Manners and Sweet Found Guilty of Selling Liquor

Charged and Cases will be Tried in Police Court Tomorrow Morning

As a result of the activities of private detectives in the past month and raids made in various quarters yesterday afternoon, James Manners and George Sweet were found guilty of selling liquor and cases under charge are pending against Carl Johnson, Oliver Besner, Riley, Thomas Black, D. Zarelli, Charles Olsen, H. J. and J. Miller. Manners was fined $300 with the option of 10 months at Okalla, and Sweet's sentence is remanded until morning at 10 o'clock to look into his standing as to a second offence as he has already been found guilty under a different section of the Prohibition Act in having liquor in his possession, behind the Central Hotel and had been found with the same bought a bottle of rum which was William Sullivan was produced in court and identified. $50.50 this morning. William J. Smith testified as to liquor illegally in his being a Thiel detective of 14 or 15 years experience. His story was practically the same as that told by Money.

First Case. Manners testified in his own behalf, maintaining that he sold no liquor to the witnesses but had kept some for them on their request. His testimony became abusive of the witnesses and finally he was checked by the magistrate and ended up by stating that the evidence was all untrue.

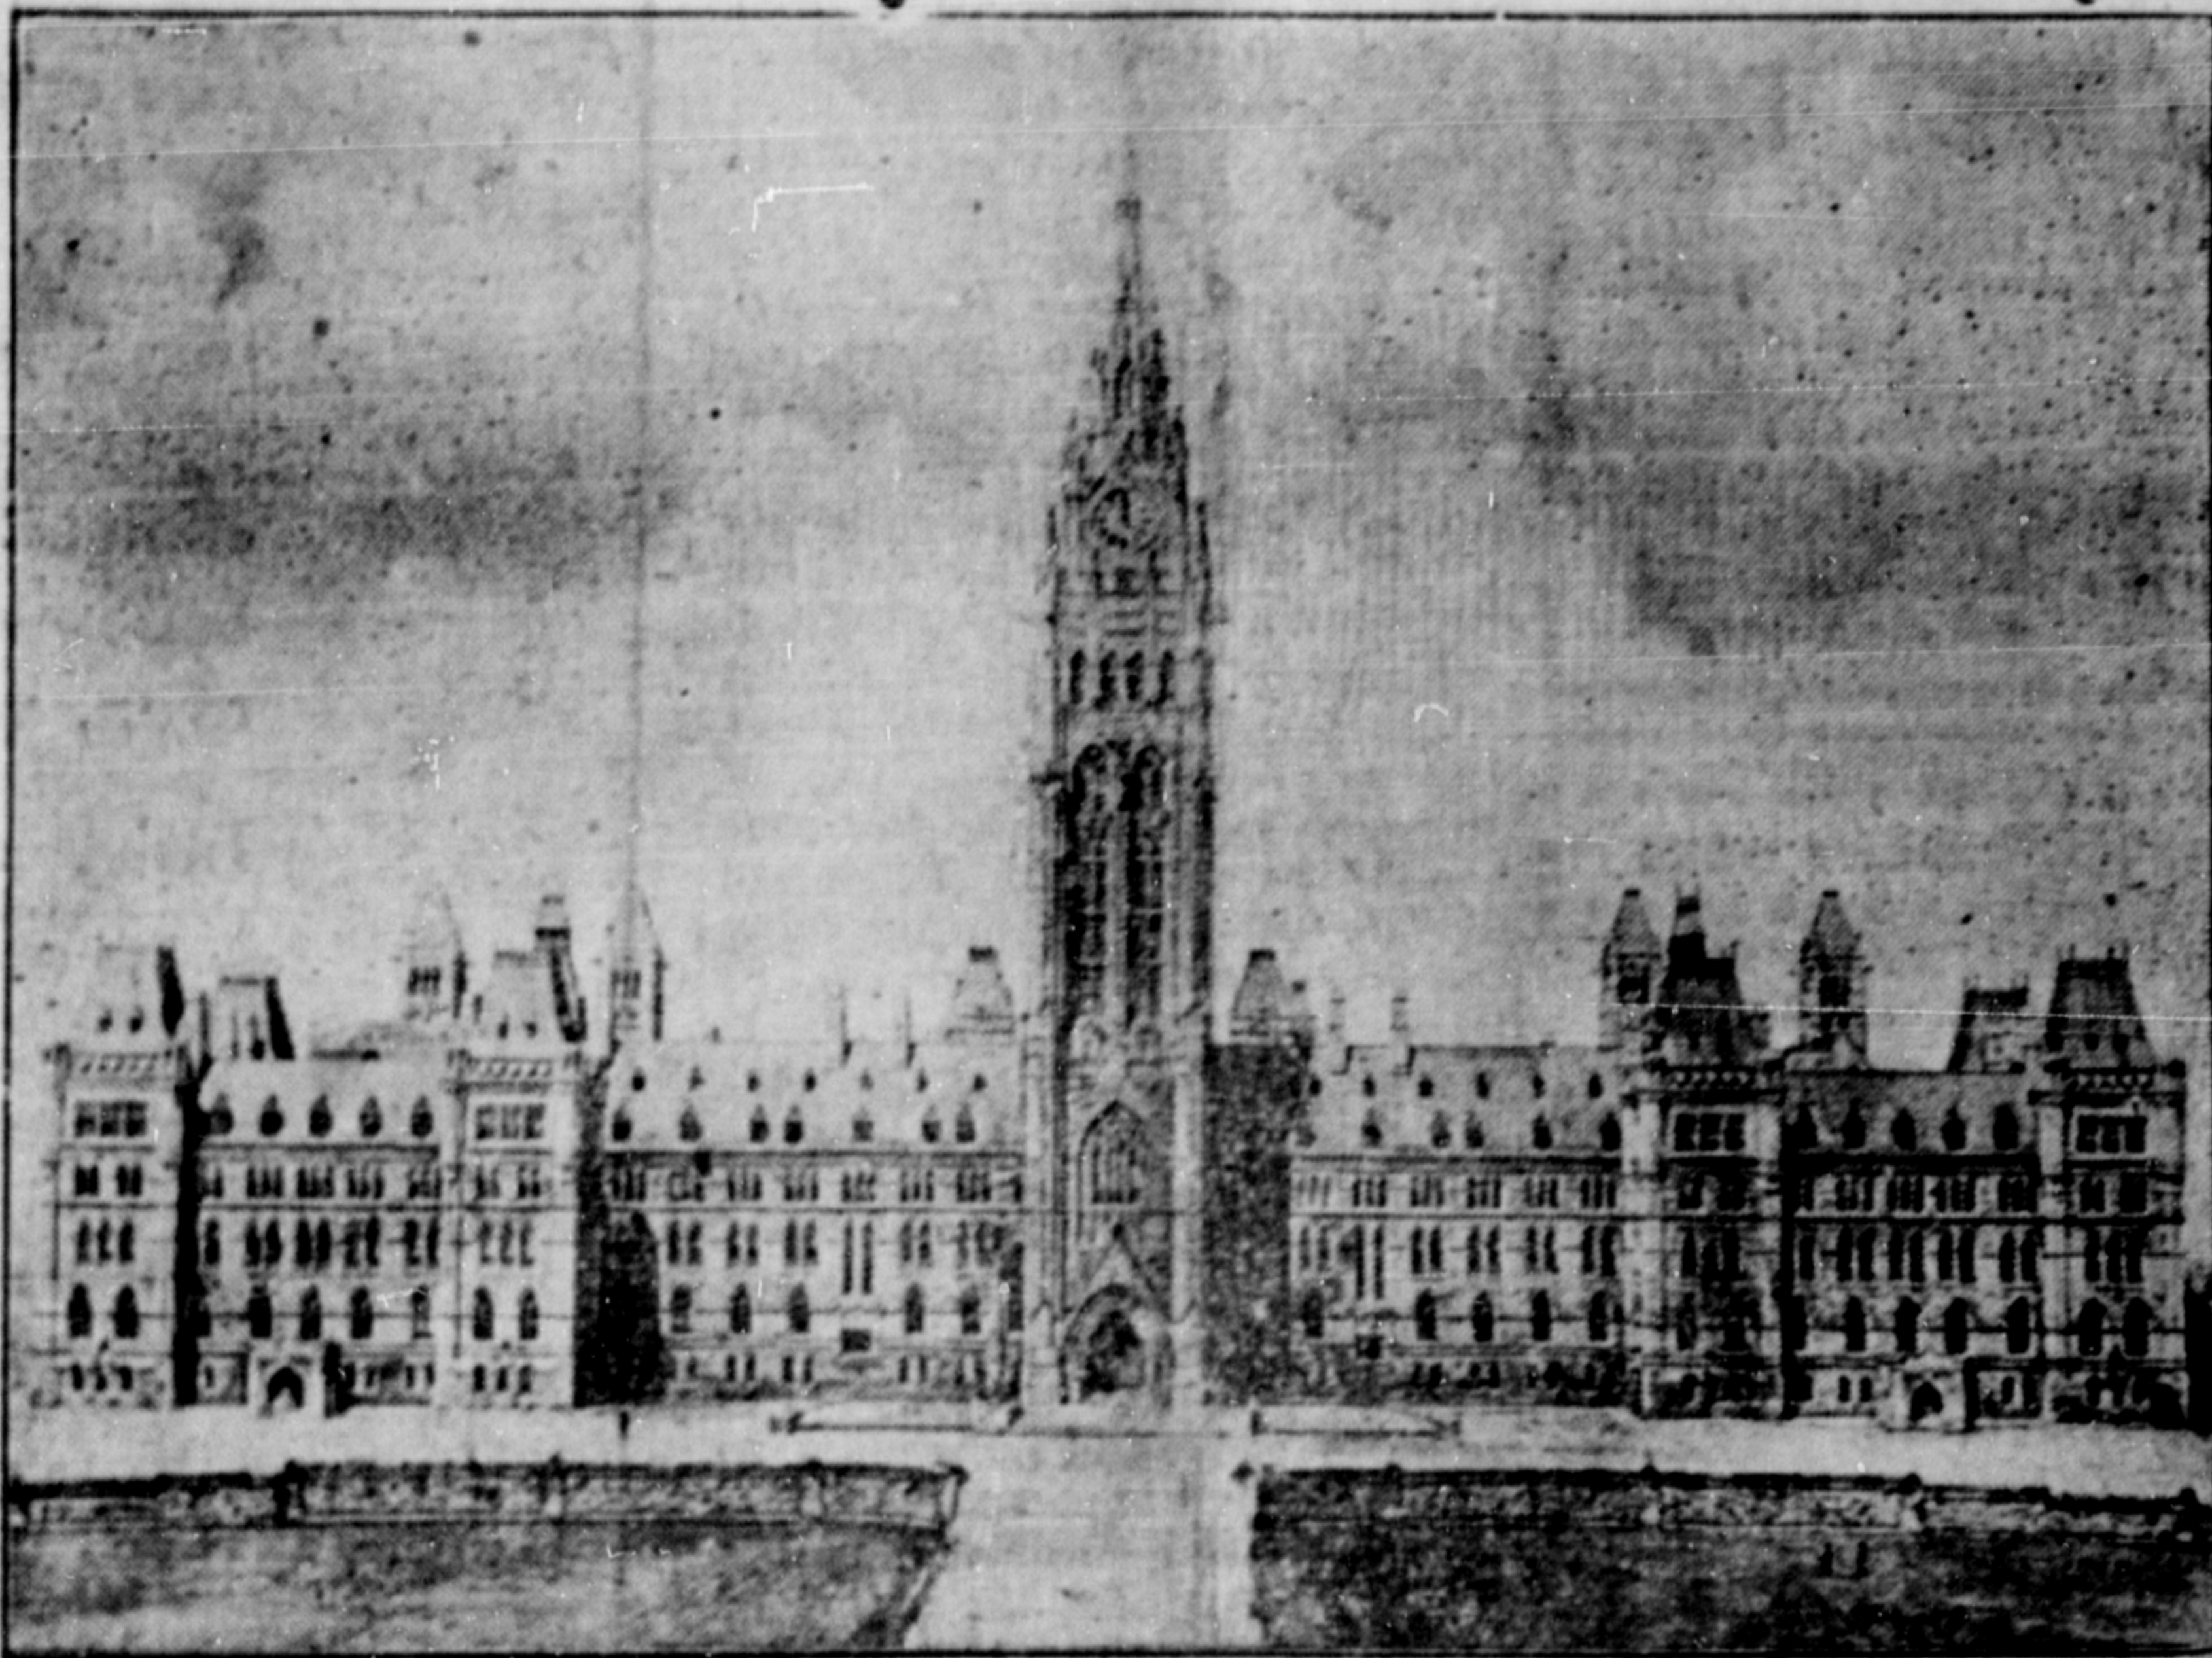

After a short address by T. H. Hooper, prosecutor, accused was found guilty and fined $300 by the magistrate.

Sweet Charge. The main interest, of course, centred about the case against G. A. Sweet who pleaded not guilty and was represented by L. W. Patmore. The charge against the other detective, who was found in the house of the accused.

W. J. Bowser Scores Oliver Government

Would spend less in Salaries and use fewer Motor Cars; Urges Railway to Peace River

Stating that his policy was one of development of the Peace River country by continuing the P. G. E., that he favored a general policy of development, but that he believed in keeping down the expenditures on salaries, W. J. Bowser spoke to a full house at the Empress Theatre last night for over two hours. He criticized almost everything the Oliver Government did, brought them to task for what they had failed to do and closed by urging the