RICH ORE STRIKE

Funter Bay Property Near Juneau Is Scene of Find

JUNEAU, August 26.—That Charles Otteson, operating mining property at Funter Bay, has made a fabulously rich strike of gold quartz is the news brought to this city by recent arrivals from that place. The ore is said to run well into the thousands of dollars per ton in gold values and is now being sacked and carried to tide water for shipment for treatment for the extraction of gold.

It is said that Mr. Otteson, who has held the property for a number of years, has run an extension of a tunnel that was run several years ago to crosscut some ore veins. After going only a short distance a new vein of rich quartz was uncovered far surpassing anything yet found in that vicinity. Mining men who have visited the property lately are enthusiastic over the rock, but do not know what size the vein is or how far it has been traced.

Mr. Otteson, with his son-in-law, C. L. Tubbs, has been working on the Funter Bay claim steadily all summer. Both are still there. The claims are near those of the Admiralty Alaska Gold Mining property in Funter Bay, on which extensive development work is now being done.

LAW TO DISARM ALL PEOPLE OF GERMANY

Right to search Houses and Search Letters and Telegrams Given Police.

BERLIN, August 26.—The new law providing for the disarming of the civilian population empowers the president of the republic to appoint a commissary, who will issue an order for the surrender of arms. If the order is disobeyed the commissary can enforce it with the help of the police, the Sicherheitswehr (Security Police), the Reichswehr, and even of "special organizations." He can also allow any armed forces, whether regular or irregular, to retain their arms until the disarming of private individuals is complete. He can order house-searchings, and his officials have the right to open private letters, telegrams, and to overhear private telephone conversations. Those who fail to surrender arms are liable to fines up to 300,000 marks or imprisonment up to ten years.

"Freiheit," the organ of the Independent Socialists, has begun a violent campaign against the new law, speaks of it as a reactionary militarist measure directed against the working class, prophesies that it will disarm and ruthlessly punish every workman who is found with a rusty rifle in his possession, while Pomeranian Junkers, who are alleged to have collected stores of arms, will not be touched.

MORE EVIDENCE IN LIQUOR TRIALS

shut up to ten or twelve days ago."

"How long have the curtains been up?"

"They have never been removed or changed."

No Liquor Allowed.

In regard to the instructions received from Olier Besner witness said the proprietor told him that he didn't want to have any employees having liquor around there. It was during the cross-examination by Mr. Hooper that an amusing incident between the lawyers occurred. There was an objection to the wasting of time and Mr. Hooper stated that he was paid by the month to which Patmore remarked "That's where I get ahead of you, I get paid by the case."

Carl Johnson, also a bartender in the New Knox Hotel, was then called to take the stand. When asked by Mr. Patmore in regard to the swing doors and if they were closed on the day of August 2, witness replied, "Sure." Witness described having taken the two detectives in to the wine room and having procured the bottle from the barrel of rubbish. It was during the locating of the position of the barrel on the plan that Mr. Hooper objected to Mr. Patmore marking the plan, to which counsel for the defence replied: "That was marked up before it came here, and don't get so fresh." Upon cross-examination witness maintained that he could not remember whether it was Smith or Money who had paid for the bottle.

Denies Statements.

Johnson denied that he had made the following statements in the presence of the two witnesses:

"The old man forgot to leave enough whiskey today before he went out. I had to supply the fishermen and also the boats and have only half a bottle left."

"The old man leaves a sackful in the morning for the fishermen but it is not so good as you fellows get. The whiskey is mixed with water."

Witness denied having put the money in the till for the bottle which he sold.

Adjournment.

Olier Besner testified for himself and with the hearing of the argument for the defence and the prosecution, the case was adjourned until tomorrow morning.

The Sweet case is further adjourned for a week when accused will come up for sentence.
