POTATOES TAKE DROP IN PRICE

More Raspberries Expected Soon and Preserving Apricots.

Fruit buyers are on the lookout for shipments of raspberries. Housewives should not be slow in getting these berries as they were in the case of the strawberries for many were left without preserves which they desired. The raspberries expected will be mostly from local plantations and ought to be in good condition. Preserving apricots are also expected in and will probably run from $2.75 to $3.00 per crate. Black currants will soon appear amongst the fruit displays.

Potatoes have dropped considerably during the past week and green peas are on sale at 2 lbs. for a quarter. Wax and string beans are arriving in small quantities but are rather high in price. Celery is coming in at 15c and 20c per bunch. Vegetable marrow and egg plants have made their appearance at the beginning of their rather short season.

There have been a few reductions in meat prices since last week. Fish remains about the same except that shrimps, crabs and herring are now fairly well off the market.

The Man in the Moon SAYS:
THAT some of the things we could do without in this city are drinks, loose women and the garbage scow.

THAT getting the truth about Ireland is something like getting the truth about Russia. If it suits you, it is true, if it doesn't it's a lie.

THAT it must have been a girl movie fan who composed the verse:
Some like Mary and some like Thelma;
Some like Gary and some like Rod,
Some like Charlie and some like Doug,
But me, I goes just to see 'em hux.

THAT the bandits on the C. P. R. train who searched the men's undergarments for loot must have been fond of cooties.

THAT it seems difficult to imagine what else they would find, unless they were movie heroes seeking a long lost brother and wanted to see the birth mark on the right arm.

THAT the bandits could not have understood the inhospitality of the British Columbia mountain forests else they would hardly have left the train and taken to the woods.

THAT once again "Lord French may resign."

THAT the reporter says it was the linotype operator and proof reader who made Mr. Wighton say "the local rock was of a salty nature." He says he wrote "salty," but then operators and proof readers always have ideas of their own about these things.

THAT there are things we have always with us such as muddy roads and powdered faces, and there are things we have always coming soon, such as a new Morse Creek bridge, a railway station and a new scheme for financing the city.

THAT the circus has come to town. You can see it at the movies tonight.

THAT the story of Zeebrugge as told by Lieut. Helmsing tonight is one no one can afford to miss.
