Legislature Sergeant-At-Arms Suspended By House Speaker

VICTORIA (CP)—The sergeant-at-arms in the British Columbia legislature was suspended Wednesday for testifying as a professional engineer before a legislative committee that he intended to "break" former mines minister Robert Sommers.

E. A. Jamieson, a $90-a-week sessional employee at the legislature, was given notice of his suspension by house speaker Thomas Irwin, who said he had no choice "under these circumstances."

Mr. Jamieson's statement of animosity towards the ex-minister was "an impeachment of a minister of the crown," said Mr. Irwin.

The statement was made before the legislative committee on mining and railroads during Mr. Jamieson's testimony about a five-week inspection of the Cassiar-Stewart road project in northern B.C.

INSPECTED ROAD

Mr. Jamieson was hired in his capacity as professional engineer to inspect the mining assistance road. The committee now is investigating charges of irregularities in construction of the road.

A member of the committee is Robert Sommers (SC-Rossland-Trail) who resigned his portfolios of mines, lands and forests Monday night to fight allegations that he used his office for personal gain.

Mr. Jamieson was being cross-examined by Leslie Peterson (SC Vancouver Centre) on his testimony that there was a "wastage of public money" on the road project, when the questioning turned to the subject of Mr. Sommers.

"Have you ever made the statement that you were going to break the minister of lands and forests?" Mr. Peterson asked. After one attempt to delay answering, Mr. Jamieson replied: "Yes, and I have good reason for saying it."

He testified that when he returned from his fall inspection trip, he was asked by the contractors, Wade and Wells Ltd. of Trail, to sign a claim for $47,000.

He refused to sign them, Mr. Jamieson said, because the contractors had not submitted vouchers to cover the claim. He then was told by Deputy Mines Minister J. F. Walker that the mines minister said he should sign the claim "or else."

Mr. Sommers, who shook his head continually during the testimony and said "that's not right," told the committee:

"Mr. Jamieson was quoting hearsay, I want that clearly understood."

Mr. Jamieson, appointed sergeant-at-arms two years ago, was replaced by his deputy, Joe King, until the matter is settled.

B.C. Calls For Boost In Pensions

May Make Move All By Itself

VICTORIA (CP)—The legislature Wednesday unanimously approved a government resolution calling on the federal administration to immediately raise old-age pension payments.

The four-man Liberal group joined others in approving the resolution, although leader Arthur Laing labelled it "a purely political motion" which "may have the opposite effect on the federal government."

His stand provoked an angry rebuttal from Premier Bennett, who also objected to Mr. Laing's suggestion that the B.C. House was tampering with federal business.

Should B.C. get a "proper share" of the tax filed in forthcoming federal-provincial negotiations, "this government will recommend that we will increase it ourselves," the premier said. Present federal old age pension is $40 a month. The B.C. government in its budget raised the provincial bonus of $10 to $15.

Unanimous approval also was given a resolution proposed by Mr. Laing, that the provincial government consider a low-cost housing plan for senior citizens.

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said the government was "quite prepared" to consider the proposal next year.

Ghost Cars To Seek City Speeders

The city council has decided it will initiate the use of "ghost" patrol cars within the city limits in order to curtail speeding.

RCMP will patrol the city in unmarked cars hired by the city. Decision to use ghost cars was brought about after complaints were received by council regarding speeders in the city.

Move came about after a police committee recommendation was approved by council.

Father Describes Fight In Which Son Wounded

Testimony of a father who witnessed a fight in which his son was wounded was among that given yesterday afternoon when the Crown completed its case against 19-year old Earl Morris Gamblin of this city and Kitimat.

The case, in which Gamblin is charged with assault with intend to wound Perry C. Mork, 24, was adjourned this morning until 10:30 a.m. tomorrow at the request of the defence counsel R. Gordon Vosburgh, of Terrace.

Hilmar Mork, father of the wounded youth told the court yesterday that he himself was wounded twice in the same fight with Gamblin, which occurred February 7 outside the Mork home, 103 Seventh Avenue East.

Mr. Mork, sr said that his first indication that there was any trouble between his son and Gamblin was when he was called to the door of his home before midnight by Gamblin's ringing the doorbell.

"BETTER CALL POLICE"

Mr. Mork said that Gamblin told him he had "better call the police as you won't have a son my more if I meet him."

Gamblin told him, the father said, that he had met Perry Mork in the train and that he had been sitting with his (Gamblin's) wife and there had been a "rumpus."

"Gamblin said he was going to wait for him and settle the score," Mr. Mork said.

Mr. Mork said he later saw Gamblin holding his son and said he heard the accused say he was going to kill him. When Gamblin demanded $40, Mr Mork said he told the youth he would be paid.

The elder Mork said he noticed blood on his son's neck and when he approached the two younger men. Mr. Mork said he took hold of Gamblin and the accused had swung his hand with a knife in it and ripped his arm. He said he also received a wound on the thigh.

Mr. Mork said he called to Clifford Dahl, taxi driver who had delivered the two younger men to the Mork home, that Gamblin had a knife.

When he did so, Mr. Mork said, Gamblin had turned and stabbed Perry Mork in the left side of the back.

SEVERAL KNIVES AT HOME

The elder Mork said that Mr Dahl had twisted Gamblin's arm and that he had taken the knife off him "easily" folded the blade and put it in his pocket. He said he did not remember what he did with the knife afterward, but felt he must have taken it out of his pocket and placed it on a chair in the dining room. Mr. Mork said there were several pocket knives in the house, but not one like the knife which he had taken off Gamblin.

Anna Mork, wife of Hilmar Mork told the court she had found the knife with a "tiny bit of blood on it" on the chair the morning after the fight. She said she wiped the blood off it and later gave it to the police.

Corporal W. G. Campbell of the city detachment RCMP who was called to the Mork home said Gamblin appeared to have been drinking that night but "was steady on his feet."

Statements said to have been made voluntarily by Gamblin on the night of his arrest were written down yesterday by Corporal Campbell and entered by the Crown as exhibits. Court was told they contained language too vulgar to be entered verbally.

Corporal Campbell said that Gamblin had told him that Perry Mork had tried to get his wife away from him during a train trip from Kitimat to Prince Rupert that day.

Democrats Challenge Eisenhower

Said Operating Through Regency

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Eisenhower's assertion that there isn't the slightest doubt that he can perform his duties as well as he ever did has drawn challenges from some Democrats.

They said that since his Sept. 24 heart attack he has been a "part-time president" operating through a "regency."

Reacting to a talk in which Eisenhower told the people on Wednesday night that he would accept the Republican nomination but would not engage in "whistle-stop" speaking, Democrats spoke of a contrastingly vigorous campaign of personal appearances by their nominee.

Speaking by television and radio, Eisenhower said he is a "recovered heart patient" who doctors say is "as well as before the attack occurred."

DEMOCRATS CONFIDENT

Democrats generally voiced pleasure that Eisenhower's health had recovered to such a degree. And many added they are confident of victory in a campaign waged on the record of Eisenhower's administration —the record on which the president said he will run.

CALLED COCKY

Senator Allen Ellender, Louisiana Democrat, said Eisenhower's TV appearance presented the president in a "very cocky and over-confident" role.

"He wants to stay home, keep on golfing and let other people do the chores for him," Ellender said.

Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem. Minn.) commented: "It seems like Mr. Eisenhower is planning a part-time campaign to become a part-time president."

