Rehabilitation—

Council In P. Rupert

Its object to provide assistance and service to returned men and war workers in readjusting themselves to peacetime pursuits after the war is over, the Prince Rupert Rehabilitation Council came into being last night at a meeting of representatives of interested organizations in the Canadian Legion rooms.

J. J. Little was elected permanent chairman with D. McN. Lowe as secretary-treasurer and an executive consisting of Ald. N. E. Arnold, H. M. Cowie and Dr. R. G. Knipe.

Following the preliminary organization, the next procedure for the executive will be to draft chairmen for committees on such subjects as fishing, logging, mining, industries, farming and welfare. The principal function of committees will be to collate data to be made available for those faced with problems of post-war re-establishment.

The executive will swing into action at once and it was decided that the council would meet in general session on the fourth Tuesdays of each month.

Those present at last night's meeting were:

City Council—Ald. N. E. Arnold, Ald. G. W. Rudderham and Ald. George Hills.

Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce—J. J. Little and W. F. Stone.

Junior Section of Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce— Dr R. G. Knipe, Rev. A. F. MacSween and Hugo Kraupner.

Canadian Legion—Dr. R. C. Bamford and William Rance.

Rotary Club—D. McN. Lowe.

Gyro Club—H. M. Cowie.

Prince Rupert Labor Council—Nick Bellis and George Cowie.

Electrical Workers— William Reid.

Prospective Home Owners—Maurice Brydges.

Canadian Legion Women's Auxiliary—Mrs. Dan Parent and Mrs. G. V. Hanley.

Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire—Mrs. G. E. Moore, Mrs. J. H. Macey, Mrs. Jens Munthe and Mrs. D. C. Stuart.

The issue being raised through the presence of Bruce Mickleburgh who sought to represent the Labor Progressive Party, a vote was taken as to whether political organizations should be allowed representations on the council and the vote was in the negative. Mr. Mickleburgh continued in attendance as representative of the Labor publication, "The People."

After the election of executive Mr. Lowe asserted that he did not intend to be secretary of any inactive organization. He predicted that the committees would have plenty of work to do and that it might be necessary later to have paid help in connection with the gathering and assembling of information and such activity.

Ald. Arnold suggested the making of vocational and industrial surveys to assist in the rehabilitation of men after the war.

Rev. A. F. MacSween felt that attention should be given to such matters as recreation and education in addition to straight industrial subjects.

CAN REFORM DELINQUENTS

Crime Drama On Screen of Capitol This Wednesday and Thursday

The menace and the pathos of the problem of juvenile delinquency which the war has increased to a shocking degree are forcefully presented in the picture "Crime School" which is being shown at the Capitol Theatre this Wednesday and Thursday.

"Crime School," featuring Humphrey Bogart, the "Dead End Kids" and Gale Page, is a gripping drama which sets forth the problem of reforming delinquent boys into worthwhile citizens. Humphrey Bogart, playing the role of a stage commissioner of correction who is determined to right some of the abuses prevalent in the handling of boys' reformatories, is able to prove that so-called bad boys can be shaped into such upright, useful citiens, although some of his proteges appear at the outset to be quite hopeless.

PRINCE GEORGE-TESLIN ROAD—This map shows the proposed roadway route northward from Prince George to Teslin which would connect the central interior with the Alaska Highway. The length of the link would be about 700 miles and cost is estimated at $14,000,000. The map also suggests possible side-roads to southern Alaska points such as Skagway, Juneau, Wrangell and Hyder (Stewart, B.C.). Vancouver and Seattle are strongly in favor of the connection northward from Prince George to the Alaskan Highway.—(Map by courtesy of Mining "World", Seattle.)

Aussie Cowgirls To Play in Film

BRISBANE, Oct. 25 (CP)—When a film is made depicting the great Australian cattle drive of 1942 during which thousands of cattle crossed the top of the continent from the Kimberleys into Queensland the Zigenbine sisters are expected to have important roles.

The cowgirls are famous among cattlemen of the north and have been droving for years. Their father has one or two aboriginal stockmen and his daughters to help him and on their treks they are accompanied by Mrs. Zigenbine and the younger children who travel in a covered wagon.

The family's treks are so long that few white people are encountered. The girls are shy with strangers, but out on the plains with the cattle they are in their element.

COAL SHORTAGE MAY LOOM YET DEALERS SAY

Stories in southern newspapers regarding an abundance of coal this winter should not be taken too seriously by Prince Rupert consumers, local coal dealers say.

Last week Mines Minister, Hon. T. A. Crerar, said in an interview in Vancouver that the drastic coal shortage forecast by fuel authorities may not come about because of an easing of the labor situation in Canadian mines. In the light of present prospects, coal dealers here think the statement "ill considered."

"We have been given no indication by the mine that supplies us that we can be sure of getting the quantities we may need," one dealer stated. "Mr. Crerar's statement may result in a feeling of false security among consumers."

"Vancouver has always seemed to be able to get sufficient coal but in Prince Rupert we have always had to fight to get enough. Right now we have a fair quantity but we have no assurance that the situation will continue favorably. Householders would be wise to prepare for the worst," a second dealer said.

A third dealer showed letters from wholesalers in Vancouver and Edmonton which offered him little hope of a sustained supply. One letter, a reply to a request for coal, stated that the mine was "many hundreds of cars behind for with orders for the government and dealers" and could not promise any immediate delivery.

"I think local people would be wise to disregard Mr. Crerar's remarks," the dealer said.
