Assurances are given from all over Canada that trade conditions have a very prosperous outlook. With the "Made in Germany" articles off the market there should be a boom in Canadian manufacturing. The assistance given by the Government to the banks too has made it possible to carry on the country's financing without any crowding. Canada no doubt will learn a lesson from the Mother Country which has always come out of an international war stronger and more prosperous than she went into it. This is because she has always controlled the seas and its trade routes while at home the people gave themselves over entirely to production. Canada will no doubt take advantage of her opportunity and in the trade of the world she should be able to get a goodly portion of "the Lion's share."

It has not even been rumored that anybody in Prince Rupert or, indeed, in all Canada had resorted to the unpatriotic custom of hoarding money. This is primarily because the Canadian banks have a reputation for stability and because at this particular time they are specially backed by the government. While money is in the bank it not only bears interest to the depositor but it becomes part of the life blood of the nation.

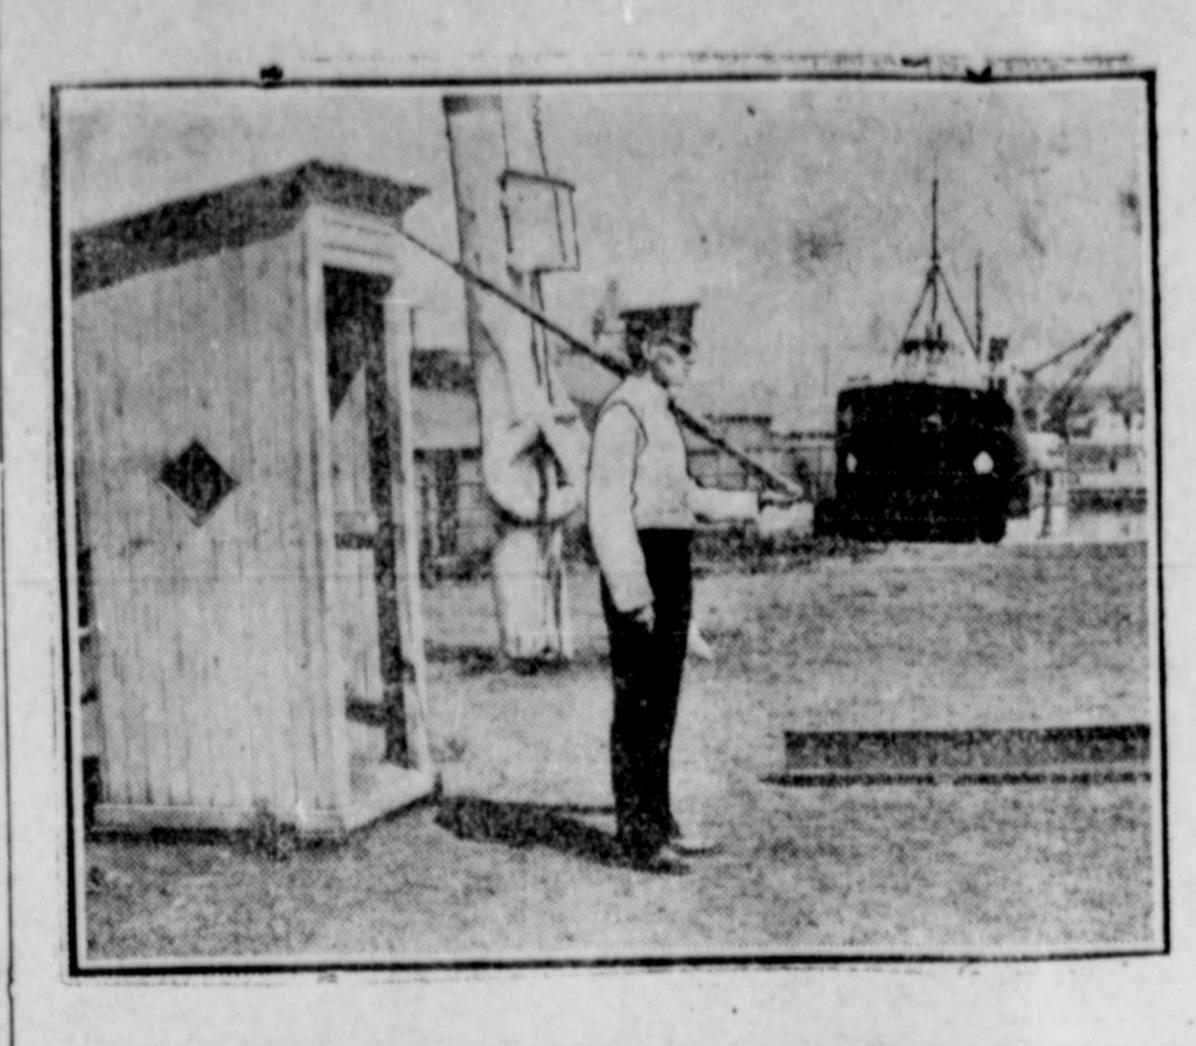

Valuable advice has recently been given out by the Board of Trade of Vancouver in which they urged everybody to go ahead with their business as usual and to deal as much as possible with home manufacturers. Following this up it would be good policy for everyone to pay their bills as soon as they can so that money will loosen up and general confidence be restored.

The Vancouver Board of Trade has also decided to urge the Governments to proceed with whatever work was under wa. This action should also be taken in Prince Rupert. The money for the postoffice, the drill hall and the detention building has been voted and this work should be proceeded with at once. Were this work in full swing this city would have little to fear from outside disturbances. Those in au- CANADA WANTS thority should get busy and take this matter up with the department.