The "regency" remark came from Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, a former Republican who remained in the Senate as an independent before becoming a Democrat. He said the American people will "reject his White House regency" in the November elections.

SURE OF CAPABILITIES

"As of this moment, there is not the slightest doubt that I can now perform, as well as I ever have, all of the important duties of the presidency. This I say because I am actually doing so, and have been doing so, for many weeks."

The talk to the people was a follow-up to Eisenhower's announcement at a press conference Wednesday that he is available for another White House term.

Almost to a man, Republicans greeted that announcement jubilantly.

WEATHER

Mostly cloudy with scattered showers today and Friday. Showers more frequent along the mainland coast and occasionally mixed with snow in the northern part. Not much change in temperature. Winds westerly 15. Low tonight and high Friday at Port Hardy 34 and 43, Sandspit and Prince Rupert 30 and 40.

MARILYN PAYS FINE

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — A $55 fine has satisfied the case of the People vs Marilyn Monroe DiMaggio. Demurely dressed in a black, high-necked dress, the actress pleaded guilty Wednesday to a 1954 traffic fine, issued when she was still using the name of her ex-husband, Yankee Clipper Joe DiMaggio. Miss Monroe paid $5 on a charge of driving without a licence and $50 for failing to appear.

The bottle, an apothecary jar, bears the prescription "For External Use Only," and contains a supply of golf balls for "use with discretion whenever weight of work-a-day problems hangs heavy." Hume in 11th Hour Bid On Sunday Sports Issue

VICTORIA (CP)—Mayor Fred Hume of Vancouver will make another attempt today to have commercial Sunday sport authorized for his city with an amendment to the city charter.

The proposed amendment was drafted Wednesday by corporation counsel Russel Baker.

The Vancouver delegation, in an 11th hour attempt, will try to get the government or a private member to present the amendment when the provincial legislature is in committee to consider other amendments to the charter.

The house is expected to prorogue Friday. Six Vancouver members of the legislature said earlier Wednesday they thought it was too late to get the government to do anything about the amendment.

Sunday sport was approved by Vancouver ratepayers in a December plebiscite.

NOT IN AMENDMENTS

Members said the proper way to have it authorized would have been for the city to have included it in an amendment to its charter along with other amendments last week.

Mayor Hume was on holidays when city council drafted its proposed amendments which did not include the Sunday sport issue.

Criticized for this action, council said the government was aware of the results of the plebiscite and the city had requested three times by letter to have accommodating legislation passed.

Mayor Hume flew to Victoria Monday after returning from Honolulu. He is himself opposed to Sunday sport but he said he would do everything in his power "even at this late date" to see the wishes of voters carried out.

Greatest opposition to passage of such legislation came from church organizations. Attorney-General Robert Bonner also charged that Vancouver council was split on the question and had not made a direct approach to the government.

A bill such as now is requested would be known as a public bill in the hands of a private member. It could be given first, second and third readings on the last day of the session but only by unanimous approval of the house.

Central Quota For Herring Seen Tonight

Herring fishing in the central sub-district will probably reach its 50,000 ton quota tonight and operations in that area will likely close down tomorrow, it was indicated today.

Fishermen netted 1,120 tons of herring in the Raymond channel and Boddy pass area yesterday to bring the central sub-district quota to 49,694 tons, or within 306 tons of the quota, the department of fisheries reported today.

In Huxley Island waters of the Queen Charlotte Island area, fishermen yesterday took 1,460 tons of herring to bring the total catch so far this year in the non-quota area to approximately 75,000 tons.

No reports of catches in the northern sub-district were received today.

Court Dismisses Break-In Charge

A charge of breaking and entry with intent, laid against Dale Starnes of Prince Rupert, was dismissed this morning in police court at the request of Crown counsel T. W. Brown QC.

Starnes appeared for preliminary hearing on the charge today before Magistrate W. D. Vance after electing a jury trial February 20. Charge was laid after Otto Jensen, Suite 1, Helgerson block reported several articles missing from his room February 12.

APOPKA, Fla. (AP) — Helen McBride, widely known Florida woman aviator, shot and killed an airline ticket agent in her home during an argument over some property Wednesday night, sheriff Dave Starr reported.

Mrs. McBride, 49, is the wife of Dr. Thomas McBride, brother of the woman columnist and radio commentator, Mary Margaret McBride.

Starr charged Mrs. McBride with the murder of Charles Green, 33, ticket agent for National Air Lines.

He quoted Mrs. McBride as saying she pumped three bullets into Green after he slapped her while they argued over payments on property they owned jointly at the Apopka airport.

Dr. R. G. Large Re-Elected President of Museum Board

Dr. R. G. Large was re-elected president of the Museum of Northern British Columbia at the annual meeting of members last night. Also re-elected were J. B. Scott as vice-president and Mrs. Jocelyn Bolton as secretary-curator.

"While our museum building leaves much to be desired, there has been a noticeable improvement in its interior appearance and a considerable addition to the displays," Dr. Large said in his annual report. "The overall result is a much more attractive museum. This organization is continuing to fill an important place in the cultural and educational life of the community."

Recalling that the museum and the parks board had conducted a joint survey and made recommendations concerning care of the city's totem poles, he said that the city council had shown "commendable concern" over the matter and arranged to have the damaged poles safely stored for the time being.

"The committee is continuing to function and a long term restoration program is receiving study," he added.

Dr. Large paid tribute to Mr. Scott and Mrs. Bolton for the work they had done for the museum during the year. He also spoke of the financial assistance received from the tourist bureau and the city council "which alone has made it possible for us to continue in operation."

In her annual report, Mrs. Bolton said more than 5,000 persons had visited the museum during the year approximately the same number as the year before. She felt that the lack of an increase was due to the Union Steamships strike which reduced the tourist traffic into Prince Rupert.

"During the year, classes from the schools came to the museum and I was pleased to help these young people," she said.

"We received many letters and cards during the year and especially at Christmas from friends who had been to see the museum and remembered their visit."

Referring to numerous displays added to the museum's collection, she said the "most spectacular" was a Columbia Cellulose Company Ltd., exhibit donated by the forestry department.

In answer to questions about care of the totem poles, Dr. Large said it had been recommended that copies be made under careful supervision since the old poles were affected by fungus and there was no way of making them impervious to weather. He said a building would have to be found for this work and he thought that the rough cedar poles would be donated by industry.

He added that Bill Reid, a descendant of the Haida tribe working for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in Vancouver, had offered to supervise carving of the Haida poles since he is closely familiar with this work, Bruce Brown is also seeking assistance for the program in Victoria, Dr. Large added.

Elected as directors were Mrs. P. F. P. Bird, A. S. Nickerson, William Boynon, J. G. Lewis, J. F. Magor and Canon Basil S. Prockter.

Message of Mercy

MARCH being Red Cross Month across the country, it is timely to record that the Red Cross ensign, which has flown in British Columbia for 55 years, is still signalling its message of mercy. Ever since the first branch in this province was formed in Victoria in 1900, the Society has given uninterrupted service on the Pacific coast.

Regardless of race, color or creed, the Red Cross operates in nearly every country in the world, the universal symbol of man's humanity to man. In war and peace, in flood and fire, in disaster or personal tragedy, the Red Cross, on its white background, has become a promise of ready and willing assistance. It knows no boundary or barrier . . . it recognizes only mercy.

