

TURKEY HAS AT LAST DECLARED WAR ON RUSSIA

GERMAN REGIMENT DESTROYED -- RUSSIANS DEFEATING AUSTRIANS -- KAISER AT BRUSSELS

WAR SITUATION TODAY

Reports to The News last evening indicated that the Germans inflicted a crushing defeat on the Russians in Prussia, 70,000 men. In today's dispatches the Russian authorities admit a defeat of two army corps which probably were the same engagement. The number of prisoners is probably exaggerated. Even should this large number have been taken, it means little for Russia, who has millions to spare.

On the west the Germans seem to have been getting the worst of their losses are terrific. The Allies' lines, however, are still intact and the Germans are not able to break through. Still up their march to Paris and are within forty miles of the city. Paris has immense fortifications eleven miles out. Surrounding buildings have been destroyed to allow the French artillery to have a clear swing and if the Germans break through it will be at an incredible loss, which they cannot afford.

In Brussels sounds of revelry were again heard by night but it was the Kaiser gloating over the thousands of dead. In Galicia there is a big battle on between the Russians and Austrians in which the former appear to be winning.

The number of British killed and wounded is the total number of the fighting so far.

The house was gaily decorated with flags—the Union Jack being the most prominent—while the flags of Canada, Scotland, Ireland, Belgium, France, Russia, Serbia and Japan were in evidence. Mrs. McB. GERMANS 40 MILES FROM PARIS IN SPITE OF CRUSHING DEFEAT

Reports of the refugees indicate that the Germans are now fighting at Compeigne in Oise, which is much closer to Paris than Laferre, where last reports had them. The Germans are evidently still advancing and are now about forty odd miles from the city.

RUSSIAN INVASION WORRIES BERLIN--PLANS IN THE EAST

VICTORY FOR RUSSIANS OVER AUSTRIANS MEANS A MARCH ON TO BERLIN—IMPORTANT BATTLE PENDING.

(Special to THE NEWS) London, Sept. 2.—The following summary of the Russian operations make clearer the situation on the eastern frontier of Germany and Austria.

There are four main theatres of war, two concerning the German and two the Austrian army. The first Russian advance is in the east of Prussia. This probably is the least opposed because of the two German reputes and the most distant of approach. A Berlin Russian advance might be expected, though not expected to be so rapid as the second advance of the Warsaw army over the frontiers of the Prussian province of Posen. Here, on the shortest Russia route to Berlin, the first most important natural obstacle is a network of lakes and marshes. These seem to have been surmounted by the Russians.

Progress in this direction cannot be pushed much farther until a Russian success is assured in the third operation. The third sphere is south of Russian Poland, where a large Austro-Hungarian force, acting under German direction, has taken the offensive over a wide front. Last week it seems to have obtained a considerable victory at Krasnik, pushing on to another battle fought at Lubin, where the Russians claim to have won the fortunes of war.

This field is of special importance because sufficient Austro-Hungarian successes would cut the Russian lines of communication through Poland, and so interfere with their progress toward Berlin. The fourth sphere is where the Russians have invaded Galicia, striking Lemberg across this region. This is not so important for the main strategy, but will have a considerable moral effect on Austria.

CROWN PRINCE STARTED THE WAR

Emperor So Angry at Situation on Return He Struck Son, Says Story

New York, Sept. 2.—A cable from Paris to the American tells this unusual tale:—Crown Prince William of Germany, always bellicose, not his august father, set the nations of Europe at each other's throats, according to a graphic story which comes here from Berlin.

When the Kaiser, returning to Berlin from his cruise in Scandinavia waters, learned the position in which his beligerent heir and the war party had placed Germany—a position from which it was impossible to withdraw without compromising the empire—he flew into a terrible rage.

Summoning the Crown Prince, his father upbraided him frightfully, and at the height of his fury actually struck his son in the face. So overcome was the Kaiser by the force of his passion that, exhausted, he sank in a chair and the painful scene ended.

While the Kaiser was off the coast of Norway, the Crown Prince busily co-operated with the most aggressive militarists. They found a way to declare war against Russia, which, superficially at least, afforded a specious pretext. Returning, the Kaiser found it was impossible to repudiate what had been done without humiliating himself, the Crown Prince, and the empire in the eyes of his allies; indeed, of all Europe.

Under the guise that they wanted him to act as a guide, David Green, aged 60, of Bedford Mills, near Kingston, was arrested by the police, charged with a serious crime by one of his daughters.

RUPERT BUSINESS MAN PREDICTS BETTER TIMES

As Result of Opening G. T. P. First-Class Service to the East.

"The opening of the first-class through service on the G. T. P. means a lot to this city," remarked a well-known business man when he read the announcement in yesterday's News. "That first-class service is going to bring many visitors from the Prairies here this fall and winter and it is going to draw some passenger traffic from Alaska as well. Fresh and frozen fish go out of this port, too, within the next few months and the East will begin to realize that Prince Rupert is on the map."

"The first to feel the opening of the road will be the hotels. Their registers will soon be crowded with names giving Interior and Prairie towns as their addresses. I believe we are going to have a good winter here in a business way."

RUSSIANS ADMIT THE REPORTED GERMAN VICTORY

(Special to THE NEWS)

London, Sept. 2.—St. Petersburg officials frankly admit the disaster to two army corps, including the loss of three generals. This probably refers to the claim of the Germans of a victory in East Prussia, where they claimed the capture of 70,000 Russians. Following the Russian successes against the Austrians in Galicia, the latter prepared to evacuate Lemberg.
