KIDNEY TROUBLE AFFECTED HIS SPINE

Suffered For Forty Years Until He Used "Fruit-a-tives"

BRONTE, ONT., OCT. 31st. 1913.

"For about forty years, I was troubled with Lane Back brought on by Kidney and Bladder Trouble. I was never confined to my bed with the trouble, but it affected my spine and I had to rest for a time. I took advertised remedies which never did me any good. Then I saw "Fruit-a-tives" advertised and decided to try them. They did me more good than any other remedy. My son suffered from the same trouble and frequently had to leave off working, but "Fruit-a-tives" remedied it for him. I would strongly advise anyone suffering from Kidney and Bladder Trouble to use "Fruit-a-tives".

MORETON FREWEN ADVOCATES FISH COLONY NEAR TO RUPERT

TELLS BRITISH PEOPLE OF GREAT POSSIBILITIES OF FISHING BUSINESS NEARS THIS CITY—SAYS SEA IS PACKED WITH HALIBUT OFF COAST.

Prince Rupert is getting a lot of good advertising through an article contributed to the London Daily Telegraph by Moreton Frewen. The article is now being sent around in circular form, a number of them having been received by Harrison, Gamble & Co., of this city. It is reproduced herewith:

"Already the problem of the disabled or partially disabled soldier and sailor is under discussion. The writer ventures to think that any centralized scheme will break down. In the case of the complete disability the sufferers must be cared for by the State, but the partially disabled fighter and his dependents, what is the future of these? Then, also, there will be large numbers of adventurous spirits, untouched, but equally disabled after this prodigious awakening from returning to the unambitious routine, whether of the shop or domestic service. In touch on the battlefields with the overseas sons of the Empire, there is not a corner of that Empire but they will presently recruit it.

"First as to the partially disabled. These will get no doubt liberal pensions, and the question arises how to make the pensions go the farthest. And next how to make the private benevolence which will be lavished on these, best link on to the pension. Many people are asking these questions today, and there will be many replies. I venture to advance one with strong conviction. There should be organized communal settlements and on the salt sea.

"Of all the primary industries the sea fisheries are by far the most profitable, and the one-armed or one-legged man makes an excellent and patient fisherman. The colony on the seaboard has also the advantage of whatever else it produces for sale, such as potatoes, hay, the fertilizers from burned seaweed, of a cheap water freight to the nearest town. I could give a score more reasons were it necessary why practical philanthropists should establish their colonies by the 'loud-sounding sea.'

A Profitable Industry.

"First, as to the profits of the great ocean pastures, common to all. In the United States and in Canada the Government Departments of Fisheries collect very careful statistics of the yield of the fisheries. In the Atlantic fisheries of Canada there are 60,000 people connected with the fisheries. It is there a short season—only four months. The capital employed, ships, boats, nets, etc., is only $400 per capita; but the gross value of the catch one season with another averages $300. In Lake Huron, again, 431 fisherman earn $560 per capita, and in a six months' season, language that will seem credible to the lay mind. It was declared in a statement issued by the Senate at Washington that the daily fish consumption by the big Pribyloff seal herd, since very largely killed off, was 8,000 tons a day. Possible as the seals are further reduced, sea fish, notwithstanding the increasing activity of the fisherman, will still further increase. It is estimated that in our Scottish waters the gannet today takes more herrings than all the devices of man.

"Paved With Halibut."

"The writer was coming south by steamer from Prince Rupert recently with one of the contractors for the Grand Trunk Railway. Mr. S. pointed to one of his railway camps in the jaw of the harbor, and said: 'I have an old Scotch fisherman there; he put out a deep sea line the other night and in the morning had 3,000 pounds of halibut on his many hooks.' 'I think,' said Mr. S., 'the ocean here is just paved with halibut,' as, indeed, it is. Herrings and cod, halibut, salmon, and crabs are in endless profusion. Sir Richard McBride, the Premier of British Columbia says: 'Experiments have established that an hour's trawling on the Atlantic coast of Canada will yield more fish than six hours in the North Sea. British Columbia's fisheries are immensely more productive than those of the Atlantic. Our fisheries would support 1,000,000 people.' Mr. Stirling, for many years manager of the New English Fish Company at Vancouver, when giving evidence before a committee of the Legislature, said: 'Off the Queen Charlotte Islands, in the vicinity of Prince Rupert, herrings are so plentiful that with an ordinary scoop net a man can load a boat very quickly.'

"I have written enough, however, to draw attention to the great economic importance both
