Aeroplane Station for Prince Rupert OVER QUARTER OF A MILLION POUNDS OF FISH MARKETING YESTERDAY

Twenty-Foot Shortt Plane Has Arrived at Vancouver

Capable of Making Flight to this City; Carries Five People, Pilot, Observer, Wirelesser, Photographer and Mechanic

Prince Rupert to Have Landing Field and Hangar

Location Needed in North for Planes used in Fisheries and Forest Patrol Service

PRINCE RUPERT, September 13.—A big English Shortt seaplane arrived here for the Air Board station. It is a magnificent craft capable of making a non-stop flight from here to Vancouver.

The airplane will carry five persons—a pilot, observer, wirelesser, photographer and mechanic, and will be located at the new station being prepared at Kitsilano. The start will be made in the spring at Prince Rupert. Preparation of a landing field for aeroplanes and it is to be ready for the accommodation of the planes which will be used in the fisheries and forest patrol next year. Hangars will be erected there.

The first official airboat flight with the new machine will be from Vancouver to Kamloops.

BETTER RATES ARE ASKED ON THE STEAMERS

Board of Trade Takes up Matter of High Charges With Heads of Traffic Department.

Among the subjects discussed with the railway men on Saturday was that of discriminatory rates for northern ports and to the Islands. F. G. Dawson outlined the complaint showing that while the passenger rate from Vancouver to Victoria was $2.50, the rate for the same distance from Prince Rupert to Anyox was $8.10, and to Stewart, a distance of 120 miles, $12.65, and there were no special rates for commercial men. He thought these rates much too high. Better rates might not pay the company any better directly at first but they would help build up these smaller communities and the company depended on the building up of the country for its future business.

The rates to the Islands were rather better, but still too high. Dealing with freight rates, Mr. Dawson showed that the rates Prince Rupert to Anyox, Allice Arm and Stewart were little different from the rates from Vancouver to the same places. An adjustment of these would help business here. Space rates were charged here against weight rates between Vancouver, Seattle and Victoria. If the rates were adjusted there would be no difficulty in establishing a wholesale hardware concern here. At present, however, there was no advantage in opening at this point.

The need of running a small boat out of this port to cater to local trade was gone into at some length, a craft about the size of the Tilamook being suggested as suitable for the business. These would call at Skeena River, Naas River, Surf Inlet and other points. Mr. Hayes promised to look into all these matters and give them careful consideration.

TWO YEARS FOR DESERTING IN OLD COUNTRY

Court Partial at Victoria Held in Presence of Work Point Troops.

VICTORIA, Sept. 13.—In the presence of the troops at Work Point barracks, Cecil Grahame of Saanich was court martialled and given two years for desertion during the war.

Grahame was drafted in 1918 and got to the old country, where he was given leave to visit Ireland. He then hid and got away to the United States. He was arrested on his return to Saanich.

W. T. Muse left for Haysport this morning.

Sentences to be Passed Next Thursday Morning

Magistrate McMordie says No Reason for Further Adjournment; Kenneth McKay Convicted

There was a large assembly of interested spectators in the police court this morning to hear the expected sentences of persons convicted over the recent whiskey investigations, but these sentences were not pronounced and remands were further made until September 16. These adjournments were made on the request of the city solicitor this time and Magistrate McMordie in granting them stated that there would be no further remands after that date, if the evidence was extended. The main public interest now centers around the convictions and the evidence seems to be becoming tiresome. There is still evidence to be taken in the selling charge against S. A. Corley.

Olsen and Black.
In the Olsen and Black case this morning W. E. Williams, appearing for the accused, argued that there was no evidence to connect Black with the alleged sale. It had been made to the detectives by Olsen and under the B. C. Prohibition Act, although a stranger or servant making the sale would leave the occupant responsible, still there was nothing to say that a co-occupant was guilty because his partner had made the sale.

City Solicitor Hooper pointed out that B. C. statutes made occupant either a plural or a singular number and it was a well known principle that two partners could be guilty of an illegal act. It would be absurd to have an occupant responsible for the acts of a stranger or a servant and not of a partner.

Adjournment was made until September 16.

Other Cases.
Kenneth McKay was found guilty of a second offence under

LESLIE GROSSMITH ENTERTAINS TONIGHT

With Aid of Violinist Will Give Varied Program Followed by a Dance.

This morning Leslie Grossmith lectured to the pupils of the local schools at the auditorium, when he urged upon them the importance of character building in education and the value of the study of music as an aid to this end.

Tonight Mr. Grossmith will give his big entertainment, followed by a dance at which he and Hugh S. Barbour, violinist, will provide special music. Both the dance and entertainment are given for the one price.

The program tonight will be of a mixed nature. There will be some classical selections from the great composers, popular concert numbers, humorous character sketches, impersonations and monologues as well as dramatic readings.

Mr. Grossmith is well known in Victoria and Vancouver. He is a member of the great Grossmith family and his entertainment will be such that he can return and entertain a large house next year.

Canada's greatest soprano, Madame Fahey, will be at the Westholme Theatre tomorrow night.

SENSATION AT INQUIRY INTO POISON CASE

Evidence Says Jack Pickford and Wife Were Intoxicated After Night Out.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—After the police inquest had accepted the physician's report that Olive Thomas accidentally drank poison the judge ordered an autopsy to prove the accident. This caused a sensation in court.

Hotel employees testified that Jack Pickford and his wife were intoxicated after an all night party devoted to dancing and a champagne supper in the notorious Montmartre district.

ITALY TROOPS QUELL REVOLT

Outbreak of Socialists in Milan and Trieste Looked Threatening for a Time

MILAN, Sept. 13.—A Socialist revolt was suppressed by the Italian troops at Trieste at the week-end. For a time the streets were barricaded and a battle took place between the military and the revolutionaries. Some Milan chemical works were occupied by workmen, who hoisted their red flags on the signal being given.
