London Times

On Winnipeg Strike.

It is a matter of some interest that the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, at the instance of their president, Mr. Smillie, should have passed a resolution demanding the retrial of the Winnipeg strike leaders, says the London Times. At the original trial various punishments were imposed on twelve men: (three of whom have, while in gaol, been elected to the Parliament of Manitoba) on charges of which ordinary British law takes no cognizance. The seven counts of the indictment, on all of which the men were found guilty, have the effect of bringing under the head of sedition (1) a general strike, (2) direct action, (3) sympathetic strikes, (4) attempts to form one big union, (5) attempts to obtain control of industry, (6) advocacy of change in the form of government, and (7) acts which "endanger the comfort of the public." The seventh count, which took the legal shape of declaring the strike a "common nuisance," should surely have made the rest superfluous. Most strikes are a nuisance to a considerable number of people, and if a precedent be set for dealing with them simply as such, it would become legally possible to arrest at once every striker, however peaceable his methods and however just his cause.

Remedies Are Suggested for It.

It is widely felt in Canada that the Winnipeg verdict was a somewhat extravagant one, only made possible by a mixing up of war-time regulations with normal law, and that if it should remain as a precedent for action in other labor disputes it might be productive of great mischief. The remedy sought by many thoughtful Canadians is an appeal to the British Privy Council, which, they believe, would be likely to discover the verdict bad in law. To this end they have sought the support of British Labor, and the resolution of the Miners' Federation is a consequence. But we should doubt whether intervention in any form from Britain is the best method of setting the matter right. The appeal to the Privy Council is a cumbersome though sometimes a valuable feature of Dominion legislative systems, and the tendency is towards abandoning it. Canada has a more natural means of undoing the effects of the Winnipeg trial in turning out the Government that inspired it, and in reasserting the supremacy of the normal law which it overrode.

No Real Deserters.

Winston Churchill has announced in the British Parliament that there was to be no amnesty for those deserters from our various fronts who are still in prison. If everybody knew everything, we fancy there would be a general agreement now to let these poor wretches out. When people hear the word deserter their first thought is of a man who goes over to the enemy. Such men, in our army in France at any rate, were almost unheard of. If there are any in our prisons now they might well be excepted from a general amnesty. Almost all the men shot or sent to penal servitude for desertion in France were simply men whose nerves broke, so that they slipped away when their units were going into the trenches. While a war is going on you must deal severely with such failures, because of the gravity of their actual or possible consequences. But when a war is over one may rightly consider several other points. One is that whether an officer or man actually deserted or not was often decided by the character of somebody else. Hundreds of subalterns and thousands of privates escaped this disaster, not because they were better men than those who gave way, but because a good company or platoon commander or sergeant was watching them when the strain came, and either pulled them through by moral ascendancy or got them sent out of the way.

 Low, 0:33 a.m., 6.7 feet.
 12:20 p.m., 9 feet.

The time used is Pacific Standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours from midnight to midnight.

The table given is for Port Simpson but the time for Prince Rupert varies only a few minutes on some days and on others is the same. The range of the tide may be computed as 5 per cent greater at Prince Rupert than at Port Simpson both at springs and neaps. Therefore the rise in the Prince Rupert harbor is slightly greater than Port Simpson.

The height is in feet and tenths of feet above the average level of lower low water.

TRAIL CLUB IS AWARDED GAME

Monday Night's Disputed Contest Settled by League Meeting; Labor Day Plans.

At the meeting of the committee of the Football Association last evening it was decided that the Trail Club should be granted the semi-final game for the Gihuly Cup. The decision arose out of the fact of the referee having called the game on Monday evening 20 minutes before time was up. At that time the railroaders were winning by the score of 4 to 2, but it became too dark so Referee McCulloch blew his whistle for the close. Last evening the Grand Trunks said that their team would play the 20 minutes still unplayed or not at all. The league ruled that the whole game should be replayed, so the boys from the round house had to be content with letting the Trail Club have the game. As far as the Trail Club was concerned the delegates were quite ready to accept any decision as handed out by the league. They now have a chance in the final to bring home the cup by defeating the Callies. The final game will be staged on August 25.

Games Commence Earlier.

On account of the early approach of darkness these evenings it was decided that all the games should start much earlier. For the rest of the matches the starting time will be 6:30.

A committee was also appointed last evening to pick two all-star teams for the Labor Day championship. Much has been done to try and foster an international match and the decision last evening was to play Scotland and England vs. Ireland and Canada. This will give opportunity to have some real good representative teams as well as bringing out some good football. Those chosen on the committee were Chas. Blyth, Wm. Murray, F. Haugh and Percy Tinker, being a man from every club in the league.

The local football association will affiliate with the recently organized Provincial Football Association and to this end the secretary here will forward the necessary fees.

CALLIES HAD GOOD CINDERELLA DANCE

Last evening's Cinderella dance given by the Callies football club in St. Andrew's hall proved such a success that a similar affair is to be put on next Wednesday evening. There must have been over eighty couples in attendance last night and a tidy sum was netted to the credit of the club. During the evening a punch bowl was provided which was presided over by Mrs. William Reid and Mrs. Captain. It was well after midnight when the gathering dispersed.

Delightful music was dispensed by an orchestra comprising Robert Arthur, Jr., Mr. Fanthorpe and Wm. Martin, Jr. James Simpson was master of ceremonies and he was assisted by a committee made up of J. Watson, James Campbell, J. Brown, H. Killen and William Murray.
