

KIDNEY TROUBLE AFFECTED HIS SPINE

Suffered For Forty Years Until He Used "Fruit-a-tives"

BRONTE, ONT., OCT. 31st, 1913.

"For about forty years, I was troubled with Lame Back brought on by Kidney and Bladder Trouble. I was never confined to my bed with the trouble, but it affected my spine and I had to rest for a time. I took advertised remedies which never did me any good. Then I saw "Fruit-a-tives" advertised and decided to try them. They did me more good than any other remedy. My son suffered from the same trouble and frequently had to leave off working, but "Fruit-a-tives" remedied it for him. I would strongly advise anyone suffering from Kidney and Bladder Trouble to use "Fruit-a-tives".

KAISER IMPLORES MEN TO CAPTURE WARSAW

Said to Have Declared, "Unless You Take Warsaw I Shall Have to Make Peace."

Petrograd, Dec. 22.—The Kaiser has been imploring his troops to capture Warsaw. According to the Bourse Gazette, he distributed to his soldiers a proclamation in which he said:

"Unless you take Warsaw, I shall have to make peace for Germany under degrading conditions." In spite of the unlikely sound of this, it is vouched for by the correspondent of this leading journal, who says he has seen it himself.

The Grand Lodge of Canada, A. F. and A. M. has just forwarded to the King of Belgium the sum of $12,500 as its contribution towards the relief of the Belgian people.

ESCAPED LIONS GIVE NEW YORK PEOPLE A WILD HALF HOUR

SIX TRAINED LIONS GET LOOSE IN NEW YORK THEATER—ONE REACHES STREET—POLICEMAN PURSUING IS SHOT.

New York, Dec. 23.—Six trained lions escaped from their cage on the stage of an East Eighty-Sixth Street vaudeville theatre and bounding into the audience, consisting principally of women and children, created a panic.

One lioness, Alice, the largest of the pack, escaped into a crowded street. Policemen pursued her into the hallway of a nearby apartment house and in shooting at her probably fatally wounded a companion, Sergeant Daniel Glenn. Two other policemen were slightly wounded by the claws of the beast in a battle at close range.

At sight of the lions hundreds of persons in the theatre fled, screaming, to the exits. Mothers, delayed by gathering up their children, crowded into corners and places of supposed safety. Scores fainted, and many, numbed by the sight of the animals among them, sat transfixed in their seats.

Only One Lion Ferocious.

With the exception of Alice, none of the beasts displayed great ferocity. A few persons who got in their paths were scratched, but none of them was seriously hurt. Five of the animals still were roaming about the theatre when the last of the audience escaped. In their rush to safety the spectators left behind all kinds of wearing apparel and personal belongings.

Meantime the beasts roamed over the house from gallery to basement. But within an hour after the last spectator left the animals were rounded up in the lobby and driven into their shipping box, none of them being injured.

The animal act had been completed, and a song and dance quartet held the stage in front of the first drop, when the lions escaped as they were about to be transferred from the steel exhibition cage to their shipping box. Andree screamed, Turnquist grabbed a whip, cracked it loudly and shouted at the lions, while frightened actors, actresses and theatre attaches began climbing stairways.

Lion Stops Quartet.

Suddenly one of the lions walked into the wings and peered at the quartet. The singing ceased abruptly.

As the singers started to retreat into the wings Detective Peter Cahill, who was in the audience, saw the lion and shouted to the entertainers to go on. One singer returned and began a solo. Suddenly a lion came into full view, and all control of the audience was lost. The orchestra, nevertheless, continued to play. The first lion ambled upon the stage, then a second, and in a minute more were clambering into stage boxes and out into the audience. Still the orchestra kept playing, until several lions went right down into the pit. Then the musicians fled under the stage.

Almost everybody in the audience later had a different version seeking egress to the roof.

For more than ten minutes thereafter there waged in the narrow hallway a fierce battle between man and beast. Shot after shot—thirty in all—were fired into the now raging animal. Up and down the stairway she paced, growling and snarling, clawing, striking and biting at her assailants. Several times she leaped over the bannister that protected the stairway, and hurtled through the air, only to land with a thud on the next landing. The end came with one of her spectacular leaps.

Bounding over a balustrade, she passed between the limbs of Alfred Winter, a policeman, who stood with one foot on the railing and another against a wall, firing at her. The force of the fall and the leaden hail that rained into her body ended the battle.

It was while the firing was at its height that Sergeant Glenn was shot through the back, and the bullet was said to have entered his stomach. It was thought last night that he would die.

Both Edward K. Keaveny and James M. Craig, patrolmen, were clawed by the lion. Keaveny was taken to a hospital.