choice of a successful business man in this constituency as candidate in the Conservative interests and that he should receive the support of good Liberals as well as good Conservatives.

G. H. Orme presided and with him on the platform were J. A. Kirkpatrick, O. H. Nelson, E. Love and Col. Graham of Victoria. The chairman introduced the speaker in a few words and Mr. Bowser at once went to the mat and waded in.

The leader of the opposition told of his recent visit to Peace River where the people would have to have a railway or move away. He pictured humorously the raid on blind pigs yesterday and said that what was going on all over the country and was a sample of the Oliver administration of the law.

Punished for Sins.

Referring to the past Mr. Bowser said the province had never got into its stride until Sir Richard McBride came into power. In 1916, after he had taken Sir Richard's place, the government had been punished for its sins. Since then he had had time to travel throughout the province and to earn the $1,500 a year he was paid in addition to his seasonal indemnity as leader of the opposition. He explained how different it was to come as a free member rather than as a minister, when everyone tried to extort all they could from the government, a condition which a minister, as custodian for the people, naturally resented. He now breathed the free air of political life but he did not propose to remain leader of the opposition.

The speaker read extracts from the Vancouver papers in regard to the building of the Prince Rupert court house, which he described as "Government camouflage" and he suggested that the people were too hard headed to be fooled again. If given the opportunity, he thought the people would "wipe out the Government."

Guaranteed Bonds.

Referring to the conditions in Peace River, Mr. Bowser said the people there had been promised a railway in 1914 and the Government of which he was a member had passed an act guaranteeing the bonds to $35,000 a mile. Now the Government was in honor bound to implement the promise. If this was done the products of that country would come to Vancouver and Prince Rupert. The produce of that country should build up the coast cities rather than Edmonton as at present. He thought there might be elevators at Prince Rupert for the handling
