippy Jones failed to cover first and the winning run scored.

In other PCL games, San Diego beat Hollywood 5-4 and Portland downed Seattle 5-1.

Friday's schedule: San Diego at Hollywood; Sacramento at San Francisco; Portland at Seattle; Los Angeles at Vancouver.

Crowe Gambles Saturday On Untried Quarterback

By The Canadian Press

Coach Clem Crowe, in the depths of three-game losing streak, has decided to gamble with an untried quarterback in an attempt to lift British Columbia Lions out of their Western interprovincial league doldrums.

Crowe says he will start Jerry Gustafson, formerly of San Francisco '49ers and Stanford University, in Saturday's game against Calgary Stampeders, in last place in the WIFU.

While Vancouver fans will get their first look at Gustafson, Saskatchewan Roughriders will have the task of trying to stop Edmonton Eskimos, presently riding a four-game winning streak, at Regina.

In two Monday games, Eskimos are at Calgary and Roughriders go against the Blue Bombers at Winnipeg.

TACKLE BIG ALS

In the Big Four, coach Bill Swiacki and his Argonauts, winless in three starts, must try to better themselves against the tough Montreal Alouettes at Toronto on Saturday. In the other Saturday game Ottawa Rough Riders play host to Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Crowe's move to replace quarters Tony Teresa and Paul Cameron with Gustafson means a switch from an air to a ground attack. Lions let Arnie Galiffa go when they decided to trust their fortunes to the flying feet of Teresa and Cameron and the move looked good as they won their first two games. But now Clem may wish that he, instead of Toronto, had title to Arnie's arm.

Roughriders may be minus the services of two imports when they clash with Eskimos. End Stan Williams, injured a week ago at Calgary, still is suffering from pulled leg muscles, while centre Mel Beckett has the flu and a badly swollen knee. Two Canadian guards who missed last Monday's game against the Lions, Ron Atchison and Andre Syrnyk are expected to be ready for the Roughrider lineup.

Last week Eskimos scraped past the Bombers 21-20 and needed three overtime plays to do it. In addition, the game cost them fullback Johnny Bright out of action for three weeks with a dislocated shoulder.

Monday Stampeders will be looking for revenge for the 23-22 loss earlier to Edmonton. Blue Bombers have announced nothing new to throw at Saskatchewan in the other game. Reserve lists, waivers and suspensions were the talk of the Big Four during the week. All the teams declared their 12 imports, but Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto fell out with league officials over which players can be placed on the reserve list. The whole problem will be discussed Sunday at a league meeting in Ottawa.

Alouettes, unbeaten in three starts, look like a sure choice over Toronto, but some observers including Hamilton coach Jim Trimble, have been predicting an Argonaut victory. Trimble thinks Argos can't be as bad as they looked in their two losses to Ticats, mainly due to a lacklustre line and butter-fingered ends. This week Argos showed more spirit in their workouts and Galiffa and his receivers developed some semblance of a passing attack.

Atlin vs Savoy Semi Tonight

Senior men's softball action will pit Atlin against Savoy Hotel tonight at Gyro Park, weather permitting in the first of their best-of-three semi-final, Len Harrington softball association vice-president said today.

RCMP and Local 708, tied at one-game each in their semi-final, will meet tomorrow night in the deciding contest, providing the Atlin-Savoy game is not rained out tonight. A rain-out tonight will move the Atlin-Savoy game to tomorrow night, the league vice-president said.

Stretching the deadline again, so must rush this copy so that you, the readers, may get your papers on time.

Back to school week again and time for dad to think of the children, is your family being held back with just the one car? Are the children being given that underprivileged feeling? Don't let these things happen to you — let anxious Arthur, your used-car specialist, help you. Get an eighty five dollar — if you pardon the expression—Ford! Fact is got a little of everything around the lot and all with our unconditional used-car guarantee.

Getting down to our last few cars of the '56 season and they're going at ridiculous prices — lately I've developed what is known in the business as "trade-in Tremors." Symptoms are a marked tendency to over-bid on any old thing the customer has to trade and a definite show of sympathy for the customer's pocket book. Better get in to see me before I see the doctor!

This "back to school" situation reminds me of the old, old adage, "Better to have loved and lost than to have to do homework for a gang of kids." Don't really mean that, Mom!

