BULGARIA GETS LOST TERRITORY

An Important Agreement With Roumania Regarding Dobrudja.

Petrograd, Dec. 28.—The Bulgarian minister has announced that an agreement has been reached between Roumania and Bulgaria under which Roumania will restore to Bulgaria the Province of Dobrudja, and most of the other territory which she acquired from Bulgaria as result of the second Balkan war.

"This agreement has been reached without pressure from either Germany or the Allies," said an official connected with the Bulgarian ministry. "We shall continue to be neutral and believe that Roumania, although she has no cause to fear us, also will remain neutral."

It has been asserted here that the fear of Bulgaria alone had prevented Roumania from invading Austria and entering the war on the side of the Allies.

"If Greece would return Kavala and the Macedonian territory she annexed during the second Balkan war, and Serbia would restore to us the Macedonian provinces she occupied, despite her agreement of 1912, the Balkan union could be reconstructed," said the Bulgarian official. "Under these circumstances, a lasting peace would be established in the Balkans. But, unfortunately, neither Greece, nor Serbia has shown any intention to revise the treaty of Bucharest."

said: "Servia guides her own national interests," meaning that Servia was not ready to return the Macedonia provinces.

"A reconstructed Balkan union would favor neither the Allies nor Germany, nor would it have any aggressive intentions. Roumania's Transylvania aspirations, Greece's claims to Turkish islands, Servia's differences with Austria, brings about such a conflict of interests that it would be impossible to throw the union, as a whole, one way or the other. Our relations with Turkey will remain friendly. We do not desire Adrianople."

GERMAN OIL SUPPLY.

There is no doubt Germany is badly supplied with petroleum products, whether motor spirit, kerosene, or fuel oil, and that as the war progresses the scarcity of these is felt to an increasing degree.

Germany's direct overseas products are stopped by the action of the British fleet; but there are certain channels through which petroleum supplies have reached Germany indirectly. Holland was one of these channels; but there is every reason to believe that, owing to the prompt measures taken by the Netherlands government to secure the maintenance of strict neutrality, this route has been largely blocked.

There are in addition Denmark and the Scandinavian countries. One of the active spots in a very apathetic oil export market in New York has been the persistent inquiry for refined oil in barrels for these parts, and the unusual chartering of Norwegian and Danish steamers to carry these cargoes. Scores of thousands of barrels a week have been thus arranged for; and there has been no secret about where the oil was going; in fact, the correspondent of one well known American paper only stated that it was for Germany.

Fortunately the British authorities at home are aware of this important movement; and we may have every confidence that prompt and vigorous steps will be taken to counteract it.

Germany's only remaining source of overland supplies, now that Russia and Austria are no longer available, is Roumania; and during the last few days news has reached London that considerable quantities of motor spirits were being imported thence via Hungary. Of course no British-owned oil company is engaged in this traffic; but one must remember that the largest petroleum corporation in Roumania, the Steaua Romana, is under German control. It is believed to be this concern which is making the deliveries.—Oil News.

THE FIGHTERS

(From London Daily Mirror.)

Kitchener sat in his London den,
Silent and grim and grey,
Making his plans with an iron pen,
Just in Kitchener's way.
And he saw where the clouds rose dark and dun
And all that it meant he knew:
"We shall want every man who can shoulder a gun
To carry this thing right through!"
Bravo, Kitchener! Say what you want,
And the world shall know, where our bugles blow,
We've a man at the head—today!

Jellicoe rides on the grey north seas,
Watching the enemy's lines,
Where their lord high admirals skulk at ease,
Inside of their hellish mines.
They have drunk too deep to the boasted fight,
They have vowed too mad a vow!
What do they think—on the watch—tonight?
What toast are they drinking now?
Bravo, Jellicoe! Call them again,
And whenever they take the call
Show them the way, give them their "Day!"
And settle it once for all!

And French is facing the enemy's front
Stubbornly day by day,
Taking the odds and bearing the brunt,
Just in the Britisher's way.
And he hears the message that makes him glad
Ring through the smoke and flame:
"Fight on, Tommy! Stick to them, lad!
Jack's at the same old game!"
Bravo, Tommy! Stand as you've stood,
And, whether you win or fall,
Show them you fight as gentlemen should,
And die like gentlemen all.

So Kitchener plans in London Town,
French is standing at bay,
Jellicoe's ships rise up and down,
Holding the sea's highway.
And you that loaf where the skies are blue
And play by a petticoat hem
These are the men who are fighting for you!
What are you doing for them?
Bravo, then for the men who fight!
To hell with the men who play!
It's a fight to the end for honor and friend,
It's a fight for our lives today!

—Fred E. Weatherly.