First work in this province was at the beginning of the century when supplies were shipped to Canadian troops fighting in the South African war. In the intervening years, the B.C. division has grown until every fourth person in this province lends his personal or financial support to the Society.

Today, there are 223,642 B.C. members contributing time, service and money to 84 branches scattered from the Pacific to Alberta and from the Yukon, south to the international border. In addition, 135,076 Juniors, organized under 3,376 school branches, are being trained in the ideals of Red Cross.

The purpose of the Society, in accordance with the Act under which it is incorporated, is: "To furnish volunteer aid to sick and wounded of armies in time of war. In time of war or peace, to carry on and assist in work for the improvement of health, the prevention of disease and the mitigation of suffering throughout the world."

To adhere to this pledge, the Red Cross in B.C. provides services that touch the life of every citizen. Let us reply generously when we are called upon to help in its mission of mercy.

U.K. Secretary Leaves Cyprus With Island's Future Unsolved

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — Britain's Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd left by air today after a four-day visit with the crisis over this Mediterranean island colony's political future still unresolved.

Newspapers here headlined reports that a meeting Wednesday night with Archbishop Makarios, leader of the Greek Cypriot movement for union with Greece, failed to reach a settlement.

All Lennox-Boyd would say before takeoff was: "I am returning home to report to the prime minister and my colleagues in the government, and will make a statement to the House of Commons soon."

The eve of his departure was marked by a flare-up in the anti-British incidents which have terrorized Cyprus for months. In a 25-minute period Wednesday night 10 bombs exploded in Nicosia, injuring six persons. Two Greek Cypriots were shot dead in what appeared to be political killings.

Britain is prepared to grant Cyprus a constitution for self-government, but there are still three points of disagreement: The question of an amnesty for political prisoners, including terrorists; the question of a Greek Cypriot majority in a Cyprus legislature, and the question of control over internal security.

Russia Protests Firing on Ship

OSLO (Reuters)—Russia has protested to Norway that a Norwegian plane fired on a Soviet fishing vessel outside Norwegian fishing limits last month, hitting it with seven bullets, it was disclosed today.

Norway says a patrol plane fired warning shots ahead of Soviet ships which made off after being detected inside Norwegian fishing limits.

Newspaper Circulation At New High

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Newspaper circulation in the United States broke all records last year, says the 88th annual edition of N. W. Ayer and Son's Directory of Newspapers and Periodicals.

The Ayer directory, published Wednesday, says combined circulation of all English-language dailies reached 55,837,000 by the end of 1955. This was an increase of close to 1,000,000 copies daily over the previous year.

The breakdown of circulation shows: U.S. evening newspapers, 33,720,000 daily, an increase of more than 800,000 copies; morning papers, 21,327,000 daily, a gain of 90,000; Sunday papers, 46,044,000, increasing more than 220,000 copies.

A slight drop in the number of daily newspapers was reported, "due to the merger trend." There now are, including both English and foreign-language papers, 1,498 evening papers up 13; 336 morning papers down 34; 540 Sunday papers down 25; and seven all-day dailies up two.

Soap Box for Nik

THE reaction of the West to the new, soft, Russian world line has produced some real laughs. One is in the warning from England that Nikita Khrushchev may steal the show on his forthcoming visit to Britain.

What if the talkative successor to Stalin takes to a soap box in Hyde Park, the scaremongers ask.

Might he not make direct contact with the British people, and alienate them from their loyalty to the doctrines of the West?

Surely this is about the silliest suggestion in a long record of expressions by no means notable for wisdom. For years back, the statesman of the West has been shouting to the high heavens for the breaking down of the iron curtain. They have been asking for direct contact with the people of Russia. They surely cannot expect to have it both ways.

Far from being disturbed at the prospect of the Russian leader speaking direct to the British people, we should be overjoyed at that development. For not even the Russians would expect to have the right of free speech apply only one way. If the Russian leaders want to talk to the British people, or the American people, or the Canadian people, so much the better. The only quid pro quo which the western leaders should ask is that our chief spokesmen should have the same rights.

By all means, let Mr. Khrushchev speak in Hyde Park if he wants to. And by all means, let Sir Anthony Eden return the compliment, by asking the privilege of speaking to similar crowds in Moscow.

JOHN Foster Dulles is on solid ground when he welcomes the new soft line of the Soviets as a moral victory for the West. It is true that the new Russian government has taken note of the fact that the universal fear of Russia springs mostly from the harsh suppression of civil liberties wherever Communism attains power. We do not know what is really behind the new relaxed policies promulgated by Moscow. They may be merely a pose, merely a clever tactic, designed to deceive more people in the outside world. But, on the other hand, they may be a genuine evidence of increased Soviet self-confidence.

The Russian Communists have always held that the harsh tyrannies of their regime were dictated by the dire necessity of civil war, scarcity, international intrigue, and, finally, a third world war.

The proof of the pudding is in the eating, and it will not take mankind very long to learn the true score on this point.

MY OWN guess is that Khrushchev will act as British as John Bull when he is in England. Up till now, he had shown himself an extremely smart operator. On all his foreign missions, he has adopted the line which was exactly suited to whatever task he had in hand. In Yugoslavia, he had hardly stepped off the plane before he made an abject apology to Tito, astonishing not only for its suddenness but for its sweeping extent. In India, he put on precisely the kind of a show that the Indians massed millions obviously love. So my bet is that he will be more regal than royalty when he dines with the Queen at Windsor Castle.

No, I don't think that Khrushchev will call for any soapbox while he is in London. But, if he does, I hope they supply him one, equipped with plenty of loudspeakers. For the life blood of a free democracy is free speech. If we ever get to the point where we are afraid of free speech, even by a visiting Russian Bolshevik, we are indeed sunk.

CHRONIC HOSPITAL

The need for a chronic hospital to serve the Trail area has been established by a citizen's fact-finding committee. A survey shows that there are 30-35 patients in Trail and Warfield who could be served immediately by such a hospital.

At present such patients are either receiving inadequate home care or receiving treatment in acute hospitals. The fact-finding committee indicated costs for caring for patients in a chronic hospital would be about $200 per patient per month as against $450 per patient per month in an acute hospital. Very real savings could be achieved. Why then not more chronic hospitals in the province?

The big stumbling block stems from the fact that BCHIS grants do not cover chronic hospital operation. B.C. welfare department pays up to $135 for the care of welfare patients treated in chronic hospitals but the balance must be picked up by municipalities concerned. Most B.C. municipalities are not anxious to take on added financial responsibilities.

However, the proposed new federal health plan, which could be a reality sometime in 1957, would provide grants for chronic hospital operation. In addition more generous construction grants may be on the way.

There is inevitably a big time lag between proposals for a new project and ribbon-cutting ceremonies for a structure that has become an accomplished fact. Trail's chronic hospital committee would be advised to proceed with studies and plans so that this area will be in a position to get in on the ground floor of any new deal for chronic disease patients that may materialize in the next few years.

The committee has to tackle some formidable problems. Under the present system of grants, B.C. would contribute $125,000 to a $250,000 structure, the federal government would contribute $75,000, leaving $50,000 to be raised locally.

Then too it is proposed that the chronic hospital should serve the communities and districts of Castlegar, Kinnaird, Tadanac, Trail, Fruitvale, Warfield, Rossland and Paterson. It would follow that support will be on a district basis and that will take a lot of organization.