Trades and Labor boys lining up the three aspirants in the current election race for a free-for-all Sunday, Sept. 16th. To wind up the battle for first place. Words such as "fiasco," "schmozzle," "skulduggery," will no doubt be the order of the evening — No admission charge!

Bon voyage and all those things to the Halibut Fleet, now leaving on the final trip of the season — Good luck boys and remember, most of us still count on you for support.

Final game of the baseball season at Terrace Sunday — G & A and Terrace. I'm sure our lads would like to see you along for support, so jump in our auto, Otto. If you haven't an auto that's where I come in

A word from all the parents who have delivered their kiddies to Gyro park for swimming and organized games this past summer — "Thanks a mill'on Rusty."

Rupert Motors sell Chryslers Plymouths and the finest service north of the forty ninth — that's where I work.

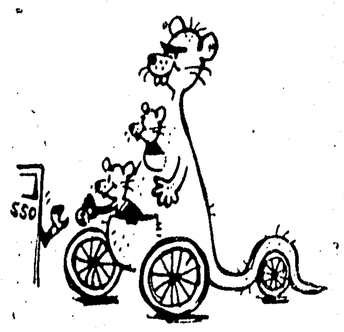
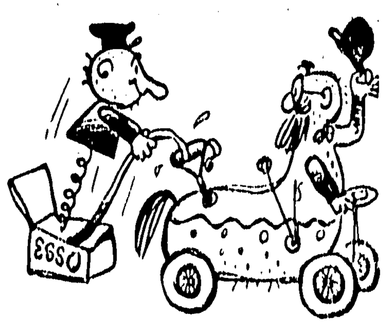
Look how gasoline prices have stayed down



In these days of high and rising prices, what's happened to the price of gasoline?

Let's compare wholesale gasoline prices with the government's general wholesale price index.

Since 1935-1939, prices in general have risen 120%.



In the same period, gasoline has gone up only 38%.

Gasoline prices have gone up less than one-third as much as wholesale prices in general.

FAITHFUL LIGHTER

WATERLOO, Tnt. (CP)—Despite his absent-mindedness, Derek Rabley still has his cigaret-lighter. In 1950 he lost it in a snowbank and it turned up a week later. Last year he did the same trick, and again recovered it. Now he has just had it returned after being lost for a week in a hayfield.

British Runners Barred From Scandinavian Meet

COPENHAGEN (CP)— Britain's world-record-breaking runner Gordon Pirie glumly agreed today to return to London after being barred by the British Amateur Athletic Board from competing in a Norwegian track meet.

Pirie, competing in meets in Scandinavia this week, said at the Danish airport here before flying home that he was disappointed at the British board's refusal to allow him to race in Bergen, Norway, Sunday.

"But their word's good enough for me," he said. "I don't know what reason they could have had for refusing permission."

The ban also applies to Brian Hewson, four-minute miler, and Cambridge university runner, Roger Dunkley.

Jack Crump, board secretary, said in London Thursday night no official arrangements were made for the British track men to compete in Norway. The board considered they had done enough racing for now and there were important competitions for them in Britain in the near future.

Pirie won two races this week —a 3,000-metre event at Malmoa, Sweden, in which he broke the world record, and a 1,500-metre race in Copenhagen when he beat Hewson by inches.

Kitimat Golfer Wins Open At Smithers

Special To The Daily News

SMITHERS—A Kitimat golfer, Ed Dede walked away with the men's open event in the Labor Day weekend Bulkley Valley Open Gold Tournament, while RCMP Corporal J. E. Dowling was runner-up.

Second-place in the handicap event, won by Vern Aylfounder of Smithers, ended in a tie between two Terrace golfers. Mel Peek-Vout and Gerry Groome will play off for honors at Terrace.

Parker Mills of Terrace placed first in the long-drive event and Cpl. Dowling took both the hidden hole and pitch and putt contests.

Smithers women golfers cinched the women's open, when Mrs. Margaret Erickson placed first and Mrs. Win Cox second.

Duties Set For Militia

Duties were assigned to officers and training plans were outlined as the 120th Troop of the 5th West Coast Harbor Defence Battery, RCA (M) held its initial parade of the 1956-57 training season last night at the Armory on Sixth Avenue.

Named to head administrative duties was Lieut. E. T. S. Moore while Lieut. J. C. Ewart will be in charge of training, Lieut. M. M. Johnston, pay and security and Lieut. J. F. Munro, public relations. Officer commanding the troop is Capt. R. W. Lewis.

