RUSSIANS MAKING GREAT PROGRESS

(Special to The Daily News—10:30 A. M.)

BIG BATTLE RAGING—MAY BE LAST EFFORT MADE BY BOTH PARTIES

(Special to The Daily News—9:30 A. M.)

London, Oct. 1.—The Chronicle correspondent with the Belgian army, writing on Tuesday, estimates that nearly 150,000 troops are engaged in a desperate battle along the line extending from Termonde to Aerschoot. This battle, he says, appears to be the last effort on both sides.

The Belgian resistance in face of the superior German artillery is magnificent.

As regards Antwerp, it is not easy to make a definite statement until the result of the battle is known. In any case, the town is well provisioned and defended.

The German losses in the past few days are enormous, many thousands having fallen.

GERMAN SEARCHLIGHTS

Used to Seek Out Positions of Allies With Disturbing Effect—Hillside Searched.

London, Oct. 1.—The Chronicle's correspondent at Paris in the course of a lengthy dispatch, describes the use of searchlights by the Germans. He says as soon as darkness falls the Germans light their lamps and play them upon all points.

These long, tapering fingers of light creep along the hillsides, touching the positions of sleeping battalions with a light luminescence. They feel their way along the fringe of autumn woods, so that in a moment where there had been black laps of darkness one sees the shimmer of leaves and grasses and tree trunks like columns of burnished metal. They are extraordinarily inquisitive, these feelers of light, and point suddenly and arrestingly at moving objects, which halt at the first touch of that perilous illumination.

A friend who has been driving officers about the front says that a few nights ago he was driving rapidly towards the wireless station when his car was picked out by one of these traveling rays. In a moment he and the officers who were with him were flooded with a white brilliance, so that they were dazzled and startled. A moment after a shell came hurtling overhead and several bullets buried themselves in the chassis.

A meeting of the Canadian Fraternity will be held in the Court House on Monday evening at 8 p. m. sharp. All members are urged to attend.