The committee's spade-work in this direction could be tied in with a move to have the provincial government recognize the Trail-Tadanac hospital as a regional hospital.

Some people in British Columbia have been suggesting that the solution to the problem of delinquent youth in that province is to put them in the navy.

How reputable citizens of a country can hold such views is bewildering. This may have been all right in the days of the press gangs, but not today. The modern naval vessel is a ship filled with decent men and electronic devices which demand a high degree of efficiency and responsibility on the part of every crew member. There is no room in such a fighting machine for irresponsible hoodlums.

The role of the Royal Canadian navy is to help defend this country. It is not a corrective or punitive institution for young criminals. Let some other institution look after them so the navy can do the job that is expected of it.

PLACING OF PLATES

North American car manufacturers could make better provision for the placing of licence plates on the front of cars. In many makes and models as the situation now stands, front plates must be placed on the centre of the front bumper — a spot where they suffer maximum punishment from other cars in the course of parking operations.

Heaven only knows that Ontario plates are flimsy enough in the first place without motorists having to place them in a postion where they are sure to be scraped and mangled.

Plane Crash At Narrows Being Checked

VANCOUVER (CP)—An investigation was started Wednesday into an accident 150 miles north of here in which a B.C. airlines plane struck a cable across Seymour Narrows, the district controller of air services said.

Airline officials said Peter Lauren, the pilot, and logger Mitchell (Dan) Holt, the passenger—both of Campbell River, B.C., were unhurt. Lauren landed the light plane "right side up" after the mishap.

The controller said a regular notice on presence of the cable was posted early this month. The pilot said he knew of the wire but thought it was about 300 feet above the water. He said he was looking upward for it when the float of his plane hooked it.

After landing the crippled aircraft, he radioed for help and a fishboat towed the plane to Campbell River.

Western Press Welcomes President's Announcement

LONDON (AP) — Western Europe's non-Communist press has given warm welcome to President Eisenhower's decision to run again. Officials on both sides of the Iron Curtain were noncommittal today, the Russians smilingly said they had expected it.

Editorial comment over the announcement ranges from sober reflection to open jubilation.

The Times of London says: "It is impossible not to admire the devotion to duty which has led him, after prolonged private debate, to this decision."

Morgenbladet of Oslo declares: "The whole free world will greet the president's decision with satisfaction." But Copenhagen's Dagens Nyheter, a conservative paper, says it is "almost historical irony that at a time when authoritarian Russia goes in for collective leadership, one should see the democratic United States depending on the decision of one man."

EXPECTED IT

"This is news we have expected for some time," said Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who has spent much time in the U.S. as a Soviet representative at the United Nations.

Soviet President Klementi Voroshilov, who got the word with Gromyko between acts of "Romeo and Juliet" at Moscow's Bolshoi Theatre, smiled but kept silent.

West European officials likewise had little or nothing to say officially, but many expressed the private view that Eisenhower's decision was good for the free world.

British leaders were obviously pleased and French officials indicated their pleasure. Associates of West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer said he was "highly pleased." Italy's Premier Antonio Segni said the announcement was "happy news", and Vatican circles also expressed pleasure.

Austria's Chancellor Julius Raab and Canada's Prime Minister St. Laurent both said they were pleased at the president's decision.

Uranium Not Rare Metal Engineer Tells Gyros

Uranium is not the rare metal that it is frequently thought to be, A. R. C. James, local inspector of mines and resident mining engineer for the British Columbia government, told the Gyro Club at its weekly luncheon yesterday.

"It is 100 times as common as silver and just as common as lead and zinc," Mr. James said. However, it can only be mined when it is concentrated in commercial quantities."

The speaker said that, in prospecting for uranium, it was advisable to look in those areas where previous discoveries have been made. Failing this, the prospector should look in those areas which have favorable geological formation or which are known to contain other metals.

Mr. James said that in B.C. there was a particularly promising showing of uranium 80 miles north of Kamloops. He added that uranium might be found anywhere along the east side of the Coast range and mentioned Hazelton and Atlin as two other points where deposits had been discovered.

He said he had no information on the recently reported find on Porcher Island.

The speaker believed that the future benefits of nuclear fission would be greater than the drawbacks and that Canada was in a favorable international position because of its large supply of uranium ore. He was introduced by Robert McKay, junior, and thanked by J. E. Taylor.

Watch Your Language

Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles on Effective Speech, written for the Daily News by W. C. Hankinson, station manager at CFPR. Mr. Hankinson has had several years' experience as a High School language teacher and as an instructor in public speaking at the university level. He is the founder of the Canadian Institute of Speech and co-author and author respectively of two of its teaching texts. Mr. Hankinson will be pleased to interrupt the series at any time to discuss pertinent questions or comments from readers.

YOUR VOICE

The voice is a musical instrument. In the field of musical entertainment, many people prefer the human voice to other solo instruments. We must not think, however, that a musical voice is useful only for singing. Speech is a "short-hand" form of singing and good speech should have all the qualities of good singing.

With rare exceptions, all people have potentially pleasant voices. Tragically, however, they seldom succeed in making them sound as pleasant as they could; the glamour lies buried in the throat.

Aside from the dull and uninteresting quality which is characteristic of so many voices, there is another problem which is a frequent source of annoyance: Many people have difficulty in making themselves heard. Besides being annoying to those who wish to hear, it results in misunderstandings and misinterpretations.

We are, then, concerned with the dynamics of power of the voice and with its resonance. Every speech sound we utter depends upon air pressure from the lungs for its execution; the quality and carrying power of the uttered sounds depends upon the amount of air pressure and the shape of the resonant cavities in the mouth, throat and nose. The infinite variety of shapes and dimensions of the head and face and, hence, of the mouth, nose, and throat explains to a large degree the equally infinite variety of quality of voices which enables us to recognize our friends and acquaintances as soon as we hear them speak.

There are a few simple things which anyone can do and which will result in a better speaking voice. Here are three of them:

(1) Breathe deeper. Don't force the voice; don't tighten the muscles of the neck and throat. Simply breathe deeper.

The word "deeper" has a literal significance. To many of us, deep breathing suggests sticking out the chest and raising the shoulders. Both ideas are wrong. Fill the lower part of the lungs with air and a more resonant, more pleasant, and better-carrying tone will result. It will take conscious practice when you are speaking but the results will please you.

(2) Keep the voice pitched a bit lower. We tend, especially when excited, to let the voice rise in pitch. The quality is likely to be less good and the results in speech less satisfactory.

(3) Try to make your voice sound glamorous. Smile! The smile loosens some of the constrictions which make the voice throaty, un-resonant, and harsh. And since your voice is so much a part of YOU, when you try to sound pleasant and friendly, you will add something personal to your voice which will actually improve the voice in quality.

Women Plan Auxiliary

Women interested in the operation of the Prince Rupert Civic Centre gathered Monday night in the Civic Centre to discuss formation of a Civic Centre Women's auxiliary.

Mrs. W. E. Halliwell said today that the purpose of such an auxiliary is to "brighten up the rooms in the Civic Centre and generally create a pleasant atmosphere in the community centre."

She said that the Civic Centre staff and women members of city organizations felt that mothers of children attending the Centre could "lend a hand" with suggestions.

It was decided Monday night to hold an organizational meeting of the auxiliary in April.

