

THE ONLY CURE FOR CONSTIPATION

Is "Fruit-a-lives"—That Wonderful Remedy Made From Fruit Juices.

AVON, ONT., MAY 14th, 1913.

"I have used 'Fruit-a-lives' for indigestion and Constipation with excellent results, and they continue to be my only medicine. When I first started about six years ago to use 'Fruit-a-lives' I took four at a dose but gradually reduced the dose to one tablet at night. Before taking 'Fruit-a-lives' I took salts and other pills but the treatment was too harsh. I thought I might as well suffer from the illness as from these treatments. Finally, I saw 'Fruit-a-lives' advertised with a letter in which some one recommended them very highly, so I tried them, and I have no hesitation in recommending them."

VARSITY TO SEE 1,800 STUDENTS IN UNIFORM

Drilling Every Day and at All Times—The Undergraduates Will Be Militarily Clad.

Toronto, Dec. 15.—When the new term opens at the University after New Year's, there will be a striking transformation beneath the ancient towers. The uniforms for the eighteen hundred students now undergoing drill in the Officers' Training Corps will be at hand by that time, and all indications point to the supposition that those eighteen hundred will wear their uniforms regularly around the University.

"As there are drills every day and at all times," said one of the O.T.C. officials, "it would not be practicable for the men to go home and change into their uniforms."

And the idea of wearing the khaki appeals tremendously to the students. In spite of the discussion around Varsity over the German professors, there is a spirit of patriotism running high and a militarism that would be fitly garbed in uniforms.

The uniforms are to be of the regular service style, khaki, puttees, and cap. The officers of the corps will wear the regulation officers' cut of style. There will be the O.T.C. in brass letters on the shoulders, and the badges of rank will be slightly different from the service badges. But they will be genuine uniforms and no imitation.

GERMANS PREPARE FOR EXTENDED OCCUPATION

SOLDIERS AT THE FRONT ARE WELL FED AND NERVES ARE NOT BREAKING UNDER THE STRAIN OF THE PROTRACTED WAR.

Headquarters of a Certain German Army in France, Dec. 11.—Forward by Automobile Courier to Berlin, Thence to London.—A correspondent of the Associated Press, spending a week in the field of operations, has also been the guest of Generals von Heeringen, formerly war minister and now commanding the seventh army; Von Zwehl, the capturer of Maubeuge; and Von Emmich, the conqueror of Liege and Namur.

Several hours were spent in the trenches in a picturesque old town, where German riflemen and French legionnaires plan and play grim practical jokes of war upon each other from positions a scant 200 yards apart. A race of German troglodytes was found in one place on this front. Men, horses, supplies and hospitals and so forth were housed in hill-side caverns, formerly stone quarries, which were absolutely protected by a fifty-foot stone roof from even the most powerful shell fire.

Comfort of Shelters.

The morning was passed in an artillery observation stand opposite Reims, where a powerful stereoscopic telescope, through which the fire of the artillery is directed, brought the observer within a hundred yards of the city and the cathedral, and enabled him to see that the cathedral and its towers were standing fairly intact, although blackened by fire. A trip of inspection was made through a labyrinth of field fortifications and approaches along the Aisne at its nearest point to Paris, where the lines are normally two or three hundred yards apart. The soldiers even in the foremost trenches were found living in comparative comfort in their underground shelters. They are well supplied with blankets, food, water and clothing, and are in good spirits despite their long residence in the trenches. Desultory infantry fire is always in progress here, and the rattle of machine guns breaks out now and then.

The artillery on both sides has thrown tons of iron daily, but there have been no great fights of late on this section of the front.

Germans Threshing Grain.

Of all the impressions of the trip one of the most striking is that left by the countless stacks of unthreshed grain, stretching for miles in every direction throughout this granary of northern France. Over a hundred German threshing machines of the largest size are working in the region occupied by the army, and six new ones were encountered today plugging forward to reinforce these harvest batteries which are doing work quite as important as that of the 42-centimetre cannon. The army is not only living on the supplies of flour and meat derived from this section of the country, but is actually sending wheat and flour back to Germany.

The German soldier at the front is smiling and well fed, as he has one more warm meal daily than in peace times. The lean greyhounds seen after the dash on Paris are again rounding into portly Germans. The normal soldier at the front does not sing as much as formerly, partly perhaps because he has sung himself out, and partly because singing in the immediate vicinity of the enemy is apt to draw fire, but he is neither discouraged nor exhausted. There is no indication whatever that his nerves are breaking under the strain of the protracted war.

Hospital Conditions Good.

No trip to the front would be complete without a visit to the field hospital. Health conditions are remarkably good, the surgeons state, even better than in peace times. There has been considerable typhoid, but this is now well in hand, owing to the use of anti-typhoid serum. The medical department is just now cleaning out three villages in the immediate vicinity of headquarters, which were found to be typhoid centres. The surgeons are devoting special attention to this matter, and are isolating or vaccinating the inhabitants of suspected villages.

The Germans evidently are preparing for an extended occupation. The French peasants, under the supervision and to a certain extent the mild compulsion of the Germans, have planted winter crops, and are working in the fields. Important bridges destroyed during the occupation operations are everywhere being permanently rebuilt with steel from Germany.

The roads are being maintained as usual by French labor, and in some cases factories are being reopened.

SHORT SESSION OF LOCAL LEGISLATURE

Premier Announces That Few Legislative Measures Will Be Taken Up.

In an interview with the Premier an intimation was made that the forthcoming session of the Legislature, which opens on January 21, will be a short one. The expectation is that a period of three weeks will suffice in which to transact the necessary public business and that there will be an absence of contentious legislation.

said Sir Richard, "obviously makes it impossible for the various governments, federal and provincial, at this time to do much more than mark time until the task to which the British Empire has set itself—that of defeating the enemy—has been accomplished. Every effort is to be directed towards the main object in view.

"The situation being entirely unprecedented and abnormal, it would be futile to attempt at this time to place upon the statute books of the province legislative measures which could only receive proper consideration during a period free from the turmoil of war. The government programme for the session will, therefore, be very light. I anticipate that the House will not require to sit for more than three weeks. Beyond the measure providing for authority for a moratorium and the redistribution bill there will be little legislation which should long occupy the time of the members."

KNOWN THE WORLD OVER

A gift of a Gillette Safety Razor appeals to one of man's strongest "weaknesses", his love of ease and comfort. It makes shaving quick and easy—a pleasure instead of a task. So naturally it wins his whole-hearted appreciation, renewed every morning.

The selection of Gillette Sets is this year better than ever.

There is the new "Aristocrat"—a superb Set in white French Ivory, blade boxes to match, with a handle of new and graceful shape, as illustrated.

The patriotic "Bulldog" out just a month or two, has made a tremendous "hit". Its feature is a stocky, heavy handle that gives a new balance which most men like. The case is of gray Antique Leather, handsome and business like.

These two new Gillette Sets are priced as usual—$5.00 in Silver Plate, $6.00 in Gold Plate.
