EXPENSIVE GUESTS

LONDON, Dec. 20: (CP)—Tens of millions of rats in the United Kingdom cost the nation about $111,250,000 a year, and Lord Woolton, food minister, has urged the public help exterminate them.

If you want something, advertise for it. Hundreds of people get what they want that way. (tf)

Man in the Moon

There is no reward for keeping the ten commandments promulgated by Moses. The reward is in keeping them.

There's nothing so fatal to a career as getting a political job.

High School Boob: "That girl over there smiled at me".
Chum: "That's nothing. When I first saw you I laughed fit to split".

Irate father: "For two months my boy has gone to your school, and he is none the wiser."
"Hmmm," said the health teacher. "Must be heredity."

One of the newer Christmas cars this year is inscribed with the following doggerel:

"Soon, Adolf and Benito,
Consumed by deep regret,
And blubbering for sauerkraut
And starving for spaghett,
Well bombed and well blockaded,
Of Blitzkrieg punch bereft,
Will discuss capitulation
In the only shelter left."

He: "Say, who is that funny-looking fellow who drives your car and works around in the gorden? He always frowns at me whenever he sees me here."
She: "Oh, don't mind him. That's only father."

It was during a big sale and tempers were getting frayed.
"If I were trying to match politeness, I'd have a big job to find it here," said a lady customer, glaring at the assistant.
"Really, madam," replied the girl, "Let me see your sample, please."