Women interested in this new idea are asked to telephone Mrs. Halliwell at 2667 or Mrs. Robert Kelsey at 2832.

High School Production Of Pinafore Almost Entirely Student-Run Show

Apart from a little outside professional advice, Booth Memorial high school's performance of "HMS Pinafore" scheduled for March 14, 15 and 16, is almost entirely a student-run affair.

The students will perform in the operetta, sell tickets, usher, make posters, serve tea, shift scenery, do make up, arrange advertising, and do all the things that a large professional company would spend thousands of dollars trying to do to make for a smooth-running and successful show.

Musical directors, Gordon Griffen and Miss Joan Hardie, along with stage director Miss Georgina McNay all belittle their own efforts in praise of the students.

FOR, BY STUDENTS

Production manager Leon Mendoza, told The Daily News today, that "this Booth Memorial high school student production, is being run for the benefit of the students, by the students, and only through the efforts of the students."

SPECTACULAR SHOW

"It is through their co-operation," he continued, "that we are going to be able to put on such a spectacular show as this one is going to be."

The "barely-two-weeks-away" show, now approaching the dress rehearsal stage got underway financially this week with the issuing of tickets to the students.

Under the direction of commercial teacher Miss Dorothy Baker, every class in the high school received an equal number of tickets for their immediate family's use.

Junior and Senior councils of the school have taken on the sales promotion of the "Pinafore" tickets on an inter-class competition basis.

The class selling the most tickets on a percentage basis will be allowed to attend the student's matinee of the performance free on Tuesday, March 13.

Tickets this year are white, blue, and pink, corresponding to the Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday performances respectively. Production manager Mendoza, is uring everyone to state their preference in buying tickets, to avoid overcrowding the high school auditorium.

Students Jack Anderson and Al Adams placed advertising posters in city store windows the same day the tickets went on sale.

The posters, created by Miss V. I. Magee and her art classes, feature combined nautical themes.

The make-up club, under the direction of J. R. McCracken, wallowing in spirit gum, grease paint, crepe hair, and tarrope pigtails practised their art this past week on the high school plays appearing in the Drama Festival.

The silent members of the make-up club, the scene shifters, the stage crew, are all volunteers, with no hope of ever appearing before the public or receiving the plaudits of the public for their efforts in helping make the show a success.

Grade 12 student Kenneth McKinnon, in charge of choreography, persistently insists on perfection on the hornpipe dances and the various fast-moving dance steps on stage.

Without a doubt, it is an all-students show.

CARNATION'S SHORT CUT TO TASTIER MACARONI FOR LENT

New 3-minute way to make smoother Cheese Sauce

"from Contented Cows"

Carnation's special blending qualities make it possible—Ordinary milk won't do!

Quickest cheese sauce you ever made. Thrifty, too — no flour or shortening needed! And so smooth!

All because of Carnation's special blending qualities — not found in any other form of milk.

CARNATION 3-MINUTE CHEESE SAUCE
(Makes about 2½ cups sauce)

1 large can undiluted CARNATION EVAPORATED MILK
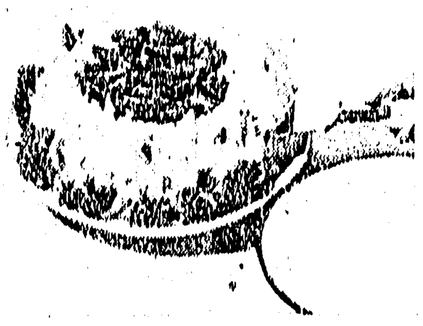
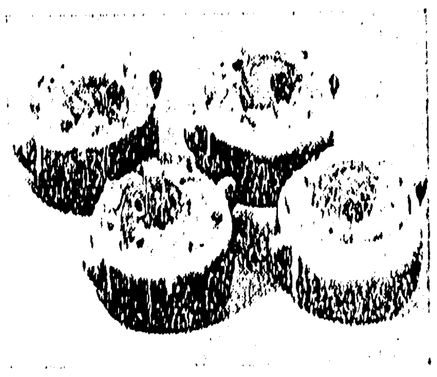
1½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon steak sauce
2 cups (about 8 oz.) grated process-type Canadian cheese

Simmer Carnation, salt, mustard and steak sauce in saucepan over low heat to just below boiling (about 2 minutes). Add cheese; stir over low heat until cheese melts (1 minute longer).

MACARONI AND CHEESE CASSEROLE. Pour Carnation 3-Minute Cheese Sauce over a mixture of 4 cups of well drained cooked macaroni, ½ cup finely chopped green pepper, ¼ cup diced pimiento. Mix thoroughly. Pour macaroni into well-buttered 1½ quart casserole. Bake casserole in a moderate oven (350°F.) 25-30 minutes.



SALMON-MACARONI-CHEESE RING. Pour Cheese Sauce over mixture of 4 cups cooked macaroni, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, 1 cup salmon, ¼ cup diced green pepper, ¼ cup diced pimiento, 2 beaten eggs, 2 tablespoons grated onion. Place in buttered 9" ring mold. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 30 minutes; let mold stand 5 minutes; turn out on warm platter.



INDIVIDUAL MACARONI-CHEESE-TOMATO BAKES. Pour 3-Minute Cheese Sauce over mixture of 4 cups cooked macaroni, ¾ cup diced green pepper, ¼ cup diced pimiento and 1½ cups diced fresh (or drained canned) tomatoes. Blend lightly; place macaroni mixture in 6 individual casseroles. Bake casseroles in a moderate oven (350°F.) about 20 minutes.

British Author Lauds Canadian Dieppe Action

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A new British book accords the Canadian raid on Dieppe a place in military history alongside Waterloo, Blenheim and the Charge of the Light Brigade.

"Undoubtedly . . . one of the most vivid and dramatic episodes in the story of war," writes R. W. Thompson in "Dieppe at Dawn" (Hutchinson), the latest account of that clash of arms that took place on the French beaches Aug. 19, 1942.

Of an Allied force of nearly 6,000 that sailed for Dieppe in 252 ships, 4,963 were Canadians, and of these only 2,211 came back. Nearly 1,000 were killed and Canadian prisoners were in nine hours of combat outnumbered those captured in 20 months in Italy.

On the basis of those chilling statistics, Dieppe has been classified by many as a failure — some say a necessary failure. Thompson, a former war correspondent, refrains from any sweeping judgments, but an uneasy note in his writing suggests he is by no means convinced that the raid was in fact an essential prelude to the 1944 landings.

Perhaps his chief criticism is of the lack of firepower. "Surely this lesson did not need to be learned as late as August, 1942? Had it not been learned at Gallipoli, for example, in the First World War, and in a thousand land battles?"

One reviewer of "Dieppe at Dawn" goes further. Milton Shulman, formerly of Toronto and a wartime Canadian Army major now with The Evening Standard, lists "four major blunders"—in regard to timing, terrain, lack of supporting fire and tactical surprise.

Criticism apart, Thompson's book is in essence a detailed review of a tragic, heroic action. The British author becomes deeply involved in his narrative. Describing how men were "slaughtered in droves," he says:

"These things beat upon my mind like the strokes of a hammer, day after day. But there is no way out. I must pursue this repetition, seeking constantly to curb the use of words such as 'heroism,' 'courage,' 'devastating,' 'fury' that spring constantly to my pen . . . in their emphasis the tragedy may emerge the more starkly."

