BRITISH ARMY IS MANEUVERED FROM LONDON BY WIRE

In Private Soldier's Overcoat and Cap Sir John French Slips Across to England.

London, Jan. 4.—(Correspondence)—For three days the operations of the British army in Flanders were directed by telegraph from the home of Sir John French, near Hyde Park, London, during the general's recent visit here. While it took Wellington three days alone to get a message to Whitehall and as long to receive a reply during the Waterloo campaign, General French was able to communicate directly with Sir John Archibald Murray at the base headquarters at St. Omer, France.

Attracted No Attention.
From a man who was in close touch with Sir John during his recent visit to England, the following details are learned:

"General French arrived at Folkestone, wearing the overcoat and rather soiled cap of an enlisted man. He made no attempt to disguise himself fotherwise and on the channel boat attracted no notice whatever. At Folkestone, he was met by Lord Kitchener and both proceeded by motor to Walmer Castle, near Deal, where Premier Asquith resides. There a council of war was held, attended also by the leaders of the two political parties.
Met His Majesty.
Sir John then came to London, where he attended council the next two days, the King being present on one occasion. His nights were spent in his own home, where hourly messages were received direct from his headquarters at the front. On his trip by train from Folkestone to London and on his return from Victoria Station none of the passengers gave a second look at the old soldier in the private's coat and cap. Nor did they on the boat during the trip to Calais.

On landing at Calais, however, General French appeared in his full uniform of field marshal and was enthusiastically acclaimed by the crowd as he drove through the streets to the station. General French is said to have remarked that this would be his last visit to London until the end of the war.

Much Doubt As to What Happened to the Von Der Tann.
Vancouver, Jan. 11.—Saturday night and Sunday reports were received from various places in Brazil of a fight between the German cruiser Von Der Tann and the British cruiser Invincible, in which the German boat was said to have been sunk with all on board. No official confirmation has been received of this story, which appears to be discredited. A Petrograd dispatch today says that the Von Der Tann was damaged by a collision in German waters several weeks ago, and if this is true she could not have been in the South Atlantic at all.

Koenigsburg Sunk.
German Cruiser Sent to Bottom Off Coast of Africa.

London, Jan. 13.—The German man cruiser Koenigsberg, which was bottled up in a river on the coast of Africa several weeks ago, has been sunk according to a dispatch received from South End Monday.

MUST NOT INTERFERE WITH CAMPAIGN PLANS SAY GERMAN GENERALS

Kaiser Definitely Sat upon—German Government Said to be On the Verge of Making Big Loan

London, Jan. 13.—The Daily Mail publishes a statement said to have been made by a neutral business man who has just returned from Berlin. According to his statement, the Kaiser is now definitely barred by his generals from interfering with the strategy of the campaign. Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, the national idol, is reported as having made his non-intervention a condition of retaining command in the east.

The Daily Mail's informant also says that the German government is on the verge of issuing a huge new war loan, at least as much as the preceding issue of $1,250,000,000, and that the Germans boast there is abundant money to subscribe it. The Berlin banks are said to be offering 2 per cent interest on deposits, which is depicted as an indication that they do not particularly feel the need of attracting cash to their vaults.

FRIENDLY IS BRITAIN'S REPLY TO U. S. NOTE

Great Britain Points to Alleged Fraudulent Practices by U. S. Shippers.

Washington, Jan. 10.—Great Britain's preliminary reply to the note of the United States government in the treatment of American commerce by the British fleet, was made public here and in London today by mutual agreement between the state department and the British foreign office.

The British communication concurs in the view of the United States that commerce between the neutral nations should be interfered with only when imperatively necessary, and officials of the Washington government construed it as conceding that the principals expressed by the American note were just and upheld by the previously accepted usages of international law.

The only formal comment made tonight was contained in a brief statement issued by Secretary Bryan, who said:

Preliminary Answer
"This answer being preliminary and not being intended as a complete reply, we will postpone comment until the full answer is received."

Briefly, the British note, while conceding the principles of the American government's contentions, points out difficulties in actual practice, refers to alleged fraudulent practices by shippers and cites statistics showing an increase, rather than a decrease, in support of Great Britain's suspicions that Germany and Austria have been indirectly obtaining contraband through neutral countries. The note promises, however, that Great Britain "will make redress whenever the action of the British fleets may unintentionally exceed" the limits of international law.

AMERICAN BERNHARDI TALKS VERY LOUD—WOULD TAKE CANADA

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 13.—The United States, in the next half century, will increase in population from 100,000,000 souls to 400,000,000.

So Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of Old Plymouth Church, New York City, told member of the Board of Commerce, in an address here. While this is in process, the United States will be forced to seize Mexico, Central America and Western Canada, Dr. Hillis declares, because of their geographical location and because Americans own great volumes of land.

Dr. Hillis' address was, perhaps, the most enthusiastically received of any offered before the Board of Commerce. Five reasons were given by the speaker why the United States would be supreme "tomorrow." They are: Political democracy, educational democracy, industrial democracy, ecclesiastical democracy and the American family.

"As long as we maintain a high standard of morals and rear pure and large families," said Dr. Hillis, "our success is assured in the centuries to come. It is when a nation falls into an idle mode of living through its wealth that it falls as a world power. I do not believe the United States is going to do this."

"We will ultimately intervene in Mexico and take it over," Dr. Hillis asserted. "Americans own millions of acres of land in Mexico, and the government has spent $325,000,000 on the Panama Canal in Central America."

Chief Justice Hunter's Comment.

When asked for a statement in reply to the remarks made against him by Hon. W. J. Bowser in Kerrisdale on Friday evening, Chief Justice Hunter said: "I must decline to enter into any newspaper controversy. It would be against the ethics of the bench for me to reply to public attacks. The Court of Appeal is open to anyone who feels aggrieved at any judgment of mine. I can only remark that it seems strange that the Attorney General is under the impression that the Court of Appeal sits at Kerrisdale instead of at Victoria. This, perhaps, is not to be wondered at, as in my thirteen years' judicial experience I have seen Mr. Bowser but once in court."
