

Nature Gives the Goodness

We in the West hardly realize what a wonderful dairy country we have. Pacific Milk is good only because Nature has been so kind to our province. We have improved the process of putting it up so the natural flavor is kept.

FINAL NIGHT OF CHAUTAUQUA

Splendid Musical Program and Interesting Lecture by Private Peat.

SAYS PEOPLE SHOULD BOOST FOR COUNTRY

Lecturer Urges More Flag Waving and National Selfishness in Canada.

With a good attendance filling the seats at the Auditorium last night, the Chautauqua performers seemed to warm up to their recitals and one of the most artistic and varied programs ever offered to Prince Rupert audiences was presented. It was indeed a treat and great appreciation was shown for every artist was applauded again and again.

The Royal Willow Four opened the program with their versatile numbers; Miss Julia Morse, soprano soloist, and Miss Charlotte Silverman Foreman, pianist, following. These artists were as excellent as before. Elsie May Gordon again pleased everyone with her wonderful gift of impersonation which enabled her to mimic in quick succession the New York Italian fruit vendor, plantation negroes and the disconsolate child. Miss Alice Genevieve Smith was again delightful with her harp numbers, the final number being a bright melody by the Royal Willow Four to her harp accompaniment.

Count Oton Szeda.

Count Oton Szeda was heard for the first time and from the time his bow first crossed the strings of his violin the audience knew that there was an artist before them. Count Szeda is a wizard at chording, pizzicato and harmonics. It seems that at no time does he play on a single string but a beautiful chording produces more music than an ordinary person would believe could come from a violin. A violinist of Count Szeda's skill and technique is not often heard in this country and he was much appreciated last night.

Countess Szeda is hardly less gifted. Besides playing several accompaniments for her husband she gave classical solos as well. She is a delightful player.

Private Peat Lectures.

The last number on the program was the lecture on Canadianism by Private Harold R. Peat, the president of the Canadian Chautauquas. Private Peat is an easy speaker and is very forceful but he is not dry, for his lecture was interspersed with much humor.

"Ideal Canadianism," said the speaker, "is a condition of life that we have not yet reached. It is neither static nor reactionary but is highly progressive. I would compare this country with the United States, a country with the same environment and the same ideals.

"I have just completed a tour of the United States and the one thing that I noticed wherever I went was the national selfishness. The Americans think their country is the greatest on earth and are not ashamed to tell about it. Why every little city in that country capitalizes something and something they possess they maintain is the greatest in the world. In one town I remember they boasted because they had the greatest roof in the world—an asylum roof. What's the matter with Canada?"

National Selfishness.

"The trouble with Canada is that she lacks this national selfishness which has been so instrumental in making the United States the great country it is. We know too much about other people and not enough about ourselves. Our children know as much about American geography and history as they know about their own country. Why they are taught in school to think California is the most beautiful country in America. Rot! For beauty this province of British Columbia would put California a hundred times in the shade. Why are the boys and girls not taught to realize it? What we must do is pump the national importance of his country into the Canadian boy."

"Do you know, a Canadian boy seems ashamed of his king and country. You may say derogatory remarks about the King to him, but try saying things to an American boy about the Statue of Liberty and see what happens. The children are being taught 5 per cent Britishism and 95 per cent foreignism when it should be the other way around. Canadians do not impress foreigners because the people do not tell of their importance. If Canadians would capitalize what they possess and realize their greatness this condition would soon be changed. We lack national spirit for we did not learn it as children. Now is the time, let's start waving the flag and it will impress others. And above all instill into our children the sense of their national greatness."

TWO GOOD REASONS

Two good economical reasons why you should eat more fish: It is cheap and nutritious, and provides a thrifty meal.

One of Canada's greatest sources of wealth is her fisheries, and you help develop the industry by eating fish, and also help to put Canada in a better financial position.

Probably you are not aware how little fish Canadian people use.

Great Britain is one of the greatest fish consuming countries in the world. During 1918 she had a per capita consumption of 58 pounds, and in 1919, it is believed, this was increased to 60 pounds. This means that each individual consumed at the rate of more than one pound per week.

In the United States last year it is estimated by officials at Washington the per capita consumption was 49 pounds. Although little reliance can be placed on this estimate, there is no doubt but that the local consumption in the United States has increased greatly in recent years.

A few years ago the per capita consumption in Canada per annum was a matter of ounces. Through the combined efforts of the Canada Food Board and the Fisheries Branch it is estimated that the local consumption at one time reached a point equal to 45 pounds per capita. During 1919 it is estimated the per capita consumption was somewhere between 23 and 25 pounds per annum.

Canada is one of the greatest, if not the greatest, fish producing countries of the world. Why have our people so little faith in fish?

YORKS ARE an older remedy than "Zam-Buk," writes Mrs. J. Methuen, Mann. "It was the remedy I used to cure my knee, and I have used it twenty-five years, and it has given me temporary relief. The remedy was unable to cure my knee. One day I saw in a newspaper an account of a lady who had been cured by Zam-Buk. I was skeptical, but I decided to try it. I bought a trial, and I found it was a real cure. I have used it ever since, and it has cured me of my knee pain. I have also used it for rheumatism, and it has given me relief. I have used it for many years, and it has been a great help to me. I have used it for my back, and it has given me relief. I have used it for my head, and it has given me relief.