For Thompson, the most memorable of the gallant Canadian is Sgt. Pierre Dubuc of Montreal, a member of Les Fusiliers Mont Royal, who performed prodigies of heroism.

"It is impossible to measure such men by normal standards. His personal magnetism was astounding, in keeping with the kind of character beloved by a Dumas or a Sabatini, and but seldom encountered outside the pages of romantic fiction."

Dubuc landed on Red beach, destroyed enemy pillboxes single-handed and was one of a handful to penetrate the town of Dieppe. After some amazing exploits, he was taken prisoner, then smashed down his guard with "his bare hands," and killed him.

Somehow, with a few comrades, Dubuc made his way back to the beaches, where he picked up his wounded commanding officer, Lt.-Col. Dollard Menard, and carried him to a landing craft. Then he went back for a man of the Essex Scottish. "Not until he had saved all he could did Dubuc save himself, boarding an assault craft and transshipping to a tank-landing craft as though on a routine exercise."

Such action leads Thompson to "think of Dieppe along with the Charge of the Light Brigade, and with all the other great deeds in the long story that reaches back far beyond Marathon and the defeat of the Athenians at Syracuse, and on by way of Pultowa, Valmy, Blenheim and Waterloo."

Book Published in Seattle Depicts Northwest Logging

Special to The Daily News

SEATTLE — Running logs on Oregon rivers, yarding white pine with 12-foot wheels, building and towing Davis and Benson rafts, hand logging in British Columbia, operating early sawmills, tractors, trucks and flumes are a few of the subjects covered in Ralph W. Andrews' new pictorial of loggin's yesterday, "Glory Days of Logging."

The volume begins where Andrews' first logging book "This Was Logging" leaves off. The author has scourged logging camps, mills, historical archives and out of the old-growth forests of British Columbia and Washington, the white pine and Douglas fir timber of Idaho, Oregon and Montana, the sugar pine and redwoods of Northern California come page after page of thrills. "Glory Days of Logging" will bulge with memorable photographs, forgotten stories, great achievements, lumbering curiosities and colorful characters of the West Coast's logging heyday.

Andrews gives his own intimate views of the logging woods and mills as he saw them after selling saws and working in Wisconsin sawmills. He offers highlights of text from ballads to humorous sketches by such writers of the woods as Jim Stevens, Stewart Holbrook and Paul Hosmer.

In announcing the book, Superior Publishing Co., Box 2490, Seattle 11, Wash., gives the size as 8¾ inches by 11 inches, stresses the excellence of halftone printing on heavy enameled stock, and states that the first printing will be a limited, numbered and autographed gift edition supplied with slip cases. An eight-page sample of the volume will be supplied free to anyone requesting a copy.

Tennyson Poems Now at Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The manuscripts of Alfred Lord Tennyson have come to Harvard University's Houghton Library.

In announcing the acquisition Tuesday, Harvard said the 350 poems in first drafts and revisions as Tennyson himself wrote them are "the world's most important collection of the writings of the great 19th century poet Laureate."

They were bought for an undisclosed price from the poet's grandson, Sir Charles Tennyson.

LEFT BEHIND

LONDON (AP) — Unclaimed property on BBC premises include a pair of ballet shoes and a roll of wallpaper, officials report.

Best-Seller Heroine Prostitute

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — A novel called "Meine Schoene Mama" (My Beautiful Mama) seems a cinch to be Europe's best seller of 1956.

Its plot: A 17-year-old girl decides to become a street walker, finds that career none too easy ("more difficult than going to the dentist"), and marries a count in a double wedding which also unites her "widowed" mother with her father.

Critics say it can't miss. One Munich newspaper writer has likened it to last year's French literary sensation, "Bonjour Tristesse" because "in both novels the subject is sex in every paragraph."

French, Italian and American publishers are bidding for rights to "Meine Schoene Mama," its German publisher says, and there is talk of a movie version.

But the author won't enjoy any of the success and money unless he or she identifies himself or herself to publisher Kurt Desch.

Desch received the manuscript last fall. It was mailed from Venice and, on a piece of Gritti Palace Hotel stationery on accompanying letter said:

"If you don't want to read it, throw it in the wastepaper basket. . . . It's useless to try to find me."

The letter was signed "Mathilde Welewska" a name of a woman who bore Napoleon Bonaparte an illegitimate son in 1810. Greta Garbo played her in the movies.

Desch replied accepting the novel, but his letter was returned by the hotel in Venice with the notation: "Mathilde Welewska unknown here."

Some critics assert the book was written by a man, but Desch is uncertain. However, he concedes he is not unhappy about the author-hip mystery. It can't hurt sales.

He has written a foreword addressed to the author saying:

"Some day, I am sure, you will turn up at least to collect your royalties. An author not interested in payment would contradict all my experience as a publisher."

Barnacled Barge Subject Of Buoyant, Amusing Book

"Sold to the Ladies" by DOROTHY A. BENNETT
(Published by George W. Stewart — New York City)
Reviewed by JEAN BARCLAY

Anyone who has ever owned a boat or who has redecorated an old summer cottage will enjoy this lively rollicking book.

It is the true story of three New York business girls who, on a sudden impulse, decide to spend their lunch hour at an auction sale being held on the New York waterfront. They return to work, albeit a little late, the excited and rather incredulous owners of a 50-ton barge.

Their story is of the transformation of this old work barge into an attractive floating summer home. They use the "Tom Sawyer" technique for the arduous reconditioning of the old scow. Visiting scientists, doctors, editors, and artists, scrape, paint, caulk, repair and tar, and get a toe hold on it all. The inhabitants of New York's most notorious waterfront become their friends and helpers.

Finally the barge is finished and ready to be towed to a location more fitting to her "new look." The girls become members of the Sands Point Yacht Club, and when they are towed into the anchorage, sacred to the elite of the yachting fraternity, and drop the hook, the established members of this exclusive club view this intrusion with something considerably less than enthusiasm.

However, even the members of exclusive yacht clubs are human and the girls are experts in the art of "winning friends and influencing people." Soon the "Barnacle Barge" with her 40-foot cabin, 1,000 square feet of sun deck and her crew of three lovely girls, is the centre of attraction.

This is a book that is fun to read, full of buoyant amusing narrative. It is illustrated by photographs showing the barge in various stages of conversion, and her crew at work and at play. There is also at the end of the book a number of recipes from the galley of the "Barnacle Barge," which the reader should find interesting.

OSHL Game Starts Riot

Players' Brawl Spreads To Fans

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—What was described by a witness as a "general riot," broke out Wednesday night between fans attending an Okanagan Senior Hockey League game here and Vernon Canadians.

Kamloops Elks defeated the league-leading Canadians 5-4.

The affray started 25 seconds from the end of the penalty-strewn game. Art Hart, 20-year-old Vernon leftwinger, was given a minor penalty, but on his way to the box he slashed Elk defenceman Don Busch across the side of the head with his stick.

Hart, given a major penalty for slashing with intent to injure and a misconduct, left the ice. A section of the crowd of 1,400 persons then began to fight with some Vernon player.

A young, unidentified woman was hurt but the extent of her injuries was not known.

In another OSHL game, Kelowna Packers went into a 2-0 lead in the semi-finals by defeating Penticton Vs 6-3.

The only Western International Hockey League action, Spokane Flyers took a 2-0 playoff lead edging the Kimberley Dynamiters 6-5.

