

MEN WANTED

To Handle Lumber

The undersigned Mill Operators on Masset Inlet, having found it impossible to ship lumber for the past month, owing to the failure of the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Longshoremen's Union to agree on the wages to be paid, have offered the longshoremen the maximum of their demands from the Railway Company, that is Ninety Cents per hour plus fifteen per cent to provide for the higher cost of living said to obtain in Prince Rupert.

They have refused to accept our offer and in the meantime our mills and those who would be working in them are idle.

We now make the same offer to any who wish to handle lumber—longshoremen included—namely

$1.03½ per Hour

Work will commence as soon as a sufficient number of men can be obtained to make a start. We have about four million feet to handle.

LIFE STORY OF ROBERT BORDEN

Broke with Liberals on Reciprocity in 1891 and Has Since Been Conservative.

Sir Robert Borden entered Canadian public life in a year when the power of the Conservative party was shattered. It was in 1896 that he was first elected to the House of Commons for Halifax, and it was in 1896 that the Conservative Government was defeated and the Liberals, under Wilfrid Laurier, assumed office. For fifteen years Sir Robert remained in opposition. During that period he had all the ups and downs which generally befall politicians. He tasted personal defeat, but a seat was found for him.

At the general election of 1900 he was re-elected for Halifax, and the following year was elected Leader of the Conservative Opposition, succeeding Sir Charles Tupper. In 1904 at a general election the Liberals again swept the country, and Sir Robert was defeated in Halifax when Nova Scotia returned a solid Liberal force of eighteen members. Edward Kidd resigned the Conservative stronghold of Carleton county and Sir Robert was elected by acclamation for that riding in 1905. No better success greeted the party at the general election in 1908, although Sir Robert was elected in his home riding in Halifax, and also in his adopted riding at Carleton. Sir Robert chose to sit for Halifax.

After many lean years Sir Robert and his party won in 1911. That election is too recent to require much explanation. Reciprocity was the issue. Reciprocity plays rather an important part in Sir Robert's life. He was born in 1854—a reciprocity year. He broke with Liberals on that issue in 1891 and he went into power on that issue in 1911. He was called upon by Earl Grey, after the Conservative party success, to form a government.

The next big political step was the formation of Union Government in 1917, which Sir Robert headed, and has continued to do until the present. Union Government was returned by the people by a large majority. In history Sir Robert will be best remembered as the Prime Minister of Canada during the great war.

During the war period Sir Robert was frequently in Great Britain consulting with the British Government regarding the war policy and effort of the Empire. He went first in 1915. In 1917 he again went overseas for the purpose of attending the Imperial War Cabinet, the first Cabinet ever summoned to represent the whole British Commonwealth. In 1918 he again attended the meeting of the Imperial War Cabinet, and also attended sessions of the Supreme War Council at Versailles.

In the latter part of 1918 he visited Great Britain to attend the sessions of the War Cabinet consequent upon the armistice. In 1919 he attended the Peace Conference as Canadian Plenipotentiary, and member of the British Empire delegation. He was appointed as chief British Empire representative on the Inter-allied Commission of the Peace Conference on the Greek question, and the Inter-allied Commission of the Peace Conference in the Russian question.

Sir Robert, like so many of the Canadian politicians in the past and present, is a lawyer, and was born right in the heart of that land of Acadian romance in Nova Scotia, at Grand Pre. For a short time, too, he was a professor in a college in New Jersey. He has been honored by degrees from many great universities. Because of ill-health Sir Robert has frequently intimated during the past year and a half that he would resign. He was abroad during most of the recent session of the House, although he was still Premier.

J. C. Brady has been elected to the Executive Committee of the B. C. Federation of Teachers to represent Prince Rupert and northern British Columbia.

Chief of Police W. H. Vickers accompanied by Mrs. Vickers and daughter were among the south-bound passengers on the Prince Rupert last evening.
