EXTRAORDINARY WATER MONSTER

Fishermen Land Pierced Six-foot Animal on Saanich Farm

VICTORIA, July 6.—The perennial sea-serpent yarn is being revived among local fishermen by the adventure which Isaac Byers, Secretary of the Civic Employees Protective Association, and H. Mitchell went through when fishing on Saanich Arm. These disciples of Walton report that, after a great deal of trouble they captured an animal which appears to be a cross between a fish and an eel with a strain of dog intermingled. The creature is six feet in length, and so far no one has been able to identify it as any known member of any breed of fish.

The monster was seen by the fishermen swimming slowly in about fifteen feet of water just off shore in the Arm when they were trolling a few days ago. At first they thought that it was a big cod and set about trying to hook it. The brute appeared to be about six feet in length and the fishermen realized that they could not hope to land it on their trolling line. They therefore rigged up a huge halibut hook on the end of a The eel-like animal was a stout cord. They lowered the hook down beside the animal and after a few unsuccessful attempts managed to "jig" it into the creature's gill. There followed a fight which lasted for the better part of half an hour. Fortunately there was a sandy beach not far away and the fishermen were able to land their boat there, dragging the struggling "fish" with them. As the beast emerged from the water it struggled furiously and when Mr. Byer attempted to shove it along with a oar it turned about and grasped the blade in its mouth, leaving big teeth marks in the hard wood.

Mr. Byers held the cord while his partner endeavored to kill the fish by hitting it on the head with a club. This was by no means an easy task, for the brute lashed about in all directions. Finally, however, Mr. Mitchell landed a K.O. clear on the back of the head and the "fish" ceased to struggle.

On examining their prize the fishermen found that it was a creature six feet in length with a large dog-like head. Most peculiar was the brute's mouth, which contained two rows of large sharp teeth like those of a dog. Its body tapered from the head, which was about five inches in diameter, to its tail, which was but three inches thick. The body was about eight inches from belly to back and three inches through. The only fins were one stretching along the back from the back of the head to the tail, and the other similarly along the belly. The body was gray in color with black spots an inch in diameter. It weighed about fifty pounds.

The animal was placed in the boat when it seemed dead, but ten hours later a spark of life appeared to remain in it. It was taken ashore to Mr. Byers' landing place and was examined by many fishermen who were on the Arm that day.

No one offered to eat it. Francis Kermode, director of the Provincial Museum, was asked today about the fish. He stated that, from the description given him, the animal appeared to be a "wolf fish," a member of a family which sometimes comes along the island shore to catch shell fish. Expert zoologists who are investigating the fish are satisfied that it belongs to the family of the anarrhichthys. There are two classes in this family—one the wolf fish of California, another a voracious creature, with especially powerful teeth adapted for crushing shell fish, which frequents the coasts of Europe and North America, and are commonly known as the "sea wolf" or wolf eel.

MANY SETTLERS GOING INTO NORTHERN B. C.

Farmers of Experience Coming from the Prairies

VICTORIA, July 6.—After a tour of the Cariboo section and the Nechaco and Bulkley Valleys the Hon. E. D. Barrow, minister of agriculture, has returned to his office at the parliament buildings.

The minister derived a good deal of satisfaction from the fact that there are an increasing number of settlers from the prairie provinces continually moving into the northern interior. In nearly every case, he says, they are farmers of experience and in possession of the necessary capital to undertake development on an extensive scale.

The Vanderhoof Creamery already has commenced operations with the aid of the department