A troop spokesman said today that every effort will be made to provide a full and progressive training program with the two parade nights, Monday and Thursday, to be divided into three periods.

Work is expected to be carried out at the Armory during the year to provide better facilities for training. Damage done by the fire in the sergeant's mess is also to be repaired.

The spokesman said that anyone interested in becoming a member of the unit should get in touch with the orderly room at the Armory any Monday or Thursday between 8 and 10 p.m.

He said there are openings for certain trade classifications.

CARS OF THE NEAR future may look something like this if recommendations from delegates to the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators convention in Winnipeg are put into effect. This experimental model with six headlights was used by the manufacturer to demonstrate to delegates the value of multiple lights in picking out pedestrians and in cutting down eye-strain. Some of next year's models may have 4 headlamps. (CP Photo).

Mr. Abel opened the four of diamonds. The six went on from dummy and Mr. Masters promptly played the ace and returned the deuce. Now old Mr. Dale is as wily as they come. He knows all the tricks and is usually on the giving rather than the receiving end of a deceptive play. But here he was really fixed.

DOWN ONE

To him it looked very much as if Mr. Abel held the king of diamonds. Apparently the best chance was to put in the ten and hope it forced out the king. As you see, however, Mr. Abel won the ten with the jack. He returned a diamond and Mr. Masters' king dropped the queen. The defenders then took another diamond and the ace of clubs to defeat the contract one trick.

Mr. New, the avid kibitzer, was confused by Mr. Masters' play of the diamond suit. "I thought you told me," he said, "always to play the king from an ace-king holding in following suit to a trick."

"That's the correct and accepted procedure," replied Mr. Masters, smiling. "But in that fact lies the reason for my success in playing the way I did this hand. Defending against the old fox here, unorthodox play is sometimes the only hope.

NOT 'ALWAYS'

"He knows I 'always' play the king from ace-king. Therefore, when I played the ace first, it practically denied holding the king. Dale might have suspected some kind of hocus-pocus, but he couldn't be sure. Especially when I played my ace promptly instead of going into a long trance."

"But wasn't your play dangerous?" Mr. New persisted. "Suppose Dale had held the queen-doubleton of diamonds?"

"Impossible," Mr. Masters replied. "My partner's lead was unquestionably a fourth highest. He led the four spot. I had the trey and deuce. So if he had three cards higher than the four and none lower, he had exactly four diamonds. And therefore Dale had three."

NOT TAKING RESONSIBILITIES

Canada Not Doing Share For Hungry Says Chisholm

VICTORIA (CP)—Canada is not taking her proper place in helping the two-thirds of the world suffering from hunger and ills, Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director of the World Health Organization said Thursday.

"We don't take the responsibilities we should take," he told the Institute of Public Administration of Canada conference.

Canada's influence on international health obligations has been to reduce the budget of the world health organization, he said, despite the fact this country is one of the world's wealthiest.

From the viewpoint of the have-not nations, Canada is "profiting mightily" from the "admirable aggression" of our ancestors which had the foresight to "grab the land before the rules were changed."

SAYS ATTITUDE "IMMORAL"

The rest of the world expects great things from Canada in relation to health and food matters, but they "are disappointed." Dr. Chisholm described Canada's attitude as "immoral."

The retired head of the W. H. O., who lives in nearby Sooke, said politicians think in terms of political survival, and not on the broader terms of world survival.

There is an impression in Ottawa, he said, that delegates to the W. H. O. were there as a reward for long-term service, or because "they kept their noses clean."

"So they get a trip to Europe at the peoples' expense."

The time has now come, he said when all government should reassess their institutions to find out to what extent they have followed committals to the United Nations and its subsidiary organizations.

One need for international concern about other nations is a "terrifying" increase in world population — 85,000 persons a day — and food distribution which is "not keeping up at all."

Dr. Chisholm said the distribution method is "completely obsolete." Unless it is changed, humanity would slide quickly to "a precipice of social chaos."

NO SPEARS

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP)—Frogmen are warned not to spear fish underwater. A 19-year-old youth was fined $10 here for "attempting to take fish by means other than angling" when found underwater fishing at a dam here. Only coarse fish may be speared, accused was told by the magistrate who confiscated his spear-gun.