Tonight, Spokane goes to Kimberley and Trail is at Nelson in the WIHL while the other league is quiet.

Rangers Make NHL Playoffs

By The Canadian Press

Phil Watson's collection of record-wreckers will be in the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup playoffs this year for the first time in six seasons.

New York Rangers, 13 of whom have never been in big-league playoff competition, assured themselves of a berth in the four-team NHL semi-finals by defeating Boston Bruins 4-2 Wednesday night at New York.

At Toronto in the other NHL game, the Maple Leafs brightened their playoff hopes by whipping Montreal Canadiens 4-1. Montreal clinched first place last weekend.

The New York win—before 9,288 fans—was Ranger's 29th of the season, equalling the all-time club record. With eight games to go in the regular schedule, the Blueshirts can beat that mark and also the record of most points in a season—68.

RECORDS WILT

The New Yorkers already have set team records in scoring points and assist and need 11 goals to break the mark for most goals in one term. Another record that has fallen is the club's penalty minutes. The team has spent 925 minutes in penalties, 151 more than the record 774 in 1950-51.

Rookie Bronco Horvath paced Rangers with a goal and two assists. Danny Lewicki, Wally Hergesheimer and Andy Hebenton scored the other New York goals. Fleming Mackell and Cal Garner tallied for Bruins.

A sell-out crowd of 14,343 fans watched as Leafs moved four points up on fifth-place Boston as they came up with a surprisingly strong game. The power-laden Canadiens managed only 18 shots on goaltender Harry Lumley. Canadiens' Jacques Plante was handling 26 drives.

Rudy Migay, recognized more as a defensive specialist, scored two Toronto goals. Tod Sloan got his 36th marker and Billy Harris scored the other. Dickie Moore was the Montreal marksman.

Toronto has 54 points with seven games left in the schedule. Bruins, with 50 points, have eight games to go.

Spring Training Underway

By The Associated Press

It's "batter up" today as baseball's spring training season opens officially in 16 major league camps.

Nothing has changed. Optimism is rampant.

The rookies are sure to make the grade. The vets are certain to come back with a good year and, if you take some predictions at face value, there will be eight first-division clubs in each league.

Let's start with the veterans. Willie Jones, a nine-year-man with Philadelphia Phillies, reports he is in the best shape of his career.

"Just six pounds overweight," he gloated. "I'll be a streamlined gazelle when the season opens. Best shape you'll ever see. I'm the Phillies' third baseman. Don't forget that."

Dale Mitchell, who has been around even longer than Jones, showed up in Cleveland's camp Wednesday and worked out at first base.

"Just so I stay in shape," he said. "Then maybe they'll use me somewhere."

READY TO WORK

And in Chicago Cubs' quarters in Mesa, Ariz., pitcher Russ Meyer, obtained from Brooklyn during the winter, indicated he is ready to work in one of the intra-squad games this weekend. This despite some arm trouble he developed earlier this week.

Now for the rookies.

Bonus pitcher Jim Brady pitched three more hitless innings in Lakeland, Fla., and Detroit manager Bucky Harris called him "impressive." Brady now has hurled six hitless innings in camp contests.

Glen Cox, a big righthander Kansas City Athletics bought from Brooklyn, figures his knuckle ball will help him make the grade in the majors. He was 11-5 for Montreal in 1955 and spent the winter dropping 20 excess pounds and polishing his knuckler.

In Vero Beach, Fla., Bob Wilson, 28-year-old outfielder who hit .317 for Montreal, was touted as the newcomer most likely to make the Brooklyn Dodgers lineup.

Americans Tie Royals For 3rd Spot

SEATTLE (CP) — The pendulum stopped dead centre Wednesday night for Seattle Americans and New Westminster Royals, who have been swinging back and forth across the plump line in their battle for third and last playoff spot in the Coast Division of the Western Hockey League.

Seattle bounced back from a 2-0 deficit early in the second period to down the Royals 6-4 and move into third-place tie with New Westminster.

It was the only game in either Coast or Prairie Divisions.

The Royals went ahead 1-0 on Bobby Love's goal, his first of two, late in the first period. Blinky Boyce added another in the second before Gord Sinclair bounced in Seattle's first midway through the period.

TIED THREE TIMES

Bart Bradley scored at 2:01 of the third frame to even the score and Val Fonteyene put the Americans in front four minutes later. Love tied it up only to have Ross Watson send Seattle in front again.

New Westminster playing coach Max McNab evened the score for the third time 24 seconds after Watson's goal. The Americans went ahead to stay when Sam Lavitt and Jim Zarie scored at 12:35 and 13:34 of the third period respectively.

Only one game is scheduled tonight. Brandon Regals, last in the Prairie Division, visit Saskatoon to take on the fourth-place Quakers.

Union Urges China Seat

SUDBURY, Ont. — A call for a ban on atomic weapons and a demand that Canada recognize Red China were among the resolutions passed Wednesday at the annual convention of the Communist-led International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers here. The convention continues today.

The China resolution, submitted by Local 117 of Sudbury, urged recognition for the "People's Government of China" and also stated that Canada should "take steps to seat her in the UN."

The weapons resolutions called on the governments of the world to "ban atomic weapons and other nuclear weapons."

EXTEND MARTIAL LAW

ANKARA (AP) — The Turkish parliament voted Wednesday to extend martial law in Istanbul to June 7. The restrictions were imposed for six months immediately after the anti-Greek riots last September. The government said extension was necessary because otherwise 17 persons now being tried by military courts in connection with the riots would have to be turned over to civilian tribunals.

Toronto Seen 1956 Grey Cup Host As CRU Prepares For Annual Meet

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Don't bet the homestead on it, but Toronto is the likely site for the 1956 Grey Cup final.

The only other bidder for the Nov. 24 sports spectacle is Vancouver and, from gossip heard in football circles, the west coast city isn't too enthusiastic about staging the East-West sudden-death game this year. The westerners will make their big pitch in 1958 when British Columbia celebrates its centenary.

That was the hotel-room gossip as officials prepared to sit down today and thrash out the various problems confronting the Canadian game. Before the week is out the agenda of the newly-organized Canadian Football Council and the Canadian Rugby Union calls for a review from the lowest categories to the professional brand of game.

On a dollar-and-cents basis, Vancouver has the inside track on the country's No. 1 sports spectacle for the second successive year. It is the home of 40,000-capacity Empire Stadium, the largest in the country, but 27,400-capacity Varsity Stadium in Toronto is expected to get the call for 1956.

FOR GOOD OF THE GAME

The reasoning, so say qualified football officials, is that the 56 game should be staged in Toronto for the good of football. In ther words, the nine professional clubs in Canada are willing to sacrifice a difference of about $100,000 in gate receipts to keep eastern fans happy.

Here's how the experts figure the situation: Toronto will be host this year, Montreal will stage it in 1957 at its proposed 40,000-seat new stadium and Vancouver will climax British Columbia's May-to-November centennial celebrations with the cup final in 1958.

Nothing will be made public officially until Saturday when the CRU holds its annual meeting.

Sessions get under way this morning when the newly-organized Canadian Football Council, representative of the Western Interprovincial Football Union and the Big Four, meet behind closed doors.

High up on the agenda is a report from Ralph Cooper of Hamilton on his Feb. 15 peace meeting at Philadelphia with Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League. A rumor—and it is strictly that—is that Cooper, former president of the Big Four, may be appointed commissioner of professional football in Canada.

