NEW SAFETY DEVICE MARKS ADVANCE IN R. R. OPERATION

GRAND TRUNK IS EQUIPPING NEW CARS WITH INTERLOCK APPARATUS WHICH HOLDS BODY OF CAR TO THE TRUCK AND PREVENTS TELESCOPING

By order of the president, Mr. E. J. Chamberlin, the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific railways are building into each of their passenger cars a new safety device. This is declared by experts to represent the most notable advance that has been made in car construction in modern times. It will make the telescoping of cars in accidents practically impossible as it holds the body of the coach to the truck in such a manner that the two cannot become detached by sudden shock.

The detachment of the superstructure from the heavy steel truck and the consequent telescoping has been responsible in the past for most of the injuries to passengers in railway accidents. The Grand Trunk has enjoyed an enviable record for its safe carriage of passengers and the officers of the company believe that with the introduction of this latest improvement, combined with the reinforcing of the vestibules of the passenger coaches which has been going on for some time past, along with the provision of a high tension buffing device in the platforms to assist in absorbing sudden shock, there will be a still further diminution in the small percentage of travellers hurt. In adopting this new device it has been the object of the railway to provide for the travelling public the very greatest assurance of safety that could be obtained by mechanical ingenuity.

Hitherto the only means provided to prevent the body of the car from moving off the trucks has been the ordinary two-inch king pin. But with fast running trains and the constant increase in the dead weight of passenger coaches some stronger medium of adjustment between truck and body was found to be necessary. After considerable investigation, the car department presented to Mr. Chamberlin for his approval a device that appears to have solved the problem of preventing separation of body and truck. This device is not at all intricate, indeed, simplicity and strength are the outstanding features of its construction. Two large forged steel keys pass through the bolsters of truck and body by heavy flanges at top and bottom. These two keys are separated and spread apart by the insertion of the ordinary king pin. Although simple in design, this interlocking apparatus holds the body of the car down to the heavy steel underframe in a tenacious fashion resisting the heaviest of shocks.

With this device in use the meeting of two trains would in all probability be attended by little injury to passengers. The heavy shock or impact in collision is met by the heavy steel underframe of modern cars, assisted by the buffing devices in operation. The trucks, even in the most severe collisions, generally remain on or near the tracks in their ordinary position. They are anchored down by their great weight. When an undue impact takes place, however, the tendency of the body has been to leave the trucks, carried forward by its great momentum. The application of the air brake acts, necessarily, only on the trucks. Some sort of a brake was desired for the body of the car. This has now been obtained. The interlocking device acts as a brake on the superstructure.

The Pullman company, as well as the Grand Trunk, is building this interlocking device apparatus into many of its newest cars.

One Man Is Boss

Chicago, May 21.—Herbert H. Sherer, city manager of the town of Glencoe, Ill., believes he has complete control of that town of 2,500. Sherer absolutely "runs the town" without either executive or legislative interference. The only way his acts can be vetoed is by firing him, and judging by the success of the experiment since he took the job, February 1, he is in no immediate danger of losing it. He gets $1,800 a year.

Insurance Companies Glad

According to the annual report of the Juneau fire department the loss by fire in that town last year was less than $1,500, although there were 26 fires. The greatest loss to any one individual amounted to only $500. Burning chimneys caused 14 of the 26 fires.