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Words Always and Never Don't Apply to Bridge

You have probably played bridge with Mr. Heinsite at one time or another. If so, you know he is something less than consistent. However, there is one thing you can always count on him for and that is an analysis of every hand after it is played. It may not be a correct or reasonable analysis. But it will be complete.

In today's deal the great technician led the nine of diamonds on which dummy's queen was played.

STUPID PLAY

"Not through me," said Mr. Muzzy, stupidly, as he went up with the king.

When Mr. Dale won with the ace, Mr. Heinsite looked like he had been stabbed. Of course, he had.

Mr. Dale now led his three top spades and followed with a fourth spade, which lost to the jack. He won the club return, discarded a club and a heart on dummy's diamonds, then finessed the queen of hearts. This lost, but he still made five-odd.

"Surely you could read my nine of diamonds as the top of nothing, Muzzy," snapped Mr. Heinsite. "How could you possibly figure to gain anything by going up with the king?"

South dealer. Both sides vulnerable.

"I always cover an honor with an honor," replied Mr. Muzzy, almost proudly. Thus he stated a position from which the advice of hundreds of players in 20 years has not been able to budge him.

NO ALWAYS

"There is no such things as 'always' in bridge," continued Mr. Heinsite, as if he were addressing a room full of students. "You must learn the exceptions as well as the rules. The only way to beat this hand is for me to open a diamond and for you to play low."

Mr. Muzzy saw no flaw in this statement but Mr. Dale came to his rescue. "What about your opening the queen of clubs, Heinsite?" he inquired. "If you do, I doubt that I can win 10 tricks."

"I never lead from a holding of queen, jack, small," Mr. Heinsite replied. "The hand on your left always has three to the king-ten and declarer has ace-nine."

Mr. Dale smiled. "I hate to appear obvious," he said, "but what was that you just told Muzzy about the use of the words 'always' and 'never' in bridge?"

REPRESENTING British Columbia in the Canadian curling championship in Moncton, N.B., March 5-9, is this rink from Kimberley, B.C. Former Trail Defenceman Skips B. C. Representatives At Brier

Written For The Canadian Press
By RED MELOR

KIMBERLEY, B.C. (CP) — Four men who travelled widely divergent roads to the Canadian curling championships will represent British Columbia at Moncton, N.B., March 5-9.

The Harold Jordan rink, playing its first season as a unit, beat the best in the province for the honor.

Harold is a 44-year-old foreman for Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. and a former defenceman for Trail Smoke Eaters when it was one of Canada's top amateur hockey clubs in the 1930s.

He took up curling in 1943 and four times skipped strong contenders in the B.C. playoffs.

ALL-ROUND ATHLETE

Jim Livingstone, who curls third, was born in Vancouver in 1911 and came to Kimberley at the age of 13.

For years he was catcher for senior baseball teams and played with the Kimberley Dynamiters hockey team. He joined the Kimberley Curling Club in 1938.

The rink's lead is Don Beattie, five-feet-11, 185 pounds. Born in Webbs, Sask., he started curling in 1933 with the Webbs curling club.

He moved to Kimberley in 1946. Only 38 now, he is employed as a meat cutter, is married and has two children.

YOUNGEST PLAYER

Bill Moscovitch, stocky second, is the youngest of the foursome. Born in Southey, Sask., 28 years ago, he stands five-feet-10 and weights 205 pounds. Bill started curling with the Southey club at the age of 12 and moved to Vancouver in 1944 where he joined rinks at the University of British Columbia.

He played for the Vancouver Blue Bombers when they won the B.C. junior football crown.

While attending university, he played baseball and football and held the UBC light-heavyweight boxing championship for two years.

Married and with a baby daughter, he has curled with Kimberley rinks since 1959. He is employed as manager of a clothing store.

Together, they curl a distinctive chop and lie style in preference to the running type of game.

Five Empty Seats in Shell Problem Facing UBC Coach

VANCOUVER (CP) — Subtract five men from a champion eight-oar rowing crew and what do you get? Coach Frank Read at the University of British Columbia is hoping he will get some Olympic medals.

But with the Olympic Games coming up next November at Melbourne, Australia, Read is faced with the job of replacing five of his 1954 crew that upset the Thames Rowing Club and won a gold medal at the British Empire Games here.

The same crew went on to beat Russia by three lengths at the Royal Henley Regatta in England last year before losing by one-third of a length to the University of Pennsylvania.

Missing from the UBC crew are Mike Harris, who has been awarded a fellowship giving him two years of study in England starting next September; stroke Glenn Smith, who has given up rowing to devote full time to his studies in medicine at UBC, and Ken Drummond, who graduates this year.

Also off the roster are Herman Zlokikouits, who is studying at McGill University in Montreal, and Tom Toynbee, who wants more time for his studies and his duties as recently-elected president of the UBC men's athletic directorate, governing body of all student athletics.

Read hopes to fill the vacancies from the crop of UBC junior oarsmen.

Remember When

By The Canadian Press

Frank Calder, then president of the National Hockey League, introduced two-referee system 33 years ago today and the plan was used for NHL games from 1923 to 1938, when the league reverted to one referee and a linesman. The NHL now uses a referee and two linesmen.

Added Spectator Space Need If Appeal of Curling Grows

CALGARY (CP) — Walt Gully, who handles all the major bonspiels in Alberta and British Columbia, thinks curling is getting to be more and more a spectator sport.

"So much so that they will have to change the design of all curling rinks in order to make room for the people who just come to watch" Gully said in an interview.

Gully, a former baseball first baseman from Winnipeg, said another reason for curling's growth in popularity is the interest youngsters have shown in recent years.

"It's a wonderful sport for the kids," said Gully who played in the late '40s for Calgary in the now-defunct Big Four baseball league.

"The cost is negligible and it's easier to push curling in the schools than hockey."

Gully sees the time coming when rinks will be formed in high school and remain intact after graduation.

"I would say the average age of top curlers will drop to where your best rinks will be just under 30. I would be willing to bet the average age of rinks in the Dominion championships this year is between 40 and 45 years of age."

BUSY AT BONSPIELS

Gully is the draw secretary at all the major 'spiels in Alberta and British Columbia. His chief duty is to keep the bonspiel rolling, tell the teams where they are curling and work it so that all events—most bonspiels have 11 to 15 competitions—are completed as close together as possible.

Aiyansh Games Cancelled

Aiyansh basketballers notified the Prince Rupert Basketball Association last night that schedule commitments would make it impossible for them to play preliminary games tomorrow and Saturday nights, prior to the New Metlakatla-Prince Rupert Challenger games, John Dumas, PRBA publicity representative said today.

The Aiyansh squad was scheduled to meet a city all-star team both nights. League games will replace the cancelled exhibitions. Sunrise will meet La Gondola Friday night and Gondoliers will take on Frizzell's Saturday. Gondola and Frizzell's also meet tonight at 9 p.m. at the Civic Centre gym.

Challenger coach Alek Bill has called a practice for his team tonight at 7 p.m. A meeting of the all-star city team has been called for 8 p.m. at the Civic Centre.

EDMONTON (CP) The menu said 85 cents but the magistrate made it $30 after a prisoner pleaded guilty to obtaining a meal by fraud. Accused tried to leave a downtown restaurant without paying.
